To Distribute New Alumni Directory in May

THE first edition of a Directory of living Dickinsonians to be published since 1948 will be mailed as Part II of the May number of THE DICKINSON ALUMNUS. It will be mailed to Life Members and those who have paid their annual or class dues in the General Alumni Association.

The new directory will list the names and known addresses of all living alumni by classes and also those of students now in college. By including the present students, the directory will be of greater value now and for a longer time than was true of earlier editions.

There will also be a geographical listing of all names and an alphabetical listing which will serve as an index to the class lists. The alphabetical listing will give the last name, initials and class of each individual.

Unlike earlier directories, there will be no segregation of graduates and non-graduates. There will be no indication in the volume to show whether a person listed is a graduate or not.

Physically the new book will closely resemble the 1948 edition with probably about 280 pages and containing approximately 8,500 names. It will be on white paper using black ink and with a sturdy red heavy stock cover.

Nearly all of the copy has gone to the printer and is now being set in type. Changes in addresses will be made to the last moment before printing. If the address to which this number of THE DICKINSON ALUMNUS was mailed to the reader is incorrect, make the correction on the envelope in which the magazine was received and using the address on the upper left hand corner of the envelope send it in—or write a letter. Write THE DICKINSON ALUMNUS, Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa.

If the reader knows that his or her address will be changed by June 1955 or soon thereafter send in that information so that the new address can be listed. Any ladies planning to be married should send their new names and addresses for inclusion in the directory and also for the Personal columns of the magazine.

The Trustees of the College will pay for the publication of the directory though the General Alumni Association through the Alumni Council has pledged itself to repay the Trustees. While no charge will be made to paid up members of the General Alumni Association a statement will be sent with each directory asking for a contribution of at least $2 or as much more as a person will give to meet this great cost.

At the present time, the income from the Lemuel Towers Life Membership Fund and the payments of annual and class dues are insufficient to meet all the costs of printing THE DICKINSON ALUMNUS. The Trustees have included a sum in the annual budget of the College to meet these needs. It is therefore clear that every one who receives a directory should be quick to pay his or her share to meet these additional costs.

When the last directory was printed in 1948, the General Alumni Association agreed to repay the Trustees and the same plan is being followed in financing the 1955 edition. That directory was mailed without asking for any contributions and in time the Trustees were repaid. The Alumni Council Committee, headed by Joseph G. Hildenberger, '33, which sponsored the new edition solicits

More Gifts Come to Alumni Annual Giving Fund

GIFTS to the Alumni Annual Giving Fund to February 1 totalled $13,825.90, a gain of about $9,000 since the publication of the December number of THE DICKINSON ALUMNUS. That issue reported a total of $4,986 to December 10, 1954.

The total to February 1 is about $1,000 more than was reached on the same date last year when the figure was $12,912.55. The final total in last year's campaign was $47,716.42. There is every need to surpass that figure in this year's effort which will continue to June 30.

Class Agents will begin mailing their letters this month and several have gotten their messages into the mails. Some plan to send letters to all their classmates whether they have already given to the fund or not.

Many alumni have endorsed the action of the Alumni Council in establishing the "One Hundred Club" and "The Faithful Fifties," by sending their checks either for $100 or $50. Some have sent gifts in these or larger amounts but have said they do not wish their names published as members of either the "One Hundred Club" or "The Faithful Fifties." Such requests will be observed.

There is a gain among alumni to send $1 a year or some multiple of that figure for each year out of college. Class Agents of the later classes particularly like this plan and will seek to secure many such donors. Younger alumni should realize that a gift of $1 will put the donor's name in the list of contributors in the final report next July in the same sized type as a gift of $1,000 would do.

One of the needs of the annual giving program is to greatly increase the number of contributors. Every Dickinsonian should give remembering that "No gift is too small—and no gift is too large."

"My hope is that every Dickinsonian will send in his own contribution as soon as possible, and help in getting gifts from others" is the appeal of J. Milton Davidson, '33, General Chairman of the Alumni Annual Giving Fund. He also points to the fact that the college enrollment this year is about 30 below last year's totals creating a greater need for help from the alumni and friends of the college.

Last year 1,253 gave a total of $41,616.06. This year's campaign seeks many more contributors and more money than ever before in the history of the fund. If you haven't sent your annual gift—do it now!

Dickinson in GM Program

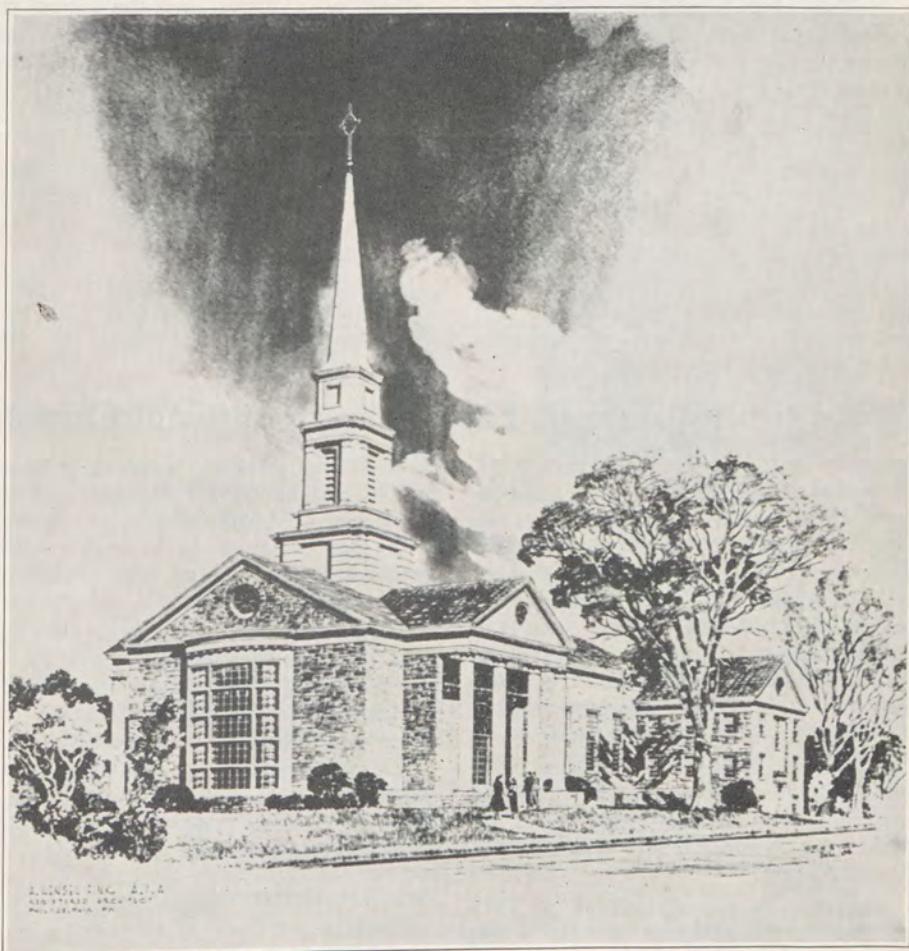

President William W. Edel has been notified that Dickinson College is one of the 107 colleges in 38 states to receive a grant under the recently announced $2,000,000 annual program of General Motors.

The first 350 students under the scholarship program will enroll as freshman in the academic year starting next September. When the program is in full operation, 1,400 students and 306 colleges and universities will be receiving benefits.

An award under the scholarship phase of the GM program will range up to $2,000 annually. The college is given a free hand in choosing students of high scholastic ability and leadership potential to receive the awards. When the plan is in full operation there will be four GM scholarship holders in college at one time.

In addition to the scholarship award, private colleges and universities will receive grants-in-aid equivalent on the average to some $500 to $800 annually per student.

Adopt Plans for New Methodist Church

CHURCH TO BE BUILT ON RUSH CAMPUS

PLANS for the new Methodist Church to replace the Allison Memorial Church, which was completely destroyed by fire in January of last year, have been adopted. It is probable that construction will begin in the summer.

The new edifice will be built in the southwest part of the Benjamin Rush Campus near Mooreland Avenue. It will be to the south of Morgan Hall, the new dormitory for men, now under construction along Mooreland Avenue near High Street.

Attorneys are now preparing deeds for the necessary exchange parcels of land between the Trustees of the College and the officials of the church. When this transfer is effected the demolition of the ruins of the former church structure will begin. The College will also make use of the church's former parish house for class room purposes.

The new building will be of native limestone and of sufficient size to accommodate the student body of the College for chapel purposes. In style it will conform to the architectural pattern of the College. In the nave and balcony there will be a seating capacity for about 750.

The plans provide for a Fellowship Hall with kitchen and dining facilities on the ground floor where there will also be a small Chapel to seat about 95 persons. The nursery and kindergarten rooms will also be on that floor.

Called to Pastorate of Large Congregational Church

THE Rev. Kenneth Clinton, '37, pastor of the First Parish Congregational Church, Wakefield, Mass., for the past five years was called to the 2,850 membership Hope Congregational Church in Springfield, Mass., on February 1.

The Springfield Church has more than double the membership of the Wakefield parish, a large staff, an outstanding youth program, and a plant which includes a large parish house and gymnasium.

While at Wakefield, the Rev. Mr. Clinton carried out a $200,000 addition and modernization program which included the completion and dedication of Covell Chapel.

Born in Cookstown, Ireland, in 1911 he went to Philadelphia in 1925 where his father, also a Congregational minister, has long been active. He graduated from Dickinson College in 1937 and from the Andover-Newton Theological Seminary in 1940, when he was ordained. He has done graduate work at Boston University and the Union Theological Seminary.

In 1941 he was called to the Union Church, West Palm Beach, Fla., where he served five years and succeeded in rejuvenating a church that was about ready to close its doors. He then went to the First Congregational Church, Columbus, O., in 1946 as associate pastor. There

In the southern wing on the first floor provision is made for the minister's study and offices, a parlor and the rooms of the primary department and an adult class room. In this same part on the third floor will be the junior, intermediate and senior class rooms of the Sunday School, a total of fifteen classrooms in all.

Estimates secured for the new Church call for a building fund of $750,000 which includes the new organ and new furnishings.

In building the Church on the Benjamin Rush Campus there will be ample areas for automobile parking off the streets.

With Kessler Institute

he did administrative work in a large church program under the guidance of Dr. Boynton Merrill, one of the leaders of the denomination. In September 1949 he became minister of the Wakefield church.

Besides the work of his parish, he has done considerable lecturing and he is the author of "Let's Read the Bible," published by Macmillan Company in 1950, which has been widely acclaimed.

In July 1934, he married Miss Jean Folwell of Philadelphia. They have four children, David, 16; Desmond, 14; Dennis, 11, and Katrina, 8.

With Kessler Institute

Dr. Earl F. Hoerner, '48, has been named associate medical director of the Kessler Institute for Rehabilitation in West Orange, N. J. He works under the internationally known physician, Dr. Henry H. Kessler, who is a pioneer in the field of physical restoration and rehabilitation.

Dr. Hoerner is also the author of a paper "Altered Vasomotor Changes (Peripheral) in Hemiplegias" which was published in the October issue of Angiology.

Professor Bishop Dies After Operation

DR. ARTHUR VAUGHAN BISHOP, chairman of the department of classical languages and literature at the college for a quarter century, died unexpectedly January 6 in Carlisle Hospital where he underwent an emergency appendectomy the day before. He had rallied strongly after the operation only to be seized with a heart attack the next morning and succumbed in a few minutes.

Dr. Bishop retired from the faculty last June as A. J. Clark Professor Emeritus but at the request of the College resumed teaching last Fall on a lightened schedule to help ease the burden on the department resulting from unexpected heavy elections of Latin. He enjoyed usual health until the sudden attack of appendicitis a day before his death.

The funeral service in the Second Presbyterian Church was conducted by President Edel and the Rev. Charles Davis, the minister, and was attended by the faculty and many students and by town friends of Dr. Bishop. Burial took place in Ivy Hill Cemetery, Alexandria, Va.

Dr. Bishop was gentle in speech and manner and lived quietly on a high Christian plane. He was devoted to the College, and was respected on the campus for his earnest scholarship and deep concern for the welfare of his students.

He was born in Riner, Va., on March 28, 1883, and graduated at Virginia Polytechnic Institute with a B.S. degree in 1906. He obtained both a master's degree and his Ph.D. at the University of Virginia where he taught during summer sessions from 1912 to 1924.

Dr. Bishop was professor of Latin and Greek at Hollins College, in Virginia, from 1913 until 1923 when he joined the faculty of Georgetown College, in Kentucky. He came to Dickinson from Georgetown in 1928 and was made chairman of his department the next year. In 1940 he was named first occupant of the A. J. Clark Chair of Classical Languages and Literature.

He was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, the Classical Association of the Atlantic States and the Philological Association. At the time of his death he was clerk of the Session of the Second Presbyterian Church, in Carlisle, where he also had been a trustee and teacher of the Men's Bible Class.

Dr. Bishop is survived by his wife, the former Ellen T. Hoffman, whom he married in 1914, and by a brother, John Lucas Bishop, of Riner, Va.

Officers All Dickinsonians

All the newly elected officers of the Cumberland County Bar Association are Dickinsonians.

The new officers are George M. Houck, '33, '35L, of Mechanicsburg, president; Russell B. Updegraff, '25, '29L, of New Cumberland, vice president; Harold S. Irwin, Jr., '23, '25L, Carlisle, secretary, and Kenneth W. Hess, '47L, Boiling Springs, treasurer.

Joins Harding College Faculty in Political Science

DR. RICHARD F. STAAR, '48, began an appointment in the fall at Harding College, Searcy, Ark. as associate professor and chairman of the Department of Political Science. The courses and seminars for which he is responsible all have an international emphasis. They are International Relations, Organization, Law and Comparative European Government.

Following his graduation from the college in 1948, he was a University Fellow at Yale and received his M.A. degree there with honors in International Relations in 1949. He immediately went to work for the Federal Government, beginning as a junior analyst on the U.S.S.R. and Eastern Europe. He was able to rise to the rank of intelligence research specialist and Section Chief in the Department of State.

In the meanwhile, he wrote his Ph.D. dissertation for the University of Michigan in absentia and worked for the government simultaneously on a full-time basis. It took him two years to complete his thesis on "The Political Framework of Communist Poland." He received his doctorate in February 1954.

Columbia University has accepted his first article "American Slavic and East European Review" for publication and he has two others in progress. He also plans to write a textbook on International Relations.

Dr. Staar was born in Warsaw, Poland on January 10, 1923. He married the former Jadwiga M. Ochota at Wyandotte, Mich. on March 28, 1950. They have two daughters, Monica, born April 18, 1951, and Christina, born November 25, 1952.

A Methodist, he is a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity and Phi Kappa Phi for excellence in scholarship at the University of Michigan. He is also the author of "Political Administration of the Red Army" which was published by the U. S. Army.

RICHARD F. STAAR

Raised To Full Professorship

When he returned from a year's leave of absence spent in Europe, Dr. J. Murray Barbour, '19, received a promotion to a full professorship at Michigan State College, where he has been a member of the faculty since 1939. He is in the department of music.

Michigan State is celebrating its one hundredth anniversary this year with ceremonies commemorating the founding on February 12 to open the observance. Dr. Barbour was the Dickinson delegate on this occasion.

While in Europe he attended operas and concerts in Austria and Germany, heard Parsifal at Bayreuth, made a trip to Spain and Morocco and attended several events at the Edinburgh Festival. He reports an amusing and interesting detail in a letter saying: "I put my money in a savings bank in Vienna. To draw it out I had to write an Erlosungswort, a secret word that would not be known to a person who might find or steal my bankbook. So I picked 'Dickinson' and never had any trouble in getting cash. An Open sesame! indeed."

Receives Top Appointment in Near East

TWO MONTHS after he returned from an important assignment with the Department of State in Baghdad, Dr. Paul E. Smith, '30, received one of the top government appointments in the Near East and left on November 15 for the American Embassy, Beirut, Lebanon.

He was appointed Regional Training Officer for the Near East and African Division of the Foreign Operations Administration, which is headed by the Honorable Harold E. Stassen. His work will be to combat the forces of Communism in the Near East and Africa through the fields of education and will carry him into Libya, Ethiopia, Jordan and South Africa.

Since his entry into government offices in 1943, Dr. Smith has held a number of important posts at home and abroad. In September he returned from two years service in the American Embassy at Baghdad.

Following his graduation from the college in 1930, he taught in Williamsport Dickinson Seminary and Junior College until 1934, when he became an instructor in English at American University. After five years there, he held a similar position at the University of Maryland when he resigned to become associated with the U. S. Office of Education. He served as a specialist in the exchange of students and teachers in the division of Inter-American Educational Relations. Then in 1948 he became assistant director of the Division of International Educational Relations and in 1951 he was named Director of the International Educational Relations Programs.

His next field of endeavor brought him considerable prominence when from 1945 until 1952, he was chairman of the U. S. committee on the interchange of teachers in the United Kingdom and the United States. During four of those years, he was also a member of the U. S. National Committee on Foreign Students.

PAUL E. SMITH

Born in Altoona, he graduated from the high school there and received his A.B. from the college in 1930. Many Dickinsonians will remember him as one of the star players of the basketball team. He received his M.A. from American University in 1935 and a Ph.D. from Catholic University in 1942. A Methodist, he is a member of Phi Kappa Psi, Omicron Delta Kappa and Phi Delta Kappa.

Dr. Smith married Lucille M. Blackwell, '32, and they have two sons, Paul E., Jr., born February 11, 1942, and Charles M., born in December, 1946.

In Sclerosis Work

DeHaven Woodcock, '33, '36L, was recently placed in charge of a 12 state area for the National Multiple Sclerosis Society, with field headquarters in Chicago, Ill.

He has moved from Altoona to 3314 South Clinton Ave., Berwyn, Ill., where he resides with his wife, the former Miss Jean McGee. They were married in Altoona on July 31, 1952.

Wins Acclaim As Mr. Blue Ballot in Illinois

CAPPED as one of the "Five Foremost Chicagoans of '54" and the top guest of the Governor at a testimonial dinner last month, Samuel W. Witwer, Jr., '30, attorney and trustee of the College, won the plaudits of all newspaper editors, civic and religious leaders and many groups for his tireless work in a victorious election in Illinois last November.

He was guest of honor on January 13 at a civic testimonial dinner at the Palmer House in Chicago which was co-chairmaned by Governor Stratton and former Governor, Adlai Stevenson.

The January 1955 issue of Chicago named Mr. Witwer as one of the "Five Foremost Chicagoans of '54" for his work as chairman of the Illinois Committee for Constitutional Revision. Its citation read "The city and its suburbs gained new strength in Springfield with the victory last November of the state reapportionment amendment. Its passage promises restoration of fair representation in the legislature (including elimination of the rotten boroughs of the West Side bloc) that has been denied to Cook county districts for more than half a century. Credit for the success of the reapportionment measure is shared by hundreds of citizens who worked in its support, but a large proportion of that credit is due Samuel W. Witwer, Jr., chairman of the Illinois Committee for Constitutional Revision, which conducted the campaign for adoption of the proposal."

"Witwer, a 46-year-old Chicago lawyer and resident of Riverside," the citation continues "gave the campaign the organization and experienced direction necessary to emphasize the importance of reapportionment as a side issue in the election. When the ballots were tallied, the amendment had received a 10 to 1 vote in the county. The campaign was the latest in an eight-year period during which Witwer, who shuns the label of reformer, often had forsaken his law practice and family to work for modernization of the 1870 state constitution."

Much earlier Illinois newspapers had christened him "Mr. Constitutional Revision" for his work in 1950 when the "Gateway Amendment" was approved by the voters. This opened the door for the "Blue Ballot" reapportionment amendment approved by the voters last November and which gave him his new name "Mr. Blue Ballot." These successes came after sporadic efforts were made through the years to break constitutional barriers. "Mr. Blue Ballot" has been given the credit of masterminding the unifying strategy which led to victory.

The need for reform was pictured in a typical case where legislators in some downstate rural areas represented about one-twentieth of the number of people contained in the largest Chicago legislative district. The change restores a legislative balance between Chicago and the downstate regions for the first time since 1901. To Mr. Blue Ballot it means success after eight years of devoted work for the people of Illinois.

Born in Pueblo, Col., on July 1, 1908,

Mr. Blue Ballot is the son of a steel mill cinder snapper. He moved to Gary, Ind., with his family in 1909 to make his boyhood home in the first structure ever erected in that mill city. Later the family moved to Cumberland, Md., where he attended high school.

Graduating from the College in 1930, he went on to Harvard Law School and following his graduation there in 1933 went to Chicago to become associated with the law firm which is now "Winkinson, Witwer & Moran."

He married the former Ethyl Wilkins of Gary. They have twin sons, Michael and Samuel III, aged 13; a daughter, Carole Ann, who is 9 and another son David, aged 5 years. They live in a 75-year-old Victorian house in suburban Riverside.

Active in the affairs of the Methodist Church and a member of Union League and Sigma Chi Fraternity, he is a Trustee of the College and of Garrett Theological Seminary. He is a Life Member of the General Alumni Association and a past president of the Dickinson Club of Chicago.

Guides Work For Mentally Retarded

AN THE executive secretary of the Philadelphia chapter of the Pennsylvania Association for Retarded Children, Inc., Sarah L. Rowe, '34, is in the forefront of a great new nation-wide movement that seeks to obtain for mental retardation the same public enlightenment and support that has been achieved for infantile paralysis, cerebral palsy, rheumatic fever and the like.

In the first nation-wide campaign in behalf of the mentally retarded, the Philadelphia chapter raised $100,000 last Thanksgiving season. This is being used to promote research in discovering preventive measures against retardation, to establish more residence schools for retarded children who need continuing care, to provide vocational rehabilitation for those who can be helped by such training and to expand facilities for parent counseling. In her work, Miss Rowe coordinates all of the activities of the chapter, a pioneer in the PARC.

The gospel of the movement is that retarded children can be helped. Most retarded children are born to normal people, even the most enlightened people, and with a history of never having had such a child in the family. The organization's statistics show that for every 100,000 population there are 3,000 retardation cases compared with 700 rheumatic heart sufferers, 350 victims of cerebral palsy and 300 permanent cripples from polio.

One of the tragedies of mental retardation is that families have tended to be ashamed of such children and to hide them. Miss Rowe's group seeks to combat this tendency and go help parents work together for their handicapped children and to give them faith.

Form Law Partnership

The law firm of Myers and Myers, of Lemoyne and Carlisle, and James D. Flower, '42, have announced the formation of a partnership for the general practice of law under the name of Myers, Myers & Flower.

The firm of Myers and Myers was made up of John E. Myers, '12, Robert L. Myers, Jr., '17, Thomas I. Myers, '38 and Robert L. Myers III, with its principal office in the Lemoyne Trust Building, Lemoyne, Pa. The firm also had offices in Carlisle. The new firm will continue in the Lemoyne offices and the Carlisle offices are now at 32 W. High St.

Robert L. Myers, Jr., the senior partner, was named Pennsylvania's Secretary of Banking by Governor George M. Leader last month.

Becomes Pennsylvania's Secretary of Banking

ROBERT L. MYERS, JR., '17, '21L, of Camp Hill, Pa., was named Secretary of Banking in the Cabinet of Governor George M. Leader, of Pennsylvania, last month.

The new secretary held other Capitol Hill posts during the term of former Governor George H. Earle. He was Deputy Attorney General of Pennsylvania representing the Department of Banking in 1935. Then in 1936 he was Secretary to Governor Earle and in 1937-38 he was chairman of the Pennsylvania Unemployment Compensation Board of Review.

A former member of the faculty of the Law School, he has had a good bit of banking experience. He was professor of Common Pleas Practice at the Dickinson Law School from 1923 to 1931.

His experience in banking springs first from the fact that his father, the late Robert Lee Myers, was the founder of the Cumberland Valley Bank in 1905, which was reorganized as the Lemoyne Trust Co. in 1910. He is a former vice president, director and counsel of the Trust Co. and a former counsel of the West Shore Building and Loan Association of Lemoyne, Pa.

He was co-author with the late Judge Fred S. Reese of the second revised and enlarged edition of Patton's Pennsylvania Common Pleas Practice. He has also been a contributor to law reviews and legal journals.

A Mason, a trustee of the Camp Hill Presbyterian Church, and a member of S. A. E. fraternity, he was president of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation of Cumberland County in 1952 and that same year he served as president of the Cumberland County Bar Association. He is also a member of the Pennsylvania Bar Association. He is a member of the Bar of Cumberland County, the Pennsylvania Superior and Supreme Courts and the Supreme Court of the United States.

Born at Camp Hill on September 15,

ROBERT L. MYERS, JR.

1897, he graduated from the college with Phi Beta Kappa honors in 1917 and received the A.M. and LL.B. degrees when he graduated from the Dickinson School of Law in 1921. In World War I he served with the Signal Corps of the Army. For a year following his graduation from the college he was instructor in Science and coach of athletics at Shippensburg State Teachers College.

He married the former Miss Evelyn Metnzer, of Carlisle, and they have three sons and a daughter, Robert L. Myers, III, Edward H. Myers, Philip N. Myers and Virginia E. Myers.

The new deputy has been active in the Democratic organization in Harrisburg for some years. He was a former candidate for district attorney. In 1942 he was named assistant United States Attorney and in 1952 a Special Assistant to the Attorney General of the United States.

Upon his graduation from the Law School in 1931, he was admitted to practice in the courts of Pennsylvania and later to the United States Federal Court for the Middle Pennsylvania district.

Receives Promotion

William C. McCamant, '38, Federal Government careerist, became the assistant to the Secretary of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare on January 13 by appointment by Secretary Oveta Culp Hobby. He had been for eight months a special assistant on the Secretary's staff.

In his new assignment, McCamant is responsible for assisting the only woman in President Eisenhower's Cabinet in handling policy matters relating to the vast department she heads.

McCamant began his Government career in 1940 with the Department of Commerce's Census Bureau. He transferred in 1941 to the Department of the Navy where he held various assignments in personnel management and as a manpower specialist in military planning until assignment last June to Secretary Hobby's staff. He spent three years in the Navy during World War II.

Born in Huntingdon, Pa., McCamant entered Dickinson in 1934 from Altoona (Pa.) High School and later studied at the University of Hawaii, American University, in Washington, D. C., Seattle College and the University of Pennsylvania.

Washington dispatches concerning his new assignment quoted the Welfare Secretary's assistant as expressing a special debt of gratitude to Dickinson which, he said, cultivates a sense of civic responsibility in its students.

He and Mrs. McCamant have three children, John, Jr., 9; William, 8, and Kathy, 6. They reside in Vienna, Va.

Judge McLaughlin served in the Maryland State Senate from January 1947 until he resigned to accept the appointment as judge on January 6 of this year. Since his admission to the bar, he has been engaged in the general practice of law in Hagerstown.

From Ranger to Pulpit

When the Syracuse, N. Y., Herald-Journal launched a series of articles about local clergymen in January, it started off with the Rev. Robert Thomas,

D. KENNETH McLAUGHLIN

'40, who entered the Methodist ministry by way of New Mexico's great Carlsbad Caverns National Park. The article featured the minister's great interest in hunting and fishing and in conservation.

Rev. Thomas is married to the former Beatrice A. Pennell, '39. Their nine-year-old son, Craig, was last year's cerebral palsy "Poster Boy." Despite his physical handicap, Craig shares his father's love of the out-of-doors and they often fish together.

Rev. Thomas, who grew up in wooded Northeastern Pennsylvania, had been ranger in the Carlsbad National Park for two and a half years when he decided that the ministry offered greater opportunity for service. He served churches in San Francisco and in Gloucester, Mass., and since 1949 has been pastor of the Brown Memorial Methodist Church, in Syracuse.

He is national convention chairman of the United Palsy Foundation, which he also serves as director-at-large, and he is active in the National Resources Council, a private organization whose objective is to arouse public interest in conservation of national resources.

He attended Carnegie Tech for a year and then entered the Dickinson School of Law from which he received the LL.B. degree upon his graduation in 1918. Michigan Alumni Meet Dickinson—A Doctor's College!

By PROFESSOR CHARLES COLEMAN SELLERS

FIFTY-FOUR of our alumni are now enrolled in a dozen leading medical schools. These schools accepted them as students with unusual readiness because of previous experience with the quality of Dickinson graduates. During the last four years eighty-five per cent of our pre-medical graduates have been accepted by the schools to which they first applied.

These facts, just cause for pride to faculty and alumni, are not the result of a recent trend. They have their roots in a living tradition as old as Dickinson itself. Our founder, Dr. Benjamin Rush, the most renowned physician of his day and one of the greatest of all time, established that tradition. Because of it Dickinson is today, in a very real sense, a doctor's college.

Dr. Rush left the mark of his unique and vigorous personality on everything he did. He was a pioneer in thought and action. He had no fear for the hidden and terrible sources of disease, no fear for his many enemies. In boldness of purpose and capacity for work he towered above all others. He worked with the combination of inquiry and teaching. He worked from the smallest detail to the broadest conception of the whole, saw mind and body as one entity, man and the state as one. In his concern for the health of the nation he signed the Declaration of Independence, inspired Thomas Paine to publish his epoch-making Common Sense, superintended the manufacture of munitions, marched out with the "ragged Continentals" in their first desperate winter campaign, labored in the hospitals of battlefield and camp. And, at the end of the struggle, to preserve the liberty so dearly won, he founded a college. Not another medical school, this, but a college to prepare all for the new world before them. He sealed the idea with a motto: "Pietate et doctrina tuta libertas"—"Religion and learning the bulwark of liberty." It was nonetheless a doctor's college, and his "plan of Education" for it a typical Rush production in its breadth of view. Science was to stand on equality with the humanities, and physical education, for the first time, to support the development of the mind.

Rush was then thirty-seven years of age, and had been studying, writing, practicing, teaching medicine for twenty-two years. Born in 1746, he graduated from Princeton at fifteen and immediately took up the study of medicine, finally receiving his degree at Edinburgh in 1768. He opened an office in Philadelphia, and was at once appointed Professor of Chemistry in the Medical School of the College of Philadelphia, later the University of Pennsylvania. In 1770, he published his Syllabus of a Course of Lectures in Chemistry, the first chemistry textbook by an American. Other works followed. Writing spread his fame but it was a fame based solidly on practice and on teaching. Every day he worked long and hard in hospital and office, and his lectures came straight from experience with actual cases. He taught more medical students than any other American of his time, and doctors from all over the country consulted him. He was the hero of the yellow fever epidemic of 1793, calm in the midst of terror, giving his aid to more than six thousand patients through that August and September, till at last he collapsed with fatigue.

Nathan G. Goodman in a recent article has rightly hailed Rush as the "First American Psychiatrist." It was he who fought for, and won, a separate hospital for the insane, dedicated to humane and sympathetic treatment, and his last and greatest published work, the Medical Inquiries and Observations upon the Diseases of the Mind, was a standard treatise, here and abroad, for half a century.

When Rush died in 1813, at the age of sixty-seven, his boldness and breadth of attack had far advanced the battle against disease. His profession stood higher than ever before, veterinary medicine and other branches had been brought into relation with it, preventive medicine established and the public as a whole brought to a new consciousness of the need for hygiene, for clean communities, for continuing study. And the host of young doctors he had trained with such personal interest—many of them graduates of Dickinson College—stood as an army to carry on the battle.

It was inevitable that Dickinson students of Rush's own day should have felt the inspiration of his fame and his energy. As far as our records tell, the Class of 1792 produced the first alumni to go on into medicine, six of them: John Creigh, John Foulke, Maxwell McDowell, James Postlewaite, James Smith and William Steele. They achieved honor in their profession, but to them honor is chiefly due as the vanguard in a long procession, from the Eighteenth Century to the present—and on into the future—as the founders of a cherished tradition of this college.

Joins College Faculty

George H. Frogan, formerly of the University of Minnesota, was appointed to the faculty at mid-year as an instructor in classical languages. He fills a department vacancy that resulted from the death of Dr. Arthur Vaughan Bishop on January 6.

The new instructor is a native of Cogswell, N. D. He was valedictorian of his high school class in Minneapolis and in 1931 graduated summa cum laude from the University of Minnesota. He received the degree of Master of Arts at the university in 1944 and is now a candidate there for the Ph.D. degree in Greek and Latin.

He has taught in the public schools, of Minneapolis and at the University of Minnesota. A Quaker and a Mason, he is also a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Lambda Alpha Psi, the Archeological Institute of America and the American Philological Association.

Elected to Phi Beta Kappa

Four members of the Senior Class were elected to Phi Beta Kappa by Dickinson's Pennsylvania Alpha Chapter at the close of the fall semester in January. They are Edith H. Bean, Fort Sam Houston, Tex.; Ruth M. Costenbader, Palmerton, Pa.; Howard E. Davis, Jim Thorpe, Pa., and Glenn Welliver, Westminster, Md. Welliver, who spent his junior year at the University of Heidelberg, in Germany, is the son of Dr. Lester A. Welliver, '18, and Frieda Yeaworth Welliver, '20.

The four will be initiated on March 10 and that night will be the guests of honor at the annual Scholarship Dinner when the College will fete all students who made the Dean's List last semester or the spring semester of the 1953-54 term. Dinner speaker will be Dr. William Clyde DeVane, dean of Yale College and director of the Division of Liberal Arts at Yale University.

Basketball Team Tasting Victories

COACH A. C. Ransom's basketball team won six of the eleven games played in mid-February and should it maintain that pace for the balance of the 19-game schedule, it will have turned in the best Dickinson season since 1949-50 when the courtmen had an 11-6 record under the late Charles "Chick" Kennedy.

A good shooting outfit, the team of three seniors, a junior and a sophomore has twice shattered the Dickinson mark for most points in a single game. The old mark of 89 points, set last year in a winning effort against Western Maryland, was broken in a home game with Albright on January 10 when Dickinson was the winner by a 96-63 score. Three weeks later the record was upped again in a 100-74 victory over F. and M., also in the Alumni Gym.

Dickinson has a new scoring star in James Connor, a 6-foot sophomore guard from Wilkes-Barre, Pa., who had a straight 19 average for the first 11 games on 209 points. He is almost sure to break Johnny Hopper's Dickinson record of 329 points for a single season, set in 1947-48. A starter from the beginning of the season, Connor has scored in double figures in every game. He has a high of 28, against Albright, and has twice hit 27, against Juniata and Western Maryland. Lee Huber, the senior forward, has the second best average, with 14.2.

The starters with Huber and Connor have been Robert Carano, forward, and John Dudas, guard, who are seniors, and John Kohlmeier, the center, a junior. Kohlmeier is the most improved player on the squad, getting better in every game, and big things are expected of him before he graduates.

After the opening-game loss at Penn State, 81-63, the team turned back Elizabethtown, then undefeated, by 66-59 in the Alumni Gym. Still at home, the team dropped a 73-59 decision to Lebanon Valley but had the satisfaction of holding Landa, Valley's great star, to eight points, his lowest total in two seasons. Johns Hopkins was no trouble at all a few nights later, Dickinson winning 73-59 in the final game before Christmas. After the holidays, Juniata was upset, 73-63, in the Alumni Gym. The boys were far off form against F and M., losing 88-66 at Lancaster but bounced back dramatically with a crushing victory over Albright, 96-63, the first at the expense of the Lions in 10 meetings.

Dickinson was then a 91-79 loser in a return game at Juniata. Participating in a college doubleheader in the Hershey (Pa.) Sports Arena, the team staged a great late-game rally to head off Western Maryland, 68-65. In Pittsburgh, a 75-64 decision was dropped to Carnegie Tech, winner over such teams as Pitt, West Virginia and Penn State. Back in Carlisle a few nights later, the team squared accounts with F. and M., by the record 100 to 74 score.

Publish Law School Directory

A directory of the Alumni of the Dickinson School of Law was published by the alumni office last month and mailed to all alumni of the school.

The 152 page book is well printed and bound in a light blue cover of a heavy stock. It is the first directory printed of law school alumni since 1923.

The book is in four sections. One is a listing by classes, another shows localities in Pennsylvania by counties where alumni now reside, the third is a geographical listing and the fourth an alphabetical list. In the alphabetical list there is a mark to designate the practising lawyers.

In the mailings a card was enclosed reading in part "If you would like to share in the cost of printing, typing and mailing of this directory, a contribution of two dollars would be welcomed."

Chosen to Preach in British Isles

THE Rev. Dr. Everett F. Hallock, '30, pastor of Vincent Methodist Church, Nutley, N. J., has been asked to be one of the ten preachers from the United States to preach in England this summer under the auspices of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U. S. A. He is probably the lone Methodist to be asked to do this. He will sail in July and will preach the four Sundays in August in England, Scotland and Ireland.

After serving as District Superintendent of the Eastern District in the Newark Conference, he was named pastor of Vincent Methodist Church in Nutley, which is the third largest church in the Newark Conference, with nearly 1,400 members.

Dr. Hallock is a former president of the Newark Conference Board of Education, former chairman of the Conference Board of Ministerial Training and former president of the Essex County Council of Churches. He served pastorates in Jersey City, Maplewood, Orange and Rutherford, N. J., before his appointment as district superintendent in 1949.

A graduate of Drew Theological Seminary, he holds his bachelor's and doctor of divinity degrees from Dickinson. A member of Beta Theta Pi Fraternity, he is a past president of the Dickinson Club of Northern New Jersey.

Dr. Hallock married his classmate, Catherine C. Porter. Their son, Donald E. Hallock, '54, is now serving with the Navy as an aviation storekeeper third class.

Named to PMC Post

George A. Hansell, Jr., '34, head football and track coach at Pennsylvania Military College, Chester, Pa., was named Director of Athletics there last month. He will continue in his coaching positions.

EVERETT F. HALLOCK

For the second time in his short coaching career, he was able to rejoice in an undefeated football season. A few years ago he coached the P. M. C. Prep School team without a loss. In the gridiron campaign last fall he guided the college team through a seven game campaign without a defeat or a tie. His closest call was the Dickinson Homecoming game on Biddle Field which his cadets won 6 to 2. He had other victories over Western Maryland, Moravian, Wagner, Lycoming, Lebanon Valley and Albright.

He went to PMC in 1945 as an instructor and athletic coach at the preparatory school. Later he joined the college admission and coaching staffs.

Heads Luzerne Bar

The Honorable Arthur H. James, L.L.D., '04, former governor of Pennsylvania, has been elected president of the Luzerne County Bar Association. At the end of his term as governor, he resumed law practice in Wilkes Barre, Pa. and returned to his home in Plymouth.

Preaches at Boyhood School Anniversary

A retired minister, with almost a half century of service, returned to his childhood Sunday School as guest speaker at a 75th anniversary service on Sunday, January 9.

He is the Rev. Dr. William H. Ford, '94, a former Methodist Church district superintendent, now in retirement serving as chaplain of the Methodist Episcopal Hospital.

Dr. Ford who as a boy attended the first meetings of the John B. Stetson Mission Sunday School, an undenominational Sunday School, in 1880, went on and worked his way through college and entered the ministry.

For the first of four special services marking the anniversary, the Stetson Sunday School returned to its original home, the Stetson factory. Dr. Ford's sermon topic was "The Bulwark of Individual and National Life."

The other three services were held at the Seventh Street Methodist Church, where the School has met for the past thirteen years.

Born in Philadelphia in 1869, Dr. Ford was educated in Philadelphia public schools; Pennington Seminary and Dickinson College. He graduated in 1894, received his M.A. in 1897 and was awarded the Doctor of Divinity degree in 1908. When he was a child, Dr. Ford went to the Stetson Sunday School. Later he worked in the Stetson factory while earning enough money to further his education.

For half a century, his life was devoted to religious work during which he was pastor of the First Church at Easton for 13 years; a district superintendent for six years and closed his ministry in Philadelphia after serving 11 years as pastor of the Mt. Airy Methodist Church. He retired 13 years ago.

Dr. Ford who was active on the Board of Trustees at Methodist Hospital, the Board of Managers of the Philadelphia Missionary and Church Extension Society and many other organizations, has lived for many years at 122 Nippon St., Mt. Airy, with his wife, the former Mary Ann Rebert, '95.

Makes Record of Songs

"The Life of Christ in Song" is the title of a new record of ten songs sung by Philip J. Cartwright, '42, bass baritone of Maplewood, N. J. He recently was the soloist with the Honolulu Oratorio Society and the Honolulu Symphony Society.

The ten selections in the new record begin with the prophecy of the birth of Christ, and include His life and teachings, His crucifixion and His resurrection. They are recorded on both sides of a 12" record; 33 rpm and were made in Morrow Memorial Methodist Church, Maplewood, N. J., with the Rev. William K. Burns at the organ. The price is $5. Orders may be sent to Records, Room 905, 150 Fifth Avenue, New York 11, N. Y.

Receives Appointment

Dr. Horace E. Rogers, '24, Alfred Victor duPont Professor of Analytical Chemistry at the college, has been appointed to the national committee on constitution and by-laws of the American Chemical Society.

To Seek Third Term

Judge W. C. Sheely, '26L, president judge of the courts of Adams and Fulton Counties, for the last 20 years, has announced his candidacy for his third term. Judge Sheely was elected 19 years ago without opposition at the primary or general election. He is president of the Dickinson School of Law.

College Tests Interest in Painting and Design

DICKINSON students interested in painting and design are having the opportunity to cultivate that interest this semester under an established artist who is also an experienced art teacher.

Mary Snedeker, free-lance artist and member of the teaching staffs of the Philadelphia Museum of Art and the Cheltenham Art Center, is spending several days a week on the campus in an arrangement with the College extending to May 1. The program began with the start of the spring semester January 31.

The College hopes to provide similar opportunity for art training in subsequent years and to join permanently the colleges which bring practicing artists to their campuses as a stimulus to their cultural life.

The artist-in-residence experiment is off to a promising start. Although the course does not carry credit toward graduation, no less than 27 students signed up for Miss Snedeker's classes this semester. The artist is available to all students anxious for her advice on art matters and she appears occasionally as guest lecturer before classes in the history of art.

Miss Snedeker, who lives in Jenkintown, Pa., attended Colby Junior College and Beaver College and is a graduate of the Rhode Island School of Design. Just before her arrival on the campus the College exhibited examples of her free-lance work including oil paintings, drawings in various media, lithograph and silk-screen prints, books and magazine illustration and strip drawings.

The College has shared her presence on the campus with the community by organizing art classes for young people and adults. Miss Snedeker has 40 persons in these classes, some of her students coming from points as far from the campus as Harrisburg.

The art classes are in addition to the non-credit evening classes being given by the college this spring as part of its Adult Education Plan, now in the second year of operation. Current courses began February 8 and include Applied Psychology, Ethics for Contemporary Living, Public Speaking and Practical Writing.

Plan Club Meetings

Seven of the alumni clubs have set dates for their annual dinner meetings and others are making plans for these events. The Michigan Club opened the season with a dinner at the Dearborn Inn, in Detroit on January 28. A score of Dickinsonians attended the annual luncheon of the Pennsylvania All-College Alumni Association of Washington, D. C., held in the Shoreham Hotel there on February 5, when a citation was presented to Senator Edward Martin.

Two club meetings are scheduled for March. Homer M. Respass, '17, president of the Baltimore Club, is planning for a banner dinner on Tuesday, March 22 at the Lovely Lane Methodist Church, St. Paul and 22nd Streets at 6:30 P. M. at $2.00 a plate. The Rev. Kenneth Rose, '44, is pastor of the church.

Harry W. Speidel has arranged for the dinner of the Reading-Berks Club to be held in Reading on March 31.

Dr. Robert L. D. Davidson, '31, has reserved the Merion Cricket Club at Ardmore for the Philadelphia Club dinner on Wednesday night, April 13 and is planning a very unusual program for that occasion.

J. Ohrum Small, '15, is at work on the Delaware Club dinner to be held in Wilmington late in April or early May. Benjamin Epstein, '33, has set April 22 for the New York Club, while Mrs. Mary Rhein, '32, has fixed April 29 for the Harrisburg group at the West Shore Country Club and Mrs. Wm. Smethurst, '25, is planning for the Northern New Jersey Club to gather on May 5.
