Dear Susie,

You are right in supposing that Mrs White had invited me and as I mean to see none the less if you I accepted her invitation.

I shall be there Friday night - perhaps go to the prayer meeting - I have no end of things to say to you, As to the girls they send you them thanks but it is their staying that gives me liberty to go since I know that their Father will miss no temporal Comfort by my absence & he is cheerfully willing to spare me - tho' not able to go himself

I confess I am gratified in view of all the pains at this movement.

for one cant but look down with the indignity

When are the men who dare to chase him out of Brooklyn & catch an assassin?

This is Dr Storr's opportunity but I'm afraid he won't know it - Well good bye my beloved till I see you once more Ever & Ever Yours
