BIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

Maria DiFava was born in Lebanon County, PA in 1953 where she grew up on a dairy farm. She graduated from high school and attended nursing school but became burned out, from the hectic schedule of schooling and work, and left the program shortly before graduation. She ultimately became an EMT volunteer and worked as a mail carrier for the US Postal Service. Marie married and had three children with her husband, whom she later divorced.

When she came out, DiFava started to look for gay organizations to join in her area. After travelling throughout Central PA, DiFava became frustrated at the lack of a lesbian community in Lebanon, thus the Lebanon County Lesbians organization was formed. The group met in DiFava's home starting in June of 1997, and for the next few years, she hosted meetings in her home until she was able to have help planning events and meetings. DiFava advertised through Lebanon County initially, but eventually turned toward the entirety of Central PA. Members were from all walks of life, young to old, and the organization created a space where women could make friends and relate to other women in the county. The group disbanded in the winter of 2002 when DiFava wanted to include transwomen in the group and other members disagreed with this view.

DiFava still lives in Lebanon County today.

COLLECTION DESCRIPTION

This collection contains 12 series: Lebanon County Lesbians, Metropolitan Community Church (MCC), Common Roads, Pride Fest of PA, General Organizations, Business Cards, Newspapers, Magazines, Miscellaneous Papers, Media, Artifacts, and Books.

The Lebanon County Lesbians category includes membership information, newsletters, and social group gathering memorabilia. The Metropolitan Community Church (MCC) grouping contains newsletters and pamphlets advertising services. The Common Roads section is comprised of records regarding services and events, and the Pride Fest of Central PA category contains information about that annual event.

The General Organizations grouping is organized in alphabetical order by organization name and includes materials such as pamphlets, flyers, and information packets. The Business Cards section of the collection contains information about LGBTQ friendly businesses that DiFava collected to share with lesbians seeking resources. For preservation reasons the business cards have been removed from their original wallet and placed into business card sleeves, although the original wallet remains in the collection. The Newspapers category includes articles on the LGBTQ community, while the Magazines grouping contains full issues of LGBTQ magazines. The Miscellaneous Papers section is comprised of records that did not fit within the other established categories. The Media grouping includes cassette tapes of professional lesbian musical groups, while the Artifacts category contains a t-shirt, with a logo designed by Barry Loveland for the Gay and Lesbian Switchboard of Harrisburg, and favors from an MCC anniversary event. The final category contains a book that was a thank-you gift to DiFava from Judy Chambers, who was the editor of the Lavender Letter at the time.
