BIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

John Hays (I) was born in 1794, one of three sons born to Joseph and Nancy Hays. His brother, Adam Hays (1792-1857), was a member of the Dickinson College Class of 1808. John married Jane Pattison sometime around 1820, and the couple had a daughter, Annie, before Jane's death in 1822. Around 1835 John married Eleanor [Ellinor] Blaine Wheaton, the widow of Dr. Levi Wheaton. Eleanor was the daughter of Robert Blaine (son of Revolutionary War Col. Ephraim Blaine) and Susanna Metzger (sister of George Metzger, Dickinson Class of 1798 and founder of Metzger Institute). She had a daughter, Mary, by her first marriage, but the girl died in 1836. John and Eleanor had three children: Robert Blaine Hays, Mary Wheaton Hays, and John Hays (1837-1921). The family owned a farm along the Conodoguinet Creek seven miles outside of Carlisle, and John Hays served as director of the Cumberland Valley Railroad. However, financial success eluded him, and by the time of his death, he was thousands of dollars in debt. Eleanor died in 1839, and John died in 1854.

John Hays (II) was born in Carlisle on February 2, 1837. He prepared for college at the Plainfield Classical Academy. In 1852, he entered Dickinson College, but withdrew shortly thereafter; he re-entered in 1854 and received his bachelor of arts degree three years later. While at Dickinson he was a member of the Belles Lettres Literary Society and the Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity. He remained in Carlisle after graduation to study law and was admitted to the Cumberland County Bar in 1859. His law practice was interrupted by the outbreak of the Civil War, and Hays served as a first lieutenant and adjutant for 130th Pennsylvania Volunteers. He fought in the battles of Antietam and Chancellorsville; in his later years he wrote and lectured extensively on his experiences at Antietam. Hays' military service came to an end in the spring of 1863: he had been shot eight times, and would carry one of those bullets in his leg for the rest of his life. He returned to Carlisle and to his law practice, although he eventually entered the realm of business. He served as president of the Carlisle Deposit Bank, and the Carlisle gas and water works, and in 1877 he purchased the Carlisle Herald newspaper. In 1880 he was a delegate to the Republican national convention; he would later serve as an elector in the presidential election of 1904.

Hays became one of the founding directors of the Carlisle Manufacturing Company at its incorporation in 1882. The company made steam engines, agricultural equipment, building materials, mill castings, and railroad cars. A recession, the "Panic of 1893," coupled with advancements in the railroad industry, pushed the company to the brink of bankruptcy; the buildings were sold at a public sale in 1896. However, Hays and his associates purchased the buildings themselves and salvaged the frog and switch department; the result was re-christened "The Manufacturing Company." For his efforts, Hays was named as president in 1898. He held this office until his death in November 1921, although his son had by that time assumed most of the control. During that time the company experienced many successes and failures, particularly after a devastating fire in 1909, but Hays managed to regain and surpass the company's previous achievements. Meanwhile, he lectured in commercial law and banking at the Dickinson School of Law from 1892 to 1901. He was also a trustee for the Meztger Institute, the women's college in Carlisle established by his great-uncle, George Metzger.

On August 8, 1865, John Hays (II) married Jane Van Ness Smead of Carlisle. They had five children, whose names reflected familial ties: Anna Alexander, Elizabeth Smead, George Metzger, Raphael Smead, and Ellinor Blaine. Both George and Raphael were graduates of Dickinson College, 1893 and 1894, respectively. After graduation, Raphael served as assistant to Dickinson President George Reed before working under his father at the Carlisle Manufacturing Company; he succeeded the elder Hays as president in 1921. In turn, Raphael's son, Edward Gardner, became president in 1951; he also taught in the Dickinson physical education department from 1951 to 1956. His widow, Jeanette Burgyes, Dickinson Class of 1931, is the donor of this collection.

The Hays family was connected to some of the most prestigious families in Cumberland County, and several of those connections are represented in this collection. Col. Ephraim Blaine, distinguished Revolutionary War veteran, was the grandfather of Eleanor Blaine Wheaton Hays. Born in Londonderry, Ireland in 1741, he emigrated to America with his family when he was four years old and settled in Cumberland County, Pennsylvania. His father died shortly afterwards. Ephraim received his education at the school of Rev. Dr. Allison in Chester County. His distinguished military career began in 1763 when he was appointed Commissary Sergeant in the Provincial Service. Before the Revolution he served as Sheriff in Cumberland County and assumed the position of Lieutenant Colonel when the War began. In 1777 he was appointed as County Lieutenant by the Supreme Executive Council, but resigned the post he held for three years. He retired to his farm outside of Carlisle and died there in 1804 at the age of 63. He was married twice and fathered seven children.

Ephraim's son Robert (1769-1826) married Susanna Metzger (d.1853). Her brother, George Metzger (1752-1879) was a prominent Cumberland County lawyer. He entered Dickinson College in 1797 but never graduated. He then studied law, becoming the attorney general of Cumberland County in 1806, and he served in the Pennsylvania Legislature between 1813 and 1814. Between 1825 and 1833 he was a trustee of both Dickinson College and the Second Presbyterian Church in Carlisle. George Metzger never married and died in 1879 at the age of 97. At his death Metzger designated that his estate be used to establish a college for women: Metzger Women's College (originally Metzger Institute) was founded in 1882. The Institute operated until 1913; the four-story Metzger building continued to serve as housing for the female students of Dickinson College thereafter.

Ann Susanna, daughter of Robert and Susanna Blaine, married General Samuel Alexander (1792-1845). The son of Revolutionary War Col. John Alexander, Alexander grew up in Carlisle and attended Dickinson College, graduating in 1812. Upon graduation he moved to Greensburg, Pennsylvania to practice law, but eventually returned to Carlisle and became a prominent lawyer. He served as trustee of Dickinson from 1827 to 1833. His marriage to Ann produced two sons, but both died in infancy. Samuel Alexander died in 1845.

Adam Hays (II) (1792-1857) was the son of Joseph Hays and the grandson of Adam Hays (I). He was born in Carlisle and briefly attended Dickinson College as a member of the Class of 1808 before earning his medical degree from the University of Pennsylvania in 1811. He served as a surgeon in the army during the War of 1812. He set up a private practice in Ohio before returning to Carlisle. He then moved his family and practice to Pittsburgh; he died there in 1857. He married Charlotte McClure in 1817 and the couple had six children.

COLLECTION DESCRIPTION

The John Hays (II) Family Papers are housed in eight document boxes, seven oversized folders, ten photograph folders, and one artifact box, and the collection was donated by Jeanette Burgyes [Mrs. E. Gardner Hays] in 1977. The Hays Family Papers is a diverse collection of papers of several branches and generations of the Hays, Blaine, Metzger, and Alexander families of Carlisle, Cumberland County, Pennsylvania. The papers of these four families, with the addition of the Stuart and Hamilton families (law colleagues of John Hays (II) and George Metzger), comprise the bulk of the collection. These materials have been arranged into five series as follows: Correspondence, Legal and Financial Materials, Miscellaneous Materials, Photographs, and Artifacts. Some of these materials are oversized and have been housed separately in seven Oversized folders.

The series entitled Correspondence consists mostly of letters that are personal in nature, such as correspondence between Anna Hays and various members of her family, discussing family matters and local happenings. Some letters address the extensive histories of the four major families, such as in the lengthy correspondence between John Hays (II) and Mary Abigail Dodge, who was constructing a biography of James G. Blaine. Also, some business correspondence concerning the legal practices of John Hays (II), John Stuart, and George Metzger is included. The series is arranged alphabetically by author, and then alphabetically by recipient. In the instance of multiple letters to the same recipient by one author, the correspondence has then been housed chronologically. Letters in which no author can be determined have been designated as "Unknown" and are housed together at the end of the series.

The Legal and Financial Materials series contains receipts, tax information, and account books dating between 1780 and 1899, as well as deeds, agreements, wills, and miscellaneous legal materials dating between 1748 and 1920. The majority of these materials are related to the estates of individuals, stemming from the law practices of John Hays (II), John Stuart, and George Metzger. These lawyers represented family members as well as unrelated individuals. Stuart and Metzger acted as guardians for several minors of their clients; receipts, bills, and other items relative to expenses for individuals such as Janet and Robert Stuart (represented by John Stuart) are included in this series. The materials in this series have been arranged alphabetically by individual and then chronologically within each subject. Materials for which no subject has been determined have been arranged according to format in folders designated as "Unknown," housed at the end of the series.

Miscellaneous Materials contains various items such as genealogies, religious papers, school records, essays, and newspaper clippings, among other things. The folders are arranged alphabetically by individual, and then chronologically. Materials of unknown origin have been designated as such and are housed at the end of the series.

Seven Oversized folders, designated OC 2001.1, contain materials that have been separated from the bulk of the collection due to their size. The first six Oversized folders, containing mostly deeds to various properties, are designated as Legal and Financial Materials; the materials are arranged in alphabetical order by individual and then chronologically. The seventh Oversized folder contains Miscellaneous Materials, such as a diploma and military papers. The items in this series have been arranged alphabetically by individual, and then chronologically.

The Photographs, designated PC 2001.1, have been separated from the collection and are housed in folders within the Dickinson College photo collection. The first nine folders contain photographs of individual family members and friends, and are arranged alphabetically by individual. The last folder contains miscellaneous unidentified images.

The Artifact series consists of one item, a Loyal Legion button that belonged to John Hays (II). Designated as AC 2001.1, it has been separated from the collection and is housed within the Dickinson College artifact collection. The transcription of an explanatory note from Hays' daughter Anna is housed with the item.
