More Elaborate Program For 147th Commencement

THROUGH an enlargement of the program of recent years, the presence in greater gayety and number of reunion classes and in alumni bearing tangible gifts to Alma Mater, the 147th Commencement bids fair to exceed any past event and to delight the hundreds of alumni, guests and friends who will swarm to Carlisle and the campus from June 5th to 9th. There is every indication that there will be a higher attendance mark set than in any recent year.

In many details, the program follows closely the outline of last year when several new innovations were tried and found to be improvements, while some other attractive additions have been made. Each day is definitely labelled with Alumni Day falling on Saturday, June 7th and by many regarded as the "big day."

Dean M. Hoffman is again chairman of the Alumni Day Committee, and he is finding his job easier for several lively class reunions are ahead for '95, '00, '05, '10, '15, '20, '25 and '29, while '76 and '86 will again be on deck with '85 celebrating its 45th and '90 present in a roundup. The Classes of 1900, 1905, 1910 and 1915 are perfecting elaborate plans and will hold the center of the picture at various times. The Alumni Parade will likely be more colorful than for several years and will end in a riot of fun at Biddle Field where a co-ed baseball team captained by Lewis M. Bacon with its membership recruited from the Class of 1902 will cross bats with a boys' team headed by Frank E. Masland, Jr. The personnel of these two teams will not be revealed until they appear properly costumed in the Alumni Parade.

Three classes will present tangible gifts on the morning of Alumni Parade. Following the meeting of Phi Beta Kappa and the annual meeting of the General Alumni Association which will be held in the Social Room of Old West at 9:30, the presentations will begin at 10:30. The first event scheduled will be the presentation of the memorial gateway which is now nearing completion at the corner of West and Louthier Streets on the northeast corner of the campus by the Class of 1895. This will be followed at 11 o'clock by the presentation of the president's office furnishings by the Class of 1904 and at 11:30 when the Class of 1910 will present a new flag pole which has been erected on the campus near the site of the old flag pole.

For the second time the Alumni Luncheon will be held in the new gymnasium. As was the case last year, a caterer will serve the luncheon and tables will be placed for classes in reunion groups. Admission will be by ticket only and these will be issued upon request at the time of registration in Old West. Tickets will be issued to alumni, the graduating class and their relatives, the faculty and official guests. Following the custom of the past few years, the toastmaster has been selected from the class which will be meeting in its 30th reunion, and Andrew Kerr, director of athletics at Colgate University, will fill the post. Following the Alumni Luncheon the Alumni Parade will be held, beginning at 2 o'clock in front of the gymnasium and winding up at the athletic field where following the

The reception to all alumni and guests by President and Mrs. Filler will be held from four to six o'clock on Alumni Day, while fraternity banquets will begin at 5:30. One of the additions to the Commencement program will occur that evening at 9 o'clock when there will be a concert by the orchestra and glee clubs of the College in Bosler Hall, prior to the Alumni Sing on the Old Stone Steps. There will be no admittance charge to this concert. It has been arranged by the College to give the alumni an opportunity to see and hear the type of work which these musical organizations of the College are doing.

Bishop Francis J. McConnell, LL. D., bishop of the New York area of the M. E. Church, will deliver the Baccalaureate sermon on Sunday, June 8th at 11 o'clock in the Allison M. E. Church. Commencement exercises will be held on Monday, June 9th, and the day will open with chapel at 9 o'clock when the class advancements for the year will be announced. The academic procession will begin at 9:45 and the Commencement exercises for the second year will be held in the gymnasium. Rev. Ralph W. Sockman, Ph. D., pastor of the Madison Ave., M. E. Register First

All alumni are urged to register immediately upon arrival in Carlisle for Commencement in the registration room of Old West. This will be the information center and the place for securing Commencement buttons and tickets for all events for which admission tickets are necessary. It will be impossible to gain admission to the Alumni Luncheon without a ticket which will be issued at this room.

Information about class reunions and any Commencement questions will be available at the registration room. If you have any question to ask while at Commencement, ask it there.

address. Several vocal numbers will be sung by Kathryn Witwer.

Commencement will officially open in Social Day on Thursday, June 5th. It had been announced that many of the social events of the fraternities would be held on Thursday evening but a conflict with the Commencement Play would have resulted. Therefore the fraternities are planning to hold open house on Thursday night, June 5th, while also arranging for another open house Friday night, June 6th. Friday will be Class Day and will open with chapel exercises at 10:15, while the Class Day exercises will be held at 2 o'clock in the afternoon in Bosler Hall. At the conclusion of these exercises the Senior Induction will be held on the campus at 4 o'clock. At 7:30 that evening the annual meeting of the College Trustees will be held. The Dickinson Players, under the direction of Dr. Wilbur H. Norcross, will present "Arms and the Man" in Bosler Hall at 8 o'clock. Admission to this performance will be by ticket only. At 9:30 of Class Day the fraternities will hold "at homes."

More Than One Hundred Alumni Become Lifers

WITH the addition of six names of alumni to the growing list of Life Members in the General Alumni Association since the publication of the last issue of the DICKINSON ALUMNUS, the total now stands at 106—and it is hoped by alumni officials that “the first hundred was the hardest.” By direction of the Alumni Council the list of Lifers is published in this issue of the magazine and will appear annually in the May number.

Three names appear of alumni who are deceased, namely Dr. J. Warren Harper, '80 and his class mate, Charles K. Zug, and Peyton Brown, '82.

At the annual dinner of the Dickinson Club of New York, the retiring president, Leon A. McIntire, '07 turned over his check for Life membership to Gilbert Malcolm and announced that the newly elected president, Walter V. Edwards, '10, would do the same thing. At the special meeting of the Alumni Council in March, S. Walter Stauffer, '12, secretary of the General Alumni Association, was surprised to discover that he had never become a Lifer and promptly produced forty dollars from his wallet to pay the bill in full in a single gesture.

Three other alumni used the mails. Dr. W. Blair Stewart, '87, prominent physician of Atlantic City and newly elected president of the Dickinson Club there, sent in his check and gave 1887 a representative on the honor roll. Donald C. Appenzellar, '99, investment broker of New York, and Robert E. Minnich, '19, superintendent of schools of Tupper Lake, N. Y., were the others to send in their checks by mail.

But eleven additions to Life Membership have been made since last Commencement, though classes from 1870 to 1926 are now represented in the roll with few omissions. There are no Lifers from 1871, 1873, 1875, 1877, 1879, and then the list is complete until 1890 provides a gap. 1892, 1893 and 1894 are missing but from 1895 the roll is complete to include 1919 with 1920, 1921 and 1922 out of the picture. When Harry H. Nuttle put 1906 in the list with his check this year he ended the break from 1895 to 1919.

The riotous class of 1902 still leads the Caravan with a dozen Lifers though no new names have been added in a year. The Class of 1903 is in second position with six, while the Class of 1912 is in third place with five. Five classes, 1893, 1895, 1907, 1910 and 1915 have four Lifers while eight sport three, 1880, 1885, 1896, 1899, 1901, 1911, 1913 and 1914.

From 106 Lifers at $40 each the endowment of the General Alumni Association becomes $4,240.00. This fund is invested in participating mortgages and the income is used for alumni purposes exclusively. It becomes a guarantee for the continuance of alumni work in the days to come.

Officials of the General Alumni Association are highly gratified in the steady growth in the number of Life Members. They fully believe that the continuance and further development of alumni work and the publication of the magazine is assured.

While Life Memberships costs $40, it may be paid in two installments of $20 each. This sum invested at five per cent yields $2.00, the amount of the annual membership dues in the General Alumni Association. Life Membership carries with it life subscription to the DICKINSON ALUMNUS and entitles the Lifer to all the rights and privileges of active membership in the association for life, while it ends the payment of annual dues. Checks for Life Membership may be sent to THE DICKINSON ALUMNUS, West College, Carlisle, Pa., or to the treasurer of the Association, Rev. Dr. Harry B. Stock, Carlisle, Pa.

Trustees Authorize Increase in Enrollment

AFFIXING of the enrollment in the College at approximately 600 students, provided that the present number of women students shall not be increased and that within three years if practicable and in any event within five years, that the total number of women students be reduced to 125, was ordered at a special meeting of the trustees of the College held on March 11 in Carlisle. Action was also taken in approving the methods of electing Alumni Trustees which had been recommended by the Alumni Council and approved by the Executive Committee of the College, while the tuition of both men and women was raised.

The present tuition, inclusive of the student budget charge is $300.00 for men and women day students and $700.00 for women residing at Metzger Hall. The student budget totals $16.50 and embraces the athletic fee, Dickinsonian fee and other items relating to student activities, all of which has been turned over by the College to the administrator of the budget. Beginning with the fall term of 1930 the general charge will be $325.00 for men and to women students and $800.00 for women residing in Metzger Hall, both exclusive of the student budget charge. This latter charge will be determined by the student organizations, subject to the approval of the president of the College and will be added to the bills of students and collected as an additional item.

Attendance at the College for the academic year 1929-30 totals 565 of whom 423 are men and 145 are women. The Trustees felt that inasmuch as the faculty and facilities of the College are such that a reasonable increase can be readily accommodated that the enrollment should be fixed at 600 students.

Members of the General Alumni Association are already aware of the fact that the Trustees ratified the suggestion of the Alumni Council in the method of the election of Alumni Trustees, for they have received the first ballot mailed under this new system. Under the plan approved by the Trustees, the franchise is limited to the members of the General Alumni Association. The nominations for election of Alumni Trustees will be made by the Alumni Council, but may be made independently by members of the General Alumni Association. This method of independent nomination must be made on or before April 1st in any year by not less than twenty-five members of the Association who may forward the nomination to the Secretary of the Board of Trustees. Even then, if there is more than one such independent nomination, only the nominee having the highest number of sponsors shall be placed on the ballot. When there is an independent nomination, the third name on the list of nominees of the Alumni Council shall not be placed on the ballot.

Each Alumni Trustee shall serve for a term of four years, one such trustee to be elected annually, beginning with the year 1931. In the election which is being held this month, there are eight nominees. The one receiving the highest vote shall be elected for a full four year term ending June, 1934. The second highest for the three year term, the third highest for the two year term and the fourth highest for the one year term. It is probable that the alumni ballot for Trustee will be mailed annually with the ballot of the Alumni Council to members of the Association as was done this year. The polls close on May 24th. A few days after that the Secretary of the Board of Trustees and tellers of the Alumni Council will tabulate the votes for Trustees and Council. These results will be announced in the meeting of the General Alumni Association on Alumni Day, Saturday, June 7th.

celebration of the sesqui-centennial of the College, outlined a tentative program of the committee for this celebration. Definite plans are being formulated by the committee, including the publication of a history of the College upon which Dr. J. H. Morgan is doing the work in preparation at the present time.

Work on Directory Progressing

With the announcement that a Directory of Living Alumni would be published in 1930, many alumni seem to have gained the impression that the book would be issued prior to Commencement. This would have been an impossible task.

The Alumni Council at its fall meeting directed the publication of the directory in the calendar year of 1930 and it will likely be issued during the late summer or early fall. This is the earliest date it can be prepared. A new addressing system has been installed since last fall and all of this work has not yet been completed. In making and checking the new stencils it was found that many addresses are missing and many incorrect. As this work is done by the regular College clerical force when opportunity to leave other work presents itself, or through over-time night work, progress is necessarily slow.

At many colleges, there is a full-time alumni secretary with an adequate office force to handle all alumni work speedily, but that is not true at Dickinson. Just as soon as the present force can finish the stencil system now used and succeed in locating missing alumni, it will be an easy matter to prepare the material for the new directory.

The directory will not be a biographical directory as some alumni seem to think, but will be similar to the one published in 1925. It will contain names and address by classes, a geographical index and an alphabetical index. It will be issued free to members of the General Alumni Association.

Help Pay for the Gym

Subscriptions and checks in varying amount are being received daily by President Filler in response to the letter he sent to all alumni of the College the end of April with a statement of the need for wiping out indebtedness incurred in erecting the new gymnasium. The College borrowed $88,500 to complete the building and the aim is to pay off these notes and at the same time release $5,000 of interest charges for educational purposes.

Every alumnus should make a subscription to the Gymnasium Fund. It should represent all the alumni if it is to bear the name "The Alumni Gymnasium." Send in your subscription today to President Filler.

The unbreakable rule that no money will be solicited at Commencement will stand this year, as in former years. There will be no solicitation of Gymnasium subscriptions at Commencement.

Her Book a Guild Selection

Edna Albert, '05, of Gardners, Pa., has the distinction of having her first full-sized book selected by the Junior Literary Guild as its June offering. "Little Pilgrim to Penn's Woods" is the title of the volume written for children of the eight to twelve group.

The book is described by its publisher, Longmans, Green & Co., as "the delightful story of the experiences and adventures of a family who leave their peaceful home in Germany to take up the hazardous but thrilling life of pioneers in the colony of William Penn." The book is illustrated by Esther Brann.

Miss Albert spends much of her time at Gardners in writing. She has already a growing list of poems and is at work on a book for grownups.

Choose Alumni Trustees and Council Members by Mail

MORE than one thousand ballots have been mailed to members of the General Alumni Association in an election of four Alumni Trustees and five members of the Alumni Council whose terms will expire in 1933. For the first time a single ballot was mailed for the dual election and for the first time the franchise in the election of Alumni Trustees was limited to members of the General Alumni Association.

The Trustees of the College at a meeting held March 11 amended the methods of selecting the Board of Trustees who are elected at large. A right of nomination was given to the Alumni Council and the right of election was limited to the members of the General Alumni Association in good standing. Under the change four Alumni Trustees needed to be elected this year, though in the future but one will be elected annually.

The ballots mailed to members of the General Alumni Association contained the names of eight nominees for Alumni Trustee, four of whom will be elected and ten alumni for the Alumni Council, five of whom will be elected. All of the ballots to be counted must be in the tellers' hands not later than May 24th and the results of the election must be announced at the meeting of the General Alumni Association on the morning of Alumni Day.

A special meeting of the Alumni Council was held in the McCauley Room on March 29, when the Council selected the eight nominees for election of Alumni Trustees. Those nominated are William M. Curry, '93, prominent attorney of Scranton, Pa., one of the prominent members of Northeastern Pennsylvania and an alumnus who has returned to all of the various events of the College with great regularity. The second was Wm. S. Snyder, '94, another prominent attorney of Harrisburg, Pa., who has been greatly in the limelight in Masonic circles. The third name was Merkel Landis, '96, president of the Carlisle Trust Co., and a former member of the Alumni Council, who has always been and is in intimate touch with the activities of the alumni and of the College. Another name was Harry L. Price, '96, well known attorney of Baltimore, Md., who is at present a member of the Alumni Council, and who is a prominent member of the Dickinson Club of Baltimore. Thomas M. Whiteman, '99, editor of the Latrobe Bulletin, a former member of the Pennsylvania Legislature and a former member of the Alumni Council and who acted as toastmaster at the Alumni Luncheon last Commencement, was named. Another nominated is Lewis M. Bacon, Jr., '02, who is better known as "Ham" Bacon, a life insurance man of considerable prominence in Baltimore, Md., and a former member of the Alumni Council, who has for many years been one of the leaders in the Dickinson Club of Baltimore. Major Robert Y. Stuart, '03, Chief Forester of the Department of the Interior of the Federal Government, now stationed in Washington, D. C., a former Secretary of Forests and Waters for the State of Pennsylvania, a former member of the Alumni Council, a leader in the affairs of the Class of 1903 and formerly of the Dickinson Club of Harrisburg, was also nominated, as was S. Walter Stauffer, '12, of York Pa., who is at present secretary of the General Alumni Association and a member of the Alumni Council and who previously served as secretary of the Association.

Two of the ten nominated for the Alumni Council were previously members of that body; namely Wm. D. Boyer, '88, formerly of Scranton, Pa., and now of Nashville, Tenn., who also lived for a time in New York City, was a member of the first Alumni Council. The other, Boyd Lee Spahr, '00, Philadelphia attorney who is the present president of the General Alumni Association, under the by-laws is eligible to renomination and election. The nominating committee which met in Carlisle in March was composed of John M. Rhey, '83, chairman, Dean M. Hoffman, '02 and Frank E. Masland, Jr., '18.

One of the ten nominees, probably not so well known to the majority of the alumni, though very well known by others is W. W. Wharton, '89, coal company official of Philadelphia, Pa. He was one of the outstanding stars of an early Dickinson football team of his day and can tell many interesting stories of his athletic experience.

Dr. Daniel P. Ray, '03, is practicing medicine in Johnstown, Pa., and has always been vitally interested in the affairs of the College.

George Ross Hull, '07, is one of Harrisburg's leading attorneys and has always been prominent in the affairs of the Dickinson Club of Harrisburg and a frequent visitor to the campus.

Harry E. McWhinney, '08, is a leading attorney of Pittsburgh, Pa., and well known to many Dickinsonians. He has been a regular attendant at the affairs of the Dickinson Club of Pittsburgh.

Ellsworth H. Mish, '09, is associated with the Detachable Bit Corporation and makes his home in New York City. He is active in the affairs of the Dickinson Club of New York and is at present doing a great piece of work collecting the funds for a class memorial to be presented at a later reunion of the Class of 1909.

Of all the ten nominated to the Alumni Council, probably Thomas B. Miller, '11, attorney of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., is the most regular attendant at the athletic events of the College. He appears at practically every football game in the fall wherever it is played, and he comes to Carlisle to see all of the leading basketball games. He has also been active in the affairs of the Dickinson Club of Northeastern Pennsylvania.

Clinton DeWitt Van Siclen, '14, has enjoyed deserved rise as an attorney in

New York City. He married a Dickinsonian, Mary Coyle, a classmate and they live on Long Island. They frequently return to Carlisle and attend all the Commencements.

Harry D. Kruse, '22, holds the degree of Doctor of Philosophy and lives in Baltimore, Md., where he is associated on the faculty of Johns Hopkins University.

Following the meeting of the Alumni Association on Alumni Day the newly formed Council will meet to organize and to elect officers.

Chrisman Writes Able Book

Reviewed by

PROF. CHESTER WARREN QUIMBY

Did you ever tune in on a Sunday, and hear some ultra liberal preacher bellowing, "The Ten Commandments should be scrapped," then twist the dial, and hear some rigid conservative ranting, "This verse relates to Mussolini?" A new book by Dr. Lewis H. Chrisman, '08, head of the Department of English Literature in West Virginia Wesleyan College, Buchannon, W. Va., called "The Message of the American Pulpit," is not that sort of a cross-section of American preaching. It is a digest of more than 6,000 sermons of the best modern preachers, Fosdick, Cadman, McConnell, Jefferson, etc.

Arrayed in topic chapters on God, Christ, the Church, the Bible, International Relations, etc., it presents the actual preaching in short, selected paragraphs from various preachers. Then Dr. Chrisman closes the chapters with brief explanations and criticisms.

It is an admirable piece of work. Any one desiring an actual summary of today's best pulpit work will pounce upon this book. And if he has despaired of modern preaching this book will give him a new hope. It is published by Richard R. Smith, Inc., of New York, and priced at $2.00.

Is Sky Pilot of the Cathedral of the Air

A Dickinsonian, Commander William W. Edel, '15, Naval Chaplain, is one of a group of three men who are sponsoring one of the most significant projects of the day in the erection of the "Cathedral of the Air" a non-sectarian memorial chapel at the United States Naval Air Station at Lakehurst, N. J. Commander Edel is Dean of this "house of prayer for all people" which will be erected by the American Legion and cared for in perpetuity by the United States Government.

This is probably the first building primarily for religious purposes in the erection of which Catholics and Protestants are officially uniting. The Board of Clerical Advisors will include representatives from all denominations, and the members of it already chosen are outstanding figures in their own religious groups such as Col. John T. Axton, formerly Chief Chaplain of the Army, representing the Congregationalists; Dr. Powell H. Norton, president of the Baptist Conference of New Jersey, and Monsignor M. R. Spillane, Vicar General of the Diocese of Trenton of the Roman Catholic Church.

A page of the February 22, 1930 number of The Literary Digest told that "in memory of its brothers of the air who have 'gone West,' and in tribute of those who still carry on, the American Legion, Department of New Jersey, is to build a chapel which will be also a sanctuary for all men, an eternal reminder of the spiritual verities." The Literary Digest carried the artist's sketch of the building and reproduced the photograph of Commander Edel with the caption "A Sky Pilot for the 'Cathedral of the Air.'" The New York Christian Advocate previously told the story, and stated that "it is a practical demonstration of interchurch cooperation and fellowship, as its character provides that it shall be non-denominational. All denominations are cooperating in the project, and all may use it. The interior arrangements and chancel furnishings have been so designed as to be adaptable for the worship of all religious groups, giving offense to none, and permitting each to use the appointments to which it is accustomed. A Navy chaplain will act as dean.

The idea of the memorial originated in the minds of three prominent members of the American Legion. Its chief sponsor has been the Hon. Herbert H. Blizzard, commander of the New Jersey Department of the American Legion during 1929, who is now president of the board of trustees. The Rev. Gill Robb Wilson, of Trenton, who as an aviator won the Croix de Guerre with Palms from the French Government is the second member of the group and Commander Edel, who is chaplain of the U. S. Air Station at Lakehurst is the third.

THE CATHEDRAL OF THE AIR

To be built at Lakehurst, N. J.

"The American Legion espoused the plan early in 1929. The enabling act permitting the United States Government to accept such a memorial chapel and to care for it in perpetuity was passed by both houses of Congress without a dissenting vote. It was one of the last bills to which President Coolidge affixed his official signature."

Commander Edel when elevated to his present rank October 12, 1924, at the age of thirty years, won the distinction of being the youngest officer ever to be selected to the rank of Commander in the United States Navy. He is a veteran of the World War, of the expedition to China in 1927, and he has seen service in the Philippines, Samoa, on the high seas on various ships and at naval stations from Florida to New Jersey.

Commander Edel was born in Baltimore where his parents now reside. His father, John Wesley Edel, is an attorney who was at one time Commissioner of Education of Baltimore. His brother, J. W. Edel, Jr., graduated from Dickinson College in 1927 and is now a student of medicine in the University of Maryland.

Graduating from Baltimore City College, Commander Edel entered Dickinson College in 1912 and received his A. B. in 1915, graduating with honors as a member of Phi Beta Kappa. He received his S. T. B. from Boston University School of Theology in 1917 and his S. T. M. from the Philadelphia Divinity School in 1918. He was a member of the College Debating team and his Greek letter affiliations are with Alpha Chi Rho Fraternity.

While a student of the College he was pastor of the Mt. Holly Evangelical Church a year and until his graduation of the Bainbridge and Falmouth M. E. Churches in Lancaster County. While at Boston, he was assistant pastor of the Glendale M. E. Church, Everett, Mass. and pastor of the Wellington M. E. Church, Wellington, Mass. He was ordained as an elder of the Baltimore M. E. Conference in 1917.

Commander Edel entered military service a month before America's entry into the World War and he served with the American Ambulance Field Service until June 10, 1917 when he enlisted in the Navy. Following a period of training he received assignment to the U. S. S. St. Louis on which he served from October 1917 until September 1920 when he became a Lieutenant. Included in his appointments since the war are a tour of duty with the Tenth Regiment of Marines at Culebra in 1924, two years at the naval station in Samoa and the year's expedition with the Sixth Regiment of Marines in China in 1927-28. While in Samoa he served as Superintendent of Education from 1924-26.

During his service, Commander Edel has found time to write and he is the author of a number of articles which have appeared in the periodical press and religious publications. He makes frequent radio addresses and many speeches. He was the founder in 1927 of the Century of Cornelius, a military Christian order for service men.

On July 25, 1917, Commander Edel married Nanie Louise Billingsley, whose father at that time was mayor of Colonial Beach, Va. They have three children, Edna Louise, nine; Mary Virginia, eight; and Wilma Wilcox, seven months.

Prof. Prince Recovering From Serious Injuries

THOUGH still a patient in the Carlisle Hospital, Prof. Leon C. Prince is recovering steadily from the injuries he received when his automobile was wrecked in an accident while returning from the annual dinner of the Dickinson Club of Washington, on February 19. While it was first thought that his injuries were not serious it was soon discovered that he suffered a broken hip and a fractured jaw.

For the past several weeks he has been up daily and in good weather has been wheeled in his chair about the hospital grounds. His accident didn't change his style and he still wears a flaming red necktie and a tip of a red handkerchief peeks from his upper coat pocket.

He recently was the speaker at a celebration at the hospital and all visitors have rejoiced to see him on the road to health.

The Dickinson Club of Washington has instituted a movement for the alumni to purchase a new automobile for Prof. Prince and is raising funds for this purpose. It is likely that several other alumni clubs will join in the movement. Any alumni who wish to share in this expression of affection may send their remittances directly to Gilbert Malcolm, Treas., Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa.

In a letter to the Washington alumni, General Frank R. Keefer, president of the club there said in part "this letter is sent not as an appeal but as the presentation of an opportunity which we believe you will be glad to seize to register your own esteem of this valiant son of Dickinson."

Prof. Prince will likely be able to leave the hospital on the eve of Commencement and it is expected that he will be on the campus during that season.

Becomes Philadelphia District Superintendent

THE Rev. W. Galloway Tyson, '15, was named superintendent of the West District of the Philadelphia M. E. Conference at the annual conference of that body in March. With his appointment he completed seven years as pastor of St. James' M. E. Church, Olney, one of the strongest churches in the Philadelphia Conference.

Rev. Tyson has served only five pastorates in the Philadelphia Conference. He first was at Delaware Water Gap during his college days and in 1916 he went to Lindley. In 1918 he became pastor of Orthodox M. E. Church, Philadelphia and the following year went to Central Church, Roxboro, remaining there until his appointment to St. James in 1923.

Born in Port Jervis, N. Y., December 9, 1887, he graduated from Dickinson Seminary, Williamsport, Pa., and then spent the academic year 1911-12 at Dickinson College with the class of 1915. He retired in June 1912 to enter the University of Pennsylvania and to take the Delaware Water Gap charge. He received his A. B. from Pennsylvania in 1915 and his B. D. degree from Drew University. In his year at Dickinson he was a member of the debating team and active in all campus affairs.

A Dickinsonian, the Rev. C. W. Kitto, '12, was appointed pastor of St. James' M. E. Church, Philadelphia, to succeed Rev. Tyson. Rev. Kitto was called from the Pottsville charge to take this important church and to continue the line of Dickinsonian pastors at Olney.

Annual Philadelphia Club Dinner

Another fine turnout and another fine dinner featured the annual gathering of the Dickinson Club of Philadelphia at the Penn A. C. on March 27th. There were 75 alumni present.

Murray H. Spahr, Jr., '12, retiring president of the club, who also did most of the work in staging the dinner, presided. The annual election resulted in naming Paul R. Renn, '12, president; Bayard L. Buckley, '11L, first vice-president; Mrs. R. F. Davenport, '11, second vice-president, and J. Frank Jones, '08, secretary-treasurer.

Hoffman Birney, '12, well known author of stories of the West, who gives his permanent address as Tucson, Ariz., chanced to be in Philadelphia and made a very interesting speech at the dinner.

President Filler spoke in behalf of the College, Prof. W. H. Hitchler for the Law School and Boyd Lee Spahr for the General Alumni Association. Recognition was made by the diners to Judge E. W. Biddle, president of the Board of Trustees, who was present and he said a word of greeting. The meeting concluded with the showing of movies by Gilbert Malcolm.

Most Graduates Enter Educational Fields

THIRTY-FIVE per cent of Dickinson's graduates from 1900 to 1929 have entered the work of education while half as many or 17 per cent follow commercial pursuits, a few less or 14 per cent are in religious service and almost the same number or 12 per cent are in the legal profession, 10 per cent are home makers, four per cent are in medicine while four per cent are dead or missing and a scattering are in journalism and the government service. These figures for the past three decades were revealed in a tabulation of the occupational distribution of alumni made during a recent survey of the College undertaken by the Board of Education of the M. E. Church.

At one time it was often stated that "twenty-five per cent of Dickinson's alumni are teachers and twenty-five per cent are preachers." While the survey revealed that the percentage of teachers has been higher since 1900 than twenty-five, it also revealed that while in the decade from 1900 to 1909, twenty-five per cent were "preachers" that this percentage had fallen to 13 for the decade from 1910 to 1919 and to 12 per cent in the last decade. Between 1900 and 1909, 100 alumni are in religious service while of the graduates from 1920-29 when the enrollment of the College was very much greater 102 have entered this field.

Within the three decades the percentage entering commercial pursuits and the legal profession has been relatively constant, those following medicine have increased from 3.2% in the first two decades to 5% in the last ten years, and the percentage entering education has advanced from 29% to 41% in the last decade. Thus it will be seen that while there has been a falling off in the number choosing religious service, the loss is greatly offset by the very much higher percentage of those entering fields of education.

Because of the meagerness of the occupational records of the College, this occupational listing of the alumni may be quite defective. However, it is believed that an accurate checking would reveal few glaring mistakes in the following tabulated results:

Occupation	Graduates of			Total
	1900-1909	1909-1919	1920-1929	1900-1929
Commercial Pursuits	90	111	133	334

For Dickinsoniana Room

Through the courtesy of W. I. Reed, '02, Springfield, N. J., there has been added to the Dickinsoniana collection a copy of a pamphlet of a poem, "The Spirit of Change" delivered by Albert H. Slape, of Salem, N. J., on the anniversary of the Belles Lettres Society, July 5, 1858.

The paper is yellowed but otherwise in good form. Its preface includes a letter to Mr. Slape from J. D. Watters, John Hays, Daniel M. Cloud and others urging him to publish the poem.

Editorial Exalts Accomplishments of Dickinsonians

IN an editorial headed "Dickinson Alumni" published a few days before the annual dinner of the Dickinson Club of Northeastern Pennsylvania on April 3, the Wilkes-Barre Record paid glowing tribute to the accomplishments of Dickinsonians in the coal regions of Pennsylvania and made unusual recognition of the old College. Probably in no other locality do so many Dickinsonians hold exalted office as in Luzerne and Lackawanna Counties of Pennsylvania, where a spirit of strong fraternalism is evident in all gatherings of Dickinson men.

At the dinner, Lackawanna County Dickinsonians found much missing from the editorial and they stated that they had been overlooked and the list of prominent men needed to be doubled. It is a fact that like Luzerne, Lackawanna can also give a formidable list of Dickinsonians of today in high places and of men who are accomplishing big things. But with these omissions granted to Lackawanna, the editorial reads:

DICKINSON ALUMNI

"When Northeastern Pennsylvania alumni of Dickinson College and Dickinson School of Law assemble in Wilkes-Barre on Thursday evening for their annual meeting and dinner they will be in one of their own strongholds. Dickinson men have achieved an unusual measure of distinction in Luzerne County. Three of our judges, Heller, Valentine and Fine; the present lieutenant-Governor, Arthur H. James; a member of the workmen's compensation board, Joseph E. Fleitz; two assistant district attorneys, Roscoe B. Smith and Herman J. Goldberg; the county prothonotary, John H. Bonin, head a long list of Luzerne County graduates of the law school who are playing active and prominent roles in the life of this community.

"Dickinson lawyers from the largest single group practicing before the Luzerne County bar. There are said to be 150 Dickinson alumni in Luzerne County and 250 in neighboring counties. Dickinson is said to have furnished a large number of the present judges and district attorneys in Pennsylvania than any other one institution. A number of our pulpit occupants are graduates of the college.

"Somebody interestingly recalled yesterday that the late Agib Ricketts was a student at Dickinson before the Civil War and mention of the War further brings to mind that Dickinson was the centre of stirring episodes at the height of that conflict. But reminiscing could go on almost endlessly, and with keen local interest, for Dickinson, the oldest college west of the Susquehanna in the United States, dates back well into the Eighteenth century and has long been a mecca for Wyoming Valley students.

"Wilkes-Barre is thoroughly at home in playing host to Dickinson alumni. They are just part of the family."

Tenth Summer School Session

The tenth annual session of the Dickinson Summer School of Religious Education will be held this year June 30th to July 11th. Several members of the College faculty will again participate in the program which offers leadership training and is held under the auspices of the Baltimore and Central Pennsylvania Conferences, assisted by the Board of Education of the M. E. Church.

Rev. Edwin C. Keboch, '05, Director of Religious Education of the Central Pennsylvania Conference, is again registrar of the school. Dr. Lewis G. Rohrbaugh, '07, professor of Philosophy and Religious Education at the College, Russel I. Thompson, '20, assistant professor of Philosophy and Religious Education at the College, Professor Chester W. Quimby, professor of English Bible, will be members of the faculty as will Rev. Ralph Minker, '20.

EDITORIAL

ONCE AGAIN, COMMENCEMENT

IT seems almost superfluous to urge again that the alumni return for Commencement. One thing is certain. Such an invitation is superfluous for increasing numbers of graduates who have found that a commencement trip to Carlisle each year is an elixir of unquestioned potency.

There are many, however, who need to get the Commencement habit. A great many of these live near Carlisle. It is one of the odd yet familiar things of college relationships that interest in the college seems to increase in direct ratio to the remoteness of the graduate. The liveliest dinners are those farthest from Carlisle. The most distant alumnus seems to come more readily to Commencement than the alumnus nearby.

The traditional program is planned for this year, a program that each year grows in popularity. A new feature here and there adds piquancy but the familiar high-spots are retained. Better than the program, of course, is the meeting up of old associates. Nothing can be finer than this to the college graduate. Each year there are more of such contacts. Each year there is less chance for an alumnus regardless of age to return home biting his lip in disappointment.

Alma mater, more maternal with the years, hospitable, attractive sits with open arms to welcome her sons at Commencement of all times.

CLASS MEMORIALS

NOTHING could be more expressive of the devotion of alumni to alma mater than the continuance of gifts to the college by classes in their reunion years. Commencement this year at Carlisle will mark the generosity of three such classes.

From '95 will come a gateway and campus wall; from 1910, a flag pole and from 1904 the refitting of the President's office in Colonial dress. All Dickinsonians rejoice in the spirit of these classes which now take their place in the procession of others which have dealt similarly with the college.

Valuable as are these material accretions to the college plant, they are more valuable as evidence of the fine spirit and interest of the graduates in the welfare of their college.

It is unfortunate that so many years passed without the classes recognizing their opportunity to show homage to alma mater in visible form. Had the present mode started years ago, the classes would have been able in these days to have made even more substantial gifts. But it will be more unfortunate still if the classes still young in years or just graduating do not at once begin funds for class memorials at such times as to them seems appropriate. The class of 1930 in starting its fund as undergraduates has set a fine example.

The embarrassing thing has been that the movement for class memorials start a few months before its presentation rather than five, ten, fifteen or twenty years. Class presidents and secretaries who do not at once inaugurate class memorial movements are losing an opportunity if not evading an obligation. It is quite manifest that larger sums for memorials can be accumulated during the years than the few months preceding a commencement. The installment system is quite as effective in paying for class memorials as for flivvers.

THE CONFERENCE TREND

IF the decision of the Conference at its Lancaster meeting this month, barring students from intercollegiate participation only in those sports from which they receive money for outside participation during vacations, really is to pervert the purpose for which the Conference was created, then all true sportsmen are regretful.

As understood the new ruling permits and by that token encourages students of Conference colleges to play with outside teams obviously for pay during Christmas, Easter and summer vacation without disqualifying them save in those sports in which they so participated.

If amateurism is a thing to cherish in college athletics, this ruling seems out of line with it. Naturally one is familiar with the plea that a student blessed with athletic talent ought to be permitted to capitalize it just as the saxophone player or the preacher is allowed to capitalize their talents. Obviously there is no analogy.

If the so-called athletic conferences are worth creating and preserving they ought to lean toward amateurism rather than professionalism, for it is professionalism that such conferences are generally designed to prevent. It is as extraordinary as it is a sorry commentary on the college man's code of honor that conferences must be created mainly for espionage purposes and thereafter become objects of suspicion. Too much complaint is heard about the present conference in which Dickinson is enrolled. There is too little satisfaction with it. Members of it are uneasy. That ought not to be so.

If members of an athletic conference cannot be trusted to adhere not merely to the letter but to the spirit of its regulations, then a "round table" session is in order so that the air can be cleared, the objectives and functions of the agency restated and clarified and an era of mutual trustfulness encouraged.

THE SMALL COLLEGE

TRUSTEE action raising the enrollment limit to 600 students with the co-ed fraction reduced actually and relatively to 125, still leaves Dickinson in the "small college" group where, there is little doubt, the overwhelming majority of her graduates and friends prefer it to be. One of the most encouraging features of the college's future is the general acceptance of a truth that even small colleges are and can become great.

In a nation where mere size for a time seemed to be the surest measure of greatness, it was not surprising that the small colleges were all urged to strive or to accept students without limit. The sophistry prevailed that the institutions with the largest student bodies were actually the greatest institutions. Happily that fad has passed until both the educator and the man in the street agree that no greater misfortune could happen for American education than the disappearance of the small college.

Readers of Time, that amazingly fascinating weekly, were thrilled and impressed by its comments on the small college as typified by Knox and Lombard in Illinois, each so small that the merger of them still results in the "small college." A cataloguing of the distinguished graduates of both institutions demonstrates convincingly that the product of the "small college" is quite as good as that of the large school or university.

In the list of alumni of one or the other schools were such names as Edgar Lee Masters, George Fitch, Eugene Field, Don Marquis, Dr. John H. Finley, Samuel S. McClure's Magazine; John S. Phillips, publisher; Thomas W. Goodspeed, "refounder" of the University of Chicago; Nelson D. Jay, partner of Morgan, banker; Carl Sandburg, railroad presidents, bankers and still others who hold high place.

That is a distinguished list for any small college to match. Some of them can do it. Size of student enrollment has nothing to do with the quality of the product. Each year the "small college" is contributing men of service to the world, men who meet and compete successfully with the graduates of larger institutions.

There are no conflicts between the large and the small institutions. Each has its special service to perform. Both are deemed essential to the educational balance of the country. To banish one type merely to retain the other would destroy the balance and leave much to be desired.

Most if not all Dickinsonians are delighted that the opinion of those shaping the future of the college is strongly attached to the small college idea and that an increase of fifty or more in present enrollment is not disturbing because it merely emphasizes the 600 limit beyond which there is no expectation of going.

ALUMNI CLUB DINNERS

THIS was an uncommonly good year for alumni club dinners. Virtually all the clubs rallied during the winter to pay tribute to Dickinson. Not all the dinners were as largely attended as desirable, but the spirit was there and the resolution to do better next time.

None of the influences designed to stimulate alumni interest in the college as well as to share in the satisfactions of fellowship seems quite so practical and effective as the alumni club dinner. It brings together fellow collegians in a fine spirit of comradeship. It often thrills the diners at the achievements of fellow alumni. And usually it brings ethical advertisement to the college itself.

There still remain throughout the country spots where alumni clubs should be organized and one or two where existing clubs might be revitalized. All this is a job within the province of any loyal alumnus. It is an opportunity that ought not be longer neglected.

Harrisburg Holds Double-Header

After a mix-up in a February gathering, the Dickinson Club of Harrisburg held an annual dinner on March 31 though the return engagement failed to measure up to the well attended functions of a few years ago.

President Filler represented the College, Prof. W. H. Hitchler, the Law School and Boyd Lee Spahr, the General Alumni Association. P. W. Griffith, Director of Athletics, also spoke, while Gilbert Malcolm showed the movies. J. Paul Rupp, retiring president, presided.

Clyde W. Hoover, '02, was elected president, Homer L. Kreider, vice-president, and Harold H. Suender was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Again Honor "A" Students

Three Seniors who were elected to Phi Beta Kappa at mid-year were the guests of honor at a dinner given by the College to the "A" students with the faculty and their wives present on March 1 in the Molly Pitcher Hotel. President Filler presided and Dr. Clark S. Northup, president of the United Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa, delivered the address, "The Chief End of Man."

Dr. Edgar R. Heckman, secretary of the Pennsylvania Alpha Chapter, spoke briefly in presenting the keys to Harold A. Kline, Vincent A. McCrossen and Willis W. Willard, who before the dinner were initiated into the society. Dean M. P. Sellers then read the roll of the "A" students.

Coal Region Alumni Stage Lively Dinner

MORE than seventy alumni of the college and law school attended the annual dinner of the Dickinson Club of Northeastern Pennsylvania which was the liveliest of all the alumni gatherings during the past season and was staged in the Westmoreland Club, Wilkes-Barre, on April 3.

A live-wire orchestra and Judge E. Foster Heller in the role of master of ceremonies kept things moving throughout the dinner. Judge Heller introduced almost every alumnus present with a personal word which kept the party in tumult.

Arthur H. James, '05L, Lieutenant-Governor of Pennsylvania, was toastmaster and he started where Judge Heller quit and made a fine job of it. He carried through the spirit of fraternalism which characterizes the meetings of the alumni of that district.

Prof. Wilbur H. Norcross attended the dinner representing the College and made the first set speech. He was followed by Prof. W. H. Hitchler of the Law School, and then P. W. "Red" Griffith, football coach, outlined the athletic program. Before Gilbert Malcolm spoke and showed movies of the late Dean Trickett, there were several unusual impromptu speeches. William Curry, Joseph S. Fleitz, Roscoe Smith, Tom Donohue, and John H. Bonin, all told stories of their college days. Leonard D. Morgan, now controller of Lackawanna County, recited a poem he wrote while with the A. E. F., "Boys From the Old Mine Town." Anthony T. Walsh caused a near riot by a series of stories and with Francis Mackin as accompanist gave a spirited rendition of "Ecstasy."

Those present were:

Vincent G. Bell, Fearon B. Bell, Felix W. Bolowicz, William P. Burke, John H. Bonin, W. B. Brubaker, Raymond J. Bush, William M. Curry, Robert G. Coglizer, Robert Chalis, Jr., Daniel J. Connell, Elias Cohen, Robert F. Dilley, T. A. Donohue, John S. Fine, Joseph E. Fleitz, John P. Feeley, Conrad A. Falvello, Thomas J. Grover, Louis W. Gerhardt, P. W. Griffith, W. H. Hitchler, E. Foster Heller, F. J. Helriegel, Lorrie R. Holcomb, Thomas J. Howley, Robert W. Johnson, Edward E. Johnson, Arthur H. James, Theodore M. Johnson, Dr. Walter Kistler, J. S. Kennedy, W. F. Lukenbach, Roy E. La Rossa, Edwin B. Morgan, Matthew D. Mackin, Frank L. McDonough, E. C. Marianelli, John Menovsky, Francis Mackin, Tom Moore, M. Joseph Mras, J. R. McCormick, Leonard D. Morgan, Gilbert Malcolm, Wilbur H. Norcross, J. Harry Morosini, Joseph L. O'Donnell, George I. Puhak, Daniel R. Reese, George H. Smith, L. D. Savige, Roscoe B. Smith, Leo J. Schwartzkopf, Paul J. Schmidt, Anthony T. Walsh, Andrew J. Zawoiski.

Atlantic City Club Dines

The second annual dinner of the Dickinson Club of Atlantic City was held in the Hotel Morton on March 28th. With about 40 present, it was one of the best attended of the club dinners proportionately, while it was predicted that at next year's function double the number would be on hand.

H. Walter Gill, '07, retiring president, delivered a word of greeting and then introduced the toastmaster, Dr. W. Blair Stewart, '87, who was later elected president of the club. W. Lindley Jeffers was chosen vice-president and Marjorie L. McIntire, secretary-treasurer.

Miss McIntire was the first speaker with the subject "The Alumnae." Boyd Lee Spahr, president of the General Alumni Association, journeyed from Philadelphia, and spoke on "The Alumni." Prof. W. H. Hitchler then spoke as the representative of the Law School, and was followed by President Filler, representing the College. Before the close of the meeting, Gilbert Malcolm showed movies of the inauguration of President Filler and of the 1929 Commencement.

The committee for the dinner was composed of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Whitmoyer, Miss McIntire, Huldah Kirk and Dr. Stewart.

Receives Endorsement For High Office in Rotary

HAVING received the endorsement of the 39th District of Rotary International assembled at Sarasota, Fla., Howard W. Selby, '13, will be nominated by the West Palm Beach, Florida and the Springfield, Mass., Clubs for the office of Director of Rotary International at the 25th anniversary convention to be held in Chicago, June 25th. Since he became a member of the Rotary Club in Springfield, Mass., in 1919, Mr. Selby served as secretary 1922-24 and as president 1924-25. He was a delegate to conventions in Edinburgh, Scotland, St. Louis, Mo., Toronto, Can. and Dallas, Texas.

In 1925 he moved to West Palm Beach and became affiliated with the West Palm Beach Rotary Club. He is now serving as governor of the 39th District, comprising the entire state of Florida, with the exception of two clubs in the extreme western section of the State. While high praise has been paid to Mr. Selby's record as a Rotarian, his work as a man is well shown in a resolution adopted by his District, which say in part, "His fine character, excellent judgment and splendid record both in private, business and public life, public and community interest, is one of the major reasons for presenting his name for International Director."

Born in Philadelphia 1891, Mr. Selby graduated from the high school there and from Dickinson College with the Sc. B. degree in 1913. On the first day of January, 1916, he married Ethel Wagg, '15 at Collingswood, N. J. They have two children, Howard W., Jr., aged 12 and John Horace, aged 10. For the first time in some years a representative of the Law School attended the function as a guest and Prof. W. H. Hitchler made one of the speeches. Dr. Wilbur H. Norcross and Gilbert Malcolm represented the College. Russell R. McWhinney, retiring president of the club, presided.

Alumni Clubs Pay Tribute

At each of the luncheons or dinners of Dickinson Alumni clubs during the recent season, beautiful tributes were paid to the memory of the late Dr. George Edward Reed and of Professor J. Fred Mohler. The united expression of the alumni usually took the form of rising in silent tribute, while many alumni voiced their love and admiration for these men whose years of service are eternally graven in Dickinson's history.

Baltimore Club Meets

With more than 60 alumni present, the Dickinson Club of Baltimore held one of the best of the alumni club dinners in the Hotel Emerson on March 14. Foster H. Fansen, retiring president of the club, presided and several numbers were sung by the College quartet which made the trip to attend the function.

An excellent report of the major activity of the club in maintaining the Dickinson Club of Baltimore Scholarship was made by Carlyle R. Earp, chairman of the scholarship committee. The scholarship which amounts to $400 for the Freshman year has been awarded for the past three years, and there are many applicants for the award for the coming academic year. The Baltimore Club is the only alumni organization to award and maintain a scholarship.

Following the address of President Filler, brief speeches were made by L. T. Appold, Honorary President of the General Alumni Association, and J. Henry Baker. Movies were shown by Gilbert Malcolm.

The annual election of officers resulted as follows: Dr. Frank M. Houck, '10, president; Monroe H. Hess, '24, vice-president and Dr. Harry D. Kruse, '22, secretary-treasurer.

Kings and Geniuses Bow to Young Baltimoreans

BALTIMORE newspapers recently chronicled the achievements of Nancy and Jack Bacon, children of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis M. Bacon, Jr., '02 and '12 respectively, as autograph collectors. Nancy is 12 years old; Jack, two years younger.

Presidents, Kings, generals, poets, actors, writers, explorers and still others are represented in the collection. As might be expected, Nancy specializes in signatures of musical and literary folks; her brother in government officials and soldiers.

Included in four or more big volumes of autographs are those of Lindbergh, General Pershing, General Jan Smuts, Kipling, Count Von Luckner, Mussolini, President Hoover, John Galsworthy, Ring Lardner, George Ade, Fanny Hurst, Edwin Markham, Will Rogers, Dr. Henry Van Dyke.

Others are Fritz Kreisler, Rachmaninoff, Galli-Curci, Jane Addams, Eva LaGallienne, Lady Astor, Helen Wills, Nicholas Murray Butler and Queen

Marie of Rumania.

The Sultan of Perak sent John an autograph in English and Malay. Gandhi sent his. Irving Bacheller wrote Nancy in verse and Admiral Sims sent John a signed limerick. Lloyd George, Lord Allenby, Winston Churchill, King Boris and Ellis Parker Butler are others.

The mother of the juvenile collectors is some collector herself, outstanding in her group being autographs of Richard Harding Davis and Cardinal Gibbons.

The children have been materially assisted in the collection of the autographs by their uncle, J. Henry Baker, '93, and by a number of prominent people including Bishop W. J. McDowell. Many have been aroused by the scope of the collection and have gladly assisted in securing the autographs of famous folk. Nancy and Jack both have had and are having many charming correspondences with noted persons, who have been captivated by the child enthusiasm of the youthful collectors.

In Old Bellaire

A devastating forest fire occurred in the South Mountains early in May during an exceptional dry spell. Thousands of acres of timberland were destroyed and for a time the colonies at Pine Grove, Laurel and Hunter's Run were seriously threatened. Many hunting cabins were burned. A number of the undergraduates with soldiers from the Army Post aided in fighting the fire over a week-end.

Elmer Zeigler, for many years proprietor at the Zeigler Taxi Cab, operator of bus lines from Carlisle, died suddenly in May of heart failure.

The new chimes of the Reformed Church, a gift of R. R. Todd, in memory of his wife, were dedicated the Sunday following Easter. They make a very valuable addition to the town. During Commencement the chimes will probably play a group of Dickinson songs.

Workmen are speeding operations on the new home of Kronenberg's which is being built on the site of the former store recently destroyed by fire. It is expected that the new store will be opened in August. In the meanwhile Kronenberg's are continuing at their temporary site 17 West High St.

Carlisle business organizations have been making many efforts to secure conventions. The first of these, one held by the Knights of Malta, brought many visitors to the town in May. The streets were gayly decorated and an elaborate parade was held.

Grows Tomatoes Without Soil in Laboratory

ANNOUNCEMENT that tomatoes had been grown without soil and that vegetables had been produced in the laboratories of the Smithsonian Institute was made recently in the newspapers of Washington, D. C. and was widely heralded throughout the country. Dr. Earl S. Johnston, '13, Smithsonian associate, is the man who is carrying on these unusual experiments and who succeeded in growing plants in the laboratory without soil, which may afford a glimpse of the synthetic agriculture of a distant future.

The tomato plants were literally hatched in an incubator. The seeds were first sprouted between two sheets of moist blotting paper kept at a constant temperature. When root growth started, the tiny plants were inserted in cork stoppers, through which holes had been bored approximately the size of a full grown tomato stem. They were so placed that all the root system was suspended below the cork, while the sprout peered through on the other side. The seedlings were held in place in the corks by loose cotton packing.

The corks were then placed in two-quart jars so that the roots were immersed in a solution of calcium nitrate, magnesium sulphate and monopotassium phosphate, which is approximately the mixture ordinary plants derive from the soil. The plant, which feeds through its roots, can take nothing from the soil except in solution, it was explained by Dr. Johnston. In the laboratory it does not have to depend on the elements, such as rain and sunshine, to prepare the solution from the chemical constituents of the soil. It has a constant and plentiful supply ready to eat at all times.

The next step is to place the jars in a constant temperature chamber, regulate the light supply, and watch the plants grow.

In the regulation of the light supply, exhaustive experiments are being continued. The tomatoes were grown in ordinary "white light," but the solution-filled jars were constantly rotated on revolving platforms in a chamber with reflecting walls, so that all parts of the plants would have constantly uniform radiation conditions. Later the same experiments will be conducted in similar reflecting chambers with different combinations of light.

One of the first light effects being studied is the curious phenomenon known as phototropism, the innate tendency of plants to lean toward the sun in their growth. In some plants, such as sunflowers, whose blooms follow roughly the course of the sun throughout the day, this is so conspicuous as to suggest deliberative behavior.

The effects of the pull of different light combinations are being studied with extraordinary delicate mechanisms which will detect the slightest changes in the direction of growth

Observe Founder's Day

Dr. A. Duncan Yocum, '89, Professor of Education at the University of Pennsylvania, was the principal speaker at the anniversary exercises in chapel on May 20 when Founder's Day was observed. His subject was "The Founders and Our Present State of Mind."

The 147th Anniversary of the Founding of the College was a holiday for the student body and opening with a May Breakfast served in the old gymnasium, which had been finely decorated for the occasion. Following the chapel exercises, a ceremony was held in the Old Graveyard where the graves of Presidents Nisbet, Davidson, Johnson and Reed were decorated. Samuel Witwer, Jr., of the Senior class, was the speaker.

In the afternoon an inter-class track meet was held on Biddle Field and in the evening "Outward Bound" a play was given in Bosler Hall under the direction of Prof. B. W. Folsom.

The Dickinsonian Lincoln

This striking resemblance to the great President is the product of John T. Olmstead, '09L, of Harrisburg. Incident to Lincoln Birthday ceremonies this year, Olmstead was in great demand by service and other clubs for impersonations of Lincoln and the recital of the classic Gettysburg Speech.

Officiates in Airplane Wedding

Wilmington newspapers carried the story in April that Rev. Ralph L. Minker, '20, who recently moved from Massachusetts to become pastor of the Silverbrook charge, had officiated in Delaware's first airplane wedding at Bellanca Field.

The wedding had been planned for the church but at the last minute, the bride and groom with two attendants and Rev. Minker entered the six-passenger monoplane with the pilot. Circling over the field, the plane rose to an altitude of 3,000 feet where the ceremony began. When the last of the ritual had been said the plane was 1,800 feet from the ground and the pilot sent the ship into a nose dive "ending only when the excited gasps of the minister reached the ears of the man at the controls," according to the newspaper account. The story continues that at 500 feet the "pilot turned to the nonplussed minister and asked what was wrong."

The recorded answer was "You must have forgotten that I have to preach tomorrow."

Largest Dinner in New York

With more than 100 alumni present at its annual dinner the Dickinson Club of New York again carried off the attendance record in the recent banquet season. The ball room of the Pennsylvania Hotel was the scene of the gathering on March 21, and Leon A. McIntire, retiring president, presided.

At the invitation of the club, Dean M. Hoffman, Associate Editor of THE DICKINSON ALUMNUS, trustee of the college, Alumni Day Chairman, and Generalissimo of 1902, journeyed to New York to instill enthusiasm—and he made good. His speech followed that of President Filler and was followed by Gilbert Malcolm, and the movies.

Walter V. Edwards, '11, who had served as secretary of the club during the two year term of Leon A. McIntire, was elected president. Clinton DeWitt Van Sicken, '14, was named vice-president; Arthur J. Latham, '10, secretary and Frank H. Hertzler, '98, treasurer while Leon A. McIntire, Rev. Edwin L. Earp, David Cameron, 2nd., Paul G. Souders and Harry I. Huber were elected directors.

Dr. Herbert N. Shenton of the faculty of Syracuse University so arranged his travel plans as to attend. Fred E. Malick came from Asbury Park, and several were present from Long Island points.

More Faculty Changes Ahead

Several faculty changes will occur before the opening of College for the next academic year. Chief of these will be the naming of a new head for the Department of Romance Languages.

Prof. Edgar M. Bowman who came to Dickinson five years ago recently resigned as head of the Department of Romance Languages to assume a similiar post in Wells College, Aurora, N. Y. He is a graduate of Haverford and holds a Ph. D. from Columbia. The other members of the department are Dr. John C. M. Grimm, Associate Professor, and Miss Mary B. Taintor, Associate Professor.

Henry W. Monyer who has been assistant in physics since his graduation, plans to do graduate work next year as will Paul W. Pritchard, who has been an instructor in the Department of Physical Education for the past two years.

B. W. Folsom, who has been Associate Professor of Public Speaking for the past two academic years, will not be a member of the faculty.

An instructor will be added in the Department of Social Science of which Prof. G. H. Patterson is the head, though final selection has not yet been made.

Dr. W. A. Parlin who came to the college when Prof. J. Fred Mohler died, will continue in the Physics Department another year.

Because he is content to stay there and practice his profession, raise a few good horses, enjoy the outdoor life and seldom appear in Denver Court, he would be patronized by hundreds of Denver lawyers who are not as tenth as successful or do not get a hundredth of the enjoyment out of life." OBITUARY 1864—Chief Judge William A. Henry Hamilton of the Orphans' Court, Hagerstown, Md., died in his 85th year after an illness of two weeks on April 7.

Judge Hamilton was born in Baltimore February 20, 1846, the eldest of nine children. He prepared for college at the Light Street Institution, Maryland, received his A. B. in 1904 and his A. M. in 1907. Following his graduation he studied law and was admitted to the bar. As a young man he joined the staff of the Baltimore American. In 1873 he moved to Hagerstown where he began to practice law and to act as correspondent for Baltimore newspapers. He held various positions in journalism until later in life when he devoted his full time to the practice of Law. He was first elected Judge of the Orphans' Court in 1911 and was re-elected in 1915, 1919, 1923 and 1926.

For a time he was employed in the Census Bureau in Washington about 1890. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church and was prominent in all civic matters. He was one of the organizers of the Maryland State Firemen's Association and its second president. For years he was one of its trustees. He was a member of the Valley Lodge, Knights of Pythias.

He is survived by his widow, two sons, W. R. Hamilton and Lewis Scott Hamilton of Hagerstown, a daughter, Mrs. John A. Hunter of Washington and four grandchildren. Although the oldest of his generation, he outlived nearly all his brothers and sisters.

1876—After lingering a few months in the Mar Vista Hospital, Los Angeles, Rev. James Blackledge, preacher and educator, quietly passed away in March. The DICKINSON ALUMNUS has been unable to learn the date of his death.

Born in Durham, England, in 1849, he entered the College in 1874 after graduating from Dickinson Seminary and Drew Theological Seminary. Upon his graduation in 1876 he entered the Philadelphia Conference doing good work until he was called to a professorship in the Anglo Japanese College in Tokio, Japan in 1882. In 1887 when the failing health of Mrs. Blackledge caused his return to Los Angeles in search of health, he became professor of Biblical languages in Maclay College, San Fernando, Cal. He taught and preached for some years until he returned to educational work and became a distinguished professor in the Department of Hebrew and Greek in the University of Southern California. He was a member of Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity and of the U. P. Society.

An only daughter, Mrs. Frank Young, survives.

He came as a country boy by the way of the little red school house and the distant academy, honoring each by his scholarship and aspiration, and was known by the same characteristics at Dickinson, where he was a member of the U. P. Society and Sigma Chi Fraternity.

His first position in educational work was principal of the Brandywine Manor Academy and after a year he went to Hawley, Pa., as supervising principal of schools. Efficiency in this field for six years opened his way to the city high school at Shamokin, Pa., as principal. Three years of excellent work led him to become Superintendent of Schools for Huntingdon County.

His knowledge of conditions in country districts and his own experience in early days, moved him to purchase the Huntingdon Semi-Weekly News which he utilized with his official position for the uplift of his people. Broken health soon after this required him to lighten his burdens, and he returned to Hawley where the community welcomed him as publisher and editor of the Hawley Times. He continued for ten years, letting to his work reluctantly only a short time before his death.

Bloomsburg State Teachers College had honored him for post graduate work, and Taylor University had recognized his work in that institution with Ph. D. He united with the Methodist Episcopal Church in boyhood; and wherever he resided was soon numbered among their official boards, and served many years as Sunday School Superintendent.

He is survived by Mrs. Lillian Cleaver and a daughter Ruth, who like her father is a distinguished and beloved teacher. Also by two brothers, Clarence and Jesse B. Cleaver of Danville, Pa.

Judge Heck who was 62 years old, graduated from the first class of the Dickinson School of Law. He was born in Orbisonia. His father, the Rev. Levi G. Heck, was a Methodist minister who was stationed in Lock Haven for a number of years. Judge Heck graduated from Dickinson Seminary and earned the money to attend law school by working on farms and felling lumber. He was a well built, powerful looking man and a familiar figure at all of the law school functions.

He began to practice law in Coudersport in 1893 and was elected District Attorney of Potter County in 1895. He became president judge of the district and was re-elected in 1923. He was active in the Black Forest Conservation Society and advocated the plan of the State taking over a vast region known as the Black Forest.

At Dickinson he was a member of Belles Lettres and Phi Delta Theta. He practiced for a number of years in Moorestown, N. J. With the World War he joined up and was stationed at Fort Benjamin Harrison. Later he was attached to the medical staff of the Veterans' Bureau in Philadelphia, a post he relinquished to return to private practice. He was a member of the Art Club and the University Club in Philadelphia.

Hoke Gottschall, purchasing agent for the Standard Oil Company of Pennsylvania, died suddenly on the lawn of his palatial new home, 236 Newburn Drive, South Hills, Pittsburgh, Pa., about sunset, May 17. Mr. Gottschall was mowing the lawn, one of his hobbies, when stricken. He was 52 years old. He is survived by a widow and a daughter. He also published a neighborhood newspaper there. When Mayor Babcock was elected, Mr. Gottschall became his private secretary for the 4-year term. Later he was appointed chief of the bureau of statistics in the Department of Internal Affairs at Harrisburg and in that role delivered many speeches throughout the state. Later when the Standard Oil entered the Pennsylvania field, he was made its purchasing agent.
