Title: Prayer Written by Charles Nisbet
Date: April 18, 1759
Location: I-McIntoshM-1965-4
Edinburgh 15th April 1759

Only could such a sinful and polluted creature as I, several years have now past over our heads, been by the good hand upon us distinguished. For what else is it, to whom we do of right belong, and made him a depository of right hands and right eyes, having breathed the remembrance of our birth, when we died to, or at the same time, that we were not capable of our understandings and inability to keep the same and that we would lead innocently in the covenant of our God. Then towards the evenings and presence of God, much time was spent, to the end of the world and what a work of gravity and intestine exercises we constantly have about us. This God! we have given by the help of his providence, we have performed thee to depart from us and to show how to us in all the works of our love and grace. Boundless shall we say unto the three degrees of love. There was grief in our hearts, and before, and lastly breads of all upon us, and not our unreasonably present with us, and we were convinced of all our thoughts and actions; there is not a word in our tongue, but before we speak, let us know that our hearts and affections, and not the light of our conscience, that now this entire affection is now so serious and would approve in you that there could not part you. If the true thief, or that we must speak a long as he has not one who revealed itself to be, whose lives our might insult with impudence, and yet after all, obtain his pardon, but their art without in strength, he had hardened himself against the good passage.

There left up the week and casted the wicked to the ground. Surely there is no misfortune nor woe, nor, produced against the Lord, we may easily imagine that he will violate the laws of impudence and their latest, if the great master, but the Lord takes the worldly one in their own toilings. We acknowledge the dominion and just authority over us that these causes exactly confound all desert formed without consulting them. Truly only is no deceiver nor binding place, where the writing of ingenuity can conceal themselves in their purposes from these eyes. Those fatigue the thoughts of men to be vanity. Object is the man where these Christian and master's and the knowledge, protection, in us and our designs. Without thee we can do nothing but what it was evidently better for us to know and have done! May we, our salvation, with that decent sense of submission and subordination to these authority, that be move the list of those known, and the siege of thy presence, may we now undertake the pleasure of our souls and yet be, when we have entered it, desire for no more interest in the Lord, and not least to our own understanding, purpose and hand our piety, and designs formed for the glory and the greater good. Strengthened in every good word and work, pressed from our own thoughts and wishes and humbled hearts and their thirst to the Lord, which is good, guides us into all truth. Dig at the bush where our face has cast our understanding, faculties, abandon and not to that beseechings and unswerving of God, we which also we have for long indulged ourselves and delighted. May we with the Lord in our hearts, that we may not live against thee? May thy most holy precepts ever be the subject of our delightful meditations and may we take pleasure to discourse of thy designs, our own eyes and ears, and we set the wonders that are in thy law, though in the perfect way of the precepts, and open our hearts to thine indefinitely to the Lord, that bars. Commanded us to keep thy precepts carefully. that these would not otherwise teach our ways. So that we may observe thy Statutes, li to thee alone that the path which we tread is ordered aright, and that we greatly bought in the way. Lord, direct and strengthen us by thy Spirit to do these things that are pleasing in thy sight. Our days have been spent and wearied, occupied by many persecutions that exceed their will, and own its 'dread: with ever the punishment we have fully deserved for these, and the infinite meeds of Paul, who to our souls what comfort may be in our soul's ruin, 0 Lord, we receive and feel undisputed that the duty to seek for good, for in this there is no help, no strength of all, our strength is established cannot stand. The sleepless night of death and all our longings is exceeding on an earth. Grant that the we are work ourselves we may be blessed in the Lord, and in the power of his might, may agree our yet to the inculcation thither we have sown our seed, he who make our help to be in the name of the Lord: the works made heaven and earth: the Lord, may be constant, diligent and opinions in his fulness to that which he by his works. May the humility and reverence of our submission be a source immense proportion to the infinite greatness, and our own inwardness, may our love be acceptable to the dawn and send us in, and may the reverence of these be in a degree conform to the titude of our wants: command it that in the pain and heart:amongst all the horrors and most dangerous alterations of a present-world, and that our lasting peace which shall be the portion of all them that wait on the Lord, may be most unworthy of this concluding life, and work not for it. Lord, accord of us by the command of Jesus Christ, who fulfilled the Law, and suffered the punishment for the sake of sinners. But let us walk not as worldly, but as heavenly as by the promised Spirit and in the Name of Christ, that she may be the Lord is all our believers from the person as well as the guilt of our sins; grant that we may live no longer after the flesh, but we die, but enabled us by thy Spirit, to mortify these tendents of the body, that we may love unto that we may love prayer, Lord: forbear not the works of these our hands: cleanse us not in the blood of our enemies, may we walk all day in the light of the Countenance, may by long doing to us by night, and our prayers unto the Lord of our life, Lord, give us no so much of the light of thy Countenance, as may disappoint us in all the thirty or threes of this world. May nothing ever be able to prevent us from our from allegiance to thee. May prosperity, and mercy, follow us all our life, and may our eternal dwellings please us in the house above. We bless thee, O our Lord, for the bounty of thy providence, the riches of thy grace, and the means of life.
We thank thee for our Creation, our preservation and protection, behold, for the good hand upon us at present, and the hope thou gavest us to entertain for the future. We thank thee that there had not cut us off in the midst of our lives, nor sealed us up under judicial hand with all final impotency.
We bless thee for thy Spirit which hath blessed thee with us, and increaseth our i m a n o r s . Lord, may it never cease to do, nor suffer us to be at ease in any thing but thee, we bless thee for the light of reason and understanding of and education. May we ever run against our design, and our light.
We thank thee for the holy Scriptures of thee, and above all, where and bless thee for Jesus Christ by him on whom all our hopes of salvation and salvation are founded, may we be made of God into wise righteousness, sanctification, and redemption. We dedicate ourselves wholly soul and body and spirit, all that we have or are to have, commit, and entrust to Thee and Thy service. We are Thine O Lord, therefore our lips shall from forth Thy praise. Accept of our offering for Christ's sake and make us fit for Thy service. May we never forfeit Thy precepts and for this purpose may Thy grace and Spirit never forsake us but strengthen us by it may we fulfill all Thy good pleasure and at last enter into Thine inheritance.) all that we ask is for the merit and intercession of Jesus Christ Thy Son orour saviour, for whom we bless Thee, and to whom with the Father and Holy Spirit, be all praise and honour, as it hath pleased our Lord God, Amen.