Council Votes to Increase Dues and Lifer Fee

THE first increase in the annual dues of the General Alumni Association and the Life Membership fee in 34 years has been authorized by the Alumni Council. Starting July 1, 1958, the annual dues will be $3 and Life Membership will be $50.

The current rates of $2 and $40, in effect since the reorganization of the Alumni Association in 1923, are unrealistic today and fall far short of financing the work of the Association, said Council members at their Commencement meeting last May when a report of a special committee recommending the increases was unanimously adopted.

"New rates have been long overdue," said John D. Hopper, '48, chairman of the committee. Other members were Charles F. Irwin, Jr., '27; John P. Winand, '56, and William E. Woodside, '54.

To encourage young graduates to give financial support to the work of the Alumni Association, Life Membership will be available to them at $40 and their annual dues will be $1 during the three years following their graduation.

The special committee also recommended that the Council discourage future senior classes from entering into life insurance plans. The last three classes to graduate have in force 20-year endowment plans designed to create major class gifts to the College upon maturity of the policies.

The committee felt that such methods stand in the way of "more appropriate future giving and could result in a depreciation of interest in the College as time passes." The recommendation was referred back to the committee for further study and the committee was enlarged to include Arthur L. Piccone, '55, and Robert D. Burrowes, '57, whose classes have insurance programs.

The Council hailed Dr. Gilbert Malcolm, vice-president of the College, who is also the alumni secretary and editor of The Dickinson Alumnus, upon completing 35 years of service to Dickinson. His leadership and loyalty were noted in a resolution which directed that an appropriate citation be drawn up for presentation to him at the Homecoming luncheon in the fall.

Mrs. Helen Douglass Gallagher, '26, completing seven years as secretary of the Council, was saluted upon her election as alumni representative on the Board of Trustees for a term running to 1961. The first Dickinson woman to be elected a Trustee, she had been on the Council for eight years.

"You have served the Alumni Association with great effectiveness," said C. Wendell Holmes, '21, president. "We are confident that you will serve the Board of Trustees equally well."

Greeted as new members of the Council were Mrs. Helen Wiener Smethurst, '25; Clarence A. Welliver, '30; Dr. George H. Jones, '40, and Robert D. Burrowes, '57. All but Burrowes, representative of the graduating class, were elected in the mail ballot conducted by the Alumni Association. Holmes and Hyman Goldstein, '15, were returned to the board. All terms are for three years.

In a brief report, Holmes noted that many alumni clubs enjoyed attendance increases at their annual dinners last winter. The York and Wilkes-Barre Clubs were reactivated and steps taken to set up three clubs in Florida, he reported.

Holmes and Goldstein were reelected president and treasurer, respectively. Charles F. Irwin, Jr., '27, was elected vice-president to succeed Homer P. Respess, '17, who was elected secretary.

Two New Trustees Include First Woman Grad

TWO alumni, including the first woman graduate of the College to be elected to the Board of Trustees, began terms of four years at the 1957 Commencement meeting of the Board.

Mrs. Helen Douglass Gallagher, '26, took her place as an alumni representative on the Board, having been chosen in the annual mail election conducted by the General Alumni Association. For the first time in the history of these elections, all candidates were women, a situation brought about by the action instituted by the Alumni Council last winter and approved by the Board of Trustees to have at least one alumna on the Board hereafter at all times. Her photograph is on the cover of this issue.

The other new trustee is Rev. Dr. Alexander Keen Smith, '23, a prominent Methodist pastor and administrator, who was elected by the Board. The Trustees also elected Paul L. Hutchison, '18, whose second of two successive terms as Alumni Trustee had just expired. He is a former president of the General Alumni Association and of the Harrisburg Alumni Club, and a member of the Board of Athletic Control.

Mrs. Gallagher has enjoyed other notable Dickinson "firsts." In 1950, she became the first woman ever elected an officer of the Alumni Council. She is also the first woman ever to serve as president of the active Dickinson Club of Northern New Jersey. For seven of her eight years on the Alumni Council she served as the secretary and seldom missed the twice-a-year meetings. Few Dickinson women have a better knowledge of affairs of the College.

She comes from an all-Dickinson household. Her husband is Thomas R. Gallagher, '27, a lawyer. Their only children are Mrs. Jean Montgomery, '53, and Joan, who was in this year's graduating class. A civic and church leader in Short Hills, N. J., Mrs. Gallagher has been president of the Junior Service League, the Millburn Conference of Teachers and Parents and the North Jersey Chi Omega Alumnae Club. She helped to organize a new Congregational Church in Short Hills and serves as president of its Board of Deaconesses. She is also connected with the business life of the area, being a real estate broker with A. Craig Knight, Inc.

She is the second woman on the Board, the other being Mrs. Mary Sharp Foucht whose election in 1954 made her the first woman Trustee in the history of the College. Mrs. Foucht is a member of a well-known Dickinson family although she herself never attended the college.

Dr. Smith, the other new trustee, has had increasingly important assignments in the Philadelphia Conference of the Methodist Church since his ordination in 1925 upon completing ministerial studies at Garrett Biblical Institute, in Illinois. Since 1955 he has been the pastor of the 1100-member Haws Avenue Church, Norristown, Pa., to which he was assigned following six years as a district superintendent in the Philadelphia Conference. His several pastorates in the city of Philadelphia have included St. James Church and the large Arch Street Church.

He has preached in England and Germany and was a delegate to the Methodist Ecumenical Conference, in Oxford, in 1951. A member of the Commission on Christian Higher Education of the Methodist Church, he is chairman of the Philadelphia Conference Commission on Christian Higher Education and the Commission on World Service and Finance. He is also a member of the executive committee of the General Conference.

Dr. Smith is a trustee of the Pennington School, in New Jersey, and for many years was a trustee of Goucher College and the Methodist Hospital, in Philadelphia. He is a member of Alpha Chi Rho and Tau Kappa Alpha. Dickinson gave him the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity in 1941.

While still a student at Garrett he was married in 1924 to Florence B. Williams. Following her death, he married in 1951 Elizabeth B. Davison, a former principal in the Philadelphia school system.

Awarded Ford Grant

Dr. Richard F. Staar, '48, chairman of the social sciences division at Harding College, in Arkansas, was one of 12 college teachers selected in national competition to receive a $1,200 stipend from the Ford Foundation. He used the grant to attend an eight-week seminar on the teaching of international relations, held the past summer at Emory University, in Georgia.

He was in Washington, D. C., in May to make a number of recordings for the Voice of America. These included a speech on "Congress and the Individual" and an interview on the subject "Responsibility for Statements," part of a series on freedom of the press in America, for broadcast to Poland. He also took part in a panel discussion for Voice of America use.

Club Honors Trustee

Mrs. Helen Douglass Gallagher, '26, the first woman graduate to be elected a member of the Board of Trustees, was the guest of honor at the annual dinner of the Dickinson Club of Northern New Jersey held at the William Pitt in Chatham on June 12. She is a former president of that club.

Mrs. Gallagher sat at the speaker's table with her husband, Thomas R. Gallagher, '27 and their daughter, Joan, '57, who is now teaching in Hawaii. In behalf of the club, Mrs. Mary Read Oerther, who was later elected president for the next two years, presented her with a basket of flowers. George Shuman, Jr., Financial Vice President, conferred the "Order of the Mermaid" upon her and presented her with a framed certificate.

During the business session, the club adopted a motion to reactivate the Northern New Jersey Club Scholarship and that the first award be made to Betty Anne Keat, daughter of the late S. Harold Keat, '16, who is now a freshman in the college.

Roy D. Tolliver, '31, retiring president served as toastmaster and Joseph S. Ford, Jr., '56, a second year student at Drew Seminary, offered the invocation. There were 52 present.

Dr. Herbert Wing, Jr., was the principal speaker. He told of the college as it was in 1915 when he became a member of the faculty and what it is today. Gilbert Malcolm concluded the speaking program.

The new officers are Mrs. Mary Read Oerther, '26, president; Edward E. Johnson, '32, vice president and Randolph T. Jacobson, '32, secretary-treasurer.

Promoted At Lehigh

Francis C. Oglesby, '54, was promoted from graduate assistant to instructor in mathematics at Lehigh University last May."

Three Alumni Receive Faculty Promotions

Victoria K. Hann

Milton E. Flower

THREE Dickinsonians on the faculty of the College—Dr. Milton E. Flower, '31, Robert Alan McGill, '49, and Victoria K. Hann, '50, the dean of women—were promoted in rank by the Board of Trustees in May on the recommendation of President William W. Edel.

Dr. Flower, who has been the acting chairman of the department of political science a number of times, was given a full professorship. He has been teaching at the College since 1947. Prof. McGill and Dean Hann were named assistant professors. The former came to the faculty in 1952 and Dean Hann in 1954.

The trustees made six other promotions, as follows: Lucy Holt Doney, head cataloguer in the College Library; Margaret McAlpin Ramos, department of modern languages, and Dr. Winthrop C. Difford, geology department, to associate professor, and Dr. John A. Maguire, department of modern languages; Dr. Raymond J. Wells, department of philosophy and religion, and Dr. Lloyd Ultan, director of the choir and orchestra, to assistant professor.

Dr. Flower, who has taught classes in the fine arts in addition to his political science courses, was on leave a number of years ago to serve as visiting professor at American University, in Washington, D. C., and again in 1955-56 to teach at the University of Dijon, in France, where he held the American studies lectureship established by the Reader's Digest Foundation.

He has written extensively. His biography of James Parton, 19th century American biographer, was published in 1951 by the Duke University Press. He is the author of many local historical accounts and contributor to "Antique" and other periodicals. Dr. Flower holds his advanced degrees from Columbia University.

Prof. McGill, who teaches in the English Department, entered the College with the Class of 1949 but completed his work for graduation in 1948 by summer study. He obtained a master's degree in 1949 at the University of Pennsylvania and taught at Westminster College for the next three years. He came to the Dickinson faculty in 1952 from Westminster. A Danforth Foundation grant enabled him to take a leave of absence for the 1955-56 term which he spent at the University of Pennsylvania completing the residency requirement for the Ph.D. degree. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

After her graduation in 1950 with Phi Beta Kappa honors, Dean Hann earned a master's degree in student personnel administration at Columbia University in 1951 and then went to Colorado College as assistant to the dean of women. She was at Colorado when appointed dean of women at Dickinson in 1954 to succeed Mrs. Charles Flint Kellogg. She spent the past summer in a tour of Europe.

Dine In Nation's Capitol

A fine attendance and a good program marked the annual dinner of the Dickinson Club of Washington held on May 7 at the Kenesaw. One of the features was the singing of the College Trio.

The Rev. Dr. Frederick Brown Harris, '09, Chaplain of the United States Senate, offered the invocation and Paul A. Mangan, '34, president of the club, was the toastmaster.

Prof. Ralph Schecter was the principal speaker. Others who spoke briefly were C. Wendell Holmes, president of the General Alumni Association; Dean Frederic W. Ness, George Shuman and Gilbert Malcolm.

William J. Batrus, '38, chairman of the Washington Club Scholarship Committee, made his annual report and presented the holder of the grant, Thomas F. Talentino, who had a 3.267 average for his first year.

Dr. Robert N. Coale, '37, was elected president for a two-year term as were the following other officers: William J. Batrus, '38, vice-president; John W. Springer, '48, vice-president; Maude E. Wilson, '14, secretary; Doris H. Spangenberg, '45, assistant secretary and Catherine S. Eitemiller, '46, treasurer.

Chaplain John W. Weise, '25, pronounced the benediction.

Robert A. McGill

Heads Clearfield Schools

Fred E. Sweely, '28, was elected superintendent of the Clearfield Borough and Clearfield Joint Schools on August 26. Superintendent S. F. W. Morrison submitted his resignation to become effective October 1 and the Area School Board of Clearfield, Pa., elected Sweely as his successor.

Sweely had been serving as assistant superintendent of schools in Clearfield County and has been a teacher there since 1929. He coached football, basketball, track and golf for a number of years.

In 1945, he was named supervising principal of the Lawrence Township Schools and he served in that position until 1950 when he became assistant county superintendent. He holds a Master's degree from Pennsylvania State University.

Many Dickinsonians will remember him as a stellar athlete of the football and basketball teams at the college.

His wife is the former Elizabeth Bigler of Clearfield. They have two daughters, Mrs. Stanley Fink and Barbara, a third grade student at Leonard Grade School.

Brown University Honors Librarian On Retirement

THE degree of Master of Arts, ad eundem was conferred upon Miss Lydia M. Gooding, '10, by Brown University at the June Commencement "in recognition of her skill and learning" in the words of President B. C. Keeney.

She retired on June 30 after service at Brown since 1946. She was curator of the Annmary Brown Memorial and assistant professor of bibliography. Described as "a loyal and conscientious worker" by Dr. Keeney, she had held various positions in the Brown Library.

A daughter of Dr. William Lambert Gooding, professor of psychology and beloved member of the Dickinson faculty for many years, she was the Dickinson Librarian from 1918 to 1926. She was born in Dover, Delaware, while her father was head of Wilmington Conference Academy, now Wesley Junior College.

Before coming to Dickinson, she was in the cataloging department of the Princeton University Library for five years. She left Dickinson to attend Columbia University School of Library Service where she received her B.S. in 1927 and an A.M. in 1929. Later, from 1942 to 1944 she was Assistant to the Dean there. In 1929 she became Assistant Professor in the Library School of Emory University and was there until 1936 when she went to a similar post at Syracuse University. She had been Assistant Librarian at Mount Holyoke College when she went to Brown University in 1946.

She is a member of the American Library Association, the American Association of University Women and of Pi

Beta Phi.

Dickinsonians In Spotlight

Dickinsonians were very much in evidence at the Sesquicentennial Celebration of Millersburg, Pa., held during the last days of August and early September.

The Sesquicentennial Address was delivered by the Hon. Philip S. Moyer, '06, '10L, former District Attorney of Dauphin County and former Deputy Attorney General, who had also given an address at the Millersburg Centennial in 1907. Dr. Howard L. Rubendall, '31, President of Mt. Hermon School, Mt. Hermon, Mass., spoke on "The Home Town," and Judge Robert E. Woodside, '26, '28L, of the Superior Court of Pennsylvania, spoke on "Millersburg's Future." The invocation was given by Rev. William C. Skeath, '05, and Dean Hoffman, '02, was introduced. The only persons who participated in this program, who were not Dickinsonians, were the burgess, who presided, and the pastor who gave the benediction.

Other Dickinsonians who spoke on other occasions held in connection with the celebration were: Dr. William K. McBride, '23, who brought the greetings of the Dauphin County Commissioners at the opening of the ceremonies; Deputy Attorney General Frank P. Lawley, '48, '51L, former Deputy Attorney General Robert L. Rubendall, '47L, Attorney William E. Woodside, '54, '56L, who spoke during Youth Day; Attorney Allen Shaffer, '50, '51L, and Donald H. Goodyear, '23, who spoke during the cornerstone laying of a new Kinney Shoe Factory.

Judge Homer L. Kreider, '21, '24L, of the Dauphin County Courts, was scheduled to speak but was unable to do so because of the death of his mother.

Serves As Representative

Samuel W. Witwer, Jr., '30, will serve as the representative of Dickinson College at the inauguration of Professor Sidney Earl Mead as president of the Meadville Theological School and Lombard College at the University of Chicago on October 15. Mr. Witwer is a member of the Board of Trustees of the College and an attorney in Chicago.

Temple University Honors Dickinson Librarian

THE contributions to American culture by the librarian of Dickinson College, Prof. Charles Coleman Sellers, who is also a writer, were recognized by Temple University in August when it conferred the honorary degree of Doctor of Letters upon him at its summer commencement.

Dr. Earl R. Yoemans, university vicepresident, referred to the Dickinson librarian, in presenting him for the degrée, as "one who not only keeps the books that others have written but he writes some of the books that other librarians will keep." He also noted that Prof. Sellers is a historian, a biographer and a student of the fine arts who has been researching and writing of the lives of early Americans since his college days.

Prof. Sellers' books include a threevolume biography of Charles Willson Peale, the 18th century portrait painter from whom he is descended, and lives of Benedict Arnold and Lorenzo Dow. He has written many magazine articles on art and historical subjects.

"He has helped, by his explorations into America's past, to create in us an awareness of our roots," noted Dr. Yoemans. The degree was conferred by Dr. Robert L. Johnson, university president and an honorary Dickinson alumnus. Some time ago, Haverford College, his alma mater, elected Prof. Sellers to Phi Beta Kappa in recognition of his achievements in biography. He came to the Dickinson faculty in 1949 as curator of Dickinsoniana and to teach art courses. Upon the retirement of Prof. May Morris in 1956, he became the librarian of the College. He has just been relieved of the curatorship, which he served with marked distinction, to devote full time to library administration and his writing.

In England since mid-September to gather material for a book he is writing on the portraits of Benjamin Franklin, he will return to the campus October 30. Yale University Press will publish the book.

Charles Coleman Sellers

Heads Tax Commission

Cornelius P. Mundy, '25L, former judge on the Supreme Bench of Maryland, was named by Governor McKeldin to a six-year term as chairman of the Maryland State Tax Commission in June. He served in that capacity once before for almost a year before going on the bench.

The State Tax Commission is a threemember group responsible for supervising the assessment and tax law of Maryland and its political subdivisions.

A member of the law firm of France, Rouzer, Mundy & Harris, of Baltimore, "Pat" has at one time or another in his career been an assistant United States Attorney, a special attorney for the Department of Justice, a special assistant to the United States Attorney General and chief enforcement attorney for the Office of Price Administration.

"Pat" is married and has two children, a son who graduated from the Gilman School in June and a daughter who is a student at Garrison Forest. The family lives in Roland Park.

Create Award to Aid Pre-Medical Student

A N UNUSUAL grant, to be known as the Roy W. Mohler Award, has been established through gifts totalling $3,500, as announced by Dr. Hampton P. Corson, '49, at Commencement.

The income from that fund will be given each year "to that member of the Senior Class, who has been accepted for admission to medical school for September following graduation, who in the judgment of the President, Treasurer and Pre-Medical Advisor has the greatest financial need." It is thus unlike prizes for scholarship attainment or excellence in a particular field.

The award honors Dr. Roy W. Mohler, '17, of Philadelphia. He is a Trustee of the College, Chief of Staff of Methodist Hospital, Philadelphia, and a member of the faculty of Jefferson Medical College. In recognition of his skill, the College conferred the honorary degree of Doctor of Science upon him some years ago.

Gifts ranging from a few dollars to one of $1,000 came from former patients, many from former students, fraternity brothers, friends and classmates. Meeting in their 40th Reunion and with Robert Lee Myers serving as Chairman, the Class of 1917 voted to use money it had raised to increase the class scholarship fund to $3,500 and the balance to the Roy W. Mohler Fund.

The proposal to establish the fund was the brain child of Dr. Edward Hoberman, '30, who encouraged by Dr. Mohler followed in his steps and is also an obstetrician and gynecologist in practice at Lock Haven, Pa. Ironically, he was prevented from attending Commencement and joining in the tribute to Dr. Mohler by two ladies who very greatly needed him in that hospital that day.

Dr. Hoberman enlisted Dr. Myron A. Todd, '27, of Halifax, Pa.; Dr. R. Edward Steele, '35, of Harrisburg and Dr. Hampton P. Corson, '49, of Philadelphia, to serve with him as members of the Committee which raised the fund. If additions are made to the fund, the amount of the grant may be increased or two awards created.

In Radio-TV Post

The Rev. Robert Faust Sheaffer, '30, has been appointed to the post of Radio-Television Consultant for the Council of Churches of the Pittsburgh area. He was formerly pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Tarentum, Pa.

He acts as liaison officer for the Council and numerous radio and television stations in the Pittsburgh area. He is in charge of programming a number of broadcasts and telecasts sponsored by the Council.

He has served as chairman of Radio and Television Committees of the Ministerial Associations of Fort Wayne, Ind., and the Upper Allegheny Valley in Pa. In addition to this, he has a thorough background in the area of religious and secular drama. He has been a member of the Playwrights Theater of Chicago, and is the author of several television scripts. He has also been a member of the Little Lake Theater group and has appeared in various productions.

Goes to Africa as a Medical Missionary

A FEW days after he completed his internship, Dr. Joseph H. Engle, '52, with his wife and three daughters sailed for Capetown and then a three-day journey northward to the Macha Mission, Choma, Northern Rhodesia, where he will be the only medical doctor in the area. He has been assigned to the hospital there by the Brethren in Christ Church.

He will relieve Dr. Alvan Thuma, who during the past year supervised the building a new 80-bed hospital with an outpatient department accommodating over a hundred patients a day. Dr. Engle will have the assistance of two graduate nurses and 12 native girls will be in training.

The mission is in the part of Africa which is now Rhodesia and Nysaland where work at the hospital has more than doubled in the past two years. In making his last report, Dr. Engle's predecessor wrote "We now know that the present building program will not take care of those coming to us for treatment but we continue to build. The Doctor's residence was completed in July. The African nurses' home was built, and the first half of the hospital, a building 273 feet by 33 feet, was put under roof in 1956. Now the plastering, plumbing and painting is starting. We have laid out the second half of the hospital and the men are digging the foundation trenches while the ground is still soft from the rain."

Dr. Thuma reported that in 1955 the daily inpatient average was 33 per day and that last year it rose to 84 inpatients a day and 60 out-patients and "no one ventures that the end is in sight."

Born in Grantham, Pa. on March 1, 1931, Dr. Engle graduated from the Messiah College Academy there and received his B.S. degree from the College in 1952. He graduated from Temple University School of Medicine in 1956 when he received his M.D. degree and served his interneship at Polyclinic Hospital, Harrisburg, Pa.

Joseph H. Engle

His wife is the former Jube Marie Hostetter, a graduate of Elizabethtown College and an elementary school teacher. They have three daughters, Ardys Jean, 4½; Joan Marie, 2½; and Karen Joy, ten months.

Promoted At Parsons

Foster E. Brenneman, '46, was promoted to assistant professor of German and Spanish at Parsons College, Fairfield, Iowa, in June. He became an instructor there in 1954 after being instructor in German at West Virginia University 1949-52.

He received his M.A. in German at the University of Wisconsin in 1949 and did graduate work there in 1952-54.

The son of Foster E. Brenneman, '14, he married Anna S. Wheatley, a 1952 graduate of Parsons College, on August 11, 1956. He is a Presbyterian, a member of Phi Kappa Sigma Fraternity, the American Association of Teachers of German and the American Association of Teachers of Spanish and Portugese.

Twenty-Four More Lifers Raise Total to 1,696

SINCE the publication of the roster of Life Members of the General Alumni Association in the May number of THE DICKINSON ALUMNUS, twenty-four more names have been enrolled to raise the total from 1,672 to 1,696.

Until June 1958, when it will cost $50, Life Membership costs $40 and may be paid in one sum, or in $10 annual installments. It carries a life subscription to The Dickinson Alumnus, and when the subscription is paid in full, a life membership certificate, suitable for framing, issued. It is not a contribution to the Annual Giving Fund. Checks should be made payable to Dickinson College and sent to The Dickinson Alumnus, Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa.

The first subscription in the new series came from the Rev. Dr. Richard Radcliffe, '02, who celebrated his 60th Anniversary in the active ministry last March at Arch Street Methodist Church, Philadelphia, where he is minister of visitation. He is also a Grand Chaplain of the Grand Lodge, F & AM, of Pennsylvania.

Mr. W. Harry Waters, of Shenandoah, Pa., sent in a check of $40 to enroll his son, Matthew A. Waters, '57, as a Lifer.

On the night of the dinner of the Dickinson Club of Washington last May, Paul A. Mangan, '34, the president became a Lifer as did Howard S. Spering, '29, who practices law in the nation's capital.

A $40 check then came from Robert W. Neuber, '48, who has been in Calif. for the past 5 years in various lines of employment. He is now in the District Office of the California Division of Highways at San Luis Obispo, about half way between San Francisco and Los Angeles, and is in design engineering. He wrote "Fate surely brings undreamed of events. If anyone had told me when I graduated in 1948 that I would someday be earning my living as a highway engineer in an obscure town in Calif., I would likely have thought him quite daft."

Nine alumni enrolled as Life Members during the Commencement season. Upon her arrival on the campus, Mrs. Helen Douglass Gallagher bought Life Memberships as gifts for her two daughters, Mrs. William Montgomery, the former Jean Gallagher, '53, and Joan D. Gallagher, who graduated on June 2. At the dinner meeting of the Alumni Council, William E. Woodside, '54, who received his degree from the Law School in June, turned in his check, as did two members of the Class of 1933, Jeanne Whittaker Meade and Helen Dickey Morris, both of Philadelphia.

Returning for her 10th reunion, Margery E. Keiner, '47, who was then laboratory technician at Lankenau Hospital in Philadelphia, wrote her check for

The others were Clarence A. Welliver, '30, of Williamsport, where he is a district manager of the Bell Telephone Co.; Seymour Hurwitz, '32, lawyer of Wilkes-Barre and Cyril F. Hetsko, '33, who lives in Ridgewood, N. J., and practices law in New York City.

Shayle Robins, '56, became the next Lifer. He is vice president of Harry Robins, Inc., dealers in fine papers, with office at 15 Washington Place, New York City.

A $40 check then arrived from Paul Skillman, '37, who lives in New Kensington, Pa., and is in the Chemical Division of the Blaw-Knox Co., of Pittsburgh doing design and construction work in the chemical engineering field.

The next to be enrolled is Sidney D. Kline, Jr., '54, who is living with his wife, the former Barbara James, '57, in Winchester, Va., while he completes his army service in Washington. Soon he hopes to begin the practice of law in Reading.

The next check came from Norman

L. Timmins, '44, who is district manager of chemical sales in the explosive department of the DuPont Company at their Cleveland offices. He has been with DuPont since 1946, after a threeyear tour of duty with the Navy in World War II.

Another husband and wife team each became Lifers when a check was received from Robert A. Craig, Jr. to enroll him and also his wife, the former Evelyn Clark, both members of the class of 1939. Bob is an officer of the Federal Equipment Company and a director of the Farmers Trust Company, both of Carlisle. Their home is at 555 S. Hanover St.

The next check came from the Rev. Wilton J. Dubrick, '31, who is executive secretary of the Board of Education of the Wyoming Conference of the Methodist Church in Binghamton, N. Y. His son, Bill, entered the college as a Freshman this month.

A $40 check was then received from Dr. Howard L. Hoffman, '49, specialist in pathology in Reading, Pa.

While he was on the campus in July serving as director of the Northeastern Conference on Evangelism, the Rev. Wayne E. North, '36, became a Lifer. On July 1, he became pastor of Westlawn Methodist Church, Detroit, Mich., one of the largest churches in Methodism.

A check for $40 was then received from Gordon E. Fry, Sr., '19, who lives at Mounted Route, Camp Hill, Pa., and who for 30 years has been a foreman for the Postal Transportation Service and has also operated a farm for 17 years.

The Rev. Rowland H. Kimberlin, '30, became the next lifer. He was in the active pastorate until 1954 when he became associated with the Wells Organization, a fund raising concern. He recently was named financial consultant for the Protestant Council for the city of New York to lead the program of fund raising and to assist sustaining member churches raising funds for their own use.

Seniors Honor President

Last June's graduating class dedicated the 1957 Microcosm to Dr. William W. Edel because, in the terms of the dedication, his record as president of the College "is one to be held aloft." The vearbook came out in June just as Dr. Edel was completing his 11th year as Dickinson president.

Colleagues Honor Librarian

After nearly 30 years as reference assistant of the Wilmington Institute Free Library, Miss Annie R. O'Brien, '08, retired in June when she was feted by her colleagues and presented with an electric clock and an FM radio set. Newspapers said that the library lost "a walking encyclopedia."

A daughter of the parsonage, Miss O'Brien received her A.B. and A.M. degrees from the College. She taught English and Latin for 15 years, after a year in a public school, at Wilmington Conference Institute, now Wesley Junior College, Dover, Del.

Deciding on a library career after 16 years of teaching, she entered the New York State Library School, Albany, N.Y. Upon graduation, she went to Ohio Wesleyan University as circulation head of its library. After two years there, she joined the staff of the Wilmington Library in 1928 and continued until her retirement.

Form Chemical Concern

Trylon Chemicals, Inc., was incorporated in Lock Haven, Pa., last June. Among the officers and directors are Dr. G. Wesley Pedlow, Jr., '34, who is president of the concern and a director; his brother, Dr. J. Watson Pedlow, '29, and Dr. Andrew H. Phelps, of Pittsburgh,

Dr. Phelps and Dr. Pedlow are both members of the Board of Trustees of the College,

Receives Honorary Degree At Trinity College

P.R. Howard L. Rubendall, '31, one of New England's leading educators and a minister, received the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity from Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., last June. The occasion was Trinity's 131st commencement.

The award was Dr. Rubendall's second such honor, the same degree having been conferred upon him by Dickinson in 1945 shortly after he had become the headmaster of the Mount Herman School for Boys. Since 1955, Dr. Rubendall has also headed the Northfield School for Girls. These two outstanding Massachusetts schools, with a present enrollment exceeding 1200, were founded 78 years ago by Dwight Moody, famous evangelist.

In the citation which accompanied the Trinity degree, Dr. Rubendall was described as "true furtherer of religion at home and abroad, president of the Northfield Schools and Headmaster of Mount Herman School, completely dedicated to instilling the love of sound learning, vigorous and fair sportsmanship, cultivation of the Christian life."

In addition to his work with the schools, the former Presbyterian parish pastor is chairman of the Northfield summer religious conference. He has been significantly successful in obtaining support for his schools which have enjoyed physical growth and a new spirit of progressiveness under his leadership.

New Pastor At Allison

The Rev. J. Artley Leatherman, a native of Indiana, who has held important charges in Baltimore and Washington, D. C., became pastor of the Allison Methodist Church in June, succeeding the Rev. C. Gail Norris, who was assigned to Sunbury, Pa.

The congregation, which lost its church edifice in a fire in 1954, is in the midst of the construction of a new church on the Benjamin Rush Campus of the College. The $750,000 structure, use of which the College will share, is scheduled for completion next Spring. Since the fire, the congregation has used Bosler Hall and other campus facilities for worship services and Sunday School classes.

Rev Leatherman was ordained in 1943 and after pastorates in North Webster, Ind., and Middlebury, Ind., he became the associate minister of Mount Vernon Place Church, Baltimore, in 1948 and the next year was appointed pastor of the Hamline Methodist Church, Washington, D. C., which he was serving when called to Carlisle. While at the Middlebury charge he was also director of youth work of the Warsaw District of the North Indiana Conference. A native of Bristol, Ind., he is a graduate of Evansville College and the Boston University School of Theology.

He served as chairman of the Board of World Peace of the Baltimore Conference and of the Church and World Affairs Committee of the Washington Federation of Churches. He was on the board of the MacFarland Guidance Clinic and active in the Washington Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Honored For Work In Human Relations

BENJAMIN R. EPSTEIN, '33, the national director of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, with offices in New York City, was awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws in June by Talladega College, in Alabama, for outstanding work in the field of human relations.

Dr. Arthur D. Gray, Talladega president, in the degree citation, referred to Dr. Epstein as true friend and exemplar of the humanities in personal life as well as in vocation, representative of high ethical and moral values of Judaism and Christianity, and devoted servant of democracy.

Dr. Epstein joined the Anti-Defamation League in 1939, has been its national director since 1957 and a member of the League's National Commission since 1956. Under his administration the League embarked upon its full-scale educational program in behalf of better intergroup understanding and the extension of democracy in all areas of American life.

He is the co-author of "Cross Currents" and "The Troublemakers," books which analyze the activities of bigoted groups and individuals in the United States and which have been widely read and quoted.

Receive Law Degrees

Twelve graduates of the College received the Bachelor of Law degree from the Dickinson School of Law on June 1. The class numbered 40 men. Richard C. Snelbaker, '55, was one of two graduated with honors.

Also from the '55 Class were Earl R. Etzweiler, Robert J. Key, Henry J. Rutherford and John G. Williams. From the Class of 1954 were Joseph R. Embery, III, Daniel R. Minnich, George E. Orwig, II, Stanley W. Rutkowski and Frank S. Seiders, Jr.

Other law graduates were Joseph J. Burgoon, Jr.. '51, and George A. Reese, Ir., '52.

Benjamin R. Epstein

At Trustee Conference

Dr. F. LaMont Henninger, '24, was the representative of Dickinson College at the First Conference of Trustees for Church Colleges held at Lake Junaluska, N. C., June 28-30. Dr. Robert L. D. Davidson, '31, president of Westminster College, Fulton, Mo., was the representative of his institution.

The conference was sponsored by the National Committee of Church Men for Church Colleges in cooperation with the Division of Educational Institutions of the Board of Education of the Methodist Church. It was an intensive workshop for college and university trustees.

Named State Counsel

Richard E. Eisenhour, '50, '53L, was appointed chief counsel in the Auditor General's legal division of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in June.

A resident of Hummelstown, Pa., he served as a law clerk in the office of Judge Homer L. Krieder, '21, of Dauphin County for two years until 1955, when he was appointed legal counsel for the House Rules Committee.

Appointed Chief of Time's News Services

JAMES R. SHEPLEY, '39, head of the Time Inc. Washington news bureau since 1948, has been named chief of correspondents for the publishing company's U. S. and Canadian News Service. In this post he succeeds Lawrence E. Laybourne, who will become managing director of Time International Ltd. of Canada, with headquarters in Toronto.

The appointments were announced last month by Henry R. Luce, editor-in-chief of Time Inc., which publishes Time, Life, Fortune, Sports Illustrated, Architectural Forum and House & Home.

Shepley, who is now 40, chief of the United Press Congressional House Staff before joining Time Inc. in 1942, served during World War II as a war correspondent for Time and Life in the China-Burma-India, Southwest Pacific and European theatres successively, and was U. S. staff officer at the 1945 Potsdam Conference.

Between 1945 and 1946 Shepley served with Army Chief of Staff General George C. Marshall, with whom he collaborated on Marshall's official World War II report. In 1946, before returning to Time Inc., he was attached to Marshall's staff when the General was sent to China as special presidential envoy.

Two years after he had returned to the Washington bureau, Shepley became the youngest (age 30) Washington bureau chief, and has the longest tenure (nine years) of service in that capacity.

In reporting his appointment, James A. Linen writing in Time wrote: "Back on the job for Time-Life, Shepley, as head of the Washington bureau made the world his beat. If he was not flying the Atlantic with General Alfred M. Gruenther, Shepley might be fishing with Vice-President Richard M. Nixon, or on a safari in Africa with the Air Force's General Curtis LeMay (for a Life picture story), or developing a far-reaching story on U. S. world policy."

A native of Harrisburg, Pa., Shepley's first reporting job before becoming a student at Dickinson College was for the Harrisburg Patriot, of which his father was managing editor. He later worked for the Associated Press, Pittsburgh Press and as the United Press Pennsylvania legislative correspondent before moving to Washington in 1940.

Named Foundation Chairman

Sidney D. Kline, '26L, was named chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Pennsylvania Bankers Association Educational Foundation for 1957-58 in August. In 1954-55, he served as president of the Pennsylvania Bankers Association and has been a member of the Board of Trustees for the past two years.

Mr. Kline is president of the Berks County Trust Company of Reading, Pa., a trustee of the College and of the Dickinson School of Law.

In Consistory Posts

Heads Carlisle Bank After Rapid Rise

RICHARD STOVER, '36, became the administrative head of the Carlisle Deposit Bank and Trust Company in August with his election as the executive vice-president, less than 11 years after taking employment with the institution in its small loans department.

He went with the bank following World War II service as a naval officer and his rise was steady. From installment loan manager he became a vice-president in 1955 and the following year was named manager of the bank's Sharon branch, a neighborhood venture which he directed with success.

Stover, who is married to the former Lena Ritner, '35, entered the loan business following his graduation from Dickinson. His first position was with the Beneficial Management Corporation which he served in Harrisburg, York, Hanover and Pottsville. He was later office manager of the Carlisle Thrift Plan and a field representative of the General Motors Acceptance Corporation.

He has been active in a wide variety of community enterprises. He was treasurer of the Carlisle Area Joint School Authority and president of the Carlisle High School Alumni Association, serving also as a director of the Carlisle Chamber of Commerce and secretary of the Cumberland-Perry Bankers Association. He is a past president of the Carlisle Kiwanis Club, which he also served as treasurer and secretary.

He and Mrs. Stover have three children, Robert, 9; Jack, 8, and Emily Jane, 6. They reside at 260 Gibson St., Carlisle.

The Land Called Lowther

"The Land in Cumberland Called Lowther" is the title of an attractive booklet of forty pages and cover by Robert G. Crist, '47, which has been published by the Lemoyne Trust Company, Lemoyne, Pa., as a community service.

It preserves a paper presented by

C. Richard Stover

"Bob" Crist before the Hamilton Library and Historical Association of Cumberland County, Carlisle, Pa., on March 21, 1957. It contains fine original sketches by Dorothy Kendall including one of Lowther Castle, south of Carlisle, England; the Eichelberger House on Simpson Ferry Road; the Bowman Tavern built in 1799 in Camp Hill and the oldest structure in Lowther Manor begun in 1772 by the patriot Robert Whitehill. There are also maps and documents dating from colonial days.

The author has done a painstaking job in giving as he says in the Foreword "some glances of eastern Cumberland County, Pennsylvania, in Colonial days when the Valley was part of Chester County and after 1729 of Lancaster." It is an excellent account of the West

Shore's colonial period.

Renew Cross Country

The first Dickinson cross country team in nearly 10 years will participate in three meets this fall, as follows: Oct. 8, Albright, away; Oct. 19, F. and M., away; Nov. 2, Elizabethtown, home.

Produce Monumental Edition of Byron Work

By Dr. William Sloane
Martha Porter Sellers Professor of English
Byron's Don Juan: A Variorum Edition. University of Texas Press, Austin 12, Tex.
$30.00 a set.

WILLIS PRATT was a literary light at Hamilton College in my day there, but he transferred and received his B.A., M.A., and Ph.D. from Cornell. In 1935 he went to the University of Texas, where he is now Professor of English. In 1938 a Dickinsonian, Truman Guy Steffan, '31, went to the University of Texas also and has stayed there in the English Department since. Over the years Pratt and Steffan have written extensively on the Romantic period in English literature, with particular emphasis on Byron.

Now the two have joined forces to produce a magnificent and monumental four-volume edition of Byron's Don Juan, the poem which Byron himself thought would probably "tire fortune and time, and breathe when I expire." Their Byron's "Don Juan": A Variorum Edition (University of Texas Press, 1957) is a prodigious feat of scholarship, one that has needed doing for a long time.

Professor Steffan, in volume I, The Making of a Masterpiece, describes in detail the circumstances surrounding the composition of Don Juan, interwoven with biographical material taken largely from Byron's own correspondence with his publisher and friends.

Professors Steffan and Pratt, in volumes II and III, A Variorum Edition, jointly present the only modern scholarly edition of Don Juan. They provide an authentic and original text based on a collation of early editions and of all available holograph manuscripts, numbering hundreds of handwritten pages. These Byron manuscripts, which are widely scattered in public and private libraries, enable the editors to demonstrate that all previously published versions of Don Juan are defective and do not represent what Byron wrote. Consequently the Variorum Edition presents the only text of Byron's longest and greatest poem which can henceforth be considered trustworthy.

Professor Pratt, in volume IV, Notes on the Variorum Edition, has compiled comprehensive annotations which heighten the color and enjoyment of the poem. These detailed notes, more accurate than those in any other edition, take full advantage of information amassed by scholars since the last annotated edition, published half a century

This long-awaited edition is a truly remarkable job of meticulous scholar-ship.

Guy Steffan is also co-author of a textbook, Studies in Prose (New York, 1939), and since 1945 he has published fourteen articles on Byron in scholarly periodicals. He taught from 1931 to 1938 at the University of Wisconsin, from which he received his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees. His doctoral dissertation dealt with the seventeenth-century divine, Jeremy Taylor.

Translates the Ten Colloquies of Erasmus

By Dr. E. A. Vuilleumier, C. Scott Althouse Professor of Chemistry

TEN COLLOQUIES OF ERASMUS, Translated, with Introduction and Notes, by Craig R. Thompson, Professor of English, Lawrence College. The Liberal Arts Press, Inc., 153 W. 72nd Street, New York 23, N. Y. 1957 Price, 90 cents.

DR. Craig Thompson, '33, magister of Erasmusian Latin as well as of the English language, has made available to the Common Reader the following ten of the fifty surviving Colloquies: The Shipwreck, Inns, The Wooer and the Maiden, Exorcism, Alchemy, A Pilgrimage for Religion's Sake, The Funeral, Charon, Cyclops, and The Godly Feast.

Let the prospective Gentle Reader be caveated that in some of these dialogues Erasmus is thoroughly uninhibited. Small wonder that he found himself betimes in water that was very hot. His extrications, though often ingenious, were not always pronounced ingenuous.

Each of the ten in the original must be a literary masterpiece, and if the translator modestly tells us that "much of the felicity of style has vanished," and that "much of the wit has gone lame," there is still of both quantum sufficit.

A special kudos is due the XXII pages that comprise the Introduction. Here is learning and erudition, but with a felicity not unworthy of Desiderius himself.

Dr. Thompson is presently in Washington, completing his magnum opus in the Erasmus alcove of the Folger.

Author of a monograph on Erasmus and of articles in philological journals, he edited the Erasmus diologue "An Inquiry Concerning Faith" which Yale University Press published in 1950. He is also the co-author of an anthology designed for freshman English courses, entitled "Thought and Experience in Prose." He has spent the past five or six summers in pursuit of special research at the Folger Shakespeare Library, and this month he began a year's leave of absence from Lawrence College to serve the famous library as a special consultant and do some editorial work for it.

Craig R. Thompson

A college teacher for nearly 25 years, he will be on the campus October 15 to deliver one of the James Henry Morgan Lectures which this year are to be given by Dickinsonians distinguished in higher education.

Two Lawyers Honored

Two graduates from the college in 1926 and from the Law School in 1928, Solomon Hurwitz and Wilhelm E. Shissler, lawyers of Harrisburg, Pa., have been inducted into fellowships in the American College of Trial Lawyers.

The legal association selects its fellows by invitation and limits its membership to one per cent of the lawyers practicing in any one state. Induction into the College of Trial Lawyers is considered one of the highest honors in the legal profession.

Sol is a member of the firm of Hurwitz, Klein, Meyers and Benjamin and Shissler is a member of the firm of Nauman, Smith, Shissler and Hall.

Southern Del-Mar-Va Club Again Opens Season

THE Rev. Ralph Lee Minker, Jr., '47, pastor of the Atlantic Methodist Church, was elected president of the Southern Del-Mar-Va Alumni Club at the third annual dinner held on August 3 in the George Washington Hote! Ocean City, Md., with 40 present. Marvin H. Tawes, '26, of Crisfield, Md., was elected vice president of the club and Raymond W. Hallman, '31, of Seaford, Del., secretary-treasurer.

Dr. Harry T. Smith, '26, dentist of Salisbury, Md., who completed a two-year term as president, acted as toast-master. The invocation was given by Dr. Dayton E. McClain, '06, who received his early education in the Salisbury schools. For some years, he has been vice president of American University.

Kendall McCabe, of Berlin, who entered the College as a freshman this month, was one of the guests. Others included Mr. Austin Banks, Mr. and Mrs. William T. Guy and Miss M. Louise Van Dyke, all of Salisbury; Harry H. Nuttle, of Denton and Professor Bernard Forcey, of Wesley Junior College, Dover, Del.

Homer M. Respess, '17, officer of the Federal Land Bank of Baltimore, and secretary of the General Alumni Association, was the principal speaker. Other speakers were C. Wendell Holmes, of Upper Darby, Pa., president of the alumni association and Vice President Gilbert Malcolm, who concluded the program.

The club set the first Friday of August 1958 for its next meeting. Two trustees of the college, S. M. Drayer and Charles C. Duke, both of Baltimore, also were present as were the Rev. and Mrs. Ralph L. Minker, of Wilmington, the parents of the new president.

Joins "Seniors of Old Bellaire"

"My service to the College has been one of great joy," said Dean M. Hoffman, '02, when he received a framed certificate of membership in the "Seniors of Old Bellaire," a new order created by a grateful college to honor faculty members, trustees and employes for 25 years or more of faithful service to Dickinson. An engraved pocket watch accompanied the certificate.

Dr. William W. Edel, president of the College, made the presentation at the Commencement meeting of the Alumni Council. Hoffman, a retired newspaper editor residing in Florida, was on the campus for the 55th reunion of his class. Most of the other 37 charter members of the order had received their certificate and watch in March at a dinner given in their honor by the College.

Few Dickinsonians in any period have been more interested in their class and in alumni and college affairs since graduation than Hoffman has been. An associate editor of THE ALUMNUS since 1923 and now a Trustee Emeritus after long service as a member of the Board of Trustees, he has missed few Commencements or Homecomings through the years. Now as a Floridian, the former Harrisburg, Pa., editor has been active in bringing together, for the purpose of forming Dickinson clubs, the increasing number of alumni living in Florida. Three such groups are in the process of being organized there.

He disclaims anything unusual about his affection for the College. Upon receiving his membership in the Seniors of Old Bellaire from Dr. Edel he said, "This is an honor wholly undeserved. My service to the College has been one of joy."

Form Law Firm

James K. Arnold, '51, and John E. Slike, '51, announced the opening of offices for the general practice of law at 2109 Market Street, Camp Hill, in June and also their association with the firm of Weary, Hess and Humer, 18 N. Court House Ave., Carlisle.

Plan Alumni Gathering At Conference Sessions

NEW kind of roving alumni club was formed by a small, but enthusiastic group of Dickinsonians, attending the Wyoming Annual Conference of the Methodist Church, in Endicott, New York. Calling themselves the Wyoming Conference Dickinson Group, the organization plans to meet annually, on Saturday noon in late May during the meeting of the Wyoming Conference.

Professor Henry G. Kiessil '28, was elected President and Secretary-Treasurer for the first organizational year. His responsibility will be to attempt to have the meeting included in the official program of the Conference and to give the meeting other widespread publicity.

Alumni and parents of Dickinsonians residing in the area of the annual meeting of the Wyoming Conference will also be invited. The program will be given by representatives from the College and arrangements will be made for those who cannot stay for a buffet luncheon to join in the fellowship and to have their names entered upon an official register.

Dickinsonians attending the Wyoming, and other annual conferences of the Methodist Church, include lay leaders and ministers. The Wyoming Conference includes churches in the northeastern quarter of Pennsylvania and southeastern section of New York.

The formation of the Wyoming Conference Dickinson Group grew out of informal luncheon meetings arranged for the past three years by Dr. Roy T. Henwood '26. Those who attended the organizational meeting, in addition to Dr. Henwood and Professor Kiessel, are: W. Harold Sloan '25, Harry S. Henck'20, J. Edwin Lintern '54 and Alfred L. Crayton, whose son is a sophomore at the College. Professor Albert Walker, Assistant to the President of Dickinson College, represented the College at the meeting.

The Wyoming Conference Dickinson Group may well set the pattern for other such organizations at Conferences in which Dickinsonians are represented.

On World Tour

Bishop and Mrs. Fred Pierce Corson leave Philadelphia this month on a world tour, taking him to a number of important religious, educational and government conferences.

The former President of the College, who is resident bishop of the Philadelphia area of the Methodist Church, will participate in the planning conference to be held in London for the 1958 World-Wide Evangelistic Crusade in colleges and universities sponsored by the World Council of the Methodist Church. Bishop Corson is vice president of that organiation. While in England, he will speak at the Francis Asbury celebrations in Birmingham.

His tour will include stops in Rome, Istanbul, Bangkok, Manila, Taipei, Formosa and Tokyo. While in Formosa, he and Mrs. Corson will be the guests of Chiang Kai-shek and will visit the armed forces there and the island of Quemoy.

In Formosa, he will participate in conferences and will lay the cornerstone of the Methodist Church being built with funds raised in the Philadelphia Methodist Conference. He will also serve as an educational consultant in the re-establishment of Soochow Methodist University in Taipei.

Start Intercollegiate Wrestling

Four opponents have been listed for the first wrestling team in Dickinson athletic history. Coach Charles Ream, formerly of Wilkinsburg (Pa.) High School, will send his team against the Lehigh junior varsity on December 14 in Bethlehem. The only home meet is with Lebanon Valley on January 14. Away contests with Lycoming on February 8 and Western Maryland on February 15 complete the schedule.

Alumni To Give James Henry Morgan Lectures

C AMPUS-WIDE attention will be focused upon the achievements of alumni in higher education through the presentation in Chapel this year of the James Henry Morgan Lectures on College Teaching. All of the lecturers for 1957-58 are alumni.

Established by the Trustees as a living tribute to the memory of Dr. Morgan in appreciation of his long and distinguished services as one of the great teachers of the College as Professor of Greek; Dean and three-times President, the Series was presented in 1955 and 1956.

The Morgan Lectures will be offered monthly in Chapel from September through May 1 when it will be part of the annual Founders' Day Program. Speakers will appear in full academic attire, will meet with students at lunch and at an afternoon tea and will help to influence student decisions for college teaching. Dickinsonians already add up to an impressive total of 525 in education and 218 of this number in college teaching. Speakers will prepare their talks in manuscript form and will center their remarks on college teaching from the points of view of their own subject fields.

President Edel '15, will introduce the Series on September 24, and Dean Fred Ness '34, will give the final lecture on Founders' Day. Others who will appear are:

October 17: Prof. Craig Thompson '33, Chairman of the Department of English, Lawrence College.

November 26: Prof. Vincent A. Mc-Crossen '30, Professor of Comparative Literature, Boston College.

December 10: Prof. William C. Mc-Dermott '28, Chairman of the Department of Classics, University of Pennsylvania.

January 16: Prof. Janet A. Kelley '24, Professor of Psychology and Guidance, The City College of New York.

February 18: Prof. Carl C. Chambers

'29, Vice-President for Engineering Affairs, University of Pennsylvania.

March 20: Prof. Paul D. Leedy '30, Supervisor of College Reading Programs, The Reading Institute, New York University.

April 29: Prof. John W. McConnell '29, Dean of the Graduate School, Princeton University.

Alumni who can visit the Campus on these dates are welcome to attend the lectures.

In Trucking Post

John N. Hall, '29, president of Hall's Motor Transit Company, Harrisburg, one of the leading trucking firms in Central Pennsylvania, has been elected a directorat-large of the American Trucking Association. He also serves on Liberty Mutual's motor transportation advisory committee.

A business executive with diversified interests, Hall is president of a number of firms, including the Susquehanna Equipment Corporation, Sunbury; Carlisle Sales Corporation, Carlisle, and Hall's Furniture Stores, Inc. He founded the Hall Foundation, for philanthropies, and serves as its president. His home is in Harrisburg.

An Instructor For Esso

J. Richard Jones, '55, has been named District Service Station Training Instructor for the Harrisburg District of Esso Standard Oil Company. Prior to his recent promotion he was a general salesman in the Johnstown District.

A graduate of Westmont Upper Yoder High School in Johnstown, he began his career as a sales trainee with Esso upon his graduation from the college in 1955. He graduated recently from the Central Esso Retail School, Lyndhurst, N. J.

The Esso Company conducts schools used in the training of salesmen and service station lessees who will operate their own businesses.

New State College Professor A TV Star

By Dr. William Sloane

DICKINSON's latest TV star, Dr. William W. Betts, Jr., '49, started his fifteen-week course for college credit in "Contemporary Poetry" in September over station WQED, Pittsburgh. Dr. Betts, who received his Ph.D. from Pennsylvania State University in 1954, was promoted last June to the rank of full Professor of English at State Teachers College, Indiana, Pa. Before going to Indiana as an assistant professor, he taught for two years at Penn State, where as a graduate student he was elected to Phi Kappa Phi, and for one year at Ohio University, Athens, Ohio.

When not teaching, or preparing his TV shows, or coaching freshman basket-ball and assisting with the varsity, or helping his wife (the former Jane Jackson, '49) to bring up their two-year-old son Michael, the indefatigable Dr. Betts has been making a name for himself in the world of scholarship.

In early September he acted as secretary of the Comparative Literature Section (Anglo-German Literary Relations) at the annual meeting of the Modern Language Association held at the University of Wisconsin. At that time he was also elected chairman of the Section for the 1958 meeting of the MLA.

Dr. Betts' paper on "Moby Dick: Melville's Faust," which was presented at the 1956 meeting of the MLA, has been printed in Research for the Teaching Profession (March, 1957), the annual research bulletin of the Indiana State Teachers College. In the same publication appeared a summary of his doctoral dissertation, "The Fortunes of Faust in American Literature."

Dr. Betts is also the author of a chapter on George Meredith and one on William Dean Howells in the first volume of a series called Anglo-German and American - German Crosscurrents (University of North Carolina Press, 1957), of which volume he was assistant editor. Both Meredith and Howells were strongly influenced by German literature and life, and each in his own country was an important interpreter of German culture. The editor-in-chief of this volume of Crosscurrents is Dr. Philip A. Shelley, Professor of German and Comparative Literature at Penn State.

The second volume of the Crosscur-rents series, to be published in 1958, will be a book based on Dr. Betts' doctoral dissertation.

Move over, Van Doren!

Resigns From School Post

Dr. Hobart M. Corning, superintendent of schools in Washington, D. C., for the past 12 years, announced his resignation, effective March, 1958.

Dr. Corning is given credit for carrying out integration in the District of Columbia schools. He was also largely responsible for the establishment of a single salary schedule for teachers and for a school construction program aimed to reduce part-time schooling.

Dickinson College conferred the honorary degree of Doctor of Science upon him at the June, 1953, commencement.

Long-Term Trustee Dies of a Heart Attack

G. Harold Baker, '10, a member of the Board of Trustees of the College for 40 years, died suddenly at his home in Aberdeen, Md., on August 3, of a heart attack.

While he had not been in the best of health, he had been going about as usual. He told the members of his family he would stay at home while they went to the movies and when they returned they found him dead in his chair in the living room.

Born in Aberdeen, Md., on October 15, 1884, he prepared for college at the Tome Institute. He graduated from the college in 1910, received his A.M. in 1911 and did graduate work at the Bryant and Stratton Business School. As an undergraduate, he was manager of the Glee Club, a member of Ravens Claw and he maintained a life-long interest in Kappa Sigma Fraternity.

Following his graduation, he entered his family's canning business which he continued until 1938 with the interruption of service during World War I. He was commissioned a first lieutenant and served in one of the early Ordnance Schools and later became Provost Marshal of the Aberdeen post after organizing the first MP Company there. After his discharge, he played a major role in forming the first National Guard Company in Harford County, Md. At the time of his death he held the rank of Major in the Army Reserve Corps.

In 1940 he entered Federal Employment and was a technical writer for the Ordnance School at the Aberdeen Proving Ground. He assisted in the editing of special texts prepared for extension training division.

He was a director of the First National Bank of Aberdeen and was the first vice president of that bank from 1926 to 1940. He was also president of G. H. Baker, Inc., Middletown, Del.

At one time a local preacher of the Methodist Church, he served as a steward, trustee and superintendent of the Sunday School in Aberdeen.

G. Harold Baker

He is survived by his wife, the former Louise Lockhart, and their three sons; George Harold Baker, Jr., '42; James L. Baker and Richard Barry Baker, all at home.

Enters Foreign Trade

William T. Hostetter, '52, graduated from the American Institute for Foreign Trade at Thunderbird Field, Phoenix, Ariz., on May 31.

Specializing in Latin America, he took the school's intensive training course in preparation for a career in American business abroad. He began work with the Mercator Corporation following his graduation from the Institute.

Hostetter attended the Peddie School and graduated from the College in 1952. A member of Theta Chi, he was a member of the "D" Club, Interfraternity Council and the varsity football and track teams.

The course of study at the Institute concentrates on the techniques of international business administration, foreign languages and characteristics of foreign countries.

Death Claims Robert Paul Masland

ROBERT PAUL MASLAND, '19, member of the Board of Athletic Control, leading businessman and prominent civic leader, died on July 21 in the Carlisle Hospital following a long illness. He was first vice president and chairman of the Finance Committee of C. H. Masland and Sons, Carlisle.

From the days when he was a stellar guard on the football team and played on the unbeaten team of 1917, he maintained a deep and abiding interest in the college. He was a life member of the General Alumni Association and served as class agent in the Annual Giving Campaign. He also was actively interested in the affairs of his fraternity, Alpha Chi Rho.

He joined C. H. Masland and Sons on July 1, 1919, became treasurer in 1930 and secretary in 1948. In 1955, he became first vice president and chairman of the Finance Committee. He was a member of the Board of Directors of the company and vice president and a director of the Masland Duraleather Company, Philadelphia, treasurer and director of the Amber Realty Company, Philadelphia, and a director of the Dauphin Deposit Bank and Trust Company of Harrisburg.

Prominent in civic affairs, he was a former member of the Carlisle Borough Council, on which he served several terms, and of the Carlisle Water Authority.

He was also active in the Second Presbysterian Church of Carlisle and was a member of the Racquet and Union League Clubs of Philadelphia, and also of the Carlisle Country Club.

Born in Philadelphia on November 10, 1897, he prepared for college at the Friends Central School in Philadelphia. During World War I he served with the U. S. Naval Reserve.

He is survived by his wife, the former Ruth Sample; four children, Dr. Robert P. Masland of Needham, Mass., William S. and Edward K. Masland, both of Carlisle, and Mrs. Edward M. Griffith of Kingston, Pa.; his brother, Frank E. Masland, Jr., '18, who is president of C. H. Masland and Sons; and 12 grandchildren.

Funeral services were held in the Second Presbyterian Church, Carlisle, and burial was made in the Westminster Mausoleum.

Heads District Attorneys

Park H. Loose, '27, was elected president of the District Attorneys Association of Pennsylvania at the annual meeting in July. He was the vice-president last year and secretary-treasurer in 1954 and 1955.

The district attorney of Blair County for the past five years, he has practiced law in Altoona and Hollidaysburg since his admission to the Pennsylvania bar in 1931, the year after he graduated from the George Washington University School of Law. He has his office in the Central Trust Building, Altoona.

Ever since Loose took office as district attorney in 1952, the first assistant district attorney of the county has been his Dickinson classmate, Frank B. Warfel.

The Year of the "New Look" In Football

WITH a new coach at the helm and hopes high for the first winning season since 1949, Dickinson opens its 72nd football campaign September 28 against Lycoming, perhaps the strongest of the eight opponents on the schedule. The game will be played at Williamsport, Pa.

The annual contest with traditional foe F. and M. on October 12 has been designated the Parents Day game and Johns Hopkins will be the Homecoming attraction November 16. The Hopkins game winds up the season. Swarthmore on October 5 and Susquehanna, October 19, are the other home opponents.

Alumni in the greater New York area can see the Red and White in action on Staten Island October 26 against Wagner. This game will bring the team into the area for the first time in the history of Dickinson football. The team will be in western Pennsylvania November 2 against Allegheny and in the northeastern part of the state November 9 against Wilkes, a newcomer to the schedule. These games will provide opportunities for informal area rallies of alumni.

This is the year of the "new look" in Dickinson sports. Donald Seibert, new head coach, has discarded the single wing of his predecessor, Brit Piez, and has installed the split "T." Freshmen are now eligible for all varsity sports, and cross country and wrestling have been added to the athletic setup.

Charles Ream, another newcomer, who will coach wrestling, is assisting in football, as is David Eavenson, the director of athletics, who is starting his third year at the College. Joseph DuCharme, the fourth member of the athletic staff, continues as basketball and track coach and will also coach cross country.

Coach Seibert and his aides are working with a 40-member squad which began practice Labor Day on Biddle Field. The manpower includes 15 lettermen, a number of other boys with limited varsity experience and 16 players from last year's frosh team. There are seven seniors. There is no backfield depth and there are no experienced centers. A run of injuries could be disastrous. Another problem is the finding of a quarterback to direct the "T."

Dave Woodruff, senior, who did most of the quarterbacking last year, and Dave Wachter, sophomore, hailed as a potentially great passer, are the prospects for signal-caller. Wachter's favorite target on the frosh team last season was his brother, Bob, an end. This passing combination figures large in Seibert's plans.

Lettermen Sammy Rose, Dick Shanaman, Judson Laird and Norm Berger head the ball carrying prospects, while Harvey Bair and Robertson Taylor, tackles; Lee Shipman and Rom DeMarino, guards, and Bill Smith, Dave Shafer and Bob Faunce, ends, are the hard core of the veteran linemen. Bob Cook, 215-pound junior tackle, may be converted to fullback because of the player shortage in the backfield.

Seibert, 35, and Ream, 29, come to the College from successful high school coaching jobs. A former George Washington captain, Seibert spent the past four years at Middletown High School where his teams compiled a 24-13-3 record. His 1956 team lost only one game and was rated among the best in central Pennsylvania.

A New Departure Results In Fine Reunion

By Robert G. Crist, '47

S OMETHING new in Dickinson reunions this year was an idea tried out by the Class of 1947 on Alumni Day. On its tenth reunion '47 wrote all persons who were graduated in 1946 and 1948 and asked them to join in 10th anniversary festivities. More than 70 met together in a spacious hotel ballroom after the Alumni Luncheon.

Attendance was about equally divided between 1947 and 1948, although a few persons from 1946 attended also. Decision to have the joint reunion came after the Class was polled with rather interesting results. Only one of the men who graduated in 1947 spent four years with the class. Composed almost entirely of veterans, the group includes men who started their Dickinson careers in six other classes, went to war and returned in time to earn degrees in 1947. In 1946 and 1948 the same situation prevailed. A majority of the men in these classes were pre-war Dickinsonians.

1947 made its class gift in memory of the first member to die, William Mc-Inroy, who originally studied with the Class of 1944 but graduated and reunioned with 1947 regularly. His widow, Joan Thatcher McInroy, Dickinson 1946, was among the group at the Alumni Luncheon who watched the presentation by the 1947 Class Agent.

Credit for organizing the reunion goes to Barbara Macy Miller, who served as treasurer, and Joy Cameron Hicks, Joyce William Kushinka, and others wrote personal letters to sorority sisters urging attendance.

At the conclusion of the reception Dr. L. Holland Taylor, president of the Class of 1948, and Robert C. Slutzker, Class treasurer, reserved the same facility for the 1958 Alumni Day and invited the Class of 1947 to join in their reunion next year.

OBITUARY

1893—The Rev. Edmund J. Kulp, a Methodist minister for 51 years, died on June 2 in Evanston, Ill. He was 83 and had been in failing health since his retirement in 1946.

His last pastorate was at the Broadway Methodist Church in Chicago. Earlier he served in the Hemingway Methodist Church in Evanston.

While he began his ministry following his graduation from the College in 1893 in New Jersey, most of his career was in churches in Kansas City and Topeka, Kan. Survivors include his widow, Florence, of Evanston.

1894—Alexander McClure Ashley, scientist, prominent churchman and civic leader in Washington, D. C., died at his home in Chevy Chase, Md., after a long illness on July 11.

He was the founder and a trustee of the Chevy Chase Methodist Church and a founder of the Fossils' Club, an organization of retired men in the Washington area, especially interested in classical music and scientific subjects.

From 1896 to 1906, Mr. Ashley was affiliated with the United States Weather Bureau. He helped set up weather stations in Syracuse, N. Y., and Hawaii. From 1925 to 1952, he was employed by the Department of Agriculture.

Born on December 20, 1872, in Washington, he graduated from the high school there and received a Ph.D. from the College in 1894, when he graduated with Phi Beta Kappa honors and an A.M. in 1897. He received the LL.B. degree in 1895 from the National University of Law.

A Mason, he was a Past Master of the Chevy Chase Lodge and a member of the Almas Temple of Shriners. He was also a member of Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity.

Surviving are his wife, the former Harriet Estelle Powell, and a daughter, Mrs. Leslie A. Taner, of Chevy Chase.
