DECEMBER, 1936

Alumni Fund Workers to Seek 1,000 Contributors

THE first blow in the 1937 Alumni Fund Campaign was struck at Homecoming when a group of fifty class agents and committee members met at a luncheon in the Argonne Hotel, when it was announced that the second year of the plan would open in January and close in May.

As was true last year issues of the Dickinson College Bulletin will carry the publicity of the campaign and the appeal will be made by Chairman Corson and the class agents.

While no goal in dollars was set, the class agents were enlisted to make every effort to send the total number of subscribers to at least 1,000 in the second year.

Reports were given to the class agents and comparisons made to show that in the first year the amount subscribed was highly gratifying but that while $11,186.92 was paid, the amount came from only 549 donors. It was pointed out that as there are approximately 2,000 living graduates and about 3,000 non-graduates, there should be more than 549 contributors to the Alumni Fund. In past years more than 1,000 alumni have paid annual dues in the General Alumni Association and through the years since 1923 nearly 2,500 alumni have at some time paid these annual dues. Class agents and all fund officers pledged their support to secure as many contributors as possible to better the Dickinson record among other colleges.

President Corson presided at the luncheon and brief speeches were made by Dr. J. H. Morgan and Prof. C. W.

Prettyman who recounted their experiences in landing subscriptions while serving as class agents. Gilbert Malcolm as alumni secretary presented various reports and outlined the plans for the 1937 effort.

President Corson reminded the class agents that $11,186.92 had been given in 1936, and that as directed by the Trustees $750 had been added to Library Guild Endowment; $5,000 had been applied toward grants of scholarships and scholarship-loans and the remaining $5,436.92 had been added to the Current Fund of the College. He stated that this had made possible a substantial reduction in the college indebtedness to $124,100. at the close of the fiscal year on July 31, 1936.

President Corson also said that in the budget for 1936-37 he was definitely counting on another successful Alumni Fund effort, and stressed the need for every donation. He declared that applications for financial aid from students far exceeded the amount available from college scholarship-loan funds and indicated that additional money would be needed for the development of the Mooreland tract and the enlargement of Biddle Field.

It was also explained that many benefits will accrue to the college through the Alumni Fund effort. While many alumni reported that they had obeyed the injunction "Put Dickinson in your will", others paid off old subscriptions to the college or class funds and for these no total can be added to the Alumni Fund amount.

Under the impetus of the Alumni Fund appeal, several classes gained additional subscribers and received gifts to add to principal amounts. Notably among these is the Class of 1914 which has raised its total held by the College to $810 and is heading toward its $1,000 goal. The report of the College Treasurer for the fiscal year ending July 31, 1936 shows that four classes and one alumnae club are contributing to funds which will at some time be added to the permanent endowment. The Dickinson Alumnae Club of Harrisburg which is creating a scholarship fund has accumulated $185.00. The Class of 1914 with $810 tops the class organizations while 1909's total is $531.47; 1911's is $331.23 and 1913 has $29.14.

Alumni Council Creates Appold Memorial

AT THE annual fall meeting of the Alumni Council, held in Carlisle on October 23, a resolution was adopted providing that the endowment fund of the General Alumni Association will hereafter be known as the Lemuel Towers Appold Life Membership Fund. This memorial was created to perpetuate the name of the man who was the real founder of the General Alumni Association, as well as the founder of the life membership fund. The Council has incorporated in its minutes the following resolution:

It is with deepest regret and a sense of irreparable loss that the Alumni Council mourns the passing of Mr. Lemuel Towers Appold.

His was the thoughtful spirit that conceived of his fellow alumni as an integral body; his was the creative spirit that moulded the idea into actual being; his was the guiding spirit that led the body through its formative years.

The General Alumni Association is a warrant of his service to his college; its very existence will perpetuate his name undimmed among the sons of Dickinson.

The fall meeting of the Council was held in the Physics lecture room following a dinner given by the Council to the members of the Faculty. S. Walter Stauffer acted as toastmaster. President Corson and Professor Charles L. Swift spoke briefly. Dr. J. H. Morgan offered the invocation.

A great part of the council meeting was given to discussing various plans for the improvement of the commencement program. In each case the plans proposed were referred to officers of the Association to be considered with the administrative officers of the College. One of these plans called for a change in the hour of the annual meeting of the General Alumni Association and the presentation of many alumni matters at the alumni luncheon. Another plan suggested more imposing exercises at the annual induction of the senior class. A third proposal suggested an outstanding musical concert on Sunday afternoon of Commencement.

In making his report as treasurer, Dr. Harry B. Stock stated that the total endowment fund as of October 23, 1936, was $7,232.98. This represents the amount which has been paid in life membership subscriptions and is invested as directed by the Alumni Council.

In making his report, the editor of THE DICKINSON ALUMNUS stated that there were then 164 life memberships and that 369 other alumni had paid their annual dues up to October 23. Plans were made by the Council for sending notices to all alumni owing annual dues. The need for a much larger subscription list was explained.

First Class to Report

Through Dr. Harry D. Kruse, of Baltimore, class agent, the class of 1922 wins the distinction of being the first class to make a report in the 1937 Alumni Fund drive. Dr. Kruse has already forwarded five subscriptions totaling $65.

The class of 1922 will celebrate its 15th anniversary at the next Commencement, and has decided to throw its entire financial support to the Alumni Fund rather than to some special class gift fund. The class which has reached its first objective of being the first to make a contribution for the year also seeks the greatest improvement in a class record before the campaign ends.

Forty Years an Organist

An enthusiastic tribute was recently paid to Norman Landis, '94, when on the completion of forty years of service as organist at the Flemington Presbyterian Church, an anniversary celebration was held in his honor.

Mr. Landis, who was born in Carlisle, is a brother of Merkel Landis, '96. Following his graduation from Dickinson College, he went to New York City where he studied the organ with R. Huntington Woodman and the piano with Caia Aarup, and the theory of composition with Harry Rowe Shelley and Dudley Buck.

During his forty years at Flemington, N. J., he has given many recitals, and his own compositions are well known among organists of the country. Among his best known compositions are the anthems, "As It Began to Dawn," "The Twenty-third Psalm," "Behold the Lamb of God," and "Thy Will Be Done." For the organ he has written "The Mountains," "Romance," "Chant Sans Paroles," and the "Oriental Suite." He is also the author of the cantata, "The Blind Man of Siloam."

Five More Lifers

Five more alumni have become Life Members of the General Alumni Association since the publication of the September number of THE DICKINSON ALUMNUS.

Clarence Balentine, '93, '94L, outstanding attorney of Scranton, Pa., sent in his check for $40 in October.

Prof. Charles F. Kramer, '11, member of the faculty of the University of Maryland, was the second subscriber.

Another member of the class of 1935 became a Lifer when John J. Snyder of Route 1, Carlisle, sent in his check.

A. Grace Filler, '10, only alumna member of the Alumni Council, became a Lifer when she returned for Homecoming and the fall Council meeting.

H. L. Jacobs, Jr., '13, printer of Orlando, Fla., sent his check in December, saying "This is something I have wanted to do for a long time, so am giving myself a Christmas present."

Survives the Landslide

Robert E. Woodside, '26, 28L, of Millersburg, was one of the few Republicans to be elected to office in Dauphin County in November. He was reelected as a member of the State House of Representatives from the county district.

Following the election there was a protest over the tabulation of the votes he received. Many of the ballot boxes were reopened and the votes recounted. Mr. Woodside took his seat in the special session early this month, however, when it was shown that he still had a majority of 88 votes.

THE PRESIDENT'S HOUSE

From the architect's sketch of proposed changes to front of dwelling

To Pay for Improvements to President's House

AN offer from Mrs. Paul Appenzellar, of Bronxville, N. Y., wife of Paul Appenzellar, '95, to meet the costs of altering the front of the President's House as suggested by W. W. Emmart, college architect of Baltimore, was accepted by the Board of Trustees at the meeting of December 12, when the plans were also submitted and approved.

In the proposed plan the present porch extending across all of the front of the house will be removed. A terrace will be built in front of the reception room with an open porch. Two smaller porches will be built at each wing of the house, the one providing the entrance to the hall, while the western porch will be a private one.

Changes will be made in the roof which will make the lines conform to the colonial architecture of other buildings on the campus.

The President's House has been changed many times. In the early day it was a one story building with a basement which contained the dining room, kitchen, laundry and cellar. During the administration of President George Edward Reed the present second and third floors were added in harmony with the prevailing architecture of that day.

What school of architecture sponsored the original building seems difficult to determine for it has been referred to as both an Italian and a Spanish villa. But it is known that after the front was altered some years ago, the statement was made that "the Queen Anne effect now has a Mary Ann front."

In the proposed plan, the present walk to the center of the porch will be removed and a walk built nearer the church leading to the entrance at the east wing of the building.

Open Club Dinner Season

The alumni club winter dinner season was opened on the night of December 4 when the Dickinson Club of New York held its annual dinner in the Faculty Club of Columbia University. About 50 attended the function.

Officers of the club decided after the dinner to continue to hold the annual function the first Friday night in December of each year and to cooperate with the Dickinson Club of Northern New Jersey which will hold its affair the first week of May.

President and Mrs. F. P. Corson and Gilbert Malcolm were guests of the club. Charles S. VanAuken, president of the club, acted as toastmaster. The Rev. J. Lane Miller, D.D., '06, offered the invocation. President Corson and Mr. Malcolm were the only speakers, and movies of college and Carlisle events were shown after the dinner.

The three officers chosen at last year's dinner who were re-elected are Charles C. VanAuken, '11, president; Arthur J. Latham, '10, vice-president, and Richard A. Lindsey, '35, secretary-treasurer. These officers and the following will comprise the Executive Committee: Beverly W. Brown, '03; J. Ernest Crane, '11; Clinton Dewitt Van Siclen, '14; Franklin T. Woodward, '03 and E. H. Mish, '09.

Joins Newspaper Staff

G. Hurst Paul, '22, a graduate of the Columbia School of Journalism who has had an active career as a newspaper man, recently was appointed associate editor of The Philadelphia Inquirer.

Future security for the privately endowed Colleges is a much discussed topic these days. Sane and non-partisan predictions of the affect of the present tendency of taxation in America upon large gifts to these institutions have been made. One very generous benefactor of Higher Education ventured the opinion to me recently that attempts to secure substantial endowments should be made within the next two years and many colleges have launched campaigns for this purpose. Time in one of its November issues presented statistics to show that the increase in the national income during the last year had not been accompanied by a corresponding increase in gifts to the Colleges. It has also been estimated that the average American spends 85% of his income, saves 12% of it and gives away 3%.

We have been giving considerable thought to the factors essential for the future security of Dickinson. They involve educational procedure, physical equipment and financial resources.

The year will witness certain changes in our physical equipment in the interest of better service for our students. The Biological Sciences, growing in importance and popularity, will be housed in a separate building. For this purpose we are remodeling the Mooreland House. The purchase of additional ground for athletic purposes will enable us to meet the physical and recreational needs of the students more satisfactorily. Some may question the relative importance of this factor in an educational policy but we should bear in mind that this phase of education is an ideal recognized and advanced by the Greeks to which the Liberal Arts College traces its ancestry.

A faculty committee of eight is making an exhaustive study of our educational policy in the light of present and future needs and the objectives of the College. Their final report and recommendations will be placed in your hands.

Financial security for the College lies in two directions. The first is an endowment increased to $2,000,000. During the year a substantial step has been made toward this goal through the generous bequest of Lemuel T. Appold and the endowment of the Chair of Rhetoric and the English Language by Professor M. P. Sellers in memory of his mother. These gifts, we hope, will incite others to "good works."

But for current needs we must depend upon the Alumni Fund. This I consider the second important factor in securing the future of the College. Present standards cannot be maintained without this fund.

The committee and class agents of the Alumni Fund have set 1000 subscribers as the goal for this year. We believe that the response of the loyal sons and daughters of Dickinson will over reach the goal and I commend it to your thought at this Christmas tide.

Dickinson must move forward, it is now moving forward and the speed of this movement depends upon our activity as Alumni in these next few years.

A Merry Christmas to you and "God bless us all."
F. P. CORSON.

Philadelphia Alumnae Meet

The Dickinson Alumnae Club of Philadelphia held a luncheon at the Tally-ho Restaurant in Philadelphia on November 14. At the meeting a collection of seven dollars was received to be used as a gift for Metzger Hall. This money has been forwarded to the College for use.

Makes Gift to College as Memorial to His Mother

PROFESSOR Montgomery Porter Sellers, '93, member of the College faculty since his graduation and former Dean, recently gave the College $50,000.00 in bonds to purchase a life-time annuity and to endow his own chair in the English department in memory of his mother, it was announced by President Corson at the meeting of the Board of Trustees in Philadelphia on December 12. The Board voted approval of the annuity contract, directed the acceptance of the gift, and the placing of the designated fund in permanent endowment.

Hereafter, the chair will bear the name of the mother of Professor Sellers and will be known as the Martha Porter Sellers Chair of Rhetoric and the English Language.

Martha Porter Sellers was one of the five "Porter Sisters" acclaimed for their charm and beauty throughout Cumberland County and in Dickinson's halls by town and gown alike in the days following the Civil War and until the last survivor, Mrs. Ida Porter Crook, widow of a Dickinsonian, made her final pilgrimage to a Dickinson Commencement in 1926.

Francis B. Sellers of the Class of 1861 wooed and won the Porter beauty and they settled in Allegheny, Pa., where Professor Sellers was born. A few years later they moved to Carlisle with their five children all of whom became Dickinsonians. F. B. Sellers, Jr., '97, Carlisle attorney, is a brother of Professor Sellers and his three sisters, who were all members of the Class of 1892, are Mrs. Ida Haines, Bay City, Mich., Mrs. Amy Treverton, Marion, N. C., and Mrs. Martha Williams, Carlisle.

Professor Sellers prepared for college at Carlisle High School. He entered Dickinson in 1889 and was graduated in 1893 with the degree of bachelor of philosophy. He received a master's degree in 1894 and Hamline University conferred the degree of Doctor of Letters upon him in 1918.

As an undergraduate at Dickinson, Professor Sellers was a member of Belles Lettres Society and Phi Kappa Psi fraternity. He won numerous prizes, including the Cole freshman forensic prize, the Belles Lettres sophomore prize, and the Foster prize. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

Immediately upon graduation, Professor Sellers was made adjunct-professor of English and German. He gave up his work in German in 1900 and was raised to the rank of professor of rhetoric and the English Language in 1904. He has travelled widely in Europe, studying at Heidelberg and in the Bodleian Library, Oxford.

In 1915 during the administration of President J. H. Morgan, Professor Sellers was named Dean of the Freshman Class and he continued in this post until 1928, when upon recommendation of President M. G. Filler he was elected Dean of the College. Professor Sellers became ill in 1933 and was granted a year's leave of absence. He returned to his duties for the next academic year but declined to continue as dean.

The 1934 Microcosm was dedicated to Professor Sellers "in recognition of the almost forty years of his life which he has spent in the service of this college" and hailed him as "a scholar of the old school."

Professor Sellers was married last July to Mrs. Grace Harlan Downes, widow of Fred W. Downes. They now reside at 262 West High Street, Carlisle.

Acquire Five Properties to Enlarge Biddle Field

TRANSACTIONS of many months terminated in October in the purchase by the College of five properties for $10,300.00 to the south of Biddle Field. The acquisition of this additional land became imperative when a landowner to the west sought approval of a plan by the Carlisle borough officials which would have precluded any future enlargement of Biddle Field.

In reporting these purchases which had previously been approved by the Executive Committee, President Corson told the Board of Trustees at the winter meeting on December 12 that Biddle Field should be enlarged before the next football season if funds for the work can be made available.

At the present time there is an old road south of Biddle Field separating the field from the hockey field which was acquired for the College by the Athletic Association some years ago and the five properties to the west of the hockey field which have just been purchased. This road is now officially closed by action of the Carlisle Planning Commission and the Borough Council, and part of a plan for the development of building lots further to the south and the tract to the west known as "Happy Retreat."

Three bungalows and two vacant lots comprise the properties bought by the College. Two of these houses may have to be moved or demolished, while the third will probably be used as a field house. A new street will be built running north and south at the western side of the college property which will necessitate the demolition of the present field house facing High Street.

A new east-west street will be cut at the southern line of the college property now the southern boundary of the hockey field and this will be the new southern boundary of the enlarged Biddle Field of the future.

The enlargement of the field will make possible the relocation of the football gridiron to end playing pigskin encounters in the mud of the baseball diamond. To do this it will only be necessary to place the northern goal posts south of second base and to move one section of steel bleachers from the northern end of the brick grandstand to the south of the southern steel bleachers.

Many other possibilities are seen in the enlargement of the field. Among them is a 220 yard straight-away for track and another is a full sized soccer field. More tennis courts and especially tennis courts of championship caliber are needed and these will be built as funds permit under President Corson's plans.

With the land developed as now planned there will be a large area provided for parking space to the west of the field comprising the land from the present western fence line to the new street to be cut by the borough.

To Rebuild Mooreland House for Biology Department

FINAL plans have been approved, bids are being prepared, and about December 15 work will start on the remodeling of the old Moore House on the Mooreland tract which will transform it into the Baird Biology Building, the home of the department of biology. The project will cost from $8,000 to $10,000.

W. W. Emmart, of Baltimore, college architect, after a careful study of the needs of the department with Professor M. W. Eddy, has prepared the plans for the new home of the department, which will use the entire dwelling of three floors and basement and a small adjoining two-story building.

By action of the Board of Trustees, taken at the mid-winter meeting in Philadelphia on December 12, the building will be named the Baird Biology Building as a memorial to Spencer Fullerton Baird, class of 1840, former secretary of the Smithsonian Institution.

The basement will provide, in addition to storage space, dark rooms for photographic development and special quarters for work in microphotography and water analysis. Provision will be made for future development of a conservatory at the rear of this floor.

The first floor will contain the main lecture-recitation room, Professor Eddy's office, two sections of the biological museum and special research room. The second floor will include two laboratories, research room, and the office of Mr. Herber, Professor Eddy's assistant. Here will be done work in the fields of botany, zoology, histology, entomology and genetics. The third floor, with laboratory and research rooms, will be the center of work in bacteriology, mammalian anatomy, ecology, and parasitology.

The adjoining building will be joined to the old dwelling by a covered bridge, forming a wing which will house the animal department, with operating room and storage quarters. Here will be also the aquarium room and a shop for the construction of special apparatus.

Externally, the building will be put in good physical condition. The well-known cupola will be removed and the roof brought back to the original lines of the building. The deteriorated enclosed porch at the rear will be replaced by an open concrete terrace. Additional windows, two on each floor, will be provided in the eastern wall. New treatment will be given the front of the building to make it conform with the appearance of a first-class college hall.

The landscaping of Mooreland has been carried on ever since the purchase of the tract, so that the new department building will have an attractive setting. With the beginning of remodeling, the College will take the first step in the development of the newest section of the Dickinson campus.

Heads Michigan Bar

Roscoe O. Bonisteel, '12 was elected president of the State Bar Association of Michigan in November. He thus becomes the head of an organization composed of 5,800 members who practice law in the State of Michigan.

Mr. Bonisteel was graduated from the Michigan Law School in 1912, and was appointed city attorney in Ann Arbor in 1921 and held that office until 1928. He is former director of the Michigan Municipal League, and was president of the Ann Arbor Alumni Club of the University of Michigan in 1934. He is a member of various regional and national professional organizations. He has served as a delegate to Republican state conventions several times, and in 1928 was a delegate to the Republican National Convention in Kansas City. He was a presidential elector from his district in 1932.

Two Dickinsonians Are Elected to Congress

J. HAROLD FLANNERY

ROBERT F. RICH

Two Pennsylvania Dickinsonians were successful at the November election and will represent their districts as members of Congress in the next session.

One of the few Republicans to be named to the House of Representatives is Robert F. Rich, '07, of Woolrich, Pa. After a strenuous campaign, Congressman Rich was again reelected, though by a close margin.

J. Harold Flannery, '20L, running on the Democratic ticket, was elected from Luzerne County.

Congressman Flannery is a graduate of Wyoming Seminary and of the Law School in 1920. He was admitted to the Luzerne County bar in 1921. A "success story" could be written about him, for as a youth he was employed as a foundry laborer in the Vulcan Iron Works in West Pittston and also in a brick yard in Plainsville. Since his admission to the bar he has served as solicitor of various districts and poor boards in Luzerne County. In 1932 he was appointed deputy district attorney, and is now a member of Congress.

In 1929, Congressman Flannery was married to Anna Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Allen, of West Pittston. They have one son, J. Harold Flannery, Jr. Mr. Flannery is a World War veteran and served in the U. S. Army.

To Be President's Pastor

The Rev. Dr. Howard Sargent Wilkinson, canon of the Protestant Episcopal Church, Garden City, N. Y., was appointed rector on November 30 of St. Thomas' Episcopal Church at 18th and Church Streets, Washington, D. C., of which President Roosevelt and his family are communicants. Dr. Wilkinson will preach his first sermon in the new pulpit December 20.

Dr. Wilkinson graduated from Dickinson College in 1900 and received his degree of Bachelor of Sacred Theology at Boston University, his Bachelor and Doctor of Divinity degrees at the University of Southern California. He was an army chaplain during the World War, and is now a major chaplain in the Reserve Corps. He is married and has one daughter.

Two Dickinsonians Defeat Two for State Senate

ROBERT LEE JACOBS

GEORGE KUNKEL

Two Dickinsonians became State senators at the general election in November and each caused an alumnus to lose his seat in the Upper House.

Robert Lee Jacobs, '32, 34L, son of T. Ralph Jacobs, '96, running on the Democratic ticket, defeated Prof. Leon C. Prince, candidate for a third consecutive term from the 31st district of Cumberland, Perry, Juniata, and Mifflin Counties.

George Kunkel, '20L, also the Democratic candidate, defeated George L. Reed, '04, '07L, veteran Dauphin County senator.

"Bob" Jacobs will be the baby member of the Pennsylvania Senate and one of the youngest members ever to sit in that body. He is twenty-five, but before the next regular session starts will have observed another birthday anniversary, on December 17.

The scion of a family long active in public affairs, Jacobs comes into his political heritage naturally. His father is a former Cumberland County district attorney, having been elected in 1904, when another Roosevelt was sweeping the country for the presidency. His grandfather, John Jacobs, was elected county sheriff in 1864. Even earlier, his father's maternal grandfather served as county commissioner.

Jacobs was graduated from Carlisle High School in 1928 and entered the College that fall. For three years he was one of the mainstays of the tennis team and during his sophomore and senior years was undefeated in singles play. He served a year as president of the Dickinson Athletic Association and was advertising manager of the Microcosm. He is a member of Phi Kappa Psi, Ravens Claw, and O. D. K. He was graduated from Dickinson Law School in 1934 and a month later passed the Pennsylvania Bar Examinations, whereupon he was admitted to the Cumberland County bar and practices in Carlisle. He is solicitor to the Cumberland County sheriff.

Senator Kunkel is forty-three years of age, a lifelong resident of the city of Harrisburg. His father served as president judge of the common pleas courts of Dauphin County for sixteen years. Mr. Kunkel is a graduate of the Harrisburg Academy, F. and M. College, and of the Dickinson Law School.

His course of education was interrupted by two years' service in the army during the World War. He served in France with the 79th Division and was wounded in action. For the past fifteen years he was engaged in the general practice of law in Dauphin County.

Adds Dickinson Portraits to Philadelphia Collection

PHOTOGRAPHIC reproductions of the College portraits of Dr. Benjamin Rush, founder of Dickinson, and of Dr. Richard A. F. Penrose, '46, have been presented to the Philadelphia College of Physicians by Dr. William N. Bradley of that city.

Dr. Bradley is engaged in compiling a collection of paintings of Philadelphia physicians and, knowing that the College owned oil paintings of Rush and Penrose, requested prints of each. These were sent him and are now part of the collection which he has presented to the Philadelphia College of Physicians.

Dr. Rush is known to medicine as probably the foremost physician in America of his time and one of the pioneers in the study and treatment of mental diseases. During the Revolutionary War he was for a time surgeon-general and physician-general of the Middle Department of the Continental Army.

Dr. Penrose, a graduate of the College, studied medicine at the University of Pennsylvania, practiced his profession for many years, and was professor of obstetrics in the University from 1863 to 1889. He was the father of the late United States Senator Boies Penrose.

Both the Rush and the Penrose portraits were presented to the College at the time of the Sesqui-centennial in 1933. The Rush painting is a reproduction of the original by Thomas Sully and was the gift of Class of 1908, while the portrait of Dr. Penrose, by J. W. Clawson, was presented to the College by his son, Spencer Penrose, of Colorado.

Writes Another Book

John T. Shuman, '28, English instructor and coordinator, Department of Industrial Education, Williamsport, Pa. is the author of English for Vocational Schools, which was published this fall by The Ronald Press Company, New York City. In 1934, he published Spelling, a book for trade and technical students.

English for Vocational Schools was developed especially by the author for those preparing to work in industry or to conduct their own small businesses. It shows students the practical applications of good usage by dealing with situations that are familiar to them. It is a reference textbook.

New Winston Editor

William G. Kimmel, '19, became associate editor in the editorial department of John C. Winston Company, of Philadelphia, in November.

Since January, 1934, Mr. Kimmel had been editor of The Social Studies magazine. He has also been associate in civic education in Teachers College, Columbia University. For five years previously he was executive secretary of the social studies investigation of the American Historical Association. From 1927 to 1929, he was supervisor of social studies for the education department of New York State. For five years he was a teacher in the laboratory school of the University of Chicago.

Professor Shows Ability to Write Fiction

Grandpa Weatherby—BY GUY ROHRBAUGH. (Fleming H. Revell, $1.25)

SANTAYANA of Harvard is not the only contemporary professor of philosophy who has demonstrated his ability to write fiction. With his latest book, Grandpa Weatherby, Professor Guy Rohrbaugh enters this select group.

Grandpa Weatherby is the story of a man who placed "service above profit." It is the biography of a man who settled in a new country, reared a family, assumed community responsibility, took seriously the stewardship of his wealth and while fearing God and loving life, had a good time in the eighty-five years allotted to him.

The action begins in the Cumberland Valley in 1884 and is then transferred to Kansas. It returns to the Cumberland Valley and Dickinson College when Elias Weatherby's daughter, Gertrude, comes East for her higher education, but with the exception of this brief interlude, it is the story of pioneer life in Kansas.

Many complimentary things could be said of Doctor Rohrbaugh's novel. It is a clean and wholesome story. It is not dull. The action does not drag and the conversations are in the vernacular. The descriptions are good. The author has succeeded also in producing a character in Elias Weatherby—a "David Harum" of Kansas—who while smart and industrious, with the capacity to fight one's way which was needed on the frontier, was possessed of a character motivated by practical everyday religion.

Naturally you would look for a few homilies on religion and a few dissertations on philosophy in a novel from the pen of a professor of philosophy and religion and in the case of Grandpa Weatherby you are neither disappointed nor bored in this respect. Both are to be found in the book, but you must look for them in the conversations of the characters and realize that it is philosophy and religion in the vernacular.

If you are looking for the source of the pioneers' strength, you will be especially rewarded by the theological discussion which takes place in Chapter 20.

The book is not long. It can be read in an evening and it is attractively printed in the red and white colors of Dickinson.

The story lives because, while the persons are fictitious, the situations described all actually happened. The spirit of the Middle West which Doctor Rohrbaugh caught through his years of residence there he has been able to transmit to the pages of this delightful story.

—F. P. Corson

Notice

The publishers plan to have Professor Rohrbaugh's novel, Grandpa Weatherby, ready for distribution early in December. The College Book Store is handling the book for the convenience of the alumni. Orders may be sent in now, and will be filled just as soon as the book comes off the press. List price, $1.25; by mail, $1.35.

Receives Army Transfer

After spending five years as commandant of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps at Boston University, Colonel William A. Ganoe, '02, has been transferred to the 108 United States Infantry in Fort Stevens, Georgia. Colonel Ganoe's unit at Boston University received government recognition as one of the best trained Officers' Training Corps in the country.

UP TO THE ALUMNI

ANOTHER month and the 1937 Alumni Fund campaign gets under way. January will see the machinery begin to move. June should show an even better result than the gratifying canvass of last year when 549 subscribers gave $11,186.92.

The gratification in the result of last year's campaign was more in the dollars than in the donors, sordid as that sounds. The fact is that the $11,186.92 total was reached by the large gifts of a relatively few persons rather than by gifts from a great many persons.

While the College can use the money and needs all that generous friends can provide, the better thing for the College and its friends is that the donors and the donations keep more in step than they were last year.

For that reason, the aim in 1937 is to enlist at least 1,000 alumni and friends in this annual movement. With an alumni body of nearly 5,000, we Dickinsonians ought to be able to build up a better ratio of givers than one in nine or ten. And it can be done if alumni whose pride stands in the way of giving what they can rather than what they want will get a clear vision of their opportunity and obligation to serve Alma Mater.

Obviously a great measure of success for these annual alumni fund campaigns depends upon the class secretary. This officer is in the field, supposedly in close touch with class-mates, somewhat familiar with the circumstances of their class members and if qualified for the position full of zeal to do a great job for the College and likewise the class.

Granted that demands upon one's pocket book multiply, certainly the old college which educated you at less than cost and for whom if you are normal there is still a strong heart attachment, has some claim upon your philanthropy. And that claim will be met all the easier if it is classified along with those others for the community chest and similar projects which are part of the family budget and are paid as a matter of course.

Alumni of Dickinson cannot be reminded too often that the destiny of their college, like that of all small privately controlled liberal arts institutions, is in their hands. These institutions escape the peril to their independence of tax supported institutions. They are free to go their way but the only thing in the long run that will make locomotion possible is the steadfast support in dollars and devotion of the students who pass through them.

On that score the Alumni Fund Campaign merits serious thinking by those who may have come to regard it as "just another appeal for money".

CARLISLE'S TRACKS

PERHAPS to all there has come through other channels news that the railroad tracks have disappeared from Carlisle's High or Main street after resting there not so many years short of a century. The freight cut-off tracks now serve the passengers.

To Dickinson students, Carlisle is not the same picturesque community.

Tracks through the main street gave the town a distinction long since surrendered by other communities whose principal highway was shared by steam locomotives, automobiles or horse-drawn vehicles.

For those students of the day when the railroad ran through and local trains well past midnight from early dawn, there was a quaintness in the sight as well as the sound of the cars. The noise soon ceased to be an annoyance. In an era when monotony was deplored, a train and its passengers were diverting.

As a means of travel for college students, of course, the trains in Carlisle as elsewhere have become secondary to the motor car. There are many students who never rode a train into or out of Carlisle, when once upon a time, none arrived or departed in any other fashion after the Dickinsonians ceased coming to town in chaises or on horse back.

The diversion of rail traffic from the diameter to the circumference of Carlisle is obviously an historic incident for residents, but it is not without interest to the Dickinsonian of present and past generations.

SOUND DECISION

EVEN if there is difference of opinion among alumni as to the technique employed, the College's decision to cancel football relations with Franklin & Marshall will be widely approved on the sound basis that the best sport results when teams are evenly matched.

For years that has not been true as regards Franklin & Marshall and Dickinson. One need not explore the causes for this, nor are they pertinent to a discussion of a practice in which overwhelming advantage inures to the same competitor year after year. It is not the humiliation of defeat nor the shambles of the gridiron alone, but the nonsense of intercollegiate competition of that type, which makes perfectly natural the decision athletic authorities made in this case.

Perhaps on the same score, Haverford and Swarthmore were justified in cancelling football relations with Dickinson, though every thoroughgoing Dickinsonian regrets very much this athletic interruption with such fine educational institutions as these. One almost wishes that Art Kahler's warriors might have restrained themselves somewhat in these games if by so doing athletic relations could have been maintained.

But it is wise to face the facts and adhere to the principle that the best sport for players and spectators alike results when the odds are more nearly even than otherwise. It is perfectly natural to want to win a football game and win it fairly, to have a good season and have it without doing violence to all the athletic ideals for which colleges are supposed to stand, but it is as unbecoming as it is insipid to achieve these objectives by sacrifice of ideals and meeting competitors who, regardless of reason, are in an entirely different athletic category.

"LIT" SOCIETIES

FOR older alumni ears some of the best news radiating from the campus tells of the preservation of the Belles Lettres and Union Philosophical societies as separate entities. An experience with a consolidated society did not satisfy. The old order is reestablished.

"The old order" may not be an entirely accurate phrase. In this modern world, it is impossible to go back to the literary programs that prevailed in the early days of these venerable campus organizations. But the literary atmosphere will be cultivated and best of all these ancient names will be preserved.

Even if the modern college student is inclined to regard many sentimental ideas as "flat tires" he needs only wait until his alumni years accumulate to give him a new slant on such matters. Then he, like the older alumni of today, will see in the decision to continue these old Dickinson societies something farsighted and wise and pleasant, too.

The unbroken line of the "lit" societies goes back too far into the colonial history of the nation to snip it off flippantly. Naturally conduct of meetings, type of programs and other matters are subject to change, but under such venerable names can be discussed by students of today statecraft, foreign relations, "isms", athletic policies and the prevalence of wheat smut and the boll weevil with all propriety if only the continuity and the names of these old societies can be preserved.

In voting to maintain the integrity of "Belles Lettres and U. P." the student body has done a favor to a large group of alumni.

YALE'S DIRECTORY

YALE'S latest Directory of Living Graduates lists the names of 31,003 persons. There are correct addresses for every one of them save 80.

It is an amazing achievement of college directory compilers. Other institutions wrestling with the problem of keeping alumni address lists up to date, not only admire but envy the Yale formula, which if not copyrighted, ought to serve sister institutions equally well.

Presents Scientific Books

Three of the works of Edward Chauncey Worden, world-famous industrial chemist, have been presented to the College Library by his daughter, Loanna Worden, who is in the freshman class of the College.

The works, each of which is a multi-volumed affair, are Worden's Technology of Cellulose Esters, Technology of Cellulose Ethers, and Chemical Patents Index.

Dr. Worden maintains his own laboratories at Milburn, N. J., where he does most of his work. He has been consulted by the United States Government and in 1916 served as chairman of the committee on airplane coatings of the National Research Council and subsequently served two years as chief of the airplane wing-coating section of the Bureau of Aeronautics.

Dr. Worden is a fellow of the Chemical Society of London and a member of the French Academy.

Present Fine Paintings

Seven copies of famous paintings made by German artists have been presented to the College by Paul Appenzellar, '95, and Mrs. Appenzellar's niece, Grace Dempwolf, who is a member of the Freshman Class.

While Mr. and Mrs. Appenzellar and his nieces were touring in Europe this summer, they purchased the various paintings four of which are on wood. Miss Dempwolf bought two to hang in Metzger Hall, while Mr. Appenzellar acquired the others for buildings on the campus.

Basketball Team Opens Fifteen Game Season

OPENING a season of fifteen games, the Dickinson basketball team dropped the opener to Princeton by the score of 33 to 31, and defeated Moravian at Carlisle 54 to 28. Another December game will be played with Roanoke on December 16.

Coach R. H. McAndrews, who before the season opened, followed the Gloomy Gil Dobie strategy and forecast a weaker team than those of recent years. But his charges played a great game at Princeton on December 5 and after leading at half-time dropped the conflict only in the closing moments of a nip and tuck fray. Capt. Kintzing, rangy center, scored ten points against the Tigers and held his opponent scoreless.

Entering the game near its close in the role of a substitute, Earl Doll turned in a great performance on December 11 against Moravian and changed a victory into a rout in the first home encounter. With seven minutes to play, he went in for "Cocky" Smith and scored five field goals. His ten points however, did not match "Doc" Sterner's total of fifteen.

"Mac's" starting five consists of Capt. Kintzing at center, "Flash" Miller and Smith at forwards and Sterner and Reese at guards. Doll, Weimer, Bill Hendrickson and Clarence Hendrickson are first call substitutes.

The team will play three games in January before Semester exams meeting Erskine College of South Carolina at home on January 7 and Villanova in Carlisle on January 12. Then on January 16, the squad will be seen in West Point meeting the Army.

February will be the busiest month with eight contests scheduled four in the Alumni Gymnasium and four on opponents' floors. The Gettysburg game on February 3 will open the month's campaign and will be played in the Battlefield town. On Saturday, February 6, Washington and Jefferson will come to Carlisle. The team will then take a two day trip meeting Villanova at Villanova on February 10 and Delaware at Newark, Del. on February 12. The following week, the quintet will travel to Lewisburg, Pa., to meet Bucknell on February 17.

The last three February games will be played in Carlisle and will be with Carnegie Tech on February 20, Gettysburg on February 24 and Franklin and Marshall on February 26.

The season's finale will be with F. & M. on March 6 in a game at Lancaster.

The annual Dickinson Interscholastic Basketball Tournament will be played in the Alumni Gymnasium on March 13, 19 and 20 under present plans.

Withdraws from Conference

By action of the Athletic Board of Control, Dickinson College withdrew from the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference with the close of the football season. Other members of the conference are F. & M., Gettysburg, Muhlenberg, Ursinus, Drexel and Juniata.

The action was taken following the report of a special committee to the Board recommending the step.

In his letter of notification, President Corson as chairman of the Athletic Board, wrote in part "The relationships which Dickinson has sustained to the other colleges in the Conference have always been cordial and it is our hope that they will always remain so."

Continuing he said "It is the firm intention of Dickinson College to continue its strict adherence to a non-professional and purely amateur policy in intercollegiate sports. The Board of Trustees recently reaffirmed this policy which we have been careful to follow."

Football Team Enjoys Another Good Season

TALLYING four victories, playing one tie and suffering four defeats, the 1936 Dickinson football team enjoyed another good season, the second under the coaching of Arthur D. Kahler.

Though limited to a small squad and harassed by injuries to first string players, Coach Kahler developed a fast, smart team which scored 157 points in nine games, while opponents registered 130, of which 71 were scored by F. & M.

Topping the list of victories was the second in a row over Gettysburg in a game which saw Dickinson a winner on the Bullet gridiron for the first time since 1921. The team defeated Lehigh, Swarthmore and Haverford and played a 13 to 13 tie with Muhlenberg in the season's finale. Moravian, Ursinus, Lafayette and F. & M. registered victories over the Dickinson eleven.

A freak game marked the season's opener when on September 27 Moravian won by a score of 13 to 7 though the Greyhounds made but one first down, while Dickinson registered thirteen. Moravian never carried the ball past midfield except when a halfback scooped up a fumble and ran 95 yards for one touchdown, and the other score resulted when a substitute end intercepted a forward pass attempt in Dickinson territory and ran 40 yards to the goal line.

An alert, aggressive team made the most of its opportunities on the following Saturday in Bethlehem and sent Lehigh to an unexpected 20 to 6 defeat. The Engineers enjoyed a highly successful season losing only two games, the one to Dickinson and the other to Gettysburg by the score of 10 to 7.

Showing little resemblance to the team which defeated Lehigh the previous Saturday, the Dickinson eleven played sluggishly on a rain soaked field and lost to Ursinus on October 10 in a game played at Collegetown by the score of 7 to 0.

An over-anxious Dickinson eleven lost a "heart-breaker" to Lafayette at Easton on the following Saturday when by the score of 7 to 0 the Nevers coached eleven hung up its only victory of the season. Dickinson had two touchdowns called back by officials following successful forward pass-lateral plays.

The highest score in some years was rolled up against Swarthmore on Biddle Field on Homecoming day when the Little Quakers fell before a bewildering running and passing attack by the count of 55 to 0. Even with second and third string players in the line-up the Red and White offensive continued to function throughout the fray and the victors made 18 first downs while the vanquished advanced the sticks only five times.

On the following Saturday, Dickinson downed Haverford by the score of 31 to 0 in a game played at the Main Line field with a large delegation of alumni from the Philadelphia area on hand to cheer the team. Prior to the game the Dickinson Club of Reading-Berks staged a luncheon at Haverford, and this event with the game on a fine

F. & M. Grants Request

In a letter to President Corson, President John A. Schaeffer of Franklin and Marshall College writes "We have your letter of November 21 in which you request Franklin and Marshall College to release you from the contract for the football game between the two colleges in 1937. It is with the great regret that we agree to this cancellation and we are doing so wholly because of our desire to honor your request."

"We hope, as you do," the letter continues, "that it will not be very long before Dickinson College will meet Franklin and Marshall College again in football. This is a traditional game and we want to continue the very friendly relations we have had through the years."

afternoon brought many alumni together. The reunions were heightened by the result of the contest.

In one of the most thrilling games ever played between the two rivals, Dickinson defeated Gettysburg at Gettysburg on November 7 by the score of 21 to 13. Before a crowd of 6,000 drawn by Gettysburg's Father's Day observance and Dickinsonian supporters, the two teams put on a spectacular, nerve-racking show. Receiving the opening kick-off on their own 33 yard line, the Dickinson eleven amazed its most rabid supporters by staging an unbroken 67 yard march for a touchdown and the extra point. Hardly had the crowd digested this display of power when Fulmer, a star Gettysburg back, raced 56 yards for a Bullet touchdown on the most spectacular individual performance of the day. Before the first period ended Dickinson took a poor kick and marched to another touchdown to make the score 14 to 7. In the second period, Gettysburg completed a 50 yard forward pass for a touchdown but failed to convert making the score at the end of the half 14 to 13. Another march in the second half resulted in a third Dickinson touchdown to bring the final score to 21 to 13, and the first time since 1912-1913 that Dickinson had won over Gettysburg in successive years.

Probably the strongest team ever to represent Franklin and Marshall College, and certainly the best team faced during the 1936 season came to Biddle Field the following Saturday and administered a 71 to 10 shellacking to the Red and White warriors. For a brief fifteen minutes, until the end of the first period, it looked like a football game. In that time, Dickinson had threatened once and finally a field goal had been kicked to make the score Dickinson 3 F. & M. 0, but that tally opened the flood gates and soon Blue and White touchdowns were being scored almost at will. Before the end of the first half, six of the starting Red and White warriors had been injured and taken from the game not to return. But the weakened second half eleven succeeded in scoring the lone touchdown through a successful forward passing attack while F. & M. romped on to run up 71 points.

Fumbles marred the season finale and Dickinson had to be content though the favorite in a 13 to 13 tie with Muhlenberg. In this contest the widely discussed penalty for forward pass interference played a part and gave Muhlenberg the ball at the goal line in the dying moments of the game when the touchdown tied the score. A fast charging line blocked the try for point from placement and thus prevented a defeat.

Two Dickinson Warriors Rank High in Scoring

IN THE 1936 football season for the first time in many years, a Dickinson player won recognition as one of the leading scorers of the East while another placed fifth in tallying points after touchdowns, according to a summary published in the New York Times on November 30.

Sophomore "Sammy" Padjen, 155 pound star of the Red and White backfield playing his first year of varsity football placed fourth in the race for eastern high scoring honors with twelve touchdowns and a total of 72 points. Padjen was tied for fourth place by Szur of Canisius who also scored twelve touchdowns. In second and third places are two men who scored eleven touchdowns but King of Hobart made nine place kicks after touchdowns to tally 75 points while Kobrosky kicked eight points after his eleven touchdowns to ring up 74 points. Dick Riffle, Albright halfback, went on a scoring spree in his team's final game with Muhlenberg when he scored five touchdowns to bring his total to fourteen for the season and his tally of points to 84.

A part of the summary as published in the New York Times is as follows:

Player and College	Pos.	Td.	PAT.	FG.	Tot.
Riffle, Albright	HB	14	0	0	84
King, Hobart	FB	11	9	0	75
Kobrosky, Trinity	QB	11	8	0	74
Padjen, Dickinson	FB	12	0	0	72
Szur, Canisius	HB	12	0	0	72
Marcus, Bates	HB	11	2	0	68
Connolly, Northwest	FB	10	6	0	66
Daddario, Wesleyan	HB	11	0	0	66

Carl Binder playing his last of three years on the Dickinson varsity placed fifth in scoring points after touchdown. "Lefty" was the blocking back in the backfield and tallied one touchdown during the season. With his trusty left foot he booted 13 place kicks to bring his total score to 19 for the season. His thirteen goals were exceeded by Sandbach of Princeton and Murray of Penn who each made sixteen, and by Peterson, West Virginia and Chesbro, Colgate, who each kicked fifteen points after touchdown.

Becomes School Superintendent

Dr. Charles M. Lodge, '11, has been named superintendent of schools of Fulton Co., Pa.

Superintendent Lodge is a graduate of Dickinson Seminary and the College. He also received a B.S. degree from the University of Maryland, his A.M. degree from Columbia University, and a Doctor of Philosophy degree from Rutgers University.

New York Alumnae Meet

The Dickinson Alumnae Club of New York City held its fall meeting at the home of Mrs. E. S. Jenkins, Gordon Road, Essex Fells, N. J., on Saturday, October 17, 1936. A most delicious luncheon was served, after which there were an informal business meeting and games. The autumn foliage was at its best in Mrs. Jenkins' beautiful garden and her charming hospitality was thoroughly enjoyed.

The Rev. Dr. John C. Bieri is concluding a world tour with a special assignment to a three months preaching mission in India, where his daughter, Kathyrne, is a missionary at the Woodstock school. Dr. Bieri sailed from New York June 24. He returns home by way of San Francisco. Before sailing Dr. Bieri wrote another hymn, words and music. Its title is "It is the Lord."

General James G. Steese is operating oil companies from his headquarters at San Antonio, Texas. His zest for work and difficult engineering problems is matched only by his zest for food. Crossing the Mexican border for a modest repast, his waiter toted in the following menu: 1 shrimp louisiane, 1/2 real turtle soup, 1 quail, 1 snipe, 1/2 venison chops, 1/2 cabrito (young kid), 1/2 canvas back duck, 1 alligator pear, 2 bottles doe equis and 1 misc. vegetables. The General reports the Mexican water unpalatable.

Dr. D. Walter Morton's son Davis has been elected to Phi Beta Kappa at Syracuse where the young man is also captain of the university tennis team. Dr. Morton heads the extension school of the University.

Prof. John T. Ruhl, principal of St. Thomas' School at St. Thomas, Pa., was recently elected president of the Franklin County Education Association at a meeting which was held in The Soldiers' Orphan School at Scotland, Pa. Prof. Ruhl was previously a member of the Constitution Committee, the Executive Committee, Vice-President and later President of the High School Branch. The Franklin County Association over which he will preside is one of the largest and most active educational associations in the State. It comprises a membership of over 500 teachers, principals and superintendents and exerts a marked influence over educational affairs in the communities where it is represented. Prof. Ruhl was formerly principal of Juniata High School and later supervising principal of Dale Borough schools in Johnstown, Pa. He is, moreover, very active in Grange organizations and is master of the Franklin County Pomona Grange.

1905

Edna Albert, of Gardners, Pa., was re-elected president of the Adams County W. C. T. U. at its 31st annual convention in Gettysburg last June.

1909

Carrie Butz, who has been teaching in Trenton, has retired from the teaching profession and will now live in Schuylkill Haven, Pa.

“Chuck” Thrush Dies After Short Illness

Charles Gray Thrush, '36, one of the most promising graduates last June, died in the Chambersburg Hospital on November 3 after a short, severe illness, which was diagnosed as typhoid fever.

News of his death shocked and saddened the whole college community for “Chuck” as he was best known was one of the most popular students in recent years.

The entire football squad, many of whom had been his teammates, attended the funeral services held in the Grace Evangelical and Reformed Church, Shippensburg. Dr. Boyd Edwards, headmaster of Mercersburg and President F. P. Corson delivered eulogies and the Rev. C. E. Blum, pastor, officiated, assisted by the Rev. William H. Galbreath, pastor of the Shippensburg Presbyterian Church. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity ritual was used in the commitment services in Spring Hill Cemetery, Shippensburg.

The honorary pallbearers were Profs. W. H. Norcross, Paul Doney, and Mulford Stough, Gilbert Malcolm, and Coach A. D. Kahler from the College; E. L. Adams, Carlisle; Dean Earl Wright, of Shippensburg State Teachers College; Robert Goff, of Mercersburg Academy and R. L. Eckstein, of the Boroughs Adding Machine Company, Harrisburg.

Shortly after graduation, “Chuck” began employment with the Burroughs Adding Machine Company and located in Harrisburg. He was happy in his work and quickly began to fulfill the promise he had shown in his college career. A few weeks before his death, he became ill and first went to his Shippensburg home and soon was removed to the hospital.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Thrush. After two years in the Shippensburg High School he completed his course in Staunton Military Academy in 1930 and then entered Mercersburg where he graduated in 1932. He entered the college that September and received his degree last June.

For three years he was a member of the football team, and one of the dependable stars of the eleven throughout his career. He was a regular outfielder on the baseball nine until his Senior year when he was not a candidate because of the pressure of academic work.

He was a member of Phi Kappa Psi, Raven's Claw, Alpha Sigma Gamma and Omicron Delta Kappa. He was also active in the affairs of the “D” Club, Dramatic Club, Glee Club, German Club, Mohler Scientific Club and the Band. He served on the Interfraternity Council and the Men's Senate and was vice-president of the Junior Class as well as Business Manager of The Mircocosm.

Besides his parents, he is survived by a sister, Virginia, teacher of music in the Lemoyne schools and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Thrush.

OBITUARY

1893—Mrs. Mary Humrich Noaker died at her home in Carlisle on October 28. She was an active leader in church and civic affairs.

A member of the First Lutheran Church, she was president of the Women's Missionary Society, teacher of the Women's Bible Class of the Sunday School and was a leader in organizing and the first superintendent of the junior department.

Mrs. Noaker also was a member of the Civic Club, the Daughters of 1812 and the American Association of University Women. Educated in Carlisle, she was graduated from the high school in 1889 and from Dickinson College in 1893. She was a daughter of the late C. P. Humrich, Esq.

Following her marriage to William O. Noaker she resided in Shippensburg for some years and at his death in 1931 returned to Carlisle. She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Carrie A. Humer with whom she lived; a brother, C. P. Humrich, Carlisle, and two nephews, Henderson Humrich and Christian Humer, both of Carlisle.

1893—Arthur L. Storm, New York architect, died at his home in Bronxville, N. Y., twenty minutes after finishing his Thanksgiving dinner.

Paul Appenzellar, '95, and his wife were dinner guests at the Storm home. After dinner Mr. Storm complained of a pain at his heart similar to those which he had suffered for seven years. He walked into the living room, and a doctor was summoned, but Mr. Storm died within a few minutes.

He was born in Stroudsburg, Pa., September 13, 1871. His father, John B. Storm, at one time was judge of Monroe County and served as a member of Congress; and was also a trustee of the College from 1880 to 1901. Mr. Storm prepared for college at Hackettstown Seminary. He received his A.B. in 1893 and his A.M. in 1895. Following his graduation and until 1902, he was an architectural draftsman in Philadelphia. He became associated with a New York firm that year, and at the time of his death was with the D. Everett Waid firm. He was one of the designers of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Building and buildings of the College of the City of New York.

Mr. Storm and his wife, the former Katharine Brobston of Philadelphia, celebrated their 33d wedding anniversary November 13th. Mrs. Storm and a sister in Stroudsburg are the only survivors. He was a member of Phi Kappa Psi fraternity. Burial was made in Philadelphia.

1894—The Rev. Charles E. Radcliffe, a retired minister of the Philadelphia M. E. Conference, died at his home in Honey Brook, Pa., on October 21.

Born in Philadelphia December 23, 1865, he prepared for college at Pennington Seminary and at Brown Preparatory School. At the end of his freshman year in college he entered the ministry of the Philadelphia Conference. In 1902 he received his Ph B. and A. M degrees from Taylor University.

He served various charges in the Philadelphia Conference until his retirement a few years ago. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. George D. Earnshaw and Mrs. Charles A. Schrade.

1897—Joseph F. Biddle, sixty-five, newspaper publisher and former congressman, died at his home on December 3, in Huntingdon, Pa. He had been ill for three weeks of heart trouble, the result, his family said, of grief over the death of his wife in October.

For some years he served on the Republican State Committee and was a member of the 72d Congress.

He published a chain of Pennsylvania newspapers, including the Dailey News of Huntingdon, the Mount Union Times, and the Bedford Gazette, and had a half ownership in the Bedford Inquirer.

He was born in Bedford county, September 14, 1871, and was engaged in law practice for about twenty years.

Five children survive: Mrs. Wilbur K. McKee, of New York City; John H. Biddle, of Bedford; Anne P. and F. Josephine Biddle, of Huntingdon, and Mrs. William W. Teneyck, of Charleston.

1898L—Cleon N. Berntheizel former State representative and State senator and former district attorney of Lancaster County, died at the Columbia, Pa., Hospital on June 21, of complications following an operation for appendicitis. He was 62.

Born in Columbia on October 13, 1874, he was educated in the public and private schools of the neighborhood and graduated from Dickinson School of Law in 1898. He was admitted to the bar and began to practice law in Columbia, where he resided until his death.

Interested in politics, he served nine years as member of the borough council of Columbia, serving as president for six of the years. He was elected to the lower house of the Legislature in 1912, but resigned in 1915 in order to become district attorney of Lancaster County. He later served in the State Senate for several years.

1899—Rev. Amos M. Bruce, who retired from the active ministry in 1928 following a serious operation, died in Ithaca, N. Y., on October 12.

Rev. Mr. Bruce was born in Lancaster Co., Pa., January 10, 1873, and was the son of Thomas M. and Mary A. Bruce. He was graduated from the Millersville Normal School and taught school four years before entering the College in 1895. He received his A. B. in 1899, and then entered the Boston University School of Theology, from which he received the S. T. B. degree in 1903. He served six years in the Central Pennsylvania M. E. Conference, and then was transferred to the New England Southern M. E. Conference, serving in the active ministry until his retirement in 1928.

On April 15, 1903, he was married to Mary S. Fausset, of Pottsville, Pa. She survives him, as does one son, Dr. William F. Bruce, a member of the faculty of Cornell University in the department of Chemistry. A daughter, Helen, died some years ago.

1900L—Robert P. Stewart, former chief assistant United States attorney general and chief deputy to the district attorney of Los Angeles County, Calif., died suddenly in his California home on November 12th. He was awakened from his sleep by a sudden heart attack and died unexpectedly as physicians fought to save his life.

Born in Huntingdon, Pa., October 7, 1878, Mr. Stewart graduated from the Dickinson Law School in 1900, and then for a time practiced in the West. He became United States district attorney for South Dakota and served until 1919, when he went to Washington, D. C., to become assistant United States attorney general. Although a Democrat he was appointed in 1921, by President Warren G. Harding as a special United States attorney general and served in that capacity until 1926. Among the outstanding prosecutions directed by him were the Nicky Arnstein thefts and the Oregon land frauds, trial of Burton K. Wheeler, Montana senator, and the Sacco-Vanzetti case. In the course of duty he traveled all over the United States, Japan, China, South America, and Australia.

He went to Los Angeles in 1926 to prosecute the Brock anti-trust case and with the intention of retiring, but he became associated with Lieutenant Governor Buron Fitts, who later was elected district attorney. Upon his election, Mr. Fitts appointed Mr. Stewart his chief deputy, in 1928, and he held that position until his death.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Harriett Stewart, he is survived by his mother, Mrs. Nancy Jane Stewart, of South Pasadena.

1903L—Alvin Sherbine, prominent attorney of Cambria County, died of a heart attack in his office in Johnstown, Pa., on May 21. He was 58 years old.

Born in Summerhill township, Cambria county, on December 27, 1876, he was educated in the public schools and at the Indiana State Normal School, from which he was graduated in 1898. He enlisted in the Fifth Pennsylvania Regiment in the Spanish-American War, serving until the end of hostilities. He then taught school for several years, serving as principal at Portage, Pa.

After his graduation from the Dickinson School of Law, in 1903, he was admitted to the bar and began to practice law in Johnstown, where he made his home until his death. In 1906 he was elected to the lower house of the General Assembly of the State, was a delegate to the national Republican convention in 1920, and was always active in party affairs.

He was a prominent member of the First United Brethern Church of Johnstown and was active in various fraternal activities of that city. Funeral services were held at his home in Johnstown. His widow, Mrs. Nevada Sherbine, one brother, and a sister survive.

1920—The September, 1936, number of THE DICKINSON ALUMNUS printed the obituary of Henry Budd McLean, whereas the name should have read Henry Budd McNeal. Mr. McNeal died in Tucson, Arizona, on August 9, 1936.

NECROLOGY

Andrew J. Beitzel, father of Mrs. Mervin G. Filler, retired superintendent of the Cumberland county schools and head of the English department of the Central High School, Harrisburg, died at his home in Carlisle on October 8th. He was 84 years old.

Mrs. Harriet E. Brown, wife of Rev. E. V. Brown, '00, died at her home in Clearfield on August 1st, following a long illness. Death was due to a heart affliction, aggravated by an accident which Mrs. Brown suffered several years ago when she fell and broke her hip.

Mrs. Brown was a native of Carlisle, a graduate of the Carlisle schools and Metzger College. She was a member of the M. E. Church.

Besides her husband she is survived by three sons, William P., Robert N., Lewis E., all of Clearfield, and one sister, Mrs. W. E. Bushong, of Phoenixville.

Mrs. Eunice H. Slocum Hoffer, widow of Frank Harry Hoffer, '76, a former attorney of Carlisle, and mother of Elsie Hoffer, '07, died in Montclair, N. J., on October 15.
