Trustees Establish Post War Fund At Annual Meeting

ESTABLISHMENT of a Post War Fund, election of faculty, officers and trustees with the consideration of war-time problems and the transaction of routine business engaged the attention of the Board of Trustees at the annual Commencement meeting.

Looking ahead to the probable greater needs of the College which will arise after the war and during the early days of peace, the Trustees directed that any surplus funds and gifts specially secured for the purpose be put into a separate bank deposit as a Post War Fund. Monies so deposited will be held for use after the war as then directed by the Trustees.

The Trustees elected Associate Professor Frank Ayres, Jr. as Susan Powers Hoffman Professor of Mathematics to succeed Dr. William W. Landis and they also elected Mrs. Josephine B. Meredith to a full professorship in English. Miss Jane Evans was named an instructor in the department of mathematics and Miss Marjorie Barkman instructor in physical education for women. Miss Barkman succeeds Mrs. Mary Ganoe Rhexuss, who is now in war service with the Red Cross.

Judge Karl E. Richards, '19, of Harrisburg, Pa., president of the General Alumni Association, and James T. Buckley, chairman of the board of the Philco Corporation, of Philadelphia, were elected members of the Board of Trustees. It was also announced that S. Walter Stauffer, '12, of York, Pa., had been re-elected an alumni trustee for a four year term in the annual mail election of the General Alumni Association.

Boyd Lee Spahr, '00, was re-elected President of the Board of Trustees, and J. Henry Baker, '93, attorney of Baltimore, Md., was elected vice-president to succeed Raphael S. Hays, '94, of Carlisle. The other officers of the board were re-elected. They are Dr. Edgar R. Heckman, of Tyrone, Pa., secretary; Gilbert Malcolm, treasurer and George Shuman, Jr., assistant treasurer, both of Carlisle.

The following trustees whose terms expired this year were re-elected for a four-year term; G. Harold Baker, Aberdeen, Md.; R. S. Hays, Carlisle, Pa.; Dean M. Hoffman, Harrisburg; Lloyd Wellington Johnson, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Rev. Dr. Charles W. Kitto, Philadelphia; Andrew H. Phelps, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Robert H. Richards, Wilmington, Del.; and General James G. Steese, Canal Zone.

In their meeting, the trustees paid tribute to the memory of the late Bishop Adna Wright Leonard, a member of the board, who died in an airplane crash in Iceland a few weeks before the meeting. Dr. John R. Edwards of Washington, was appointed to draft a memorial resolution.

The Trustees approved the action of the Board of Athletic Control which earlier in the day voted to suspend all intercollegiate athletics at Dickinson during the war, because the college is training a large quota of Army aviation cadets.

College Buys Sellers House

The residence of the late Prof. M. P. Sellers at 262 West High Street, Carlisle, was purchased by the Trustees of the College in July. The property adjoins the Alumni Gymnasium at the west side, and is a substantial two story brick dwelling. For the present, it will be used in the College war training program.

College To Hold Three Graduation Exercises A Year

THE fall convocation for the granting of degrees will be held on Sunday afternoon, September 26 with baccalaureate services in the morning. The midwinter convocation for the granting of degrees will be held on Sunday, January 30, 1944, and the 171st Commencement will be held on Sunday, May 28, 1944. These announcements were made recently by President Fred P. Corson.

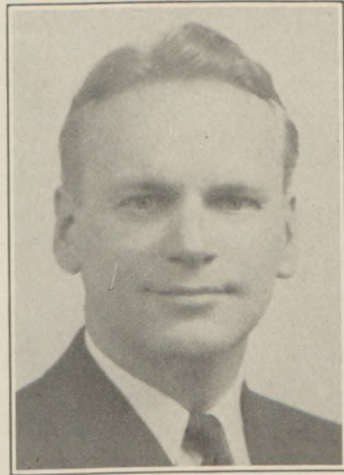

The program for the fall convocation will follow that of the last Commencement. The Baccalaureate Service will be held in Allison Methodist Church at 10:45 o'clock on Sunday morning, being preceded by an academic procession which will form at 10:30 o'clock. President Corson will preach the baccalaureate sermon.

Colonel Sir Edmund Vivian Gabriel, member of the British Air Commission to the United States, former British Colonial Governor of Palestine and Syria, member of the King's official household, with a long and distinguished career of service to the British Commonwealth and Empire, will be the speaker at the graduation exercises which will be held in the Alumni Gymnasium on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. There will be an academic procession before these exercises beginning at 2:30 o'clock at Old West.

The honorary degree of Doctor of Civil Laws will be conferred upon Sir Vivian and the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity will be conferred upon the Rev. John Wesley Lord, '27, pastor of the First Methodist Church, Westfield, N. J., member of the Alumni Council and president of the Dickinson Club of New York.

Probably fifteen seniors will qualify for graduation by the end of the summer session on September 25 and will receive their degrees at the fall convocation.

Planning first to be a teacher, the Rev. Mr. Lord following his graduation from the Paterson, N. J. high school and the Montclair Normal School, taught and was a principal in New Jersey schools from 1922 to 1924. He then entered the college and received his A.B. degree in 1927. Three years later, he graduated with the B.D. degree from Drew Theological Seminary and he spent the following year working for a Ph.D. at New College of the University of Edinburgh, Scotland. Since then he has done graduate work in the field of education with credits toward the D.Ed. degree at Rutgers University.

Upon his graduation from the College, the Rev. Mr. Lord was Director of Religious Education, Emory Methodist Church, Jersey City from 1927 to 1930, while he was a student at Drew. From 1931 to 1934 he was pastor of the Community Church, Union, N. J. and from 1935 to 1937 of the First Methodist Church, Arlington, N. J. He has been pastor of the First Methodist Church, Westfield, N. J. since 1938.

Active in conference affairs, he was recently elected delegate to the 1944 General Conference. He is a trustee of the Methodist Home for the Aged at Ocean Grove and a member of the Centenary Fund and Preachers' Aid Society of the Newark Conference. He is president of the Drew Alumni Association and vice-president of the New Jersey Anti-Saloon League. He is a member of the Board of Directors of the Westfield Rotary Club. At Dickinson, he became a member of Phi Kappa Sigma Fraternity. He is also a member of Bergen Lodge No. 47 F. & A. M., of Jersey City.

Born in Paterson, N. J., on Aug. 23, 1902, he is the son of John James and Catherine Carmichael Lord. On April 29, 1931 he married Miss Margaret Farrington Ratcliffe, of Paterson, N. J. They have one daughter, Jean Phillips, who was born on May 10, 1935. His brother, Andrew J. Lord, is president of Lord, Abbett & Co., 63 Wall Street, New York and another brother, who in civilian life is a surgeon at Glen Rock, N. J., is Capt. Charles D. Lord, M. C., Parachute Dispensary, Fort Benning, Ga.

Award Classmates Air Medals in South Pacific

LIEUTENANT Richard H. Ellis and Staff Sergeant Evan L. Howell, both members of the Class of 1941, have been awarded the Air Medal for bravery while serving with the Army air force in the South Pacific theater of the war.

Lieutenant Ellis, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur P. Ellis, of Laurel, Del., was awarded the Air Medal in May for participating in more than 25 flights in the South Pacific area, it was announced on May 3 in a dispatch from New Guinea.

A bomber pilot, Lieutenant Ellis enlisted in the Army Air Forces shortly after his graduation from the College in 1941. He received his training at Maxwell Field, Ala., and Turner Field, Ga. He left in July, 1942, for duty in Australia. He is a member of Phi Kappa Sigma Fraternity. He has two brothers who are in the Army and a third brother now a student in the Jefferson Medical School, who will enter the service upon his graduation.

Staff Sergeant Howell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Howell, of Roselle Park, N. J., and attended the College for a year as a member of the Class of 1941. He enlisted in the Army Air Force on June 23, 1941. After training at the Bangor, Me., bomber base, he served for a time as a bombardier with the Atlantic Coastal Patrol, out of Mitchell Field and was sent to the Southwest Pacific area about twenty months ago.

On July 20, his mother received a letter from Lt. Gen. George C. Kenney, commanding officer of the Fifth Area Force, telling her that her son, Staff Sergeant Howell, had been decorated with the Air Medal for his service in the Battle of the Bismarck Sea. The letter stated that he "was cited for meritorious achievement while participating in the flight over the Bismarck Sea."

As a crew member of the B-17 Flying Fortress, Sergeant Howell took part in an attack upon an enemy convoy. Despite anti-aircraft fire and interception by enemy fighters, his bomber made several successful runs against the convoy, scoring two direct hits on a large cargo vessel which was seen to sink. In the ensuing battle with enemy fighters, General Kenney wrote, two Japanese Zeros were destroyed.

"It was an award made in recognition of courageous service to his combat organization, his fellow airmen, his country, his home, and you" the General's letter said.

Honor Dean Hitchler

The honorary degree of doctor of laws was conferred upon Dean Walter Harrison Hitchler, of the Dickinson Law School at the 84th annual commencement exercises of Albright College held in Reading on May 24.

DURING recent months statements from government officials have prepared us to expect some kind of post-war federal subsidy for higher education. More recently the President pledged such help to returning members of the Armed Forces whose education had been interrupted by the war.

Many proposals have been made for accomplishing this objective. One national figure suggested in an address to the students of a large urban university that abandoned war factories be converted into colleges at government expense for use of returning soldiers. Others have proposed that federal grants be made to a selected list of institutions. Some are advancing again the plan through federal aid to make every high school a college.

Mistakes can be made which will affect the life of America for years to come unless such a plan for assistance is carefully thought out and methods for its administration developed which are consistent with the spirit and objectives of American life.

The time has now come, in my judgment, when not only the professional educators, but all friends of and believers in American higher education should expect the Government to announce the main factors in its plan in order that they may be appraised in the true democratic fashion before the time comes when the returning members of the Armed Forces make the operation of the plan necessary.

I believe strongly that we should make possible the completion of education interrupted by the war for those who have the ability and the desire to continue such education. Not only for their sakes, but also for the sake of the world greatly depleted in trained leadership, should these educational opportunities be made possible.

I believe also that before additional institutions are established, the resources of the institutions now in existence should be carefully surveyed and completely utilized.

I believe, further, that federal help, if it is given, should avoid federal control, else one of the principles of totalitarianism which made this war necessary will be nurtured in our own body politic.

To provide such help without control is not easy to achieve even when the intentions are most sincere. And what would appear to be an innocuous regulation in this respect may, in the end, prove to be the opening through which control enters our independent system of higher education.

It is for this reason that I have contended that if state or federal aid is to be given to higher education, it should be on the basis of scholarship aid granted to the individual who qualifies and not subsidies made to institutions which conform. If such help is given to the individual who qualifies intellectually and is administered on a strictly non-political basis, carrying with it the right of the individual to use it in the accredited institution of his or her choice, the dangers and temptations of federal control will be reduced to a minimum, and the benefits of our traditional American system of higher education will survive.

Public opinion will have much to do with any plan which is finally adopted. It is a matter of concern to every parent who has a child to be educated, for the plan will affect the nature of all higher education. Therefore in post-war planning, the problem of aid in higher education is not a concern solely for the professional educator. It is a responsibility which the privileges in a Republic place upon all citizens.

FRED PIERCE CORSON.

First Woman To Become Full Professor of College

MRS. Josephine Brunyate Meredith, Dean of Women and Associate Professor of English since 1922, became the first woman elected to a full professorship in the history of the College by action of the Board of Trustees at the annual meeting at Commencement.

In making his recommendation to the Trustees for this action, President Corson said in part "Mrs. Meredith has rendered valuable service to the College, both as a teacher and as an administrative officer. She is now the senior member of the Department of English, and in recognition of the services which she rendered to the College, it would seem highly appropriate that Mrs. Meredith should be given the honor of being the first woman elected to a full professorship at Dickinson College, and I therefore recommend that Mrs. Meredith be elected Professor of English."

Informed the next day of the board's action, Mrs. Meredith's characteristic comment was "I think that is quite the nicest thing that has ever happened to me".

A daughter of the parsonage, Mrs. Meredith was born in Halifax, Nova Scotia. Her father, the Rev. Edwin R. Brunyate, D.D., was a prominent clergyman, who died some years ago. Her mother, Mrs. Eliza A. Brunyate, made her home in Carlisle for several years following his death and is also deceased. Following her preparation at the State Model School, Trenton, N. J. Mrs. Meredith entered Dickinson in 1898 and graduated with Phi Beta Kappa honors in 1901, when she received the A.B. degree.

Following her graduation, she taught in the high schools of Pleasantville, Atlantic City and Trenton, N. J. until 1908, when on August 27 she was married to Prof. Arthur J. Meredith, of Boston, Mass. at Ocean City, N. J. She lived in Salem, Mass. most of her married life and until the death of her husband there in 1917. She then resumed her teaching career in the high school in Woodbury, N. J., continuing there until she came to the College in 1920 as Dean of Women. Two years later, she began teaching in the College.

During Mrs. Meredith's years at the college and until her own marriage, Mrs. Christian B. Vestling, Mrs. Meredith's daughter, lived with her mother. Mrs. Vestling graduated with Phi Beta Kappa honors, as her mother had done in 1934.

Mrs. Meredith has studied at several summer sessions of Columbia University and has made a number of trips abroad, during which she studied two summers at the London, England, vacation school. She has also gone to England to visit her cousins, Sir James Bennett Brunyate, of Brighton and Sir William Brunyate of London.

In 1933, Mrs. Meredith wrote the Sesqui-Centennial Pageant which was presented during that celebration. She has written numerous skits for church, college and community projects. Her paper "Fellowships for Women" was a prize winner in an A.A.U.W. contest a few years ago.

Active in innumerable church, college and community organizations, Mrs. Meredith has been constantly in demand as a worker or speaker for these bodies. She is a member of the Carlisle Fort-nightly Club, the Civic Club, the Garden Club and the A.A.U.W. Her memberships include National Association of Deans of Women, N.E.A. and the Pennsylvania Association of Deans of Women.

Eighth Alumni Fund Campaign Tops All Other Years

SURPASSING by more than $5,000 the amount given in any previous year, the eighth annual Alumni Fund campaign closed on June 30 with a record of 772 contributors giving a total of $17,311.60 to the College. As directed by the Board of Trustees, $750 of this amount was added to the permanent endowment of the Library Guild, $2,500 devoted to scholarship-loan assistance to students, an amount which had been given in kind added to fine arts, and the balance to general fund needs.

The Class of 1914 rang up the greatest number of subscribers with 27, though this accolade was not awarded in the July issue of the Dickinson College Bulletin, from which a paragraph was lost somewhere along the printing line. That paragraph also accorded the Class of 1917 second place with a total of 24 subscribers, and then the next paragraph should have read "The Classes of 1910 and 1915 are tied for third place in the greatest number of subscribers, each having 22. Four classes, 1909, 1919, 1923 and 1937 have 21 contributors each, while 1912, 1921, 1927 and 1935 have 19 each."

Charles H. Reitz, attorney of Mount Carmel, Pa., put up a loud squawk, when he discovered his name listed in the Bulletin as one of the contributors of the Class of 1917 for he is a member of 1916. For a moment this appeared to drop 1917's total to 23 subscribers until the audit showed that the name of President Fred P. Corson had not been listed as a contributor in 1917 or anywhere else. While amounts of gifts

Makes First Subscription

Guiles Flower, Jr., '39, who is now living in Cumberland, Md., made the first subscription to the 1944 Alumni Fund campaign on August 2. That day, while on a visit to his mother in Carlisle, he called at the college office and made his contribution.

are not published, it can be said that he was very definitely a subscriber. Not as chairman of the Alumni Fund, but as a member of the Class of 1917, he approves enthusiastically the removal of the name of any member of the Class of 1916, those one time sophomores, from any association with 1917. The Class of 1916, therefore, gets one more subscriber or a total of six (which isn't so hot—this being written by a member of the better Class of 1915, which had 22 subscribers) while it must be admitted that 1917 had 24 and second place.

In amounts contributed, the Class of 1895 with a total of $2,873 became the leader this year. The Class of 1900 is in the second slot with $2,500.12, 1892 finished third with $1,026; 1896 fourth with $837 and 1907 fifth with $693.

Unlike other years, gifts came from China, Alaska, the islands of the Pacific, Africa, England and all the corners of the world where alumni are in the country's armed forces. The response of the men and women in uniform was the brightest spot in the annual campaign and gives a challenge to all alumni everywhere.

Though the campaign did not attain the goals of 1,000 subscribers and a total of $20,000, it made the best record of any of these annual efforts. The eight-year record of the Alumni Fund is as follows:

1936	549	gave $11,189.92
1937	640	gave $12,035.19
1938	613	gave $ 9,636.62
1939	658	gave $10,282.67
1940	664	gave $10,325.81
1941	692	gave $10,333.04
1942	638	gave $11,168.60
1943	772	gave $17,311.60

A survey of the records shows that there were 104 new subscribers this year, but that there are a very great number of interested alumni who have never given to the fund. There were 130 alumni, who gave in 1942 but not in 1943, and there are 451 more alumni who gave in prior years, but did not contribute in either 1942 or 1943. Some, who have accepted the slogan "Put Dickinson in Your Budget" apparently need to amend it to read "Keep Dickinson in Your Budget."

It is also realized that there are many alumni, whose names are not listed as Alumni Fund contributors, who gave this year to the College Development Program of the Central Pennsylvania Conference of the Methodist Church. While they receive no Alumni Fund credit for this, they will be glad to know that the Central Pennsylvania Scholarship Fund now exceeds $70,000. They, with other Methodists, have made this possible. The receipts from this fund raising program are divided proportionately between Dickinson College, the Wesley Foundation at Pennsylvania State College and Williamsport-Dickinson Seminary.

Becomes Susan Powers Hoffman Professor of Math

ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR FRANK AYRES, JR., was elected Susan Powers Hoffman Professor of Mathematics, to succeed the late Prof. William W. Landis, at the annual meeting of the Board of Trustees on May 21. Professor Ayres has been a member of the college faculty since 1928 and assistant registrar of the college since 1942.

Dr. Landis, who graduated from the college in 1891, became professor of mathematics and astronomy and head of the Department of Mathematics in 1895, a position he held until the time of his death on April 8, 1942.

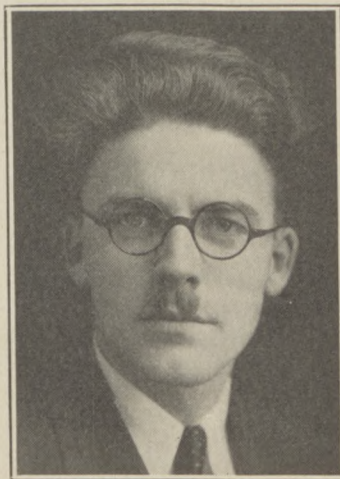

Born on December 10, 1901, at Rock Hall, Md., Professor Ayres graduated from the high school there. He received his B.S. degree upon his graduation from Washington College, Chestertown, Md., in 1921, and the M.S. degree from the University of Chicago in 1927, from which he also received his Ph.D. degree, in 1938.

Following his graduation from Washington College, Professor Ayres became an instructor in Ogden College, Bowling Green, Ky., where he remained until 1924. That year he accepted a position as instructor at Texas A. & M. College, and continued there until 1928, when he was made an instructor in Dickinson College. He was named associate professor of mathematics in 1935, a position he held until his elevation to be head of the department.

Professor Ayres is the author of Basic Mathematics for Aviation, which was published this year by Houghton Mifflin Co. He wrote the book in about three weeks to meet the need in the mathematics to be taught in the Army cadet training program.

A member of Lambda Sigma Pi Fraternity, Professor Ayres is also a member of the American Mathematical Society and of the Mathematical Association of America.

On August 30, 1928, he married Miss

PROFESSOR FRANK AYRES, JR.

Gladys Irene Reigle, of Fort Worth, Texas. They have one daughter, Margaret Alice Ayres.

Reaches Highest Navy Rank

William W. Edel, '15, who entered the Navy as a chaplain in 1917 was advanced in rank to captain, the highest provided for in the Navy Chaplain Corps, in June. His almost twenty-seven years in the service embraced nine years of sea duty and three in foreign countries. During the first year of the present war he had active duty at sea in the American sector of the Atlantic and in the European-African sector.

Captain Edel has been historian of the Chaplain Corps for more than twenty years and his record shows that he has designed more navy chapels than any other Navy chaplain. He is at present stationed at the United States Naval Training Center, Sampson, N. Y. The Aug. 12 issue of The Christian Advocate devoted two pages to his work there in an article entitled "Seaman Depend on the Pilot of Galilee".

Another Gold Star Added to Dickinson's Service Flag

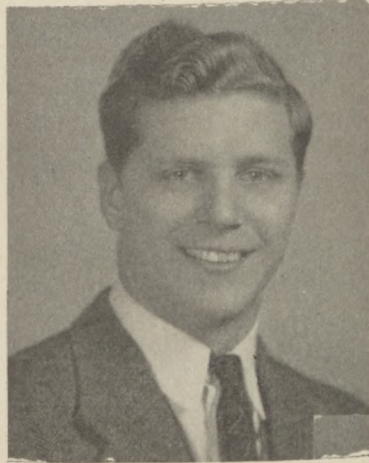

SHORTLY after receiving his commission and wings in the Army Air Corps, Lieutenant Leonard P. Supulski, '42, was killed in an airplane accident near Kearney, Nebraska while engaged on a routine flight on August 31. He was one of eight men killed in the accident.

In July, Lieutenant Supulski, who had been one of the most outstanding ends in Dickinson football history in three years on the varsity, completed his aviation training at Selman Field, Monroe, La., and received his commission. He was granted a leave before reporting for his first assignment and came to Boiling Springs to be with his wife, whom he married last October. It was only shortly after reporting for duty that he met his death.

Born in Kingston, Pa., on December 15, 1920, he was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Supulski, both of whom survive him. His father is a native of Lithuania, while his mother was born in this country. He graduated from Kingston High School in 1938 with a fine academic record and letters in football and track in which he was an outstanding star. At Dickinson, where he was a member of the Commons Club, he played on the basketball squad two years and for four years was a member of the football and track teams. He was the receiver in the Rehor to Supulski forward passing combination, which proved so formidable against Dickinson's football foes in recent years. Last fall, he played end on the Philadelphia Eagles, a professional football team, before his entry into the army.

On October 2, 1942, he married Miss June Elizabeth Lutz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Lutz, of Boiling Springs, Pa., in St. James' Rectory, Philadelphia, and she survives him.

He was one of five brothers in the armed service, and a sixth is to be inducted soon. One brother, Raymond, is in the Navy, while Edward is in the Air Corps and Ernest and Sam are both in the infantry. He is also survived by three sisters, Irene, Martha and Dannie, at home and three other brothers, Thomas, of Kingston, John and Joseph, both of New Jersey.

LT. LEONARD P. SUPULSKI

Accompanied by a military escort, his body was brought to Kingston where funeral services were held on Sept. 7 and he was interred there with military honors.

Club Meets At Williamsport

The annual dinner of the Dickinson Club of West Branch Valley was held in the Village Tea Room, Williamsport, Pa., on May 18 and was well attended. Dean W. H. Hitchler and Prof. Charles L. Swift were the Carlisle delegates.

J. Milton Skeath, '21, of the faculty of Dickinson Junior College, was elected president succeeding Clyde C. Carpenter, '26, '28L, who acted as toastmaster at the dinner. Charles S. Williams, '26, '28L, was elected vice-president and Mrs. Agnes Willard, '31, secretary-treasurer.

Two More Gold Stars on Law School Service Roll

LT. Harry L. Bevis, of Lancaster, Pa., and Lt. Frank W. Davis, of Camden, N. J., both graduates of the Dickinson Law School, died in accidents while serving with the Army. Lt. Bevis, '41L, who was stationed at Camp Campbell, Ky., died as a result of a tank accident, June 1, while Lt. Frank W. Davis, '21L, was instantly killed on May 12 in an automobile accident near the Army air base at Courtland, Ala., where he was on duty.

Lt. Bevis, who was 27 years old, graduated from Franklin and Marshall College in 1938. He was an attorney and practiced law in Lancaster until he entered the service. He attended O.C.S. at Fort Knox and received his commission in March.

Newspapers reported that Lt. Bevis and Miss Mary C. Silk, of Louisville, Ky., were riding in a tank when it skidded into a tree which fell across the couple, who were in the open turret. Miss Silk was killed and Lt. Bevis, whose lungs were punctured by three broken ribs, died two days later.

Lt. Bevis was born June 28, 1916, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Bevis, of Lancaster, Pa. He was unmarried. A younger brother, James, also survives.

Lt. Davis, who was an intelligence officer, was riding with two policemen in a search for several escaped prisoners when the car careened off the highway near Courtland, Ala. Davis was killed instantly and the policemen were critically injured.

A graduate of the Woodbury, N. J., high school, Lt. Davis graduated from the law school in 1921. At Dickinson, he became a member of Beta Theta Pi Fraternity. He resided at Merchantville, N. J., and was a member of the law firm of Riggins and Davis in Camden. Enlisting in the air force in September, 1941, he received basic training at Miami, Fla., and received his commission as a second lieutenant there. He was promoted later and for a time was attached to the Adjutant General's School in Washington. Later he was assigned to intelligence.

Besides his wife, Lt. Davis is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Davis, of Stone Harbor, and a sister, Mrs. Evelyn Kreamer, of Cranford.

Funeral services were held in Camden and interment was made in Locustwood Memorial Park, Delaware Township, Pa.

Alumni Association Meets

Highlighting the reports of officers, President Karl E. Richards, '10, announced that there were 1,107 members in the year which closed on June 1943 in the General Alumni Association at the annual meeting of that body at Commencement when officers were elected and routine business transacted. With attendance shattered by war-time conditions, President Richards combined the association and council meetings.

Announcement was made that S. Walter Stauffer, '12, of York, Pa., had been reelected an Alumni Trustee in the annual mail election and that the following had been elected to the Alumni Council for a three-year term: Dr. Daniel P. Ray, '03, of Johnstown; Judge Karl E. Richards, '10; Dr. Fred L. Mohler, '14, Washington, D. C.; Miss Mary K. Wetzel, '22, Carlisle; and Rev. J. Wesley Lord, '27, Westfield, N. J. It was also announced that John J. Ketterer had been chosen as representative of the Class of 1943 to the Council.

In addition to Judge Richards as president all of the other officers were reelected in the business session for a one year term. They are Robert W. Crist, '23, vice-president; C. Wendell Holmes, '21, secretary and Dr. Harry B. Stock, '91, treasurer; Gilbert Malcolm, '15, editor of THE DICKINSON ALUMNUS; Dean M. Hoffman, '02 and Whitfield J. Bell, Jr., '35, associate editors.

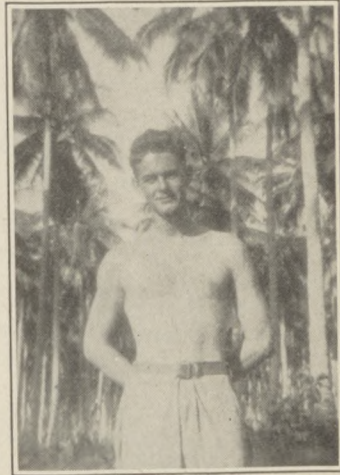

Returns to College After Being on Guadalcanal

HONORABLY discharged from the United States Army because of wounds received at Guadalcanal, Edward M. Griffith, of Kingston, Pa., who dropped out of college at the end of his junior year in June 1942 to enter the armed service, is the first Dickinsonian to return from the war and become a student of the College again. He has registered for the fall session to begin on October 4 as a candidate for graduation next June.

Seven weeks after he entered the service more than a year ago, Griffith sailed for New Caledonia where he arrived September 23, 1942 and he was on Guadalcanal until March, 1943. There he contracted the dread malaria and for five days his temperature was 105. He recovered, though he lost forty pounds during his illness.

When he left the field hospital on Guadalcanal, he asked to be returned to duty with the 26th Signal Company to which he had been assigned. A few days later, men of this company were sharpening bayonets for the infantry and they were using blow torches for the job. While they were thus engaged, the Japs staged an air raid, and the men sought cover. In the excitement, some one kicked over a flaming blow torch, spraying the liquid flame over Griffith and both his legs were set on fire. The medical corpsmen worked quickly over their severely burned patient and after treatment at the Guadalcanal field hospital, he was flown to the New Hebrides and then to the 39th Field Hospital in Auckland, New Zealand, where he was a patient until his return to the United States in April of this year. He was hospitalized in California until his discharge from the Army on May 18, 1943, though he has reported to an army physician weekly throughout the summer.

In telling his story, Griffith says that when he arrived on Guadalcanal living conditions were terrible and the food was bad as it consisted entirely of dehydrated supplies, which proved tasteless. He told how many men were stricken with malaria though they took a half grain of a drug every day and a full grain on Sunday. He said that he never could figure out the reason for the double dose on Sunday unless it was the Army's easy way to remember. Two months later, when he left, he said the food and living conditions were both much better and that fewer men were being stricken with malaria.

When he enlisted in the Army, Griffith was first assigned to the infantry at Fort McClellan, Alabama. He had been selected for officers' candidate school but the week before he was to go, he was transferred to Camp Stone-man and as events proved he was on his way to the Pacific battleground.

Born in Kingston, Pa., on July 8, 1921, he is the son of Edward and Helen Hughes Griffith. His parents reside in Kingston, where his father is vice-president and general manager of the Glen Alden Coal Company.

He prepared for college at Wyoming Seminary from which he graduated in 1939 and he entered Dickinson that September. He became a member of Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity and also of the German and International Relations Clubs.

Upon his graduation from the College, he plans to do postgraduate work either at the Wharton School or the Harvard School of Business Administration.

 * * 896 Stars In Dickinson's Service Flag * * ***

One hundred sixty additional names of Dickinsonians in the service bringing the total of 896 are published in this issue. When the first list was published in last year's September number there were 379 names. In December the total rose to 500; in February it was 642 and in May 736.

Promotions of those in the service are listed under the Class Personals. Those in the service should write THE DICKINSON ALUMNUS of any advancements or decorations received, and they should not be modest about doing this. It is about the only way the information can be secured, and classmates, especially those in the service, will be much interested. New addresses or transfers should also be sent in.

One more WAVE is listed. She is Aleta J. Kistler, '42. There are eleven coeds in the service; five WAVES, four WACS, one in the Army Nurses Corps and one in the Navy Nurses Corps.

There are probably more than 896 Dickinsonians in the service, many whose names have not been given to the alumni office. Alumni are urged to send in the names of any which have not been published and all those entering the service are urged to send in the information. The new names are as follows:

Aids in Rescue of Men Adrift On Raft for 83 Days

Several months ago, one of the most dramatic stories of the war was told in Life and in newspapers throughout the world. It was the tale of the rescue of three men, who had been adrift on a raft for 83 days after their ship had been torpedoed in the Atlantic.

In January, 1943 when the rescue was effected Lieutenant James Lamb McIntire, '35, of Narberth, Pa., was executive officer of the rescue ship, a sub-chaser of the 173 foot class. Since then he has been made commanding officer of the ship. At the request of the Editor of the DICKINSON ALUMNUS, Lieutenant McIntire was asked to tell his story of the rescue. He demurred at first, but then came a letter saying "Enclosed is a quick script of the story of the survivors you asked me for. I am sending it to you only on the condition that you proof-read it, rewrite it, change it around to make it sound intelligent. As you know, John (his brother, John L. McIntire, '37) was the only one in the family who had the gift of writing, not I. However, you asked for it and here it is."

By Lieut. James Lamb McIntire, USNR
Class of 1935

One afternoon late in January, 1943, our Sub-Chaser of the 173' class sighted an object on the horizon, which seemed worthy of closer scrutiny. Accordingly, the helm was put over and the engines increased. As we drew nearer, it could be seen that the object was a life raft on which were three figures waving frantically. At that point, we went to General Quarters for it has been a trick of German submarines to loiter near survivors of a torpedoing just to catch some unwary ship in its efforts to rescue castaways.

As we drew near the raft we noticed it to be about 8 x 10 ft. and well out of water due to its foundation of four 50 gallon oil drums. This type of raft is common on merchant men and is the best of all since its occupants by being out of water do not suffer from immersion as do those forced to take to the flat cork type.

The three men on it presented a picture which will long stay in all of our memories. Bearded and shaggy haired, they were incapable of standing. The one who was waving what later was found to be the Netherlands merchant flag had his arms supported by his companions since by himself he was too weak to hold even the small flag aloft. We drew alongside and sent a party down our ladder to carry the men aboard. You have heard of famous first words—the first coherent words of this trio were voiced by one who later turned out to be one Dominic Izzi, S2/c, USN—"My what a fat bunch of ———." The gem of this remark lies in the fact that these men at that time weighed less than 100 pounds each, yet when I was fortunate enough to see them again some two months later recuperated and well fed, I found two of them to weigh better than 180 pounds apiece and the third about 170 pounds. However, that day they were the worst emaciated skeletons clinging to life that I ever expect, or care to see.

Their story was remarkable in many ways. In November they had been torpedoed while aboard a Dutch merchant man by a submarine. Five men ended up on the raft from which we subsequently rescued three. Their tales of the cries of companions attacked by sharks during the first night as the survivors milled together was not pleasant. Eventually, however, our five found themselves on this raft with rations for 16 days, a 5 gallon can for water and some canvas. They subsisted after their rations were gone on raw fish, snails and birds which now and then settled on the raft. Water was trapped in the canvas and the water can kept full. Their method of catching fish was ingenious. They would take the insides of a fish caught, tie it to a string and dangle it overboard. As a new fish came to take the bait, they would grab it with their hands. Unfortunately the raft was not provided with hooks and fishing paraphernalia. The five men consisted of a Naval Officer, Ensign James Maddox, USNR, two Navy seamen, George Beezley, S2/c, and Basil Dominic Izzi, S2/c, and two Dutch merchant seamen, Nico Hoogendam and Cornelius Van Der Slot.

Caught in the Equatorial current, the raft drifted approximately 1,800 miles in 83 days until we sighted them. On the 69th day, Beezley died of exposure and on the 76th day Ensign Maddox died also. These men were consigned by the three remaining to a watery grave with prayer, and as they said, with little hope at times for themselves. The condition of the three when we found them was remarkable. No flesh remained on their bodies except a small amount near the kidneys. They were literally skeletons covered with dry parchment. They could not be fed at first except by the protoclysis method. However, by the end of a week they were up and around and today I hear they are in fine shape; as good as new.

The flag and paddle which bore a notch for each of the first 43 days of their raft trip (until the knife was lost overboard on the 43d day) are today in the custody of the Submarine Chaser Training Center of Miami, Florida, where they take their places with other mementoes of World War II sent by the graduates of that Naval School.

It cannot be realized unless the men themselves had been seen what dogged perseverance and indomitable will to live must have been theirs to go on and on for 83 days without giving up. Many exploits and adventures will come from the war, but to me because I saw its conclusion the story of the men on the raft will always be the most memorable.

Harrisburg Club Holds Party

With the best attendance of years in Pennsylvania's capitol, the annual dinner and party of the Dickinson Club of Harrisburg was held in the Civic Club on May 20. Howard Gale, '35, retiring president, acted as toastmaster at the dinner and later as master of ceremonies at a dance for which his orchestra furnished the music.

The feature of the evening was an address by Capt. Robert Helms, a Penn State Alumnus with many Dickinson connections, who was home on leave after his service as a pilot with the air forces in Africa. Dean W. H. Hitchler and Gilbert Malcolm spoke briefly.

Carl B. Stoner, '23, was elected president for the new year with the Rev. Spencer B. Smith, '34, and Mrs. L. A. Burkholder, '22, made vice-presidents and Ralph S. Wallis, '26, chosen to serve as secretary-treasurer. These officers, with Mrs. A. Harvey Simmons, '25, and William C. Fry, '28, form the executive committee of the club.

EDITORIAL

'Twas Ever Thus

THAT graduate schools and universities have often stamped with approval the preparation given to Dickinsonians by the college faculty through the years since 1773 is a fact often little noted. Though of transcendent importance, it is unheralded perhaps because it has become one of the pillars of the institution. Greater strength is added to that pillar in the record of the aviation cadets, who have studied in the war college and then gone into the cauldrons of flight training at army fields.

While no Army "E" flies from the flag-pole, plaudits should sound for President Fred Pierce Corson and his co-workers for a big job, well done in a hurry since last February. Additions to the faculty, changes in courses and in the physical plant were all made under the high pressure of too little time and often called for skills approaching legerdemain.

When the cadets arrived, Dickinson was ready and not long afterward the first quintile of soldiers left the grey-ivied walls for the aviation training center at Nashville. In that group, 76 per cent of the lads were accepted for pilot training and 13 per cent for navigator and bomber schools and only 11 per cent washed out. Once again, men trained in Dickinson's halls made good.

It Might Have Been

NEW highs were attained when 772 gave $17,311.60 to the 1943 Alumni Fund campaign. It marked the largest amount contributed by the greatest number of givers in the eight-year record of these annual efforts. But the goals were not reached. The effort was planned to secure not less than 1,000 contributors who would give not less than $20,000. It is true that a number of alumni living in Central Pennsylvania gave to the College Development Program of the Central Pennsylvania Methodist Conference, and that these gifts are not included in the Alumni Fund totals though the College has been able to establish a scholarship fund from these receipts which now exceeds $70,000.00. The College receives a proportionate share of the funds given to this program in a division shared also by Williamsport-Dickinson Seminary and the Westley Foundation at State College.

A tabulation after all the returns were in shows that while there were 104 new subscribers this year, there were also 130 alumni who gave in 1942 and not in 1943, and that there were 451 more alumni who gave in prior years but not in 1942 or 1943. If these 581 had contributed this year, there would have been a total of 1,353 contributors to the 1943 Alumni Fund instead of 772 and the goal of not less than 1,000 donors would have been passed.

If these 581 had made an average gift of $4.625, the $20,000 goal would have been reached. From 772 a total of $17,311.60 was contributed for an average gift of $22.42, an unusually high figure. If 1,353 made an average gift of $22.42 the Alumni Fund total would have been $30,424.26.

All this sounds impossible of attainment, but it isn't. Any number of the 1,353, who gave before and didn't this year, fully intended to send a subscription to the dear old college, but didn't. A few, who have received the July Bulletin and noted the absence of their names in the list of 1943 contributors, have already sent in checks which will list their names in the 1944 roster and thus the ninth campaign gets off to a running start.

Alumni need not wait until the campaign literature arrives. A remittance for an Alumni Fund gift may be sent at any time, and one mailed during 1943 can be listed as a tax deduction in this year's income tax report. It will be a contribution for the campaign which will end in 1944, a year when the college will need more money than ever before.

Post War Planning

THAT the Board of Trustees heartily endorse President Fred P. Corson's tenet that now is the time to prepare for the days after the war is revealed by action taken at the annual meeting at the last Commencement. The Trustees directed that any surplus funds, in addition to funds specially raised for this purpose, be put in a separate bank deposit and a Post War Fund account be opened in the books of the College and that this money be kept for use after the war. A start has already been made in the establishment of this fund.

It is clear that in the post war world, the college which is in a sound financial position and is ready to go ahead under what may be stringent conditions, will be better able to maintain its standards and its place in the educational world. There can be no better insurance for the future than plenty of money in the bank. And like all insurance, it cannot be bought when it is needed but must be accumulated now. The Trustees are planning wisely in establishing this plan.

No one should conclude that making a gift is unnecessary because the college is operating under a government contract and doesn't need the money. Actually because of the necessarily small enrollment in the liberal arts college, this department of the College will operate with a deficit. Alma Mater, like all good mothers, will always need everything for her sons and daughters. Her needs in the days after the war will be far greater than they are now, and every Dickinsonian should give now in the present emergency and to guarantee that brighter future ahead.

An Ambulance Driver

WHITFIELD J. BELL, JR., '35, Associate Editor of THE DICKINSON ALUMNUS and instructor in history, has enlisted as a private in the American Field Service and is on his way to Syria for duty with the British Army as an ambulance driver.

Waiting in New York for the ship which was to take the group overseas, he got the first taste of his offer to serve in any capacity. To help meet a manpower shortage, with several of his fellows, he worked for many days as a dish-washer in a New York hospital.

Rejected in every attempt to enlist in the various branches of the armed services because of his poor eyesight, and turning aside opportunities to use his fine scholarship and ability to write the history of this war as it is being made by working in a swivel chair, he rejoiced when he was accepted for duty which would carry him to battle zones.

Whit isn't a flag-waving zealot. Nor does he beat his breast with patriotic thumps. He's an American lad who is determined to do his job in this War. His willingness to serve is a fine example for any one to follow. We hope he comes back.

Twelve More Alumni Become Lifers Making Total 347

SINCE the publication of the roster of Life Members in the General Alumni Association in the May number of THE DICKINSON ALUMNUS, when 335 names were listed, twelve more alumni have become Lifers to raise the total to 347.

The first of these subscriptions came from Dr. Joseph E. Green, '28, Carlisle physician, who is the college physician for men. A few days later, the Rev. Gordon A. Williams, '11, pastor of the Methodist Church at Emporium, Pa., became a Lifer.

Meeting the Alumni Secretary in Philadelphia, Lee Rogers Allen, '11, who is engaged in the insurance business there while living at Bryn Mawr, opened his wallet and produced the dollar bills for life membership. Another wallet opened at the annual dinner of the Dickinson Club of Harrisburg in May, when Robert W. Crist, '23, vice-president of the General Alumni Association and secretary of the Harrisburg Chamber of Commerce, handed over forty dollars.

The mails then brought two forty dollar checks from men in the Army. The first came from Lt. Fletcher Krause, '35, who is on duty at corps headquarters in Baltimore and the second from Lt. Raynor W. Wallace, '39, who now gets his mail addressed to APO 677, Presque Isle, Maine.

When he got his salary check on June 1, Charles H. B. Kennedy, '34, who is on leave of absence from the Boiling Springs High School to serve on the Army war college faculty in physical education, made his first payment for life membership.

A co-ed was the next subscriber when the former Marion E. Darragh, '32, now Mrs. N. C. Faucett, of Bushkill, Pa., sent her $40 check in June. The same day a similar check arrived from Austin W. Bittle, '39, of Schuylkill Haven, Pa.

Letters Brought by the Postman from Overseas

In a V-mail letter dated August 14, Capt. Harold C. Koch, '29, Chaplain's Corps, whose address is Hq. 2nd Tnk Grp., APO 758, c/o Postmaster, New York, N. Y., writes: "Just received the February ALUMNUS which travelled to several locations in the States and then to three or four in Africa. Life goes on fairly regularly, in spite of the War. A few nights ago some 60 Nazi planes came over and we had some very attractive fireworks at 4 A.M., but no damage was done except to our sleep. Just before lunch today, one of the men set off an anti-personnel mine from a previous battle field, which injured him pretty severely. These young men are tough, and the only complaining we hear is that they don't get as much action as they'd like. If supply could keep up with the ambitions of the men the war would soon be over. I reckon wiser men know better, so we follow the Army routine, but we all hope we get it over before long."

On May 24, Lt. David Streger, '39, wrote a V-mail letter from "Somewhere in North Africa" in which he said in part "I haven't met any Dickinsonians over here, but I've been trying to get in touch (by mail) with Norman Ranz and Harold Foster. I believe they are starting an alumni club in Algiers. I receive the ALUMNUS and devour every word of it. I received a postal card the other day inviting me to listen to Dr. Corson's Easter Day address. My radio is strictly an Anglophile; I can only get London."

A V-mail letter written on July 27 reveals that Walter Donald Whetsel, '29, is serving overseas as Regimental Chaplain. His address is Ch. Walter Donald Whetsel, 0-477242, 359th Engr. Regt., APO 508, c/o Postmaster, New York, N. Y.

On July 5, Sgt. Luther I. Warsing, '41, 6th Port Hdqrs., APO 759, c/o Postmaster, New York, N. Y., wrote a V-mail letter, saying "After tramping through the beautiful campus for four years and then coming to the sandy shores of Africa, tell me, who wouldn't get homesick for the wonderful things left at home? I am beginning to think all of the Dickinsonians are in the Pacific because I have been here for eight months and have seen none. Don't worry, I am still waiting to come in contact with at least one of them. It would be fun to reminisce with some one who remembered the story of the horse in chapel and the many other pranks done by spirited Dickinsonians."

Lieut. John F. Bacon, '38, who is serving with the Navy on one of the isles of the Pacific, on August 1 wrote his father, L. M. Bacon, '02, that he ran into Lieut. (jg) John I. Jones, '41, who is a Naval torpedo plane pilot at the aerological office on the island, and Jones was getting the weather report. Neither knew the other was within a thousand miles of him. (Undoubtedly they held a Phi Psi convention.)

Ensign John L. Scott, '38, USS American Legion, c/o Fleet Post Office, San Francisco, Calif., wrote an air mail letter

A member of the Class of 1946, he was born in Curwensville, Pa., on July 14, 1924. He was nineteen years and sixteen days old when he received his commission.

on August 2 saying that he has been with the South Pacific Fleet since March and "I've travelled a lot of miles and have been to a lot of places. So far I haven't met any Dickinson men out here but am constantly on the lookout for them. I know there should be some out here."

Ensign Wayland A. Lucas, Comdr. South Pacific Force, c/o Fleet Postmaster, San Francisco, Calif., '35, '38L, wrote a letter which arrived in June telling of a Sigma Chi reunion he, Ensign Thomas V. Zug, '33, and Lieut. Robert L. D. Davidson, '31, held in the South Pacific. Lucas and Tom Zug are stationed together on the staff of Admiral Halsey. They learned in April that Larry Davidson was a patient on a hospital ship close by, and they went to see him at once. They found Larry recovering from a broken leg received as the result of a fall during heavy seas, while serving with a PT boat squadron. Apparently, all three were engaged in the actions around Guadalcanal.

Washington Alumni Club Meets

A fine attendance marked the annual dinner of the Dickinson Club of Washington, held in the Nation's capital on May 10. Dr. Fred L. Mohler, president, acted as toastmaster, and Dr. Frank Steelman, '10, offered the invocation.

The address of the evening was delivered by Dr. Edwin E. Willoughby, '22, of the Folger Library, who spoke on "The Wonder Book of Shakespeare." President Fred P. Corson and Gilbert Malcolm were the other speakers.

Upon motion of Dr. John R. Edwards, '96, the club adopted a message of condolence which was sent to Mrs. Adna W. Leonard, widow of Bishop Leonard whose death had occurred a few days before.

The club also adopted a motion expressing a vote of confidence in the administration of Dr. Corson as president of the College.

Following its custom to elect officers every two years, Lt. Col. Thomas J. Frailey, '19L, was elected president, and Prof. Charles F. Kramer, Jr., was named vice-president. Maude E. Wilson, '14, and Paul A. Mangan, '34, were re-elected secretary and treasurer respectively.

Open Religious Center for Cadets

An interdenominational religious center was established on the campus in July for the use of the Army aviation cadets in training at the College. It is believed this is the first such center established at any of the army training colleges.

Because of the fact that no Army chaplains were assigned to the college training centers, President Fred P. Corson and Major John D. Hartigan, commanding the 32nd College Training Detachment, Air Crew, suggested the establishment of the religious center. The purpose of the center is primarily religious and not social.

The Alpha Chi Rho Fraternity house was chosen for this purpose. The clergymen of Carlisle have regular consulting hours there, when the cadets can go to them for advice on any matters they desire. Through it, the cadets are brought in contact with the organized religious facilities of the town. The project is sponsored and financed by the churches of Carlisle.

Mrs. Mary B. Andrews, widow of Major Albert E. Andrews, and mother of Albert E. Andrews, Jr., '42, was chosen as house mother.

NECROLOGY

One of the great friends and supporters of Christian education was lost on May 6 when Bishop Adna Wright Leonard, for the past two years a trustee of the College, died in an airplane accident in Iceland while enroute to visit United States troops about the world.

A former president of DePauw University, Bishop Leonard worked unceasingly in the interests of the church endowed school and college and did not hesitate to plan fund raising campaigns throughout the constituency of his church for this purpose. Shortly after he came to the Washington Area of the Methodist Church, Bishop Leonard planned the College Development Program and manifested his interest by attending meetings of committees and groups which were to carry on this project. Under his direction, a pamphlet was prepared which was sent to the young people in the Methodist churches of the area directing their attention to the schools and colleges affiliated with the church. Many thousands of these were printed and distributed.

As a Trustee, Bishop Leonard attended meetings of the board whenever possible. He took an active part in these meetings and appeared always to rejoice in his association with Dickinson men.

The Rt. Rev. James E. Freeman, the railroad man who became a Bishop and built a cathedral, died on June 6 at his home in Washington, D. C. He was an honorary alumnus of the College, having received the degree of Doctor of Laws in 1931.

Writer, evangelist, social worker and friend of the nation's great men, Bishop Freeman worked for fifteen years in the accounting departments of several railroads, including the New York Central. He then studied for the ministry and became the Protestant Episcopal Bishop of the Washington Diocese in 1923. That year work on the National Cathedral, begun in 1893, was about one-tenth completed and the effort to secure contributions and the work had languished. Largely through his efforts within a few years 50,000 persons in every State of the nation had contributed $12,000,000 and the work went on.

Bishop Freeman is survived by his wife, the former Elsie Virgelius and two children, Mrs. Raymond L. Wolven and William V. Freeman.

The Rev. Roy E. Leinbach, for twenty years pastor of the Evangelical and Reformed Church of Carlisle, died suddenly on July 26 while making a purchase in the Kronenberg Store. Dr. Leinbach, who resigned as pastor in September, 1941, had not been in good health for some time.

Dr. Leinbach was the father of Mary E. Leinbach, '26, who is serving as a field representative of the National Red Cross in Alabama; and of Anna M. Leinbach, '31, who until recently was a patient in St. Joseph's Hospital, Lancaster, recovering from a fractured hip. His son, the Rev. Roy E. Leinbach, Jr., is pastor of the First Reformed Church, Newton, N. C. He is also survived by a brother, John Leinbach, of Lancaster. Mrs. Leinbach died in 1940.

It was in 1924, during the pastorate of Dr. Leinbach, that the present Reformed Church edifice was erected. Dr. Leinbach entered the ministry in 1905 following his studies at Ursinus College and the Reformed Theological School. He was called to Carlisle in 1921 while he was serving as pastor at High Point, N. C.

Fred B. Davis, lawyer and banker, died at his home in Kingston, Pa., on August 13 after an illness of eighteen months at the age of 71 years. He was the father of Richard C. Davis, '37L, who is now serving as a major in the Army.

A graduate of the Cornell University Law School, Mr. Davis was frequently a guest at the annual dinners of the Dickinson Club of Northeastern Pennsylvania in Wilkes-Barre and was the friend and associate of many Dickinsonians throughout the coal regions. He was a member of the Board of Education of Kingston for twenty-four years and at the time of his death was its president.

Besides his son, Richard, he is survived by his widow, the former Juliette Christman, and another son, Lieut. George B. Davis, Army Medical Corps.
