A departure in the Commencement Program this year is that the Trustees will meet a day early on May 30 so that they may attend the events of May 31, which is Senior Day. As customary, the Alumni Council dinner will be held that evening at 6 o'clock and the Commencement Ball will be at 9 p.m. The Class of 1907 will hold its 50th Reunion Dinner in the James Wilson Hotel at 6 o'clock that night.

The traditional Alumni Luncheon will be held at noon in the Alumni Gymnasium. It will be the popular buffet luncheon (no more boxes) at $1.00 per person. Class standards will indicate seating arrangements. The program will be short as it will be followed by the Ground-Breaking Ceremonies at 2 o'clock for the new C. Scott Althouse Science Building on the John Dickinson Campus to the west of Old West.

After this will be the President's Reception at the President's House from 3 to 4:30 o'clock. There will be a tea of the May Morris Library Associates in the Sharp Room, Bosler Hall from 4 to 5:30.

One of the bright spots of this year's Commencement will be the celebration of the 50th Anniversary of Chi Omega which will bring many of the former co-eds back to the campus. The anniversary banquet will be held on Saturday night at 6 o'clock in Morgan Hall. Other fraternity banquets are scheduled at that same hour.

The Mary Dickinson Club will hold a dinner meeting in Drayer Hall at 6 o'clock in Drayer Hall. All those who do not attend other functions scheduled for that time are cordially invited to this dinner.

The Saturday night program will follow the schedule of other years. The Men's Glee Club and alumni members will gather on the steps of Old West at 8:15 for a song-fest. The Alumni Prom will be going on that night with the Carlisle Band playing an open-air concert on the campus. The last number on the program of the day is the Raven's Claw Reunion which will start in South College.

Any unattached alumni who may want rooms in the dormitories over Commencement should write to either Gilbert Malcolm or George Shuman, Jr. Some rooms will be available in Drayer Hall and also in Morgan Hall.

The Class of 1907, as the 50th Reunion Class, will be seated on the platform at the Alumni Luncheon on Saturday and will be the guests of the College at a dinner to be held Sunday, June 2, in Morgan Hall.

Dr. Robert L. Johnson

Dr. Robert L. Johnson, who has been President of Temple University since 1941, will receive the degree of Doctor of Civil Law.

Born in New York City on March 25, 1894, he prepared for college at Norwich Academy and the Taft School. He received his A.B. degree from Yale University in 1918 and then entered on a business career. There was an interruption in his school days because of service during World War I as a Lieutenant in the Seventh Field Artillery of the First Division.

After three years as an accounting executive with Berien & Company, he became vice president of Time, Inc. in 1922 and continued there until 1938, when he became president of Robert L. Johnson Magazines, Inc., of New York City, a post he held until his election as President of Temple in 1941. He has continued his interest in business through directorships in several banks and manufacturing concerns.

Dr. Johnson has had a wide and varied experience in government service and also in civic and welfare activities. In 1935 he was a Relief Administrator for the State of Pennsylvania and for several months in 1953 was Administrator for the International Information Administration, Washington, D. C. Because of his interest in civic affairs in Philadelphia received "Man of the Year Award" by the Philadelphia Business Club in December, 1954.

A member of the Bryn Mawr Presbyterian Church, he holds membership in many professional societies and honorary membership in several fraternities. In addition to his other posts, Dr. Bowles has been director of the National Scholarship Service and Fund for Negro Students since 1953 and since 1946 consultant for the University of Puerto Rico. He is also a member of the R.O.T.C. panel and the Defense Forces Advisory Board. His wife is the former Frances Callaway Porcher and they have two children, Francis Porcher and Courtney Callaway.

Josiah W. Kline

Josiah W. Kline, who will receive the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, is a well-known merchant, industrialist and philanthropist of Harrisburg. A fine biography could well be written on the unusual life of this Pennsylvanian.

He was born at Lees Cross Roads, Cumberland County, on November 2, 1882. His father died when he was nine years of age. He then started as a newsboy, helped in stores and later was a newsboy on the Reading Railroad and the old Cumberland Valley Railroad.

For years his life was a mixture of going to school and work and he made his way to the Model School of Shippensburg Teachers College by being paid to take a youngster back and forth to that same school, where he graduated in 1896. Then he was a page in the Pennsylvania House of Representatives and later in the United States Congress and in 1907 passed the preliminary law examinations and registered with the late Sylvester B. Sadler, of Carlisle, as a law student. After some more interruptions when he was managing farms in Cumberland County, he started his own firm J. W. Kline & Company, Real Estate and Insurance, and attended the Wharton Extension School of the University of Pennsylvania and graduated in 1921. From 1931 until 1932 he was president of Beckley Business College in Harrisburg.

In the more recent years he has been remarkably successful in business since 1951 when he founded Kline Village Shopping Center, of which he is the builder and sole owner. In 1952 he created the Josiah W. and Bessie H. Kline Foundation to aid charitable causes, and in addition to a cash grant, turned over very many valuable properties to the Foundation. Through this Foundation, scholarships have been available for the college education of deserving boys and girls from Dauphin and Cumberland Counties. In 1955 the Foundation donated the Kline Childrens Hospital and Eye Clinic, which was erected at the Polyclinic Hospital in Harrisburg. In Cumberland County he was a large contributor to the J. W. Kline Elementary School erected at Lees Cross Road near Shippensburg.

While he has been actively interested in many civic affairs and in Masonry,

Alden H. Emery

Mr. Kline has one unusual distinction. He may be the only man to serve through the entire duration of World War II as a member of a ration board. He was chairman of the Harrisburg Ration Board and co-ordinator of Dauphin County during those years. He has a number of directorships and is vice president and a member of the Board of the newly merged Allison-East End Trust Company and Citizens Trust Company, both of Harrisburg. He is a member of the Union League of Philadelphia.

Alden H. Emery

Alden H. Emery, chemist and administrator, will receive the honorary degree of Doctor of Science.

Born in Lancaster, N. H., on June 2, 1901, he graduated magna cum laude from Oberlin College in 1922 and received his M.A. degree from Ohio State University in 1923. Through the years he has had only two employers. He began as a chemist with the United States Bureau of Mines in 1923 and since 1927 has been in administrative work. He became associated with the American Chemical Society in 1936 as an assistant manager and has advanced through various positions until 1947, when he became executive secretary, the same position he now holds.

While he lives in Washington, he and Mrs. Emery have some ties to Pennsylvania. His first job was in Pittsburgh and he and Mrs. Emery lived there for three years. His older son, Alden, Jr., was born there and received his Bachelor's degree in Chemical Engineering from Pennsylvania State University and is now on the faculty of Purdue University. His younger son, Robert W., is employed by the Armstrong Cork Co., Lancaster. Mrs. Emery is professional musician, specializing in vocal coaching and accompanying and in the latter field is considered one of the best in Washington.

He is a Fellow A.A.A.S. and of the American Institute of Chemists and a member of the Society of Chemical Industry, Armed Forces Chemical Association and the Washington Academy of Science. He is also a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Xi and Alpha Chi Sigma and Gamma Alpha. His clubs are Cosmos, Torch and the University Club of Washington.

For seven years he was assistant editor of Chemical Abstracts and for eight years editor of Metallurgical Abstracts.

Dr. E. David Weinberg

The degree of Doctor of Science will be conferred upon Dr. E. David Weinberg, who graduated from the college in 1917. He has been a member of the staff at Johns Hopkins Hospital since 1923 and is orthopedic surgeon there. He is an assistant professor at Johns Hopkins Medical School and is chief of Orthopedic Surgery at South Baltimore General Hospital and attending orthopedic surgeon at Sinai Hospital and Childrens' Hospital School. He is on the active staff of Union Memorial Hospital and also the Hospital for the Women of Maryland.

Dr. Weinberg serves as consultant in orthopedic surgery at the United States Marine Hospital; Memorial Hospital,

E. David Weinberg

Cumberland, Md.; Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland, Md., and Meyersdale Community Hospital, Meyersdale, Pa.

Through the years he has operated upon a number of Dickinsonians, most of them members of the athletic teams who suffered injuries.

He is a life member of the General Alumni Association and a past president of the Dickinson Club of Baltimore.

Born at Lonaconing, Md., on July 25, 1896, he graduated from Central High School there, received his degree from the college in 1917 and an A.M. in 1926. He graduated from Johns Hopkins University Medical School in 1922.

A member of Phi Delta Theta Fraternity, he holds a number of fraternal and professional memberships, including the International College of Surgeons and he is a Diplomat of the American Board of Orthopedic Surgery. He is author of various publications relating to orthopedic surgery.

His wife is the former Edith Rothchild, who graduated from Goucher College in 1924. They have two daughters, Mrs. S. K. Ottenheimer, of Baltimore, and Mrs. Lawrence J. Davidson, of New Britain, Conn.

Observe Founders Day In Impressive Ceremonies

ACTIVE participation in Founders Day, 1957, by a direct descendant of Benjamin Rush and the conferring of an honorary doctorate upon Maj. Gen. Max Sherred Johnson, commandant of the Army War College, Carlisle Barracks, highlighted the celebration in early May of Dickinson's founding 184 years ago.

Dr. Alexander Rush, Philadelphia, a great, great grandson of Founder Rush, read a paper on his noted forebear at the special convocation in Bosler Hall at which Gen. Johnson received the Doctor of Laws degree from Dr. William W. Edel, president of the College, who presided over this and other events of the day.

Dr. Rush is a physician, as his ancestor was, and like the first Rush, he is a member of the faculty of the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine. He brought to the campus a perfectly preserved medicine chest, complete with original glass vials, which Benjamin Rush carried when calling upon his patients, and this made an unusual Founders Day exhibit.

The address was a sketch of the life of the man who was the most influential person in the affairs of the College for 30 years. Dr. Alexander Rush read excerpts from Rush letters to disprove the claim that Rush lacked a sense of humor and to show the warm, affectionate nature of the man, who could also be contentious. It was undoubtedly Rush's deep personal affection as well as his sense of the fitness of things that prompted him to initiate the steps that eventually led to a reconciliation of Thomas Jefferson and John Adams, then bitter political enemies, said Dr. Rush, who saw this final service of Rush to his nation in the closing years of his life as something that cannot be overestimated.

General Johnson in the degree citation read by Dr. Edel was referred to as a soldier-educator and diplomat whose service to the nation has been distinguished by many sensitive and strategic assignments in peace and war. The famous Army War College he commands is the Army's senior educational institution, located in recent years at Carlisle Barracks. Dr. Edel referred to the good-neighbor relations between Dickinson and the Barracks and said it was highly appropriate for the College to have the privilege of honoring the commandant at a time when Dickinson was observing the 184th year of its founding and the Barracks its bicentennial.

In an evening program, a paper on Alfred Victor duPont, French-born scion of the distinguished American industrial family, who was a student at the College in 1816, was read by Dr. Norman B. Wilkinson, associate director of the Eleutherian Mills-Hagely Foundation, in Wilmington, Del. The paper, entitled "Alfred Victor duPont, Dickinsonian," was the term's second Boyd Lee Spahr Lecture in Americana. It dealt with duPont's days at Dickinson and traced the founding and development of the duPont Company to 1836 when Alfred, then 40, succeeded as president his father, E. I. duPont, founder.

Dr. Wilkinson stressed the fact that it was the presence of the famous Thomas Cooper on the faculty that brought duPont to Dickinson and it was Cooper's applications of theoretical chemistry to the practical needs of men that was the core of Alfred's training. E. I. duPont had learned of Cooper's presence at Dickinson from Thomas Jefferson, friend of both of the men. In his regime, Alfred improved the company's practices for powdermaking; he converted to new means of power, from water wheels to turbines, and he developed safer methods of transporting gunpowder, then the chief product.

The full text of the citation read by Dr. Edel in presenting the degree to Gen. Johnson follows:

"Major General Max Sherred Johnson: as a soldier-educator and diplomat, your service to your country has been distinguished by some of the most sensitive and strategic assignments which any soldier has been called upon to perform.

"Following service in the front-line defense of the Free World, and in United States embassies abroad, you have served in the highest defense planning councils of our nation. From these far-flung duties your country has seen fit to return you to your native Pennsylvania where you are commandant of the Army's senior educational institution, the Army War College.

"In your current assignment you also represent Carlisle Barracks, a military post which shares with your good neighbor, Dickinson College, a proud history which goes back to Colonial America. It is highly appropriate that in this month of May, 1957, when Dickinson College celebrates the one hundred and eighty-fourth year of its founding and Carlisle Barracks its bicentennial, we are privileged to honor you."

Following custom, during the afternoon wreaths were placed on the grave of Dr. Charles Nisbet, first President of the College, and on that of Hugh Breckenridge, one of the founding Trustees. They are both buried in the Old Graveyard.

Returns To Pastorate

The Rev. Wayne E. North, '36, staff member of the Methodist Board of Evangelism in Nashville, Tenn., will leave the board July 1 to become pastor of Westlawn Methodist Church, Detroit, Mich., which has a membership of about 1,700.

He joined the Board of Evangelism staff four years ago and is now director of the board's department of district evangelism.

Before going to the Board of Evangelism, Mr. North served as pastor of Methodist churches in Avis, Sunbury and Mt. Carmel, Pa.

He is a graduate of the College and Westminster Theological Seminary, Westminster, Md. He also attended Drew University, Madison, N. J.

Priestley Celebration A Bright Day On Calendar

THE 1957 Priestley Day celebration at the College was another outstanding event that brought distinguished men of science to the campus and underscored anew the enrichment of America by gifted immigrants driven across the seas by the tyrannies of their homelands.

Speakers pointed out that the English-born Joseph Priestley, discoverer of oxygen in 1774, himself had come to these shores to dwell in a climate of fuller freedom. The Priestley Memorial Award, presented by Dickinson each year since 1952 to a scientist for service to mankind, went to Dr. Edward Teller, thermonuclear physicist and associate director of the Radiation Laboratory, Berkeley, Calif., who was driven from his native Hungary in 1935 by persecution. Dr. Teller has often been referred to as the architect of the hydrogen bomb. He is equally well known as a leader in the effort to apply thermonuclear principles to peaceful uses.

The contributions of such men to America were emphasized by Admiral Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission and honorary Dickinsonian. Introducing Dr. Teller for the award, he said he was happy to express the deep gratitude of the Government for the contributions by gifted emigrees across the years. But for the role of Dr. Teller "in councils of timidity and frustration" at a time when further pursuit of thermonuclear study for defense was an issue, our country would not be as strong as it is and Russia would be "on the march," said Admiral Strauss.

A handsome oil portrait of Priestley, the gift of Dr. C. Scott Althouse, Dickinson trustee, was accepted by Dr. William W. Edel, who presided, as another link between the College and Priestley. The painting, executed by Clayton Braund, New York artist, is a composite of a number of early Priestley portraits and shows the scientist seated at a desk with pen in hand and the famous double burning glass in the background. It was unveiled by a lineal descendant of Priestley, Miss Gina Ingoglia, Forest Hills, N. Y., a freshman at the College.

Dr. Teller in a brief address gave an up-to-date inventory of the bewildering number of "elementary particles" confronting the physicists as they probe more deeply into the mysteries of the atom's nucleus. The discovery of each new one "leaves us more bewildered than ever," he noted. "The complete tabulation of all elementary particles lies in the distant future, and I wonder whether it will be our children or grandchildren who will find the basic laws connecting all elementary particles," he said.

The National Cylinder Gas Company, Chicago, leading manufacturer of the life-giving gas discovered by Priestley, participated in the celebration again by providing the $1,000 check with which the award has been accompanied the past four years. W. Roberts Wood, Louisville, Ky., a vice-president, spoke for the firm. The award is a Wedgewood ceramic medallion of Priestley handsomely mounted in a mahogany frame and set off by a silver plate bearing the recipient's name.

Members of the Southeastern Pennsylvania Section, American Chemical Society, again attended the celebration dinner and the public presentation ceremony which followed.

Attend F & M Inauguration

President William W. Edel and Dr. Herbert Wing, Jr., attended the inauguration of Dr. Frederic D. Bolman as president of Franklin and Marshall College on April 6. Dr. Edel was the representative of the College and Dr. Wing the representative of the United Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa.

Professor William Sloan, of the Department of English, was the representative of his Alma Mater, Hamilton College.

Lycoming To Honor Two Dickinsonians

W. Earl Ledden

Two prominent Dickinsonians will receive honorary degrees at the 109th Lycoming College commencement on June 2 from Dr. D. Frederic Wertz, '37, president of that liberal arts college. They are Frank E. Masland, Jr., '18, and Bishop W. Earl Ledden, '10.

Masland, president of C. H. Masland & Sons, Inc., rug and carpet manufacturers, and vice-president of the board of trustees of Dickinson College, will receive the Doctor of Humanities degree. A former chairman of the board of the Carpet Institute, he is a regional vice-president and director of the National Association of Manufacturers. Reflecting his interest in conservation of national resources, he serves on the U. S. Interior Department's Advisory Board on National Parks, Historic Sites and Monuments.

Bishop Ledden has been bishop of the Syracuse area of the Methodist Church since his elevation to the bishopric in 1944 following 30 years in the pastoral ministry in New Jersey, New York and Rhode Island. He is president of the Council of Bishops, chairman of the interboard committee on missionary personnel and vice-president of the Board of

Frank E. Masland, Jr.

Evangelism and the Commission on Worship. He also serves on numerous other bodies of the Methodist Church.

Honor Dr. Chrisman

West Virginia Wesleyan's president, Dr. Stanley H. Martin, has announced that the Board of Trustees of the College voted to establish the Lewis H. Chrisman Chair of English Literature. In naming this chair, the Trustees are seeking to establish an endowment fund and when sufficient money is available—through special gifts and bequests—the recipient will be named.

Dr. Chrisman, who now teaches English literature on a part-time basis after officially retiring from the faculty last spring, went to Wesleyan in 1919. A prominent writer and lecturer, he served Wesleyan as acting dean in 1925-26.

He received a Ph.B. in 1908 upon his graduation from Dickinson College, an A.M. in 1909, and an honorary Doctor of Letters degree in 1920. He studied at the Universities of Pennsylvania, Michigan and Wisconsin, and, in 1948, he was awarded an honorary Doctor of Humane Letters degree from Wesleyan.

University of Penna. Honors Trustee of College

DR. CARL C. CHAMBERS, '29, received an Alumni Award of Merit at the annual Founders Day exercises of the University of Pennsylvania, held at Houston Hall Auditorium in January. He has been a trustee of Dickinson College since June, 1952.

The award was conferred upon him in recognition of his contributions to the "Moore School of Electrical Engineering and more recently, as vice-president of the University for Engineering Affairs."

Dr. Chambers has been a member of the faculty since 1933, when he was appointed as an instructor. He became assistant professor in 1938, associate professor four years later and a full professor in 1947. He has been dean since 1951. In 1953, he was appointed vice-president in charge of engineering affairs.

The citation read at the exercises when the award was conferred upon him was as follows: "Dr. Carl Covalt Chambers, '34 GrEE, you have contributed continuously and effectively to the development of the Moore School of Electrical Engineering and more recently, as vice-president of the University for Engineering Affairs, to the accelerated progress of Pennsylvania's engineering schools. Willingness to accept responsibility and continued interest in teaching and research have gained for you the personal friendship and respect of colleagues and students alike. You have carried on your father's record of distinguished service to Pennsylvania, and most especially have shown innate ability to analyze her problems, and to stimulate actions which solve them. You have thus been a progressive force not only in your University, but in your community and the engineering profession at large."

The reference in the citation saying "you have carried on your father's record of distinguished service," refers to Dr. George Gailey Chambers, of the Class of 1902. He was a member of the faculty of the University of Pennsylvania from 1908 until his death on October 24,

Carl C. Chambers

1953. He was first appointed as an instructor, advanced to assistant professor and was named Professor of Mathematics in the university in 1921 and in 1927 was given the same title in the graduate school. For years he served as a trustee of Dickinson College.

An internationally known scientist-educator, Dr. Chambers has served as a consultant and director of a number of engineering firms and has been the United State delegate to a number of conferences abroad.

The Chambers name has been long listed in the records of Dickinson College. Dr. George Gailey Chambers attended the old Dickinson Preparatory School and entered the College in 1898. Two of his daughters, Elizabeth, now Mrs. Reuben Sharp, was in the Class of 1924, and Ruth, who is the wife of Ellsworth Keller, '26, graduated the same year as her husband. Dr. Carl Chambers graduated in 1929 and his daughter, Nancy, who is now Mrs. Thomas Ranck, graduated in 1956.

Dr. and Mrs. Chambers live in Media, Pa., and have two other children, James Morrison and Elizabeth Gailey.

New Football and Wrestling Coaches Appointed

Donald Seibert

Charles R. Ream

THE appointment of two new coaches and the expansion of the intercollegiate athletic program of the College to include wrestling and cross-country were announced in March by President William W. Edel.

Donald Seibert, one of the most successful high school coaches in Central Pennsylvania and a former football captain at George Washington University, was named football coach to succeed Brit Piez, a member of the athletic staff for the past two years, who has resigned to enter business. Piez, who is also lacrosse coach, is finishing out the term.

An addition to the staff is Charles R. Ream, a University of Pittsburgh graduate, who has been coaching a number of sports at the high school in Wilkinsburg, a suburb of Pittsburgh. Ream will coach wrestling and a spring sport yet to be designated and will assist with football.

Dickinson will make its bow in wrestling and cross-country next term. Cross-country is not actually a new sport at the College, but is being reintroduced after a lapse of about 10 years. Joseph DuCharme, the basketball and track coach, will direct the distance runners.

In another athletic change, the College announced that freshmen will be eligible for all varsity sports, starting next Fall. Until now, freshmen have had their own schedules in football and basketball, but could compete in swimming and the spring sports on varsity basis.

Seibert, the new football mentor, is 35 years old and a native of Hanover, Pa., where he played on a championship high school basketball team and won all-conference honors as a fullback. He was co-captain of the George Washington University eleven in 1942 and graduated the following June. He holds his master's degree in physical education from Columbia University. He was in the Marine Corps in World War II.

Seibert began his coaching career in 1945 at Boiling Springs High School, near Carlisle, and successfully introduced football there. In 1949, he went to Mechanicsburg High School as an assistant in football and in 1953 accepted his present position as head coach at Middletown High School where his record for four years is 24 victories, 13 defeats and three ties. His 1956 team was his best, losing only one game in 10.

At Dickinson, he will have the faculty rank of assistant professor in the department of physical education. His duties begin in August when the team assembles for pre-season practice. He is married and the father of three children.

Ream, the other new appointment, is 29 years old and a native of Johnstown, Pa. He graduated from Pitt in 1952 with a B.S. in health education and received a master's degree there the next year. He is the author of a copyrighted book, "It's Fun to Learn to Swim," published in 1954, and an article, "Recreation for the Blind," in the International Magazine for the Blind.

While still a student at Pitt he served as a football assistant at Johnstown Catholic High School for two years and as athletic director and coach at the Western Pennsylvania School for Blind Children for three years. He has been at Wilkesburg High School since 1954 as wrestling and track coach and football aide. One of his wrestlers was the only high school athlete in the state to become a champion in the Eastern Olympic trials. The 1955 Wilkesburg track team was undefeated and won the Western Pennsylvania title.

Ream will have the faculty rank of instructor. He is married to the former Marian Cover, Winchester, Va.

In New School Post

Jack H. Caum, '34, has been appointed junior high school principal of the Krebs School in Newport, Del., effective August 1. Since 1953 he has been principal of the Colwyck School and for the past two years has been an instructor in the extension service with the University of Delaware.

A native of Altoona and a graduate of the high school there, he received his degree from the College in 1934 and a Master's degree from the University of Pennsylvania in 1938. His career was interrupted by service in the Naval Reserve and he continues as a training officer for the Delaware Battalion with the rank of Commander.

A past president of the Delaware State Education Association and of the New Castle County Education Association, he is a life member and a past vice-president of the National Education Association. He is also a member of the Delaware Round-table of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Active in Dickinson affairs, he is a member of the Alumni Council and a Life Member of the General Alumni Association and president of the Dickinson Club of Delaware.

He married Mary D. Prince, '35, the daughter of the late Professor Leon C. Prince, '98. He and his wife and their daughter and two sons live in Silview, Del.

Fine Dinner At York

The Dickinson Club of York held a successful dinner-meeting March 19 when 55 alumni and guests, including parents of a number of Dickinson students, gathered in the First Methodist Church, the Rev. Edgar A. Henry, '27, pastor.

The following new officers were elected: George W. Atkins, '30, president; J. Richard Budding, '32, vice-president; Mary McCrone Waltman, '29, secretary-treasurer, and Rev. Henry, chaplain. Arrangements for the affair were made by Earl M. Schroeder, '26, a former club president.

One of the speakers from the College was Prof. Ralph Schecter of the English Department, who said that the job of higher education is to draw out the best in the student as a help toward realization of his greatest potential. "No school can do this better than the small liberal arts college," he said.

Prof. Benjamin D. James, dean of admissions, asked that alumni everywhere help the College in its recruitment program. He said Dickinson is interested in the high school graduate who has shown qualities of leadership as well as high scholarship. Other speakers were George Shuman, Jr., financial vice-president of the College, and Homer M. Respass, '17, Baltimore, vice-president of the General Alumni Association.

Large Attendance At Philadelphia Club Dinner

A GAIN this year, there was a large turnout of Dickinsonians at the annual dinner of the Dickinson Club of Philadelphia when there were 148 present at the Rolling Green Country Club in Springfield on the night of April 30. It was the first time the club held a function there.

After a social hour, an excellent dinner was served by William E. Kurtzhaltz, '36, who has won renown as a caterer. C. Wendell Holmes, president of the General Alumni Association, offered the invocation.

Following the dinner, the 32-voiced Men's Glee Club of the College gave a half hour program which was finely received.

James L. McIntire, '35, president of the club and an officer of the Atlantic Refining Company, officiated as toastmaster until the election of officers. He made a speech of welcome and thanked an efficient committee for what they had done.

J. Milton Davidson, '33, chairman of the Annual Giving Fund and sales manager of Pennsylvania Salt, was introduced and he presented the "Order of the Mermaid" on three class agents, who had each done a fine job in 1956. The certificate awards were given to Murray H. Spahr, '12; Harry C. Zug, '34, and Christian C. F. Spahr, '33.

C. Weston Overholt, '50, was elected president; Winfield C. Cook, '32, vice-president, and Mary Ellen Irwin, '53, secretary-treasurer, in the brief business session which followed.

"Jim" McIntire then turned over the gavel to Wes Overholt, who introduced Prof. John C. Pflaum, of the Department of History, as the principal speaker. After his address, President W. W. Edell spoke briefly and presented a certificate of membership in "The 25 Year Club" and a Hamilton watch to Boyd Lee Spahr, '00, president of the Board of Trustees, who has been a member of the Board for nearly 40 years. Gilbert Malcolm then closed the speaking program.

Becomes Consultant in Insurance Association

RICHARD N. BOULTON, '37, recently sales promotion manager for Phoenix Mutual, joined the Life Insurance Agency Management Association as consultant in the company relations division in Marcy. He will consult with companies, serve on the faculty of LIAMA Schools, and contribute to LIAMA publications for agents and managers.

With ten years in Phoenix Mutual's agency department, Mr. Boulton brought to the Association a strong agency background with emphasis on prospecting and market development. Originator of the company's monthly bulletin on prospecting tips, he has conducted prospecting clinics throughout the country.

Active in the Life Advertisers Association, Mr. Boulton was director of a recent sales promotion workshop in New York City. He participated in the LAA direct mail seminar last fall in New Orleans and appeared on the Eastern Round Table program in March. For three years he served on LAA's educational committee, and he is presently a member of the public relations committee of the National Association of Life Underwriters.

A graduate of the College in 1937, he is a well-known lecturer in American history. His best known talk is on the "Salesman in American Folklore."

In 1952 he was awarded the professional designation of Chartered Life Underwriter. He is a graduate of LIAMA's 126th School in Agency Management and of the LUTC pilot course in Accident and Sickness.

A major in the Military Intelligence Reserve, he saw considerable active service during World War II including duty with Filipino guerrillas.

Appointed Common Pleas Judge In Dauphin County

J. DOUGLAS M. ROYAL, '17L, was appointed the fifth judge of the Common Pleas Court of Dauphin County by Governor George Leader and inducted into office last month.

He was sworn in by Chief Justice Charles A. Jones, '10L, of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, on April 30 in the presence of Governor Leader, members of the court, State officers and many members of the bar and friends.

The Legislature created another judgeship of common pleas to which the new jurist was appointed. On the bench he joins other Dickinsonians, Judges Walter R. Sohn, '12, Homer L. Kreider, '21, and Paul G. Smith, '08L. Judge Karl E. Richards, '10, is the sole Orphans Court judge in Dauphin County.

It was unusually appropriate that Justice Jones administered the oath. He and Judge Royal are both graduates of Williams College and the Dickinson School of Law.

A native of Harrisburg and a graduate of the old Harrisburg High School, Judge Royal is the son of the late John K. Royal, who served the city as mayor. He served two terms, 1932-1940, as a commissioner of Dauphin County, and held every elective office in the Dauphin County Bar Association, of which he is a past president.

While a student at law school, he was a reporter for The Patriot, of Harrisburg, and later became city editor. During World War II, when there was a great scarcity of newspapermen, he returned to the city desk on that paper until the end of the war.

Judge Royal and his family are active members of Salem Evangelical and Reformed Church of Harrisburg. He is a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity, a Past Master and for the past five years secretary of Perseverance Lodge No. 21, F. & A. M. of Harrisburg. He is also a member of Perseverance Chapter and the Commandery.

His wife is the former Mary H. Jeffer-

J. Douglas M. Royal

son. They have two sons, John M. Royal, who is in the sales department of Eastman Kodak at Rochester, N. Y., and Douglas D. Royal, who is an attorney at Wayne, Pa. His brother, Donald K. Royal, graduated from the law school in 1927 and is practicing in Harrisburg.

Becomes Borough Manager

Ivan L. Carter, Jr., '50, an employee of the borough since 1946, was elected borough manager of Carlisle in April.

A native of Carlisle and a graduate of the high school, he is the son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. I. L. Carter, who now reside in Venice, Fla., and a brother of Dr. Joseph H. Carter, '49, who is practicing medicine in Erie, Pa.

"Jack," as he was nicknamed by his parents years ago, has worked under three borough managers. He has studied sanitary engineering and also attended Virginia Polytechnic Institute. He first worked part-time for the borough while attending college after service with the Army in World War II.

His wife is the former Barbara Corliss, of Boston. They have a 10-year-old son, Ivan L. Carter, III.

Harrisburg Club Has Another Fine Annual Dinner

A GOOD program, a good dinner and the presence of nearly 100 Dickinsonians marked the annual dinner of the Dickinson Club of Harrisburg held at the West Shore Country Club, Camp Hill, on May 2.

William D. Caldwell, '48, president of the club, did an efficient job as master of ceremonies. Dr. Edgar S. Finck, of the College faculty, offered the invocation.

Following the dinner, the Men's Glee Club of the College gave a half hour program, which won the plaudits of all present. Before they sang to conserve time, Caldwell disposed of the election of officers and recognition of many who were present.

Among those who took a bow at his direction were Victoria Hann, Dean of Women; Prof. John Pflaum; Richard H. McAndrews, George Shuman, Jr., and Prof. D. Fenton Adams, of the Law School faculty. He also presented four trustees, Paul L. Hutchison, E. F. Masland, Jr., Judge Karl E. Richards and Judge Robert E. Woodside.

C. Wendell Holmes, president of the General Alumni Association, reported on the work of the Alumni Council and then made two presentations in behalf of the chairman of the Annual Giving Fund. He awarded the "Order of the Mermaid" to Dr. Howard E. Moses, '98, and to William M. Young, '21, for faithfully performing their duties as Class Agent in 1956.

Paul R. Walker, '21, introduced Dr. Herbert Wing, Jr., Robert Coleman Professor of History and Head of the Department, who was the principal speaker. As a member of the faculty since 1915, he was able to tell of "Changes at Dickinson" as he contrasted the College of that year and the Dickinson of today. The final speech was a short one by Gilbert Malcolm.

John D. Hopper, '48, was elected president. He and the others named for two-year terms were Howell C. Mette, '48, vice-president; Robertson C. Cameron, '28, vice-president, and John A. Roe, '48, secretary-treasurer.

The Harrisburg Club always names a large Executive Committee, which is really a committee for the next year's annual dinner. Those elected were William W. Caldwell, '48; William M. Young, '21; Paul R. Walker, '21; John F. Morgenthaler, '21; Mary Ann Spence, '51; Mary Chronister Rhein, '32; Sara Rohrer West, '32; Arthur R. Mangan, '37; Robert J. Trace, '36; Thomas D. Caldwell, Jr., '49, and J. Emanuel Meyers, '37.

Ministry Attracts Notice

The Rev. Ralph L. Minker, Jr., '47, and the Atlantic Methodist Church, Ocean City, Md., of which he is the pastor, were featured in a quarter-page picture and write-up in the Washington Evening Star recently. The paper described the unusual development of a church program at a summer vacation resort. Special attention was directed to the 7:00 a.m. "early bird" service on Sunday, attended primarily by college coeds who work in Ocean City during the summer as waitresses and who attend the church before beginning their work.

Another feature has been the fact that the Rev. Mr. Minker has been able to secure outstanding speakers for a series of week-night programs on the general theme of religion and public affairs during the summer which are very well attended. The speakers announced to date for the summer of 1957 include Pastor Martin Niemoeller, of Germany; the Honorable Theodore R. McKeldin, Governor of Maryland, and the Honorable J. Ernest Wilkins, Assistant Secretary of Labor and chairman of the Judicial Council of the Methodist Church.

The Ocean City pastor has also been honored by election to the Board of Directors of the Maryland-Delaware Council of Churches and Christian Education. He recently was elected president of the Rotary Club for 1957-58.

Navy's First Woman Physician Becomes Captain

FRANCES LOIS WILLOUGHBY, M.D., '27, was promoted to the rank of Captain in the Medical Corps of the United States Navy in February. The date of rank is dated back to 1 July 1955.

Capt. Willoughby is staff psychiatrist at the United States Naval Hospital in Philadelphia. Two other Dickinsonians are on the staff. They are Lt. Comdr. Benjamin Hughes, '40, USN, Chaplain, and Lt. J. T. Whitmore, '51, USNR, who is serving his internship.

The promotion ceremony in the Naval Hospital was marked by the presentation of a pair of coveted silver eagles, emblem of the rank, to Capt. Willoughby by Capt. C. L. Ferguson, commanding officer.

She was sworn into the U. S. Naval Reserve in February, 1944, and entered the regular Navy as a LCDR in 1948, becoming not only the first woman in the regular Navy Medical Corps but for nearly a year the only woman physician in the Armed Forces.

A member of the neuropsychiatric staff at her present station since 1949, she is certified in psychiatry by the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology and is a Fellow of the American Psychiatric Association. When she joined the Navy 13 years ago it was not her intention to make it a career. The challenging nature of her work brought about a change of mind, and she has never regretted the decision, she says.

culture of plants and retired ten years ago. His home is now at 14 West Bay Street, Barnegat, N. J., where he lives with his wife, the former Kate Northrop, '05.

To Confer Degrees

For the first time in its history, the Dickinson School of Law will confer honorary degrees at its commencement exercises on June 1 in the mall of the Sadler Curtilage.

Recipients will be Bishop Fred P. Corson, '17, head of the Philadelphia area of the Methodist Church and a former president of the College, and David F. Maxwell, Philadelphia, president of the American Bar Association, who will deliver the address.

A. J. White Hutton, a teacher at the Law School from 1902 until his retirement in 1951, will be awarded a citation for "distinguished public service." The institution will open commencement activities May 31 with an alumni banquet in honor of the graduating class. A central organization of alumni will be formed at that time.

Co-Ed Presides Over Baltimore Club Dinner

By ELIZABETH TIPTON, Secretary

DICKINSONIANS and friends who live in the vicinity of Baltimore met "80 strong" at the Lovely Lane Methodist Church for the annual dinner on the night of February 21. On hand to welcome everyone were the following officers: Martha Lee Weis, president; Robert C. Respass, vice president; Edna Ruth Miller, vice president; Elizabeth Tipton, secretary; and Henry C. Engel, treasurer. As official host and hostess for Lovely Lane, the Reverend and Mrs. Kenneth Rose, the pastor and his wife, greeted the guests.

Everyone enjoyed the get-acquainted buffet and a turkey dinner, with all the "fixin's," served by the ladies of Lovely Lane. The program was presented by Martha Lee Weis, the first "Co-ed" to preside over a Baltimore Dinner. She introduced the following young men from Dickinson: William Haupt, Wm. Rogers and Walter Barnes, who sang several appropriate selections, the last of which was Alma Mater. The secretary read a report of the activities for the year and Edna Ruth Miller told of the fine work done by the Mary Dickinson Club of Baltimore. Then the president called on Homer Repess, vice president of the Alumni Council. He inspired everyone with his genuine Dickinson spirit and enthusiasm. Other Dickinsonians recognized were the oldest and youngest graduates, the class with the most members present, trustees of the College, and members of the Alumni Council.

The president asked for the slate of officers named by the nominating committee consisting of Homer Respass, Austin Biddle, Austin Brizendine, and Martha Lee Weis. The following were nominated and elected as officers for the coming year: President, Henry C. Engel, Jr., '53; vice president, Robert Respass, '41; vice president, Elizabeth Tipton, '30; secretary, James C. McGohan, '54; treasurer, the Rev. Elmer L. Kimmel, '36.

The first guest from Dickinson to be presented was Professor Ralph Schecter who spoke on the topic, "A Small College." Dickinsonians who know him and the guests who were meeting him for the first time received his message with deep appreciation for he made everyone feel close to Dickinson. Dr. William W. Edel was the next guest to be presented and he outlined the latest plans for improvements on the campus. To round off the evening, Dr. Gilbert Malcolm spoke some well-phrased "Malcolmisms" and closed his speech with readings from Burns.

Meet in Reading

Prof. Benjamin D. James, dean of admissions, was the principal speaker at the annual dinner of the Dickinson Club of Reading-Berks held on April 1 in the Holiday House, Reading, Pa., when '43 were present. He spoke on "Admissions, Past, Present and Future."

Llewellyn R. Bingaman, '31, president of the Club, did a fine job as toastmaster. Horace F. Shepard, '20, offered the invocation. Before the speaking program, a trio from the College, composed of William Haupt, Walter Barnes and William Rogers, sang and were well received.

Other speakers were C. Wendell Holmes, president of the General Alumni Association, George Shuman, Jr., and Gilbert Malcolm.

Mrs. W. Richard Eshelman, the former Mary Mackie, '43, and her mother-in-law, Mrs. William L. Eshelman, arranged lovely table decorations of greens, forsythia and yellow candles.

Receives Award For Service In Social Work

A MERITORIOUS scroll for exceptional service to the people of New Mexico was presented to Miss Alice M. Folsom, '31, by the New Mexico chapter, American Association of Social Workers, at a ceremony in March in Albuquerque.

Miss Folsom has been child adoption consultant with the New Mexico Department of Welfare, in Santa Fe, since 1952 and was recently requested to submit biographical material for the 1957 "Who's Who in New Mexico." She is the daughter of Dr. Benjamin W. Folsom, one-time associate professor of public speaking at the College, who died in 1940.

She was cited by award ceremony speakers for achievement in advancing public and legislative interest in and understanding of adoption problems in her state and the need for sound legislative action. Her work, it was noted, has resulted in increased respect for and acceptance of the social worker's profession and in social betterment in the state.

In her work in New Mexico, Miss Folsom has direct supervision of the agency adoption program. She began her career in social work in 1934 as a case supervisor with the Wisconsin Emergency Relief Administration and in 1942 became a field worker with the Wisconsin School for Dependent and Neglected Children. She was superintendent of the Evanston Receiving Home of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society from 1942 to 1945 and superintendent and executive director of the Peoria Children's Home, Illinois, from 1946 until taking her present position in New Mexico. She cites a great need for social workers throughout the country.

Her own interest in the field began while still a student at Dickinson under the late Dr. Gaylord H. Patterson, social science department chairman for many years, and on his recommendation she went to Western Reserve University, in Ohio, for graduate study. She received a master's degree in social work administration there in 1933.

Writes A Reading Book On Japan For Children

WHILE she has contributed numerous articles to various periodicals, and written nine manuals for use in missionary education, Mrs. Fred V. McDonnell, the former Lois B. Eddy, '35, has produced her first book. Hana's New Home, a reading book on Japan for primary children, was published by Friendship Press, New York, and came off the press in March.

The book is 125 pages and tells the story of a rural Japanese family who moves to the city where the father has found employment. Far from the sheltered home of the grandfather, little Hana, her father and mother; her six-year-old brother Taro; five-year-old Kiyō, her sister and Baby Boya all make important discoveries in the strange city.

Dorothy Papy, a young artist, who is also assistant book designer for Friendship Press, did an excellent job with the jacket and the illustrations throughout the book.

Mrs. McDonnell has written two vacation church school texts and nine manuals for Abingdon and Friendship Press. For the latter, she wrote two primary teacher's guides, one on American Indians and one on India, Pakistan and Ceylon. The manual for use with primary children in additional sessions, Finding Christian Friends in the Philippines, is being used in present missionary emphasis.

During the past 15 years, Mrs. McDonnell has written curriculum material and contributed numerous articles to a variety of periodicals—Child Guidance in Christian Living, Christian Home, Pictures and Stories, Church School, International Journal.

Because of her writings, she is in constant demand as a speaker or teacher. She has taught in a number of leadership schools, laboratory classes, workshops and conferences in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Virginia, Tennessee, North Carolina and Florida. She is also a member of the Central Pennsylvania Conference Board of Education and serves on the Children's Council.

In addition to teaching in Allison Methodist Church, Carlisle, she has worked with the television committee of the United Churches of Harrisburg. The primary department of Allison has done two series for the program it sponsors.

Mrs. McDonnell is the daughter of Prof. and Mrs. Milton W. Eddy and the wife of Fred V. McDonnell, '37. They have two children, Mary who is 12 and Mickey, who is 10.

Following her graduation from the College in 1935, Lois received her M.A. from Columbia University where her major was younger childhood education. She has also studied at Pennsylvania State University. Last summer she attended the seminar on the Church and Family Life at the School of Theology, Boston University.

For eight years she taught first grade in the public schools of Carlisle. During that time and in the years since she has served as a teacher and superintendent of the primary department, superintendent of the children's division, and director of the vacation church school at Allison Church.

Goes to South Africa In Pulpit Exchange

ONE OF the longest distance pulpit exchanges on record began last month when the Rev. Dr. Lowell M. Atkinson, '32, left to preach at the Methodist Church in Durban, South Africa, and the Rev. Stanley B. Sudbury, pastor of that church, came to this country to occupy Dr. Atkinson's pulpit at the First Methodist Church in Englewood, N. J.

Each minister flew to the other's city, lives in his parsonage and will fulfill as far as possible his pastoral duties for a month. Special events and appointments to speak at general religious meetings, service organizations and educational institutions are being arranged at both ends of the exchange.

Pulpit exchanges have been made between Great Britain and the United States over a number of years, and there have been a few instances involving Germany and at least one between the United States and Austria.

This, however, is the first extension of the exchange plan to one of the other independent, autonomous Methodist bodies, the Methodist Church of South Africa.

The exchange is an expression of the growing ecumenical spirit and is intended to result in increased understanding and mutual appreciation of the traditions, problems and achievements of the two branches of Methodism involved.

The exchange is being financed by Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Parlin of Englewood in the interest of promoting inter-continental understanding. Mr. Parlin is chairman of the Committee on Interpretation and Support of the World Council of Churches, and a member of its Central Committee. He is secretary of the Commission on Church Union of the Methodist Church and was one of the delegation of churchmen to visit Russian church leaders in 1956. He is a senior member of a Wall Street firm of lawyers.

Dr. Atkinson graduated from the College in 1932 and holds bachelor of divinity, master of arts and doctor of philosophy degrees from Drew University. He has also studied at the University of Birmingham, England, and at Mansfield College, Oxford University. He is a frequent contributor to religious periodicals including Christian World Pulpit. He has served previous pastorates in Roselle, Hackensack and Elizabeth and was interim preacher in 1949 at the Marston Road Congregational Church in Oxford, England.

Dr. Sudbury was president of the Methodist Church of South Africa for the year ending October, 1956, and was a delegate to the World Methodist Conference at Lake Junaluska last September.

Mrs. Atkinson and Mrs. Sudbury accompany their husbands on the trip.

Serves As Delegate

George Landis, '20, served as the delegate of Dickinson College at the inauguration of Alfred Bryan Bonds, Jr., as president of Baldwin-Wallace College on April 26 at Berea, O. He is president of the Dickinson Club of Cleveland and vice-president of the Lincoln Electric Company of that city.

Would You Like To Get More Reading Done?

A Review by PROF. DONALD T. GRAFFAM

HOW would you like to pack more hours into the work day? Putting it differently, how would you like to get more reading done in less time?

This is a problem faced by many professional men and women, business executives, and housewives today. As conflicting demands for their time multiply, and as the lists of "must" reading get longer, it becomes more necessary for educated people to increase their reading speed and comprehension.

A timely aid to all who feel the need of stepping up their reading efficiency has been produced recently by Dickinsonian Paul W. Leedy, '30, now a member of the New York University's famed Reading Institute: Reading Improvement for Adults (McGraw-Hill Book Company, 1956. 456 pp. $5.95).

It is a strange fact that the American people learn to read as a matter of formal instruction through grade six, and after that they read to learn. Only a moment's reflection should be required to realize that the slow, plodding type of skills imparted during these early years in school are grossly inadequate for the high-speed reading skills needed by older students and adults who find themselves deluged with reading matter. Dr. Leedy's book will be a welcome tool in the hands of such people.

The approach is a practical one that has been tested successfully during the author's many years of experience as a college teacher, and as supervisor of adult reading at N. Y. U.'s Reading Institute. In the first place it is a self-sufficient tool not requiring any of the expensive gadgets or complicated machines found in reading centers—although it can be adapted to them if such are available. In the second place each of the 20 chapters is a complete unit of instruction equal to a two-hour class session, ranging from "You Can Improve Your Reading" (Ch. 1) or "Higher Speed with Less

Paul W. Leedy

Effort" (Ch. 7) to Skimming—Key to Rapid Reading (Ch. 9), "Reading a Technical Report" (Ch. 18), and "Word Power" (Ch. 20). By following the rules and doing the exercises and self-tests, the average reader can double his reading speed and even improve his comprehension rate at the same time.

In the third place, a uniform structure of learning is followed throughout the book. Each chapter consists of (1) a practical analysis of a reading problem common to most people; (2) practice exercises for the application of principles; (3) a section on perceptual training (increasing the eye span, spontaneous recognition of words and phrases, etc.), (4) two informative selections for self-testing in speed and comprehension.

These features combine to make Prof. Leedy's book one which stands alone in a new and important area of human efficiency.

When it first appeared the book received prominent mention in the New York Times and Business Week. A notice of it appeared in the highly selective Booklist, a publication for librarians.

In 1943-44, Prof. Leedy was a member of the College faculty. After serving Methodist pastorates in Pennsylvania and New York, he joined the faculty of New York University in 1944 in the School of Education. He then taught four years in the Newark College of Arts and Sciences and concurrently with teaching was pastor of Wesley Methodist Church, East Orange, N. J., 1949-53. Since 1950 he has been a professor at the Reading Institute of New York University supervising the college-adult reading programs.

Since his graduation from the College in 1930, he has done graduate work in N. Y. U. and received his M.A. from the University of Pennsylvania in 1939. In 1952 he was co-author of The Wonderful World of Books, published by Houghton-Mifflin.

Interested in Dickinson affairs, he is a Life Member of the General Alumni Association. A Mason, he holds the DeMolay Legion of Honor and memberships in the Andiron Club of New York and the International Reading Association.

His wife is the former Irene B. Force, of Middletown, Pa. They have a 16-year-old son, Thomas Force Leedy.

Meet In Spain

The world is sometimes a small one for Dickinsonians, wrote Hermann Stucke, of Heidelberg, Germany, from Spain after a meeting there with Jose Maria Ortiz, of Madrid. They were students together at Dickinson last term.

In a letter to Prof. Margaret Ramos of the modern languages department, Stucke wrote that he and Ortiz reminisced about their days in Dickinson and Carlisle. He is in Madrid for about ten months to brush up on his Spanish. The young German hopes to return to the U. S. to do graduate work in economics "if I can get a scholarship." Otherwise, he plans to study at the London School of Economics.

Altoona Club Meets

By DR. GEORGE HENRY KETTERER,
Secretary

The Dickinson College Club of Altoona held its annual dinner at Taylor's on April 12, with over 30 present.

The president, Raymond N. Hoffman, presided over the brief business meeting and the speaking program following the dinner. Grace was said by Dr. Herbert W. Glassco.

Officers were elected for the coming year: president, Raymond N. Hoffman, '30; vice-president, Mrs. Martha E. Gieg, '37; secretary, George Henry Ketterer, '08, and treasurer, George K. Cox, '40.

The president introduced the following speakers from Dickinson College: George Shuman, Jr., financial vice-president, who reported on the progress of the Alumni Annual Giving Fund which has reached $80,000 and who presented the Royal Order of the Mermaid award to Judge John M. Klepser and Dr. George Henry Ketterer for their work as class agents for the fund; Professor Benjamin D. James, director of admissions, who spoke on admissions and the General Motors scholarships and the National Merit Scholarship; Professor Ralph Schecter of the English Department who delivered the main address on "A Small College"; Gilbert Malcolm, vice-president of Dickinson, who spoke about Life Memberships in the General Alumni Association, the proposed plans for the erection of the new chemistry and related sciences building, the progress of the new Allison Memorial Church and Dickinson College chapel building and the presentation of engraved watch awards at a dinner, held on March 8, honoring 37 who have served the College as members of the faculty, personnel staff for 25 years or more. Dr. Malcolm announced that the present enrollment at Dickinson is 917.

Contrasts Vedanta Philosophy and Christian Gospel

"THE INEVITABLE CHOICE" by Edmund Davison Soper. Abingdon Press $2.50. A Review by Dr. Lewis Guy Rohrbaugh, '07, Thomas Bowman Professor Emeritus of Philosophy and Religion.

A TIMELY book, The Inevitable Choice, by a well known Dickinsonian, Dr. Edmund Davison Soper, '98, has just been released by the Abingdon Press. The title suggests a choice must be made between the Christian Gospel and the Vedanta philosophy of Hinduism. Christianity has had many rivals through the years, but it now faces its strongest challenge. Many Westerners have been intrigued by the viewpoints of modern Hinduism and Buddhism, especially the Japanese Zen sect of Buddhism, but it is the Vedanta philosophy of India which gives greatest concern—as represented by the Ramakrishna Mission. The monks of this Neo-Hinduism are highly educated and intelligent and thus are commending themselves to the intelligentsia of France, Great Britain and the United States. There are centers located in twelve large cities in America. Here is Christianity's most subtle and powerful opponent, and it is this movement which is given particular attention in this book.

Dr. Soper has spent much of his life studying and teaching in the area of the great religions of the world, and is thus advantageously equipped with the vision and knowledge necessary to alert Christian leaders to the important task which lies ahead.

While the Vedanta and other modern Hindu movements have modified the basic teachings of the original sources, the Upanishads and the Bhagavad-Gita, nevertheless they have inextricably integrated into their systems the fundamental doctrines of these ancient writings.

The Upanishads teach there is but one reality in the universe, the Absolute or All, called Brahman. Really, Brahman is the entire universe and the entire universe is Brahman. This is a dominant idea in the Vedanta and sounds like pantheism. It definitely is a monistic philosophy. And so, in Hinduism versus Christianity we have a monistic philosophy versus a theistic faith.

While this monistic doctrine is very basic in Hinduism, theistic conceptions are found in modern movements. For instance, the Brahmo Samaj is based on belief in one God. The founder of this movement was a Unitarian and today the Brahmo Samaj is in fellowship with the Unitarians of the United States.

Two doctrines continue to be important in the revival of Hinduism—transmigration and Karma. The founder of the Ramakrishna Mission says that Karma is the law of causation—inevitable cause and effect. Karma teaches that all persons are subject to an endless succession of lives and each existence is determined by deeds in previous lives. Salvation is release from the necessity of being born again, and complete emancipation comes with losing one's individuality by absorption in an attributeless Brahman. All this makes Karma to be deterministic. It abolishes freedom and makes for a pessimistic outlook. Some modifications by later Indian writers tend to soften the harshness of this teaching.

The Christian, in seeking salvation, agrees with the Hindu emphasis on spirituality and also stresses the importance of works, devotion or faith, and knowledge, but is not in harmony with the ultimate objective in the search for salvation.

As in Christianity, we find the doctrine of incarnation in modern Hinduism. Rama and Krishna are incarnations of the great god Vishnu. But since the Hindu has no regard for history or time, it makes no difference whether Rama or Krishna ever lived or not.

With the Christian, it matters greatly whether Christ ever lived. Christianity is an historical religion and is grounded in historical events. Only if Christ has lived could there be an explanation of the influences which are believed to have emanated from him. God through Christ has done something for mankind in time and these facts have made a difference in the world. If history does not count and if time is not real, we live only in a dream world.

According to the Ramakrishna Mission, man is essentially divine, he is God. But his actual status among his fellows is determined by his position in the caste system. In Christian doctrine man is a creature, dependent upon God. In relation to God he is a recipient, God the giver and sustainer. Christianity represents a loyalty or commitment to a person, to Jesus Christ as Saviour, as Lord and Master. This is a very important fact in Christian doctrine and in itself constitutes a pronouncement against the belief that all religions are essentially the same.

The Mission monk aims to clarify the Christian's thought, to make him a better Christian, through the teachings of the Vedanta. In this he feels that the Christian need not renounce his faith. But here the Mission leader falls short of understanding Christianity. Incorporating the basic beliefs of one system into that of the other would mean the loss of identity for both. There are interesting agreements between religions, which point to an emanation from one true Source, but the differences also demonstrate that the Vedanta is in error in teaching the essential unity of all religions.

In this book the author presents the facts from the standpoints of the East and the West in clear and scholarly fashion, and makes a good case for the belief that the Christian gospel and the Vedanta are irreconcilable, and the interested religionist must make The Inevitable Choice.

Other noteworthy books by Dr. Soper are The Religions of Mankind and The Philosophy of the Christian World Mission.

Heads Scientific Council

Dr. W. Albert Strong, '40, resident of Barberton, Ohio, research chemist and member of the American Chemical Society, has been elected president of the Akron Council of Engineering and Scientific Societies for 1957.

Following his graduation from the College, he received his doctorate in 1944 from Pennsylvania State University. He then spent two years on a post-doctorate assistantship on streptomycin at the University of Illinois. Since 1947 he has been a research chemist in the organic group at Columbia-Southern Chemical Corporation.

Interested in the Boy Scouts, he is chairman of the Leadership Training Committee of the Barberton District. He is also a member of Barberton Toastmasters and the Barberton Police Reserve. Continuing his interest in music he is a member of the Doctor's Orchestra in the Ohio city.

Start Building Program

Three Dickinsonians participated in ground-breaking ceremonies in January for an enlarged Sanctuary and new educational plant at the Bethesda Methodist Church, Bethesda, Md., where the Rev. Marion S. Michael, '39, serves as minister. Participating with him were the Rev. Dr. S. Carroll Coale, '08, Associate Minister of the Church, and the Rev. Dr. Asbury Smith, '23, Superintendent of the Washington West District.

The Bethesda Church has a membership of 1,700 and a church school in excess of 1,400. The enlarged sanctuary will provide seating for 120 more and will have a larger chancel. The renovations and the new building will cost more than $300,000.

In spite of the greater facilities, the congregation will continue to have two morning worship services.

Turns Landlubbers Into Sea Dogs

By DEAN M. HOFFMAN, '02

WILLIAM S. STEPHENS, '26, has been chosen commander of District 23, United States Power Squadron, covering all squadrons in Florida from Jacksonville to Vero Beach and inland to Orlando. The USPS is a national organization aiming to make "sea dogs" out of "landlubbers"—and it succeeds.

Bill Stephens' rise to his present post was inevitable. As a boy he went to Maine with his father, Professor Henry M. Stephens, who headed the biology department, Professor "Bill" Landsey, head of chemistry and other Dickinson teachers whose summer rendezvous was Swan's Island off the Maine Coast. Salt water inoculated him. It still does.

With his wife, Clara Pepper Stephens, '27, and his family, Bill's home is aboard yachtboat "Tortoise," moored in the yacht basin at Daytona Beach, Fla., a long stone's throw from the landside resident of his wife's father, Dr. Ramey Pepper, '02, and Mrs. Pepper.

Bill never could be happy ashore. He did a job as a forester and nursery operator and at one time was the college superintendent of grounds and buildings, but the lure of the water was insatiable. From his days along the Susquehanna, he was aboard one kind of boat or another all the while.

In World War II, he was with the U. S. Coast Guard stationed in Philadelphia. He did educational work for the Lancaster flotilla of the Guard and became commander of the Susquehannock Power Squadron.

Ultimately he moved to Florida where year 'round house-boating is a familiar fact. It wasn't long until the "Tortoise" came into his possession. In Daytona, Stephens held a number of positions, but the "tug of the tide" was persistent. To him it was stupid to live aboard a houseboat and not deal with boats in working hours. So now he is superintendent of a big boat works on the Halifax River at Daytona.

William S. Stephens

But this bread and butter job is just a side-line. His principal mission in life is to promote the work of the Power Squadron, teaching and being otherwise helpful to aspiring mariners, young or old, salt water or fresh. For many years he headed the squadron unit at Daytona. When for purposes of administration the national organization reshuffled the districts, Stephens was given a larger area to supervise. Six squadrons are under his direction. With these and the national organization he acts as liaison officer.

A neighbor commenting on Stephen's years of squadron activities writes:

"Why does he work so hard at something which can never net so much as a nickel? Why does he put in so much time three nights a week (probably more now in his new job) making long trips to speak on radio, etc., spending evenings in consultation with prospective members showing others how to get more fun out of the waterways of living? There's a deep satisfaction, he says, in seeing his pupils—many of them older than he is—become better boatmen and knowing that they and their families will be safer on a cruise because of the work he and other Squadron instructors have done."

E D I T O R I A L

COLLEGE alumni gave their institutions a record total of $102,000,000 last year, more than ten times as much as had been given ten years earlier. The Dickinson total was about eight times as much.

Through annual giving from alumni and others, colleges received $252,000,000 in 1955. The final figures for 1956 are not in, but the American Alumni Council, with headquarters in Washington, estimates that the total may be close to $500,000,000.

For many years Princeton and Dartmouth have led the list of all institutions of higher learning in the percentage of alumni making annual gifts and the "big name" schools have consistently led in the highest amount contributed from all sources. In 1955 Princeton and Dartmouth tied for first place in the council honor roll when 69.5 per cent of the living alumni of each school contributed. "These two institutions have led the list for many years. But now they have been passed by a 'dark horse.' Little Wofford College in Spartanburg, S. C., has jumped to the fore with 74.4 per cent," Dr. Benjamin Fine reported in the March 31 issue of The New York Times. "This liberal arts college, with an enrollment of 799, reported a meager 12 per cent in 1955," Dr. Fine continued and added "This is the most dramatic instance of the growth of alumni support in the nation."

Wofford reached new heights through a challenge by a trustee, who offered to give $1,000 for each per cent of alumni giving above the 12 per cent of 1955. The alumni picked up the challenge and raised their giving 62 points, which cost the trustee $62,000 and made the Wofford total $122,000 or five times the 1955 total, and put Wofford in the number one spot of percentage giving. In 1956, Dartmouth was second with 70.9 per cent of the living alumni contributing and Princeton a close third with 70.7 per cent. Dartmouth raised $2,166,944 from 25,154 alumni and Princeton raised $1,818,142 from 25,558.

A study of the American Alumni Council report shows that about one million alumni contributed last year or about 20 per cent of all those solicited. Last year about 17 per cent of the Dickinson alumni made gifts to the Annual Giving Fund, though nearly 25 per cent are Life Members of the General Alumni Association.

The Council's report reveals that on the average alumni gave $30 each. "Too many alumni think of college donations in terms of $5, when they should think of $100," is the statement of Dr. Ernest T. Stewart, executive director of the American Alumni Council. He has said that there is a far greater potential of alumni giving than has been attained. He believes that as dynamic programs of alumni relations develop and mature, alumni will recognize the importance of their role in financing higher education.

The opportunity for Dickinson College in this widening program is crystal clear. Dickinsonians do not need a challenge to support their Alma Mater, though some corporations are now matching the gifts of alumni.

Dickinson can enter the national spotlight if the many who have never contributed to the Annual Giving Fund would put "Dickinson in Their Budget" as 17 per cent are now doing. The present record isn't one to be proud of. Let's change it!

Publishes Law Supplement

The 1957 Supplement to "Law of Municipal Claims and Tax Liens Against Real Estate in Pennsylvania," the work of Lester S. Hecht, '15, attorney of Philadelphia, has just been published by the Legal Intelligencer.

Supplements come out every three years, and this is the third supplement in as much as the book was originally published in 1948. It supersedes previous supplements and brings the book up to date.

At the request of the editor of Dunlap-Hanna Penna. Forms, Mr. Hecht is reviewing and revising the sections of that work which relates to "Municipal Claims and Tax Liens." That work and its predecessor, Dunlap's Book of Forms, has served the lawyers of Pennsylvania since 1845.

Honored By Smithsonian

The famous Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D. C., paid unusual honor to Dr. Elmer C. Herber, chairman of the department of biology at the College, when it appointed him an Honorary Collaborator in March. Dr. Leonard Carmichael, secretary of the Institution, announced that the title is seldom conferred.

Dr. Herber was singled out for his research on Spencer Fullerton Baird and "other contributions to the history" of the Smithsonian. Baird, Dickinson graduate and one-time teacher at the College, was the most noted naturalist of his day and the second secretary of the Smithsonian. Dr. Herber has examined thousands of letters and other Baird papers in preparation for a new biography of the scientist, who died in 1889.

In Stephens College Post

Douglas M. Smith, '25, fund-raising and public relations specialist, formerly with Beaver Associates, Inc., Chicago, became director of development at Stephens College, in Columbia, Mo., on March 1. In addition to directing a $10,000,000 capital gifts campaign, he will supervise alumnae activities, publications and publicity. He brought to the appointment more than 15 years of experience in conducting advertising and fund campaigns for institutions and municipalities throughout the East and Midwest.

Strike Delays Work

A long delay in the delivery of structural steel because of a strike has put back the completion of the new Allison Memorial Methodist Church, on the Rush Campus of the College, by at least five months. Originally scheduled to open this coming September or October, the stone edifice will not be ready for use until next spring. The $850,000 church will replace the one destroyed by fire in January, 1954. The College, which is contributing $200,000, will use the building for weekday chapels and perhaps other occasions.

When In London

Denise B. Meares, '56, invites all Dickinsonians to look her up when they get to London. She writes that she would be delighted to see them and show them the city.

Her address is 6, Stafford Terrace, London, W. 8, England, and her telephone number is Western 2595.

Ohio Club Meets

After a lapse of a couple of years, the Dickinson Club of Ohio held a dinner meeting at the Fort Hayes Hotel in Columbus on April 24. From the return cards, the officers learned that alumni cannot conveniently attend a mid-week meeting there and plan that next year's event will be held on a Friday night, rather than Wednesday as was the case this year.

Robert S. Aronson, '43, vice-president of the club, presided, and Walter V. Edwards, '12, the club's president, offered the invocation. There were 26 present. Col. J. P. Haines, Jr., '37, served with these officers in planning the dinner.

The program was an informal one with George Shuman, Jr., financial vice-president, and Vice-President Gilbert Malcolm speaking briefly and joining in a question and answer session afterward.

All present stayed around to see colored slides of the campus which were shown by George Shuman.

Head New Library

Paul L. Hutchison, '18, and Robert G. Crist, '47, are president and vice-president respectively of a new public library chartered for the West Shore area of Cumberland County in April. Nell Stevens, '06, and Samuel A. Schreckengast, '38L, were among the consultants figuring in the formation.

Luncheon At Pittsburgh

The annual luncheon of the Dickinson Club of Pittsburgh was held in a private dining room at Kauffman's at noon on April 27. There were 43 present, an increase over recent years.

James L. Bruggeman, '50, president of the club, presided, and the Rev. Richard M. Barnes, '52, Episcopalian Rector, offered the invocation.

James G. Park, '52, vice-president of the club, introduced the two speakers, George Shuman, Jr., financial vice-president, and Professor John Pfaum, member of the Department of History.

There was no election as the officers continue another year. In addition to Jim Bruggeman and Jim Parks, Mrs. Dorothy Williams Baker, '38, is secretary-treasurer of the Club.

In Sales Post

Charles E. Phayre, '49, Rose Tree, Pa., has been appointed assistant sales manager of Penn Precision Products, Inc., Reading, Pa., producer of precision metal strip.

Phayre was formerly a sales representative for Riverside Metal Co., Riverside, N. J. Prior to that, he served for a year in the Philadelphia office of Bridgeport Brass Co., and for three years as a sales representative of Volco Brass and Copper Co., Kenilworth, N. J.

A graduate of the College in 1949, he also attended the Wharton Graduate School of the University of Pennsylvania. He is married and has two children.

When in Spain

Donald G. Lee, '31, mailed his contribution to the Annual Giving Fund from Ferraz 28, Madrid, and wrote on the bottom "Here in Spain with Brown-Raymond-Walsh, contractors for Spanish Air Base Program. Visitors welcome."

Named Manager of Drycleaning Institute

GEORGE P. FULTON, '31, was named secretary-treasurer and general manager of the National Institute of Drycleaning in Silver Spring, Md., in March.

An Institute employee for over 23 years, for many years he was NID's director of research. Under his direction the NID Research Department made significant contributions to the industry with technical bulletins, cleaning performance tests for its members, garment analyses, fellowship studies and the testing of commercial products sold to drycleaners.

Born in Waynesboro, Pa., August 16, 1910, the Fulton family moved to nearby Mechanicsburg where he was raised. He received his B.S. degree from the College in 1931 and a Master's in Chemistry from Pennsylvania State College in 1933.

Mr. Fulton's career in the educational and research phases of the drycleaning industry began when he joined the Institute staff January 1, 1934, as an instructor in applied science. He is the author of the NID text, "Applied Science for Drycleaners." While teaching at the Institute, he continued his advanced studies in chemistry and chemical engineering at the University of Maryland and engaged in research work at the Institute laboratories.

He was married January 16, 1943, to the former Jacqueline Mayhew, and they live at 104 E. Hamilton Ave., Silver Spring, with their son, George, aged 13.

Meets Pen Pal

Eleven-year-old Craig Thomas, son of the Rev. Robert J. Thomas, '40, and Mrs. Beatrice Pennell Thomas, '39, has not let cerebral palsy, with which he has been afflicted from birth, interfere with his exciting hobby of collecting autographs and letters from famous people. The family lives in Syracuse, N. Y., where Rev. Thomas is pastor of the Rockefeller Memorial Methodist Church.

In one recent instance, Craig was brought face to face with one of the most noted of his pen-pals, General Alfred M. Grunther, president of the American Red Cross. Their correspondence started four years ago when Grunther was North Atlantic Treaty commander in Paris and blossomed into friendship.

Gen. Grunther was so impressed by the fine spirit of the boy as expressed in his letters that he invited Craig and his parents to visit him in Washington when he heard that Craig would be in nearby Baltimore for a cerebral palsy treatment.

For Craig, this was a thrill-of-a-lifetime meeting and took place in Grunther's office in Red Cross national headquarters. Their conversation as reported in the papers touched on many subjects, including the state of the bridge game of another of Grunther's pals, President Eisenhower.

A three-column photo of the visit as carried in the Syracuse Herald-Journal in April showed Gen. Grunther pinning a Red Cross badge on Craig's jacket while Rev. and Mrs. Craig smiled happily.

Political Opponents

George W. Atkins, '30, district attorney of York County, in Pennsylvania, and Edwin M. Buchen, '33, prominent legal practitioner there, will meet head-on in the political arena next fall. Atkins, a Democrat, and Buchen, Republican, are unopposed for their party's nomination for judge of the court of common pleas.

Re-enter Political Arena

Judge Dale F. Shughart, '34, who is ending his first term, will be opposed by J. Boyd Landis, '31, in this year's elections for the Cumberland County judgeship. Landis was Shughart's opponent in 1947 when the present jurist was elected.

Roster Lists 1,672 Names of Life Members

THE roster of Life Members of the General Alumni Association, published annually in the May number of THE DICKINSON ALUMNUS by direction of the Alumni Council, lists a total of 1,672 names on following pages.

Since the February number was printed, 33 new lifers have been enrolled to make a gain of 114 for the year and to raise the total from 1,558 to 1,672.

During the year the Class of 1950 added two and now leads all other classes with 59. The Class of 1935 gained three and jumped into the second slot over 1929 and 1927 which have 44 each. 1939 is next with 42 and 1917 is close with 41. The Class of 1939 has 38, then follow 1931 and 1951 with 38 each and three classes, 1937, 1941 and 1943 have 37 each.

The first subscription in the new series came from Mrs. J. William Stuart, the former Helen Stover, '32, of Manhasset, N. Y. Her husband, Bill, has been a Lifer for sometime. He is an officer of Charles Pfizer & Co. in Brooklyn, N. Y. The next day a check arrived from Free R. Johnson, '09, President of the Dickinson Club of Colorado, who lives in Denver.

A few days later, a $40 check arrived from Alice Folsom, '31, who is living in Santa Fe, N. M.

When Mr. and Mrs. Jules J. Schwartz of Philadelphia, attended the Scholarship Dinner on March 1, they bought a Life Membership for their son, Laurence M. Schwartz, who thus became the first member of 1957 to become a Lifer. He was elected to Phi Beta Kappa prior to the dinner and will attend the University of Pennsylvania Medical School in the fall.

Following the dinner of the Dickinson Club of Reading-Berks, Henry W. Monyer, '27, sent in his $40 check for Life Membership. He is a teacher in the Reading schools and assistant to the superintendent of schools there.

The next check came from Robert G. Crist, '47, who with his father, Robert W. Crist, '22, is engaged in public relations, as organization counsel and in advertising with their offices at 2315 Walnut St., Camp Hill, Pa.

Two subscriptions came the same day. The one was from Lt. Col. Paul D. Olejar, '28, who lives at 2207 Louise Ave., Baltimore 14, Md., and has his office in the Technical Information Division, Chemical Warfare Laboratories, Army Chemical Center, Md. The other check came from William W. Caldwell, '48, attorney of Harrisburg and president of the Dickinson Club of Harrisburg.

The next names to be enrolled were those of a husband and wife who are both graduates of the college and have long been active in alumni affairs and the activities of the Dickinson Club of Reading-Berks. They are W. Richard Eshelman, '41, who practices law in Reading, and his wife, the former Mary Mackie, '43, who is a member of the Alumni Council and for some years has been secretary-treasurer of the Reading-Berks Club.

Another member of 1956 joined the ranks when a check came from Jeanne Spangler, the former Jeanne Carlson, who is attending Teachers College, Columbia University and is working toward a masters degree in guidance and student personnel administration.

A check then came from John Fischer, '52, of Clifton Heights, Pa., who has completed service with the Marine Corps and returned to a position with General Motors.
