. . . Once more back again

IN THIS 1952 MICROCOSM, we have attempted to depict the life of Dickinson College, our own microcosm or "little world." We shall first show something of Carlisle, then the campus, next the people, and finally the various aspects of their life. When you read through your Microcosm today, we hope that you will be satisfied with our efforts. We believe that this record of Dickinson will become more valuable to you each year. You will refer to it time and again when you are trying to recall the name of that girl who played a character part in the Follies or of that tenth Black Hat, whose name has slipped your mind.

To the seniors, this issue of the Microcosm will be of special importance. In it will be found a record of their achievements and of their contributions to the microcosm of Dickinson. The material on these pages will bring back memories of a very valuable part of their lives.

The goal of the Microcosm staff this year was a book that would give enjoyment and information both now and in the years ahead to every Dickinsonian. We hope we have achieved our purpose.

Administration

the manner of his teaching

The administration and the faculty of our college are too often forgotten—or at least ignored—by the students. They exist in the minds of us as persons who are living in a world quite apart from the students' world; we think of them as sitting in an office dictating college policies or standing in front of a class delivering a lecture. Actually the "little world" of the faculty and administration and the "little world" of the students are one and the same. This is the microcosm of Dickinson College, and faculty and students alike are working toward its improvement. Only by wise guidance by the administration and cooperation between them and the students can this goal be realized.

EVERYONE else is interested, Dr. Vuilleumier.

Dickinson College, in recent years, has sought to live each day as if that day presented the greatest opportunity for living faced by any generation. Constantly we pay tribute to the thousands of men and women who have dedicated themselves through the years to the expansion of this institution's ideals for higher education. However, Dickinson must not live on the grandeur of past achievements. We must keep pressing forward with an expanding ideal for a liberal arts college. We are concerned with excellence, not with mediocrity.

Dickinson College dare not be satisfied with present accomplishments. The world's emergency demands finer educational ideals and equipment for education to fit men and women for tomorrow's living. We must press forward to meet the challenge which is upon us. With faculty highly trained and dedicated to the great adventure of teaching, we can still go no further forward than is made possible by the excellence of our facilities—library, buildings, endowment, scholarships and endowed chairs. All these must be developed and enlarged. This is our vision! We must provide on every level for the development of those qualities of mind and character necessary for a better world. The Class of 1952 will have its part to play in the realization of the dream of Dickinson. We shall test what we have done in the four years past by your ability to face tomorrow.

undream'd shores

Four years of college life—with its many high spots and its low ones too—lie behind the seniors as we step out of the microcosm of Dickinson and enter a far larger and more complex world. This world that we are about to step into is far from being a pleasant one, and many times we will look back longingly on our years here at Dickinson with its weekends and its fraternity life and with little more to worry about than a few hour exams. But we can not return to this little world. We must look to the future, to the war-torn world that needs intelligent, young leaders. From now on, that will be our world, and we hope that the training received here will enable us to fill our new roles capably.

CLASS OF NINETEEN FIFTY TWO

HISTORY:

The '52 Club

THE 52 CLUB IS an auxiliary organization of the Class of 1952, open to all members of the current senior class; the membership roll of the 52 Club is the listing of all members of the class. The 52 Club was founded to create class consciousness and out of this class consciousness to give more meaning to the college years. Another purpose was to promote friendship among the members of the Class.

The 52 Club was first organized in the spring of 1949, with Mickey Feldman and Jim Ecker providing the creative spark, in the form of a dinner meeting at the Carlisle Diner on North Pitt Street. Originally, meetings were held monthly, and the place of the meetings was changed to the banquet room of the Molly Pitcher Hotel. At each meeting, there were two representatives of the Class of 1952 from each fraternity, sorority, and independent group on the campus. Various members of the organizations would take turns representing their group so that at each meeting, with the exception of the officers, the membership would be entirely changed.

The officers of the 52 Club were the officers of the Class. When it was originally organized, Robert Farrow, president of the class during the freshman year, presided over the meetings.

In the autumn of 1949, Donald Taylor took over as president of the class of 1952 and the 52 Club. Other officers were: Richard Owens, vice president; Kermit Lloyd, secretary; Lester Steiner, treasurer. Our new class dean, Dr. Herbert Wing, became the club adviser. Several dinner meetings were held at the Molly Pitcher Hotel and faculty members were the honored speakers. During this year, after a few meetings in South, the class held a skating party.

With the coming of our junior year, James Park was elected president of the class. His supporting officers were: Ted Felmev, vice president; Phyllis Lamont, secretary; and Philip Capice, treasurer. The biggest and best meeting of this year was a dinner meeting in February at which Dr. Eric Barnes, chairman of the English Department, gave an exciting account of his many experiences on Broadway.

The officers of the senior year were elected in May, 1951, and Arnold Weber was placed at the club's head. Philip Capice was elected vice president, Eileen Fair, secretary, and Denton Ashway, treasurer.

The 52 Club has served its purpose of consolidating the class into a functioning group. Through it the members of the class have become better acquainted and have developed a feeling of class unity.

yet far fairer than you are

The contributions that the freshman, sophomore and junior classes have made to Dickinson thus far have been many and valuable. In the years that lie ahead, these classes will play an increasingly important part in the life of Dickinson College. Yours is a dual responsibility, for in addition to carrying on the activities of the college, you must also be preparing for the future. To a great extent, these two things go hand in hand, for in learning to deal with the responsibilities and problems of a microcosm, you will gain practical experience that will aid you when faced with the problems of the real world. To you, the senior class extends good luck and encouragement.

JUNIOR CLASS HISTORY

THE CLASS OF 1953 of Dickinson College, arriving on campus in September, 1949, was a crowd of bewildered freshmen. After a short week of orientation and becoming resigned to wearing dinks, red ribbons, signs and arm-bands, they entered classes and began to settle down to a year of hard work and college life.

At their first meeting, the class elected as their officers: President, George Scott; Vice President, Robert Gasull; Secretary, Kay Gleim; and Treasurer, Anna Mae Hollis. A social committee was appointed and a group chosen to draft a constitution. First on the social program of the year was a dinner held at the Molly Pitcher Hotel. It was here that the group first became acquainted and felt united as a class. The next get-together was a dance held at South College, with entertainment provided by the talented members of the class. In the Spring of the year, the class relinquished their studies for an afternoon and traveled to Pine Grove for a picnic.

Extending their success to the sports field, the freshmen boys had quite successful football and basketball teams, while the girls won the Sports Cup for being champions of the hockey, swimming, and bowling teams.

A number of the class were represented on the Dean's List, and as a whole the '53'ers scholarship standing was good. James Hauser was presented the Skull and Key Award for the outstanding freshman boy. Throughout the year the class had representatives in every phase of college life.

Elected as officers for the sophomore year were: President, Edward Adourian; Vice President, James Hauser; Secretary, Elizabeth Middleton; and Treasurer, John Trickett. The class adopted a revised constitution and voted that each member of the class would set aside three dollars yearly from his damage fund to be used toward a gift to the college after graduation.

In this year, the class of 1953 copped honors, as well as adding prestige to the college. Sophomores were again well represented on the Dean's List, and many were tapped and initiated into honor fraternities. Edward Adourian won the Omicron Delta Kappa award for the outstanding sophomore man. Skull and Key, junior men's honorary fraternity, initiated James Hauser, Gomer Jones, Donald Heller, James Pritchard, Norman McWhinney, Robert Gasull, John Trickett, William Stark, Robert Glaymon, and William Kollas. Alpha Psi Omega, national honorary dramatic fraternity, initiated Ann Boyd, Anna Mae Hollis, and Elizabeth McCarthy. Delta Phi Alpha, national German honorary fraternity, initiated Joan Gettig, Joan Hambleton, Sandra Post, Robert Allman, and Raymond Phillips.

The class was well-represented in the rosters of varsity teams. The girls retained possession of the Sports Cup for winning both the hockey and swimming championships.

The social calendar for the year included a buffet supper at South College, followed by a dance in honor of the freshman men and women. The class again retreated to Pine Grove in the Spring for a very successful picnic.

It was in this year that the '53'ers increased their class and school spirit, initiative and congeniality.

Having passed the halfway mark of their college careers, the class of 1953 returned to campus to continue progress. This year the juniors contributed greatly in every phase of college life. Elizabeth Fosnocht was chosen to be Junior Sophister for her outstanding scholarship achievements. Stephen Ritt was initiated into Skull and Key to replace Robert Glaymon, who did not return. The junior girls, for the first time in many years, won the hockey championship for the third consecutive time. Juniors were represented on all sports teams.

President Bob Jones, Vice President Sid Kline, Secretary Jean DeLong, and Treasurer Frank Oglesby.

AS WE, THE SOPHOMORE CLASS of 1951-52 look back over the passing year, can we refrain from comparing our second year at Dickinson with our first year after high school graduation.

In many ways our second year has not been as spectacular or unique as our freshman year, lacking such novelties as being rushed, freshman rules, pledge training and the first weekend home as a "college" man or woman.

With our sophomore experiences fresh in our minds, drift back to those early days two years ago when 150 men and women first traipsed across the campus. There were schedules to check, forms to fill out and books to be purchased. Surprisingly the most complicated details were the freshman rules—quaint little inconveniences which applied only to us but seemed to interest the distinguished members of the Skull and Key and the Wheel and Chain. Although the traditional dink kept one's head relatively dry from the monsoons, the remainder of the paraphernalia only contributed to our displeasure.

We remember too, the smokers, dances and other social gimmicks used to entice freshmen during the rushing period. Those who "went fraternity" were then subjected to pledge regulations and were led to believe that they were the lowest form of animal life on the surface of the earth.

Among the hours spent in studying, obeying regulations and attending classes, we found time for recreation. For instance, there were the late evening tours through the streets of Carlisle sponsored by the Black Hats, the window washing parties at the fraternities and the weekend football games where the "frosh" showed their true spirit through their organized cheering.

Then came a cloud on the horizon. Intensified examinations forewarned us of impending roll call. Happy were those of our number whose parents didn't receive a note from the registrar's office.

On Alumni Day the men of our class staged one last nightly demonstration of their unflinching loyalty to the college by defeating the "frosh" from Gettysburg in a tug of war. Although the final decision was debatable, Dickinson was declared the winner and freshman rules were revoked.

The weeks flew by rapidly with Thanksgiving and Christmas soon becoming only memories. The days of reckoning were approaching. Semester examinations were just around the corner, and many a Red Devil burned dry the midnight oil in those pre-exam days. A few days of repose and the battle of student versus blue-book was on again.

Shortly after the mid-season round of dances and parties was over, we chose Bob Jones, Jim Speer and Louise Hauer to lead us as president, vice president and secretary-treasurer.

With the end of basketball season, spring made its debut. Many newly-initiated Greek men and women appeared on campus, and fraternity jewelry flowed like wine. In fact we could almost pass for upperclassmen. Towards the end of the semester, we turned out "en masse" for our class picnic at Pine Grove. Many, by virtue of the wishes of others, were painted with cosmetics and immersed in the cool waters of the lake.

Just before final examinations began we re-elected Bob Jones president, chose Sid Kline as "veep", Frank Oglesby as treasurer and Jean DeLong as secretary.

Although our minds inevitably recall the times of pleasure and tend to suppress those less desirable experiences, we could not but wonder how many of us would be back in the fall. Affairs abroad were still uncertain and when our sophomore year rolled around, we were not surprised to learn that some of our old associates were no longer with us. This year brings to a close our second year at Dickinson. Fortunate are those of us who have been able to come this far and more fortunate are those who can continue here at school. We've got a great obligation to those who are in the armed services fighting so that we may remain in the colleges and universities all over the country. When we return next year, as juniors, we'll begin the third phase in one of the greatest experiences any man or woman can have, that of attending a college of his own choice in a free land.

Secretary Henry Rutherford, Vice President John Williams, Treasurer Barbara Minich, and President David Worthington.

WITH THE DISTINCTION OF BEING the largest class in the history of Dickinson College, 256 timid yet eager freshmen became Dickonsonians on September 15, 1951.

Under the guidance of the freshman class dean, Prof. Benjamin James, the class was introduced to officials and traditions of the school by the orientation committee. After a week of becoming acquainted with the college and its customs, freshmen were informed of the necessity of wearing red hats, familiarly termed freshmen dinks; carrying of a "D" Book, which contained much valuable information for which freshmen were later held responsible; wearing of large name signs by men and identification pins by both men and women. These suggestions were made to women by the Sophomore Hazing Committee and the Wheel and Chain, and to men by the Skull and Key, later assisted by the Wine Hats. Another important phase of hazing was learning names of the members of the various hazing groups, to whom each freshman had to speak with due respect upon meeting.

Although hazing seemed of utmost importance, the class also went through the traditional rushing procedure, and 215 men pledged fraternities, while 77 women pledged sororities. Many a proud freshman happily displayed his pledge pin, later to be replaced by the long awaited fraternity pin. Each pledge loyally met the requirements of his older brother or sister, to be rewarded by a festive pledge formal and ultimately by being initiated and becoming a full-fledged member.

On October 19, the Freshman Class held its first official meeting with Jerry Weinstein, Student Senate president, presiding. Several weeks later David Worthington took over the gavel as president with John Williams assisting him as vice president, while Henry Rutherford and Barbara Minnick received the positions of secretary and treasurer, respectively. Thus on October 31, the Freshman Class officially became independent as one of the vital cogs in the Dickinson wheel.

In addition to regular monthly meetings of the class, an executive committee comprised of the class officers and one representative of each fraternity, sorority and independent organization met periodically.

As college activities began to function, it became evident that this freshman Class was not only the largest, but also one of the most ambitious classes of Dickinson. Such organizations as the Choir, the Little Theater, Student Christian Association, the Dickinsonian and others received enthusiastic support from freshmen. They did not overlook athletic activities, as ten freshmen were on the football team and others joined basketball, swimming, soccer and track squads, while freshmen women took part in intramural contests.

As the freshmen recovered from hazing, which finally died a natural death at the Homecoming Game, they gradually became accustomed to the idea of actually being a part of the college. The first roll call and final examinations were mixed with the Doll Dance, where each pledge class of the women's fraternities presented a skit, and the gala Mid-Winter Ball, and furnished a formula of hard work but pleasant reward.

Spring brought once more examinations and, as unbelievable as it had looked during the first few months of school, the proposition of becoming sophomores. In fact, as the spring social whirl and final buckling down drew to a close, approximately 256 freshmen—self-assured, rather than timid, open minded, rather than merely eager—looked back upon one of the fullest years of their lives, and forward to a year which will probably be equally long-remembered—the sophomore year.

doth ensue but . . . dull melancholy!

Extra-curricular activities are an essential part in the development of a liberal education, and Dickinson in no way deprives its students from obtaining this broader view. There are many clubs and organizations, covering a wide variety of interests and talents, made accessible to the student body. Each one works to develop and maintain the interest of its members and allows them to share in the enjoyment of working together. Dickinson College is proud of her extra-curricular activities and she has a right to be so, for they undoubtedly make a valuable contribution to life at college.

No, you can't be excused to go to a Follies' meeting

THE STUDENT SENATE, composed of one representative from each fraternity, one representative from the Independent Women, one representative from the Commons Club, and two representatives from the Independent Men, is the governing body of the students of Dickinson College. This year the Senate has fully assumed its powers and has concerned itself with all phases of college life, from the installation of Coke machines in Conway to the improvement of chapel programs. The unique feature of the Student Senate is its unity of purpose and the sincere desire of the members to enlarge its scope of activities, in order to improve relations between the administration and the students and to organize the student body into an efficient working unit.

Student organization of extra-curricular activities is largely in the hands of the various Senate committees.

The Freshmen Orientation Committee conducts an extensive program during Freshmen Week and throughout the year to acquaint the new student with the college and to make him feel an integral part of the student body.

Did he sign it yet?

Organizational meetings are scheduled by the Steering Committee to avoid conflict.

The Student Senate treasurer and the Budget Committee allot portions of the student fund where it will do the most good.

College dances and social functions are planned by the Social Committee whose chairman is a member of the Senate.

By striving for effective student government, the Student Senate of 1951-1952 has won for itself a prominent name and place on the Dickinson College Campus.

"WHAT IS THE MICROCOSM?" asked the scrawny little freshman who couldn't even pronounce it correctly.

The conceited sophomore promptly replied, "Why, it's a yearbook, stupid!"

At that the blase junior said, "It's more than just a yearbook, it's the yearbook of Dickinson College."

"Now," interrupted the senior, "let's set this freshman straight. The word "microcosm" means a "little world" according to Webster, and since it's Dickinson's Microcosm, it means the "little world of Dickinson." In this book we see all of this little world's activities and also many snapshots of its inhabitants, along with formal pictures of its leaders and oldest residents. Say look, here comes an 'alum'; let's see what our yearbook means to him."

After a short talk with his friends, he answered their question in this way: "When I look through my Microcosms, the memories of all my college days flash through my mind. In it I see my friends, my classmates, my professors. Often I see a face or hear a name and can't place the person. All I have to do is go to the Microcosm and then my memory is refreshed. In this book are recorded the highlights of all the many exciting football and basketball games, the projects of the clubs, the work of the Student Senate and the publications. It also helps one see the progress and changes the school is making. As I look back on old Microcosms, I fail to see such honoraries as Alpha Psi Omega and Delta Phi Alpha; instead I see Tau Delta Pi and Alpha Sigma Gamma.

JEAN ROWE
Editor

"If you look deep enough into the Microcosm, you can see that it is composed of a lot of hard work and original ideas by students just like yourselves. This book would not be available if it weren't for the cooperation of each member on its staff.

"You students won't appreciate the Microcosm as much now as you will when you're an alumnus, but that's natural. I used to feel the same way—that it was just the 'yearbook of Dickinson.'"

Yes, the alumnus in the above conversation was right—right on a number of points. The most important function of the Microcosm is to serve as a record of life at Dickinson. And a record often has more meaning later than it does at the moment. It serves as a reminder of the things of the past and offers a basis for comparison with the present. All of the changes that occur at Dickinson—new administration or faculty members, different clubs and honoraries, and of most importance, the continual parade of new students—can be traced in the pages of the Microcosm.

TOM NICHOLAS
Managing Editor

To publish a book that will fulfill these functions requires a great deal of hard work on the part of the staff. First the book must be carefully planned page by page. Then the many members of the staff get to work on their assignments; even the person who writes only a few articles is making a valuable contribution. After the material is assembled and typed, the editors have the task of editing and rewriting, of selecting pictures, and of taking care of an infinite numbers of details and problems that always come up.

The advice and suggestions of Professor Ralph Schecter are invaluable. His understanding of the problems that are connected with producing a yearbook makes him a sympathetic and helpful adviser.

CELEBRATING ITS 80th anniversary this year, The Dickinsonian has continued its fine presentation of the "world within a world," the written record of Dickinson's campus life.

The Dickinsonian is the second oldest college newspaper in Pennsylvania. The many staffs within the organization are responsible for the publication of this Dickinson record and are open to all students interested in any phase of newspaper work.

Heading the organization, the Editor-in-Chief serves as an over-all supervisor. He strives to maintain the policy of free journalism held by the paper by editorials which express the true opinions and wishes of the students. To the staff falls the task of reporting current events of the Dickinson campus. New college policies, chapel talks, dances, club meetings, are all a part of a reporter's "beat." Highlights in the college sports world are faithfully followed by the sport's staff. And a touch of humor, plus many a word of wisdom, is supplied by the feature staff. The photography staff, the men behind the camera, takes the pictures.

When these weekly articles have been completed, the copy staff takes over. Theirs is the job of proof-reading the articles and making all the necessary corrections. Credit for the composition of the paper belongs to the managing staff who make up the paper, write the headlines, and—following the leading New York newspapers—produce a geometrically balanced front page. In charge of general finances, the business staff also solicits advertisements. And, last but not least, the circulation staff distributes The Dickinsonian every Friday.

The editors of each of these staffs, comprising the editorial board, meet every week. During the first eight weeks of each semester weekly discussion groups are also held by the entire Dickinsonian staff. The meetings are held for the purpose of studying the practices and principles of journalism. During this period of eight weeks the freshmen reporters serve as apprentices, and at the end of this time, those whose work has been satisfactory are rewarded by having their names placed on the masthead.

Professor Milton E. Flower, faculty adviser of The Dickinsonian, has worked along with the staff in upholding its high journalistic standards. Through the combined efforts of the Dickinsonian members, the 1952 biography of Dickinson College life has been ably recorded.

The Follies Club, organized in 1951, is a by-product of the Dickinson Follies. Its membership is restricted to students who have participated in the Follies for two years and those elected officers after only one year of participation. The Follies Club stands as an advisory board to the show. It guides in the production and sustenance of the entire show, and members act as committee heads and in other production staff capacities.

In its third year the Dickinson Follies of 1952 yielded another outstanding production, The Sphinx Winks. Written, directed, and produced entirely by students, and backed by a line of hit tunes, this musical comedy was a great success and a credit to the college and to its student body.

Little Theatre

But I really do love George!

Here's to Iago, he's true blue—

The Little Theater, although founded in 1942, did not become active until 1944, when the closing of the war made possible the continuing of dramatic work on campus. It became the officially recognized dramatic group at Dickinson in 1950, after its presentation of "The Terrible Meek."

This group presents opportunities to people interested not only in acting, but also in staging, make-up, costumes, properties, and lighting.

During the 1950-51 season, the Little Theater presented "Drums of Death" and "Night Must Fall." Its 1951-52 production, "Othello," met with great success.

In the short time that the Little Theater has been active, it has grown enormously, and now has a membership of approximately eighty-five people. Its plays, which were formerly given at Metzger Hall, are now being presented in the auditorium of the Carlisle High School.

Belles Lettres

BELLES LETTRES SOCIETY continued its long and creditable existence with an active membership. The Society, third oldest in the country, was founded in 1787 and has maintained an uninterrupted existence to the present.

Belles Lettres Society aims to cultivate an interest in literary and cultural affairs, to provide means and an opportunity for self-expression in various forms of writing, and to give practice in effective public speaking. The monthly meetings consist of short addresses on assigned topics by several members of the Society, followed by an open discussion and criticism of them by other members and the faculty adviser. These discussions are designed to give additional knowledge to members of the society about topics which interest them, but about which their knowledge was limited or vague.

Under the able guidance of the officers and Professor Sloane, the faculty adviser, the Society again published the Hornbook, their literary magazine. The staff of the publication, edited by Richard Trea, selected compositions for an issue that admirably represented the writing talents of the college.

Union Philosophical Society

OFFICERS

President Carl F. Skinner
 Vice President ... Richard C. Morton
 Secretary Ann L. Regan
 Treasurer Donald L. Masten

FOUNDED IN 1789, the Union Philosophical Society is one of the oldest and most traditional of the activities on Dickinson's campus. Although it has undergone some changes since the days when James Buchanan, Roger Taney, and William Trickett were active members, the basic purpose of the society remains the same—to develop clear thinking and effective speaking.

Although in the past a rival of the historic Belles Lettres Society, the Union Philosophical Society's scope of interests is much different from that of the literary society. U.P.S. devotes itself to the study of government, debate and parliamentary procedure. Discussion of contemporary political and economic problems plays an important part in the regular activities of the organization. At each bi-monthly meeting, the group discusses some aspect of government so that its members may become more intelligent, and therefore better citizens.

Within the past several years, two major changes have been made by the society. It has combined with the Inter-Collegiate Conference on Government, and women members have been admitted to the organization.

This year again, members of the Dickinson group have attended conventions of the Inter-Collegiate Conference on Government held at Hershey and Harrisburg. These conferences were models, patterned after the national presidential nomination conventions. On this campus, the Union Philosophical Society has conducted a mock nomination for a presidential candidate.

THE DICKINSON COLLEGE CHOIR, which has been active on this campus since 1941 when the Women's Choral Society and the Men's Glee Club united to form a single college group devoted to vocal music, is one of the most outstanding campus organizations.

Each fall, a committee of student members and the director hold tryouts for those people desiring to become members of the choir. This year, the number of members was almost doubled, meaning that the group is now a mixed chorus of nearly one hundred voices.

The schedule for the year featured a Thanksgiving program; a Christmas cantata, "Bethlehem"; and a Spring concert, Theodore Dubois' "Seven Last Words", during the Easter season. Both secular and sacred selections make up the programs, and at times, instrumentalists and soloists are featured.

IN 1932 THE INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB was founded under the auspices of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace in order to promote interest in, and afford an opportunity to study contemporary international affairs and world problems. Frequent gifts of books on international affairs are made each year by the Carnegie Endowment to aid the organization in keeping abreast of modern developments in Europe and elsewhere. The club is also partially sponsored in its activities by the Collegiate Council on the United Nations.

At each meeting of the organization papers and reports are presented by the members, panel discussions are held, movies are shown, or addresses are given concerning pertinent problems. The club's activities include participation in several International Relations Club conferences, a Model General Assembly of the United Nations, and sponsorship of United Nations Day on campus. As a new project this year the club plans to support the World Student Service Fund.

THE INTER-FRATERNITY COUNCIL, composed of the presidents of the eleven men's fraternity houses on campus, each year establishes and enforces rushing rules for the men's rushing program and guides inter-fraternity athletics and social activities. Annually it presents the Scholarship Cup and trophies for Skit Night and the Song Fest, events which take place during the popular Inter-Fraternity Weekend.

The officers are filled on a rotation plan and each year a delegate is sent to the National Inter-Fraternity Convention.

In its second year as an independent organization, the Council has been very successful in its rushing program and other activities. The Council has not only endeavored to promote beneficial relations among its member fraternities, but also has endeavored to promote more activities beneficial to the college and community.

DICKINSON'S PAN-HELLENIC COUNCIL well represents on the local scene the national organization which promotes good will among fraternity women. The Council, composed of two members chosen from each of the four women's fraternities, has worked hard this year to place rushing on a good plane and to participate in social service work in Carlisle and vicinity.

After two successful weeks of Fall rushing, Pan-Hellenic concentrated its efforts on sponsoring the annual, all-college Doll Dance which was held prior to Christmas recess. At this affair, the pledge classes of the four sororities presented original skits and vied for the silver cup. The dolls donated at the dance were given to the children of New York prisoners, according to established custom.

Early in the Spring, the Council fostered inter-fraternity spirit on campus by presenting the Pan-Hell weekend when the co-eds took over the social spotlight. The highlights were the dance, card party, open houses, and the traditional song fest held on the steps of Old West. Throughout the year in all its activities, the Pan-Hellenic Council means service and sociability.

THE SOCIAL LIFE OF Dickinson College is in the hands of a committee which is composed of two representatives from each of the men's and women's fraternities and independent organizations. The encouragement and success of college social functions is largely their responsibility.

Open house in South College, which has proven very successful in past years, has been made a regular event under this committee's direction. All-college dances such as the faculty reception, the Homecoming Dance, the Mid-Winter Ball, the Spring Formal, and the Commencement Ball also are planned by the group. This year as in the former years, the decorations were done by the students in order to make it possible financially to procure outstanding orchestras, and also to prevent the stereotyped themes of decorators. The theme of this year's Spring Formal was built around "Spring in Foreign Lands." Our students from other nations contributed many of the costumes and ideas in making it a success. The Social Committee also conducts the campaign which brings campus beauties to the eyes of the student body for the choosing of the Queen of the Mid-Winter Ball.

"D" Club

THE "D" CLUB IS an organization of men on campus who have earned a letter in a major sport. The purposes of the club are to provide coordination between the administration and the student body in matters relating to athletic policy and to promote recognition of athletic achievement. These primary purposes have expanded to wide areas which endeavor to create better spirit, sportsmanship, and other worthwhile qualities among the students. The "D" Club has established a scholarship fund for sons and daughters of former Dickinson lettermen who seek financial aid in college. Money for such enterprises is obtained by functions of the "D" Club designed expressly for this purpose. Members of the Varsity Club control the concession stands at athletic events without profit or gain to themselves, serve as ushers and sell programs. A committee of the "D" Club is appointed to greet opposing teams and assist them in any way possible. Dickinson can point with pride to this group of outstanding men.

THE STUDENT CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION is the active organ of Protestant students and is nationally connected with the Y.M.C.A. and the Y.W.C.A. through the Student Christian movement. This group has its meetings on Sunday nights, though its activities are carried on all through the week by its four commissions.

The Social Responsibility Commission helps underprivileged children as well as sponsoring activities for retarded children here in Carlisle. Among the duties of the Campus and Personal Affairs Commission is the planning of recreation for S.C.A. Members of the World Relatedness group write to students abroad and acquaint our student body with the foreign students on campus. The association has also sponsored the immigration of a foreign student from Hungary who is now a Dickinsonian. One of the projects of the Christian Heritage Commission is planning the daily meditation services in the chapel of Old West. This year the Freshman Counselship Program also has been in effect.

Varied programs this year have included the movie "The Difference," panel discussions on Communism and cheating and the honor system. A special Thanksgiving program was held and at Christmas time a speaker related several Yuletide stories. Weekend conferences, outings, and recreation are also a part of its varied program. This year the Dickinson College S.C.A. had the honor of being host for the Faculty Committee.

Debate

DEBATE AT DICKINSON had its origin in the earliest history of the college for the constitution of the Belle Lettres Society, founded in 1786, specified: "Debate shall be a duty incumbent upon all members."

Under the direction of a faculty committee the Debate Squad is composed of a group of competitively selected students. A scholastic average of "C" and a sufficient number of credit hours are the principal requirements.

Intensive preparation is made in the fall semester under the guidance of the faculty committee. During debate training the personal development of each individual is stressed. The student who succeeds in gaining membership is assured an opportunity for intercollegiate debates.

Activities of the Debate Squad include many intercollegiate debates with leading Eastern Colleges and attendance at the annual Debator's Convention held at Pennsylvania State College.

Whether decisions are lost or won the objective of the society is to seek truth and to bring truth to light, rather than to seek victory alone.

Christian Service Project

THE DICKINSON CHRISTIAN SERVICE PROJECT is one of the active religious organizations on the campus. The aim of the project is to provide a program of recreation, fellowship, and worship for the churches visited. For the last four years, the Christian Service Project has been sending out "teams" of four to six students accompanied by a faculty adviser to churches in Baltimore, Central Pennsylvania, and Philadelphia Conferences of the Methodist Church. This year, under the leadership of Dr. Gould of the Department of Philosophy and William Sherman, the Project sent out about twenty groups during the Fall and Spring. These groups provided an evening of recreation, taught Church School Classes, conducted morning and evening worship services, and presented a program for the Methodist Youth Fellowship. The members of the "team" plan and participate in all of the activities for the week-end and are the guests of the members of the church on Saturday evening. These teams offer many opportunities for young people to share their talents and ideas with the youth of the churches in this area.

Cheerleaders

J. Harvey, J. Thompson, B. Carlbom,
D. Stewart, E. Sciotto.

DRESSED IN RED SKIRTS and heavy white sweaters, the Dickinson cheerleaders organize and direct the yelling and cheering at football and basketball games and encourage spirit at the pep rallies.

In the middle of October the squad of veteran cheerleaders—Evelyn Sciotto, Captain, Diane Stewart, Beverly Carlbom, Judy Harvey, and Jean Thompson—carefully selected eight new cheerleaders. The newly chosen girls were two sophomores, Nancy MacKerell and Louise Hauer, four freshmen, Alice Winett, Nancy Ives, Susan Marquardt, and Joanne Neilson, and two freshmen substitutes, June McConnell, and Barbara Burket.

THE DICKINSON COLLEGE BAND also does its share to contribute to college spirit. Under the direction of Henry Remsberg, the band participates at all football games and pep rallies, and in addition presents several concerts each year. The band offers students who are interested in music the opportunity to continue their musical development.

parts he is esteem'd

Honorary societies serve to recognize those persons who have made special contributions to the College in some way. The local honoraries—the “hat societies”—choose as their members students who have been generally outstanding in a variety of activities during their years in college. National honorary organizations are composed of students and faculty who have made valuable contributions in some special field—scholarship, dramatics, journalism. Each of these groups carries on worthwhile activities of its own. They do not merely “rest on their laurels” but continue to serve the College in the way for which they are best suited.

PHI BETA KAPPA, the oldest Greek letter society in America was founded at William and Mary College in 1776. The famous aim of this outstanding group is "the promotion of scholarship, friendship, and cultural interest among the students and graduates." The heights which these gifted men have reached has never been equaled by any other group.

When the Alpha chapter of Pennsylvania was just started at Dickinson College in 1887, it was organized in conjunction with the Belles Lettres and Union Philosophical Society in cultural matters. However, later it developed these matters independently.

Election to this society is considered the highest honor that can be bestowed upon an undergraduate. Undergraduates are elected at the middle and at the close of the senior year. The "A" banquet which is the outstanding social event of Phi Beta Kappa, comes at mid-term when all college students with an "A" average are invited to a dinner given in honor of the newly elected members.

OMICRON DELTA KAPPA, national leadership fraternity, recognizes junior and senior men who have made outstanding contributions in many fields of college life. Locally, the Upsilon Circle presents the O.D.K. Sophomore Award, helps promote Guest Day, and sponsors the Interfraternity Song Fest.

MEMBERSHIP IN PI DELTA EPSILON is awarded to juniors and seniors who have done outstanding work in college journalism. The Dickinson chapter of this national honorary journalistic fraternity coordinates the activities of all college publications and publishes the "D" Book.

THE WHEEL AND CHAIN is a local honorary society for senior women. Recognized on the campus by navy blue hats, the group is made up of eight women, who are tapped in May of their junior year. Two representatives are chosen from each fraternity. The women are selected on the basis of leadership, scholarship, activities, and outstanding contributions to Dickinson college life.

The purpose of the society is two-fold. It includes the promotion of scholarship and activities of women of the college, and the upholding of college traditions. The activities of the Wheel and Chain include the supervision of "hazing" for freshmen women, the presentation of an award to an outstanding woman of the sophomore class, the operation of the book exchange, and fund-raising projects, such as the sale of Christmas cards.

THE RAVEN'S CLAW, familiarly known as the White Hats, first appeared on the Dickinson College campus in 1896 as a local honorary fraternity. The founding purpose of this honorary group was to serve as a liaison office between the student body and members of the faculty, and in cooperation with the Skull and Key organization to form the freshmen tribunal. The members of the group, chosen as the outstanding men of the senior class, are tapped for membership the last Saturday of the academic year on the Old Stone Steps of West College. Among former Raven's Claw members well-known on the campus are Coach Richard H. MacAndrews, Gilbert Malcolm, George Shuman, Jr., Benjamin D. James, John Hopper, and Weston C. Overholt, Jr. All offices in the honorary are incorporated into one known as the Archon. The members wear a pin with a raven's claw and the number seven symbolizing the solidarity of the fraternity. This year's members include: President, Harold Rice, Philip Capice, Lester Steiner, Donald Taylor, William Kinsella, Wilbur Gobrecht, and Richard Klein.

Skull and Key

THE SKULL AND KEY was founded in 1909 as a men's society for the promotion of good times and fellowship. Since then its aims have broadened and its contributions to the school and students are respected by all who come in contact with them.

It is composed of ten members selected from the ten national fraternities for leadership and achievement. The main purpose of the society is to enforce the freshmen rules and present to the freshmen a guiding hand. At the end of the year, they present an award to the outstanding freshman for his leadership and academic achievement. This award was started in 1935 and consists of a silver loving cup. Another principle of Skull and Key is to foster closer relationships between students and faculty.

Fraternities

we band of brothers

Fifteen social fraternities play an important part in the lives of Dickinson men and women. The men's fraternities, of which there are ten national and one local, are situated in houses about the campus. Members room, board, and work together on the activities and upkeep of their houses. The four national women's fraternities keep rooms in Carlisle where they conduct their activities. These fraternities offer a reasonable, ordered social life and the opportunity to gain experience and leadership in many fields, and they form a well-rounded campus life for their members.

Athletics

with occasion

While Dickinson College does not emphasize athletics, its well-rounded program of intercollegiate sports gives ample opportunity for many college men to participate in athletic competition. Among the various groups competing as representatives of the College are the football, basketball, baseball, lacrosse, swimming, track, golf and tennis teams. Intercollegiate sports find Dickinson engaging in contests with more than twenty colleges and universities throughout the eastern part of the country. For those men who are not members of a varsity team, there is a well planned interfraternity program which gives opportunity to almost every man in the College to participate in some form of athletics.

Let's fire their spirit.

The hidden ball play!

Down the field!

THE 1951 FOOTBALL SEASON at Dickinson brought both thrills and disappointments to the team's followers as the Red Devils closed out the season with a record of three wins and five losses. It was the squad's second term under Coach Frank Maze and his assistants, Ben Coren and John Steckbeck.

While the Devils played hard and spirited football, they were repeatedly outmanned by the heavier, more experienced teams which they faced. Throughout the season the work of the Maze defensive unit was particularly outstanding, even in losing causes, as they frequently stopped enemy thrusts at the Red and White goal line; however, in many cases it was the aerial game of the opposing eleven that proved disastrous. The offensive platoon blew hot and cold as the Devil's varied T-attack met with success and failure against a variety of defensive patterns. In the course of the season the Mazemen were plagued by the injuries to some of the more valuable performers, such as end Harkness, quarterback Kertland, and center Placey. Several other men were also sidelined for a number of games.

A sadness that comes with the end of every football season is the departure of the seniors through graduation which this year will remove eleven stellar players from the squad. The line will be hardest hit for such regulars as ends Marta and Ulbricht, tackles Hostetter and Martin, guards Williams, Kranzdorf and DePasquale as well as the aforementioned Harkness, Kertland and Placey have meant much to Dickinson's football fortunes. This is particularly true of the loss of halfback Gobrecht whose gridiron feats at Dickinson during the past four years will be hard to match and long remembered.

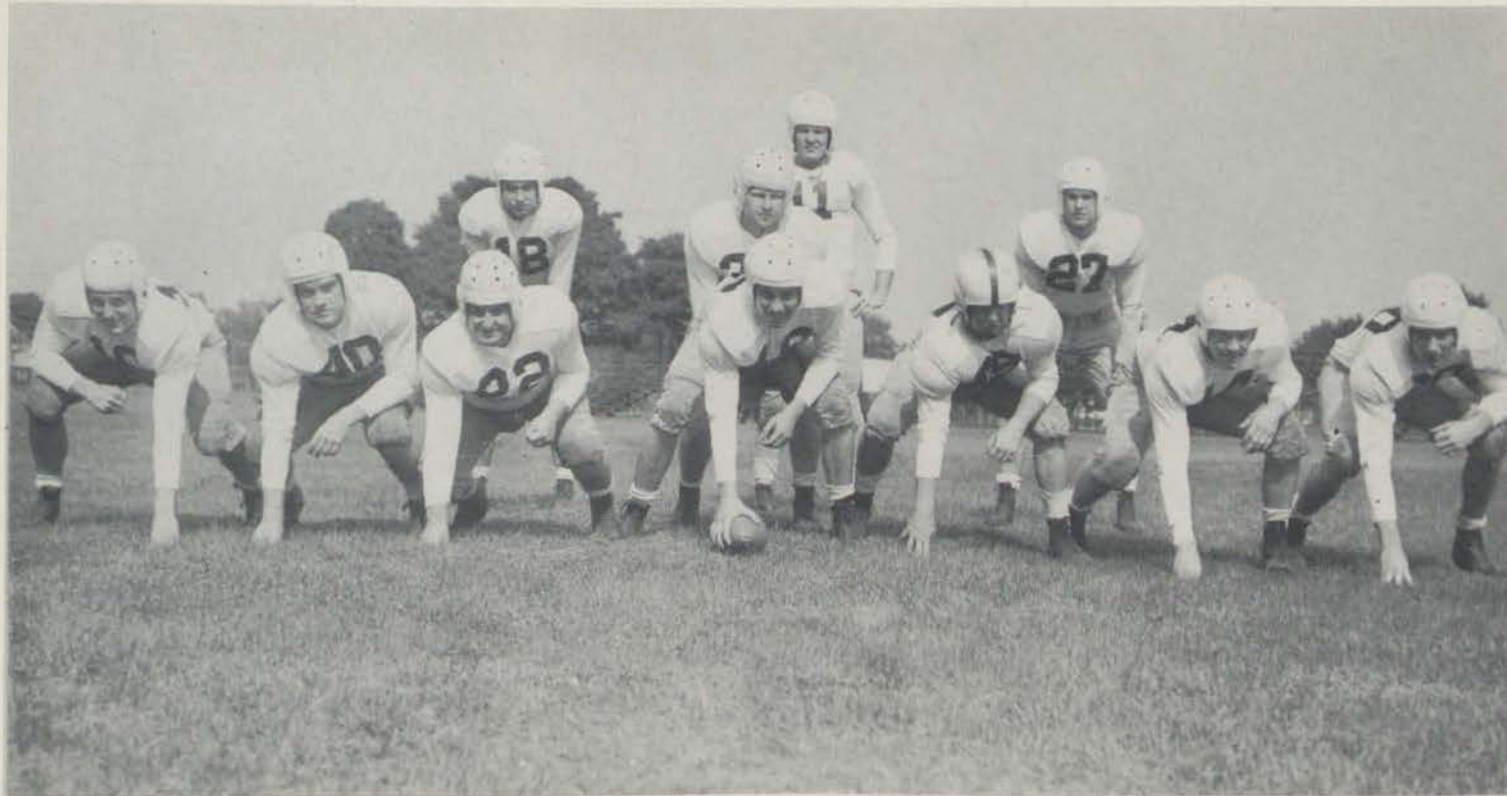

A bright note for the future was sounded by the otherwise disheartening injuries for they enabled many underclassmen to gain much needed experience. DiGuardi capably filled in as T-quarterback while Sciotto, Smith, Christy and Gasull performed well in the ball carrying department and Padjen, Jones, Slingland and Harshaw bolstered the defensive backfield. In the line ends Johe, Mauro, and Terry flanked such fine performers as Morris, Adourian, Tarr, Jones, Orbach and Kunda. The bruising play of sophomore line-backers Haney and Bush was outstanding all season. These are the men who will form the nucleus of Dickinson elevens in the next few years.

DICKINSON 7

Dickinson opened its 1951 season at Hartford, Connecticut, where the Red and White gridders met defeat at the hands of a strong Trinity College eleven. A leading factor in the Trinity victory was the work of their fine halfback, Bill Goralski, who led his team's offensive surges by tallying two of their four touchdowns, one a ninety-six yard return of the opening kickoff. Dickinson's offensive on the other hand could not get rolling against the tough Trinity defense. In the final stanza it was a Kertland-to-Jablonski pass for a touchdown and Kertland's conversion that accounted for Dickinson's scoring effort for the day.

FRANKLIN AND MARSHALL 27

DICKINSON 6

Dickinson's second game of the season pitted them against a big, tough Franklin and Marshall team and saw them come out of the contest on the short end of a 27-6 score. The power-packed Diplomat squad capitalized on every break as they turned pass interceptions and fumbles into touchdowns to accumulate a decisive three touchdown lead at half time. In the third period, following a fifty-five yard pass to Johe, Gobrecht uncorked another aerial to Jablonski in the end zone for the Red Devils only score of the game. The fourth quarter saw F.&M. put on another sustained drive which covered seventy-eight yards to add their final touchdown and end the game's scoring.

The Red and White chalked up its first victory of the year at the expense of the Ursinus Bears as a large Parent's Day crowd looked on. Dickinson broke into the scoring column late in the first period when Kertland flipped a short pass to Gobrecht in the end zone and then followed up with the first of his three successful placements. Ursinus then made its only serious scoring threat of the day as it marched seventy-five yards only to be thwarted by a tough Red Devil defense on the two yard line. Late in the second quarter a Kertland pass to Johe accounted for Dickinson's second tally on a play that covered thirty-five yards. The final touchdown of the game came in the last stanza as Gobrecht crashed over from five yards out, climaxing an eighty-two yard drive.

The last defender.

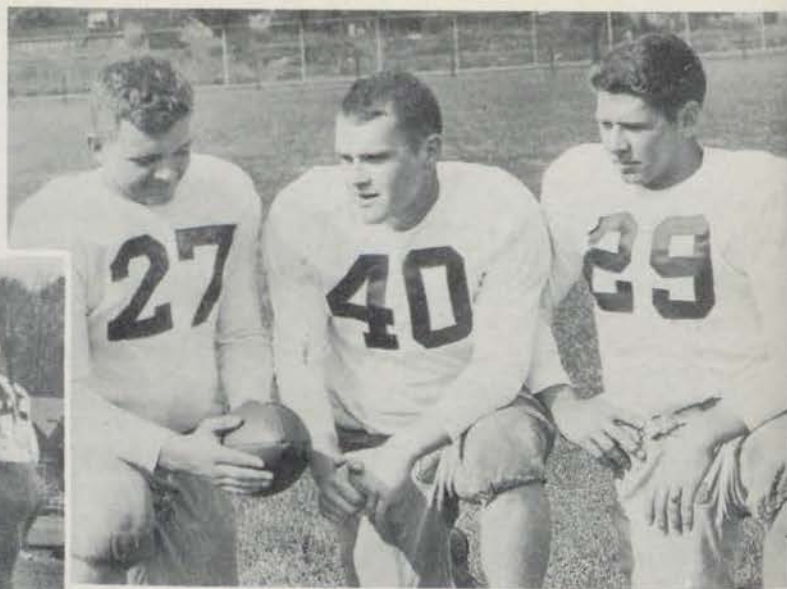

WESTERN MARYLAND 32

DICKINSON 12

Western Maryland's undefeated and untied football team came to Biddle Field on October 20th and proved more than a match for the Big Red as it kept its perfect record intact behind a 32-12 score. The Red Devils were unable to cope with the Green Terrors' big line and hard-running backs who scored almost at will to build up a 32-6 lead before the whistle sounded to end the third quarter. Dickinson scored its first touchdown in the second period when DeGuardi passed to Gobrecht after a drive that started on the Devils' twenty. The Red and White's other score was registered in the last quarter when Terry took a twelve-yard aerial in the end zone from Gobrecht.

DREXEL 8

A large crowd of students and "old grads" congregated in Philadelphia to see the Red Devils upset Drexel, 13-8. Fine play by the Dickinson defensive platoon held the high-flying Dragons to a 6-0 half-time lead. A Drexel safety in the third quarter ended their dominance, for at this point the Red and White exploded for two quick touchdowns. After a pass from Kertland to Gobrecht netted sixty-five yards, Gobrecht skirted end to register the touchdown and Kertland kicked the point. Before the fans had settled down again, Bob Jones took a Drexel punt and raced seventy-five yards to score the touchdown which proved to be the margin of victory.

GETTYSBURG 34

DICKINSON 7

In the annual clash for the "Old Oaken Bucket" the Gettysburg College gridders completely outplayed Dickinson as they rolled to a 34-7 victory. The Bullets made two long drives in the opening period to take a 13-0 lead at the quarter. The second quarter was largely a kicking duel with neither team scoring. Gobrecht got several good punts off in this quarter despite the strong wind. Gettysburg began to move again after the half-time intermission, and when the clock showed the end of the third period they led by a 34-0 score. Dickinson scored its only touchdown in the final twelve minutes on a pass from DiGuardi to Johe after the Red and White had marched seventy-five yards.

ALLEGHENY 13

The final game of the '51 season saw Dickinson's football team play one of its finest games as they rolled to an easy victory over Allegheny. It was a game marked by rugged team play and all out spirit. The Golden 'Gators took an early lead before the Red Devil offense began to move. Wib Gobrecht, Dickinson's outstanding halfback for the past three seasons, led the Red and White touchdown march as he crossed that last chalk-line three times. The fourth quarter provided an impressive preview of years to come, as Coach Maze watched his freshman and sophomores drive to the final touchdown of the afternoon.

Bull's-eye!

JOHNS HOPKINS 34

DICKINSON 13

A Homecoming crowd of three thousand people saw an inspired Red Devil team take an early lead over Johns Hopkins before faltering and falling to the favored Blue Jays. Hopkins took the opening kickoff and rolled seventy-three yards for the initial score, but Dickinson bounced back three plays later as Jack Smith, on the first of his two long jaunts, raced seventy-five yards to a touchdown. The remainder of the first half was highlighted by the Mazemen's fine defensive play and Gobrecht's punting. Shortly after returning the second half kickoff eighty yards, Smith bucked over to give the Devils a 13-7 lead. But that was the end, for on the ensuing kickoff the Blue Jays' Semler galloped ninety yards to pay dirt, and the Hopkins team began a parade of touchdowns that insured their victory.

Basketball

WITH A NUCLEUS OF THREE starters from the 1950-51 team, Johnny Hopper made his debut as a coach at the school where he made so great a name for himself as a player. The season record of one win and eighteen losses is not a true picture of the team's caliber, as the competition was well above average. The high spot of the season, besides the one victory, was the outstanding scoring of senior Richard Zilling. In his final year as a Red Devil dribbler, Zilling broke the record for the most points scored in three years—941, and also set a record for scoring more than three hundred points for three consecutive years.

The season opener was played at the Alumni Gym before a crowd which was rooting for a good start for the new season. After holding the visiting Lions from Albright for three quarters, the Devils tired and lost by a 60-45 count.

The sharp shooting of two freshmen from Lebanon Valley spelled defeat for the Dickinson five as they dropped an 82-62 decision. Artie Press led his Western Maryland teammates to Carlisle for the next encounter, and his scoring led his club to a narrow 74-70 victory. After the Christmas lay-off the giants from Franklin and Marshall were next to invade the Alumni Gymnasium, and they set a new floor scoring record in taking home a 104-86 win, despite Zilling's 34 point effort. An inspired Dickinson five went on the floor at Juniata but were beaten 86-84 by a set shot in the last second of play.

A highly rated Wagner club was the next visitor to the Red Devil's playground and returned to New York with a 77-54 victory under their belt. Nationally ranked Penn State led by All-State Jesse Arnelle dropped the cagers by an 89-45 count. The next game pitted the victory hungry Red Devils against Elizabethtown and they played inspired ball for three quarters before falling before a scoring onslaught led by Ed Brunner, losing 68-53. The quintet then traveled to Gettysburg in the second of the Little Three games. A red-hot Bullet outfit ran the dribblers into the floor in running away with a 97-65 win.

The annual road trip once more proved disastrous as the Vikings from Upsala took advantage of a first quarter let-up to take a 72-66 decision from the Red Devils. The next evening a "Scandel weakened" City College five outplayed the boys from Carlisle in the first half and coasted to an 87-49 victory.

Back at home, the cagers played host to a red-hot Lebanon Valley five, and once more the sharp shooting of Landa and Finkelstein spelled defeat, this time by a 69-52 margin. Travelling down to the Lancaster Armory, the Red and White came back on the short end of a 94-64 score after courageously holding F & M to a 37-34 half-time edge. The boys from Gettysburg, led by George Hare's twenty points, knew they were in a ball game for three quarters before they drew ahead and won 68-51.

In the top game of the year for the victory starved Devils, the dribblers outfought and outplayed a spirited Susquehanna outfit for the single victory of the season. Dick Zilling led the scoring parade with twenty-five counters. Another trip to the same vicinity proved disastrous to the Red Devils as Marty McKibben led the Bisons from Bucknell to a 98-70 win. The next evening the cagers from Elizabethtown were entertained by the Redmen. In an exciting, closely fought affair, the E-towners edged the Dickinsonians by a 71-62

The most exciting game of the year saw the Devils pitted against Johns Hopkins. After a groggy first half, the Devils caught fire in the third quarter and narrowed the Hopkins' lead to 56-54. In the closely contested last period, the two teams traded field goals and it was only a last second foul conversion that put the cagers down to defeat, 74-73. In the last game of the season the D'son squad travelled to Reading to take on the much improved Albright Lions. Led by captain Gerry Potts' record breaking 42 points, the Lions rolled to a 108-60 victory.

A Zilling special powerful Gettysburg club whose superior height and reserve strength were the deciding factors in both ball games.

In picking out single games, the little cagers reached their peak in a 91-35 win over Western Maryland. An overtime rally was necessary to pull out a 59-57 triumph over the visitors from York Junior College. The first taste of defeat for the little Devils came from the hands of Elizabethtown by a 46-45 count. After the Redmen had led during most of the game, the E-towners put on a spectacular rally to sew up the triumph. Against Bucknell the cagers pulled up to within one point of the victors only to lose by 59-58. Seeking revenge for their first defeat, the Overholtmen stormed to a 54-53 victory over Elizabethtown. The last game of the season saw the little Devils travelling to Reading to take

THE JUNIOR RED DEVILS once again under the tutelage of Wes Overholt concluded a successful season by winning eleven of their eighteen games. Starting the season on a high note, the JV's won their first seven contests. After a slump of six losses, the little Devils came up strong in the finish to win the last four. The Overholtmen defeated every team on the schedule at least once, except the on Albright. They trailed during three quarters of the contest, and only a rousing rally enabled the dribblers to emerge victorious 42-39.

In the scoring department, Neil Graham, the big 6'5" center, took honors with his 167 markers in eighteen games. Next came Lee Huber who, despite his time with the varsity, scored 148 points for an average of slightly under 10 points per game. Others scoring over the one hundred mark were Johnny Dudas, Bud Harris and Gerry Steger. These five, with much help from the reserve strength of Harry Hanley, Sid Kline, Jack Perkner, Joe Evans, and Frank Poore, made up the club which Wes Overholt led to a very impressive record. This freshman team, combined with the sophomores and freshmen who saw action with the varsity this year, should prove to be a fine nucleus for a varsity team of some note in the next few years.

THE WOMEN'S ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION is the organization which plans the women's athletic program. This council consists of three seniors, three juniors, and two sophomores who are elected by their respective classes. The faculty advisers of the W.A.A. are the physical education director and the Dean of Women.

Some of the duties of the Women's Athletic Association are to provide for the election of the team captains and managers, to provide the schedules for the teams, and to keep a record of points for every participant in the various women's sports. At the end of the year an athletic banquet is held, at which time awards are presented. The four junior girls who have accumulated the highest number of points for participation in sports receive Junior Blazers.

be no more cakes and ale?

The feature section in this issue of the Microcosm is different from that of previous years. Instead of just presenting the most beautiful girls at Dickinson, the staff this year decided to have a section in the yearbook that would depict the most outstanding social events of the year. We have therefore chosen five events that we feel are representative of Dickinson's social life. In the pages that follow are pictures and short articles that summarize these "big weekends." When you look over this section of the book, we hope many wonderful memories will come to your mind.

Only at the Pan-Hell Costume Ball would you find this odd assortment.

Homecoming

The die is cast—and the Crows win

Go! Let's give a yell for Dickinson, go!

Old home week

THE FIRST BIG ALL-COLLEGE event of the year was Homecoming, bigger than ever this year with hundreds of alumni in town to renew old friendships. The weekend got under way with a pep rally on Friday night, followed by open houses at the fraternities. Saturday morning found almost every Dickinsonian touring the campus to observe the displays. An alumni luncheon preceded the Dickinson-Johns Hopkins game. Next came the President's reception and then fraternity dinners. The weekend was climaxed by the Homecoming Dance.

The prize-winning skit of Phi Mu— "Sonia in Dickinson Land"

Christmas

The Christmas season at Dickinson started with parties given by fraternities and by Pan-Hellenic for the benefit of underprivileged children in Carlisle. These were followed on December 14 with the choir's presentation of "Bethlehem."

Alpha Psi Omega's Coventry Nativity Play was given the next Sunday and was followed by carolling. Over a hundred students were in this group which later gathered at the Phi Delta Theta house for hot chocolate, cookies, and more singing.

The night before vacation the Doll Dance was held and the prize for the best skit was awarded to Phi Mu.

The true Christmas spirit of sharing—the Phi Delta—Zeta party for underprivileged children.

The appearance of the Christmas angel climaxed the Pi Phi skit.

Mid-Winter Ball

February 15 was the date of the Mid-Winter Ball, one of Dickinson's most successful dances in recent years. The music, provided by Buddy Williams and his Orchestra, was good, and the crowd was large. The new queen—our Campus Sweetheart—who was crowned during the evening was Peg Chambers, and her maid of honor, Ann Barnard. Nine other girls, each chosen by a men's fraternity, composed the court. On Saturday evening open houses were held in each fraternity.

Long live the queen!

Dickinson's loveliest coeds

Of course you're there—keep looking!

To the victors belong the spoils.

I-F Weekend

Inter-Fraternity Weekend was held at Dickinson this year from March 14 to 16. This annual event is the high point on the social calendar in the weeks between the Mid-Winter Ball and the Spring Formal.

Events got under way on Friday evening when each fraternity gave a skit in the Alumni Gym. The judges awarded the prize for the best of these skits to Theta Chi who presented a take-off on Joseph Priestley day.

On Saturday evening, Reggie Childs furnished the music for the Inter-Fraternity Dance.

Let's get together; let's have some fun!

Follies

She's Cleo, Queen for a Day

Julie-pooch

Following the pace set by the Follies' shows of the past three years, this year's production was another smash hit. "The Sphinx Winx" was a hilarious farce about the enchanted "Land of the Nile" when Cleopatra reigned as queen. It mixed her romantic ventures with Mark Antony with the uncovering of a tax scandal which involved the queen's disposed lover, Julius Caesar.

An excellent book, written by Bob Keuch, Bob High, and Phil Capice, and 18 original songs composed by Ken Hitchner and Ham Neely combined to make "The Sphinx Winx" an outstanding show.
