Lay Plans For Gala Homecoming on October 23

WITH a mammoth football rally on Biddle Field at 8 o'clock on Friday night, October 22, as the appetizer, a full schedule of events have been planned by officers of the General Alumni Association for Homecoming Day, which will be held on Saturday, October 23.

An alumni assembly which will be held in the chapel in Bosler Hall at 11:30, will open the events of Homecoming Day. There will be a musical program presented on the new College organ and Dr. Herbert Wing, Jr., senior member of the faculty, will be the speaker and deliver a message of special interest to the alumni.

At 12:30 an alumni luncheon will be held in the Alumni Gymnasium when the College glee club will present a short program. Tickets for this event will be 50 cents each and will be obtainable at the registration room in West College or at the door of the gymnasium.

The highlight of the day will be a football game with Juniata on Biddle Field at 2:30. Reserved seats for this game may be obtained at $1.00 each by writing to George Shuman, treasurer of the College. The first orders will be filled for seats in the west stands and when these are exhausted seats will be sold on the east side of the field.

There will be a faculty reception from 5 to 6 o'clock immediately following the football game in the new South College to give alumni an opportunity to meet the new members of the faculty. South College will be open with the beginning of the College year and is the newest building on the campus.

After the reception buffet suppers will be served in the various fraternity houses and at the College Commons for those without fraternity affiliations.

The day will close with a Homecoming dance to be held in the Alumni Gymnasium from 8:30 o'clock until midnight. The admission charge will be $1.00 per person.

Another feature of the Homecoming program will be the judging of the fraternities' decorations contest. For some years the fraternities have vied in providing elaborate decorations in front of their houses to mark the Homecoming Day and awards are made for the best presentation.

The popularity of Homecoming has been growing in recent years and many alumni come to Homecoming who are unable to attend Commencement. At the same time, more and more alumni are returning for both Homecoming and Commencement events. Expecting a banner attendance, officers of the Alumni Association and of the College are making complete plans to entertain all who come.

PROPOSED NEW DORMITORY FOR WOMEN

Success Marks Early Stages of Development Program

WITH $185,972 already subscribed, the first phase of the Dickinson College Ten Year Development Program will move into high gear this fall as special gift campaigns are organized in 14 different centers.

More than half of the money already raised came from Carlisle and Cumberland County, where nearly 500 persons gave a total of $102,401, to carry the College's "home area" well over its $90,000 goal.

The first report on the campaign has been issued in the form of a news sheet entitled "The Bronze Tablet." This sheet takes its name from the fact that the name of each subscriber of $175 or more to the Dickinson 175th anniversary Development Program will be inscribed on a bronze tablet which will be placed in the projected women's dormitory. The first edition of the tablet shows 156 names.

In October and November special gift campaigns will be held in Baltimore, Md., Reading, Harrisburg, New York City, Philadelphia, Trenton, N. J., Washington, D. C., Cleveland, O., Chicago, Wilkes-Barre, Wilmington, Del., York, Altoona, and Lock Haven. Each local area has its own chairman. General chairman of the special gifts campaign is S. Walter Stauffer, '12, of York, a trustee of the College.

Special gifts are defined as those over $1,000. After the special gifts solicitation is completed, there will be an intensive campaign for smaller gifts from all alumni. The special gifts drive is expected to be completed before Thanksgiving. A report will be published in a second number of "The Bronze Tablet" which will be printed before the end of the year.

Largest gift thus far received was $50,000 from Boyd Lee Spahr, '00, Philadelphia attorney, trustee of the College for the last 40 years, and president of the Board since 1931. His gift is to endow a professorship to be known as the Boyd Lee Spahr Professorship. It has not yet been determined in which department the chair will be established.

Headed by Frank E. Masland, Jr., '18, and Merle W. Allen, Carlisle business men and trustees of the College, the Carlisle and Cumberland County campaign for $90,000 opened at the end of April and within three weeks most of the solicitation was completed by the 100 alumni and other citizens who were volunteer workers in the drive.

The outstanding record was made by the professional men, headed by Hyman Goldstein, '15, for the lawyers, Dr. Harry F. Babcock, pastor of Allison Memorial Methodist Church, for the clergy, Dr. Joseph E. Green, '28, for the physicians, Dr. Stanley H. Rynk, '33, for the dentists, and Dr. Herbert Wing, Jr., for the College faculty. With complete understanding that subscriptions by the faculty members were entirely voluntary, the faculty members donated $11,860, with several subscriptions to be received this fall, to reach more than 160% of the tentative figure they set for themselves.

The first phase of the Ten Year Development Program calls for a 30-month campaign to raise $750,000. Of this sum, $500,000 will be used to erect a women's dormitory on the Benjamin Rush campus, while the remaining $250,000 will be placed in the general endowment of the College. Describing this campaign as a "first wave," President Edell at the Alumni Day luncheon pointed out that it will be followed by other "waves" for other specific purposes until the Development Program is completed in 1958.

Represents College

Dr. William C. Sampson, '02, secretary of the board of trustees, served as the representative of the College at the anniversary celebration of Girard College held in Philadelphia in May.

Named Director of Ten Year Development Program

JOHN F. Bacon, '38, business manager of Pennington School, Pennington, N. J., was appointed in June director of the Dickinson College Ten Year Development Program. He assumed his duties immediately.

A native of Baltimore, Md., Bacon is the son of Lewis M. Bacon, Jr., '02, College trustee, and Mrs. Ruth Heller Bacon, '12. He was graduated from Forest Park High School in Baltimore in 1934 and entered Dickinson College that fall. As an undergraduate he was a member of Phi Kappa Psi and Ravens Claw.

After his graduation from College, Bacon was employed for a year with the Savings Bank of Baltimore and then in the foreign traffic division of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. In the summer of 1940 he went on active service with the United States Navy, serving more than five years, chiefly as a supply officer on airplane carriers in the Pacific. He was on the Lexington, when that ship was sunk in the early months of the Pacific war. He was discharged in December, 1945, with the rank of lieutenant commander.

For a year and a half Bacon was in Washington, D. C., with American Airlines. In the summer of 1947 he went to Pennington School as its business manager, the position he held when appointed to the Development Program post at Dickinson.

Summer Session at Law School

The Dickinson School of Law conducted a summer term this year in which more than 200 students were registered. There was no summer school at the College.

The term, which provided a full semester's work, was designed to meet the needs of veterans who have entered the Law School since the end of the war. No first-year students were admitted at this time.

JOHN F. BACON

Editorial Honors Johnson

Following the commencement exercises in June at Adelphi Academy, the Brooklyn Eagle printed an editorial lauding the 40 years of service of Lloyd W. Johnson, '03, member of the board of trustees of the College.

That editorial was as follows:

For forty years Lloyd W. Johnson, presently acting headmaster of Adelphi Academy, has been working with students in that Brooklyn institution. The other night at the commencement exercises the audience rose to applaud him when he and his work were praised. In response he said a very simple and eloquent thing: "I am glad to have remained among the humble and to have kept on with the daily work of helping young people."

Those are wise words—"the daily work of helping young people." The students who have known him through his forty years at Adelphi are fortunate to have had his friendship. His kind of "daily work" is perhaps the most important work that is ever done.

Dean Meredith Retires From College Faculty

MRS. Josephine Brunyate Meredith, '01, professor of English and former dean of women at the College, retired from active service at the close of the college year in June. She had been a member of the faculty for 28 years.

In addition to her formally prescribed duties as professor and dean, Mrs. Meredith was very active in committee work, especially in all that related to student social affairs. She was also active in the Carlisle branch of the American Association of University Women.

Mrs. Meredith came to Dickinson in 1920 as dean of women. She was the first person to hold that rank and during her service as dean made her home in Metzger Hall, the women's dormitory. Two years later, in 1922, she began to teach and in 1943 was raised from the rank of associate professor to full professor of English. In addition to elementary courses for freshmen and sophomores, she taught courses in the English novel and in Chaucer and early English. She retired as dean of women in 1946.

Her parents were English and she was born on April 14, 1879, at Halifax, Nova Scotia, the daughter of Rev. Edwin R. and Eliza A. Brunyate. She prepared for college at the State Model School at Trenton, N. J., and entered Dickinson in 1898. She was graduated three years later with Phi Beta Kappa honors and began to teach in the high schools of Pleasantville, N. J., Atlantic City, and Trenton, N. J. In 1908 she was married to Rev. Arthur J. Meredith, of Boston, Mass., who died in 1917. After Mr. Meredith's death she resumed teaching. They had one child, Christina, who was graduated from Dickinson in 1934 and is now Mrs. Carl S. Vestling, of Champaign, Ill.

Mrs. Meredith received a master's degree from Dickinson College and several times travelled and studied in England.

In 1933, on the occasion of the sesqui-centennial of the College, Mrs. Meredith wrote and helped produce a historical pageant which called for a cast of more than 160 persons. She also wrote pageants and skits for church, college, and community projects. A paper on "Fellowships for Women" received an award in a nation-wide A.A.U.W. contest some years ago.

In May coeds of the College tendered Mrs. Meredith a tea in the Sharp Room of Bosler Hall and presented her with a small gift. At the same time she received a gift from the faculty and trustees of the College.

At present Mrs. Meredith is making her home with her daughter and son-in-law and grandchildren in Champaign.

Father and Son Teaching

It isn't often that a father and son, graduates of the same college, teach in the same school system. However, that is true of S. Carroll Miller, '12, who teaches in the William Penn High School in Harrisburg, and his son, Samuel C. Miller, Jr., '41, who teaches in the Edison Junior High School in Harrisburg.

Appoint Three New Members in English Department

THELMA M. SMITH

WILLIAM R. BOWDEN

THREE persons have been appointed to the department of English in the College for the forthcoming year, it is announced by President William W. Edel. One of them is an alumna of the College, Dr. Thelma M. Smith, '35, who was the first person to receive the degree of doctor of philosophy in American civilization from the University of Pennsylvania.

These additions to the department were necessitated by the retirements last year of Professor Josephine B. Meredith, '01, and Professor Charles L. Swift, '04, and by the increased enrollment of the college and of the department. Two of the new faculty members come as assistant professors and one as an instructor.

Dr. Smith, who is a native of Ocean City, N. J., was graduated as salutatorian from the local high school and entered Dickinson in 1931. For seven years after her graduation from College she taught in the elementary schools of Ocean City, while beginning her graduate work at the University of Pennsylvania. She received the degree of master of arts in American civilization in 1942 and her doctorate three years later.

At the University Dr. Smith was curator of the Bibliography of American Literature from 1943 to 1945 and was a reader in English in 1944-1945. She held a University Scholarship in 1942 and the Bloomfield-Moore fellowship in 1943-1945. For the last three years she has been a member of the English department at Temple University.

Her edition of the uncollected poems of James Russell Lowell is now printing by the University of Pennsylvania Press. She is the author of articles and book reviews in scholarly publications, and is a member of the committee on bibliography for the American Literature Group of the Modern Language Association of America.

Dr. William R. Bowden received his doctorate in English from Yale University last spring. Born in Dunbar, Pa., he was graduated from the Connellsville, Pa., High School in 1931, and from Haverford College in 1935. At Haverford he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa in his junior year and was graduated with honors in English. He was in succession graduate assistant and university fellow in English at Duke University, where he received his master's degree in 1937.

In 1937-38 Dr. Bowden was instructor in English at West Nottingham Academy at Colora, Md., and for the next three years was instructor in English at the Georgia School of Technology. In 1942 he enlisted in the army as a private and was later a radar officer specializing in Ground-Control-Approach on Ie Shima and Guam. He entered the Yale University graduate school after his discharge, held a fellowship in 1947-48, and received his doctorate for a dissertation on the English dramatic lyric in the 17th century.

Dr. Bowden is a member of the Modern Language Association of America. He is married.

The third new member of the English department is Bertram H. Davis, who has been named instructor in English. A graduate of Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass., Davis attended Hamilton College and was graduated from Columbia University in 1941. He spent more than four years during the war with the United States Army in Australia and New Guinea and in 1946 entered Columbia University graduate school. He received the degree of master of arts from Columbia in June.

For a year and a half, while doing graduate work at Columbia, Mr. Davis, was instructor in English at Hunter College. He is married and has one child.

In Review of Literature

Dr. Frank G. Black, '21, of the department of English of the University of Oregon, is the author of an article on "The Educational 'Center'" in the Educational Forum which replies to an article on the "child-centered school" which appeared in the Saturday Review of Literature in 1944.

The brief article points out the difference between authority in the classroom and authority in politics; it calls attention to some of the consequences of non-authoritarian or "child-centered" education; and warns that "we face a new Philistinism backed by professional educators." This article and a rejoinder were subsequently reprinted in the Education Digest.

In an extra-curricular capacity, Dr. Black was named the first chapter visitor of the newly-established Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity chapter at the University of Oregon in February.

Kahler Undergoes Operation

Dr. Arthur D. Kahler, former football coach at the College, is recovering at a hospital in Topeka, Kansas, from an operation for the removal of a tumor of the brain at the end of May. It is believed that the tumor was caused by a concussion from shellfire while he was serving on Saipan with the Navy during the war in the Pacific. He will probably be hospitalized for some months.

Dr. Kahler left Dickinson to accept a position after the war at his alma mater, Southwestern College, Winfield, Kansas.

Named Managing Editor of World-Telegram

BURNETT Olcott McAnney, '13, who prefers the nickname "Bo," for the past 15 years city editor of the New York World-Telegram, was named managing editor on July 20. The promotion was announced by Mr. Lee B. Ward, executive editor, who praised Mr. McAnney as a newspaper executive of outstanding ability and characterized the promotion as well deserved. As managing editor, Mr. McAnney is in charge of the news, departmental and feature departments of the newspaper.

Prior to joining the then New York Telegram staff in 1928, Mr. McAnney held editorial positions on The Tribune, the New York Herald Tribune, the New York Evening Post and the New York Times.

He was born on October 26, 1891, in the parsonage of St. Paul's Methodist Church, North Tarrytown, N. Y. His father, the Rev. Charles H. McAnney died when he was five years old, and his mother, Lucretia Jones McAnney, went to New York to become a teacher to enable her to educate her two sons, Bo and Lorrain Y. McAnney, '15, who is now assistant vice-president of Universal C.I.T. Credit Corporation at 1 Park Ave., New York City. She succeeded in putting both through college. She taught for a while at Pennington Seminary, Pennington, N. J., and later joined the faculty of Dickinson College as dean of women and as teacher of public speaking. For some years she produced the annual Shakespearean play on the campus for commencement.

After attending Public School 87 in New York City, Bo and his brother prepared for college at Conway Hall. As an undergraduate Bo was a winner of prizes in oratorical contests, was editor of the Dickinsonian and the Microcosm and became a member of Phi Kappa Psi. Following his graduation in 1913, he spent a year at the Columbia University School of Journalism, graduating in 1914 when the promise of a newspaper job was lost with the outbreak of World War I. After a year as an instructor in the English Department at DePauw University, he went to the University of Maine as an assistant professor, spending his summer vacations on the staff of the New York Tribune.

When this country entered World War I, he became a member of the U. S. Marine Corps, but saw no action and Armistice Day, 1918, found him doing guard duty outside Norfolk, Va. Immediately afterward he returned to the newspaper desk and began the brilliant career leading to his recent promotion. From 1918 to 1925 he was reporter, rewrite man, assistant night city editor and night city editor of the New York Tribune and the New York Herald-Tribune. In 1925-26, he took time out to sell newspaper features and in 1926-27 did feature editing and rewrite on the New York Evening Post. In 1927-28 he was utility desk and rewrite man on the New York Times, and then joined the New York Telegram in 1928. In 1933, he became city editor and on July 20 last, managing editor.

At this same meeting it was announced that the annual mail election for members of the Alumni Council for the three-year term beginning in 1948 resulted in the re-election to the Council of Glenn E. Todd, '12, and C. W. Holmes, '21, and the election of Mrs. Marietta Stitzel, '19, of Altoona; Thomas V. Zug, '33, of Philadelphia, and Clarence B. Hendrickson, Jr., '38, of Lancaster.

It was also announced that Lewis M. Bacon, Jr., '02, of Baltimore, Md., had been re-elected to a four-year term as an alumni trustee and representative to the Board of Trustees.

To Represent the College

Howard W. Selby, '13, member of the board of trustees, will serve as the representative of the College at the inauguration of Brandeis University and the installation of Dr. Abram Leon Sachar in Waltham and Boston, Mass., on October 7 and 8.

Trustees Name George Shuman Treasurer of College

AT THE June meeting of the Board of Trustees, George Shuman, Jr., '37, who has been assistant treasurer and superintendent of grounds and buildings since December 1941, was elected treasurer of the College, and he assumed his duties with the beginning of the new fiscal year on July 1. He succeeds Vice-President Gilbert Malcolm, '15, who had been treasurer since 1925.

Carl J. Adams and George A. Bobletz, both of whom are bookkeepers in the business office, were elected to the post of assistant treasurer at the same meeting.

Upon Shuman's graduation from the college in 1937, Bishop Fred P. Corson, who was then president of the College, appointed him to the administrative staff as business manager of athletics and as director of all student accounts. In 1941, he became superintendent of grounds and buildings and assistant treasurer, and a year ago manager of the book store. Through the years, he has continued to handle the affairs of the Athletic Association.

Born in Jersey Shore, Pa., on December 23, 1914, he graduated from the high school there, and after a year at Bucknell entered Dickinson, where he won his letters in football, basketball and baseball. He was sports editor of The Microcosm, president of the Senate and of the All College Social Committee. He was also president of his fraternity, Phi Kappa Psi, a member of Raven's Claw and of Omicron Delta Kappa. He is a member of the Carlisle Kiwanis Club, the Methodist Church and Cumberland Star Lodge No. 197, F. and A. M., of Carlisle.

During the war, he served two years with the U. S. Navy as a lieutenant (j.g.), spending most of the time at Pearl Harbor.

On July 13, 1940, he married Miss Mary Louise D'Olier, of Newport, Pa., a graduate of Pennsylvania State College.

GEORGE SHUMAN, JR.

They live at 301 South College Street, Carlisle, and have a five-year-old daughter, Margaret Ann, and a year-old son, John D'Olier.

Meet in Williamsport

The annual dinner of the Dickinson Club of West Branch Valley was held at the Woman's Club in Williamsport on May 24 with Clyde E. Williamson, president, presiding. Dr. John W. Long, '07, offered the invocation.

At the meeting the suggestion was made that plans be considered to hold all meetings of this club in Williamsport, State College, Bellefonte and in either Lewisburg or Sunbury.

L. Waldo Herritt, '33, 35L, was elected president, while Dr. William D. Angle, '30, was elected vice-president, and Mrs. Hamilton H. Herritt, of Lock Haven, the former Evelyn M. Kinter, '30, was named secretary-treasurer. The Carlisle delegation at the dinner included President Edel, Dean W. H. Hitchler, Gilbert Malcolm and George Shuman, Jr.

Becomes Superintendent in Wyoming Conference

REV. ROY T. HENWOOD, '26, was appointed superintendent of the Oneonta District of the Wyoming Conference of the Methodist Church by Bishop Fred P. Corson, '17, in April. He has 83 churches comprising 45 charges in his district, which is located in the southern tier of New York State, with 43 charges in that state and the other two in Pennsylvania.

Born in Dunmore, Pa., on August 15, 1902, he graduated from the high school there and, following his graduation from the College in 1926, taught in the Technical High School at Scranton until 1934. He was admitted to the ministry that year on trial and was ordained in 1938. He has done graduate work at Boston University and Syracuse University.

A member of Alpha Chi Rho fraternity, he is a Mason and a Rotarian. During the war he served as chairman of the Red Cross Chapter at Sidney, N. Y. After his ordination he was pastor from 1934 to 1939 in Sherburne, N. Y., and then from 1939 to 1943 at Sidney. From 1943 until the time of his appointment as district superintendent he was pastor at West Pittston, Pa.

On August 17, 1927, he married Miss Helen A. Emery, of Dunmore, Pa. They have three daughters, Jean Shirley, Carolyn Ruth, and Dorothy Elba.

Bishop's Daughter in College

Shirley J. Wicke, of Pittsburgh, a member of the junior class of the College, is the daughter of Bishop Lloyd C. Wicke of the Methodist Church. Dr. Wicke was elected to the bishopric by the Northeastern Jurisdictional Conference in June, when Dr. J. Wesley Lord, '27, also became a bishop.

Dr. Wicke is a graduate of Baldwin-Wallace College and holds B.D. and Ph.D. degrees from Drew University. He has studied at Yale, Colgate, Syracuse and New York Universities.

ROY T. HENWOOD

Another Dickinson "First"

Another Dickinson "first" is recorded in a letter which Dr. Clark D. Read, '18, of Albuquerque, N. M., sent Paul L. Hutchison, '18, '23L, at the time of their class' 30th reunion in June.

During the last war Dr. Read was stationed in Boston with the Navy, as he had been in the first World War. "Do you know," he asks, "that the apparatus for receiving radio signals—the first to be erected at the Dickinson physics laboratory by Dr. J. Fred Mohler and myself in 1917—is in the museum there? It had the original type of audion tube hooked up the last time I saw the assembly. It was an old loose coupler apparatus. I was the motivator and Dr. Mohler got funds to buy the apparatus." The school never gave Dr. Mohler any credit for that "first."

One "first" that both College and Carlisle do credit to Dr. Mohler, however, is the devising of an electromagnet to remove a steel splinter from a human eye. This was believed to be the first such instrument ever used for such a purpose in surgery.

Death Claims Former President of the College

THE Rev. Dr. Eugene Allen Noble, who was president of the College from 1911 to 1914, died at French Hospital, New York, on June 28 after a two months' illness at the age of 83 years.

Born in Brooklyn, New York, on March 5, 1865, he prepared for college at the Trinity School in New York and the Centenary Collegiate Institute at Hackettstown, N. J. In 1891 he received the degree of Ph.B. from Wesleyan University and, after graduate work at Northwestern University, he became a member of the New York East Conference and later of the Troy Conference of the Methodist Church. In 1896 he became Superintendent of the Methodist Hospital, Brooklyn. Later he was made president of his old school at Hackettstown and was serving as president of Goucher College in Baltimore, Md., when he was elected president of Dickinson in 1911. Dr. Noble served as president of the College until May 16, 1914, when Dr. James H. Morgan, then dean of the College, became the acting president.

In 1920 Dr. Noble became executive secretary of the Julliard Musical Foundation and under his guidance a notable survey, from an educational viewpoint, of the teaching of music by schools and individuals in this country and at centers of culture abroad, was made. The Julliard School of Music began its teaching under his direction with a broad curriculum and a faculty of acknowledged leaders which remained virtually unchanged until almost ten years after his retirement in 1937. Students under that faculty are now famous in the fields of instrumental and vocal music, composition, musical criticism and teaching.

His honorary degrees included a D.D. from St. John's College and from Wesleyan in 1907, an L.H.D. from Dickinson in 1906 and LL.D. degrees from the University of Pittsburgh in 1912 and from Hamilton College in 1913. He was secretary of the First National Peace Congress held in Baltimore in 1911 and edited its proceedings.

He was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Alpha Delta Phi, the University Club of New York and various educational societies. He contributed frequently to scholarly publications.

An ardent fisherman, he was an authority on prints, a connoisseur and collector of works of art, and after his retirement a successful breeder of champion Bedlington terriers.

In 1892, Dr. Noble married Lillian White Osborn, who died in January, 1930. He then married Mrs. Therese K. Lownes, who survives him. He is also survived by a daughter, Miss Beatrice E. Noble, and a son, Francis O. Noble, and four grandchildren, all of New York City.

To Represent College

Dr. Roland L. Stacy, '04, physician of Ogdensburg, N. Y., will serve as the delegate of Dickinson College at the inauguration of Dr. Jesse H. Davis as president of Clarkson College at Potsdam, N. Y., on October 8.

Makes Three New Appointments To Economics Staff

ARTHUR M. PRINZ

GEORGE R. GARDNER

PRESIDENT William W. Edel has made three new appointments to the faculty of the College in the department of economics. Vacancies arose through the resignation of Professor A. Park Orth to accept a position at Muskingum College, and the resignation of James E. Bowman, Jr., '42, who was an instructor last year.

Dr. Arthur M. Prinz, who was born in Guatemala City and received his Ph.D. degree from the University of Berlin in 1923, was appointed assistant professor. Prior to the outbreak of the war, he taught economics and he worked under research fellowships in Germany. After 1940 he taught English and economics in schools in Palestine. He is the author of various articles on economic topics and has made many contributions to newspapers and professional publications.

George R. Gardner, of Auburn, Me., has also been appointed an assistant professor in economics. He will teach only the work in accounting. A graduate of Bowdoin College in 1901, he received his master's degree from Columbia University. He has been in school administrative work during most of his life.

For nine years he was headmaster of the high school at Brunswick, Me.; he was superintendent of schools at Lisbon, N. H., for four years, and superintendent of schools at Auburn, Me., for 19 years. In 1947 he taught mathematics and finance at Sampson College in New York state.

For two years he was in business as an accountant with Price, Waterhouse and Company, of Boston, and with the American Water Works and Electric Company of New York City. He is a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity and of Old South Congregational Church in Boston.

The third man added to the department of economics is Oscar W. Nestor, who was named instructor. Nestor is a graduate of Thiel College in Greenville, Pa., and received the degree of master of business administration from the Wharton School of Commerce and Finance of the University of Pennsylvania in August. He taught economics and history in the army and was employed with the Labor Education Association in Philadelphia and the Upholsterers' International Union, A.F.L.

OSCAR W. NESTOR

Retires at Cornell

Professor Walter B. Carver, '99, who joined the faculty of Cornell University in 1906 in the department of mathematics and rose to the rank of professor in 1925, retired in June, and was appointed professor emeritus, it was announced by President Edmund E. Day.

Professor Carver has the honorary Sc.D. from his alma mater. He received the Ph.D. at Johns Hopkins in 1904 and taught two years at Ursinus College before going to Cornell in 1906. A past president of the Mathematical Association of America, Professor Carver has served as its secretary-treasurer for the past five years. He is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha, Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Xi and Phi Kappa Phi. From 1932 to 1936 he edited the American Mathematical Monthly.

Instructor Marries

David H. Kirk, who became instructor in physical education a year ago, was married to Miss Elaine Evans, of Port Carbon, Pa., on August 21. Mr. Kirk is also assistant football coach and assistant basketball coach.

Publish Alumni Directory

The directory of living alumni of the College, which was authorized by the Alumni Council a year ago, was published late in the spring and copies have been mailed to all paid-up members of the General Alumni Association.

A closely-printed book of 253 pages, the 1948 Directory supersedes the last directory, which was printed in 1939. The names and addresses of more than 6300 living alumni of the College are listed in the directory, each three times. There is a class list, a geographical list, and an alphabetical list. Fewer than 200 alumni, mostly non-graduates, have unknown addresses.

Leading the alumni roll is the name of Dr. Edward S. Conlyn, '78, of Carlisle, who will be 91 years of age next Christmas Day. Dr. Conlyn, who for several years has been confined to his apartment in the Molly Pitcher Hotel, was present at the Alumni Day luncheon in June, where he was roundly applauded. Gilbert Malcolm, '15, vice-president of the College, presented Dr. Conlyn with a leather-bound alumni citation for his services as a physician and an alumnus, "and for longevity," as Malcolm humorously remarked.

Next oldest alumnus at the luncheon was John M. Rhey, '83, Carlisle attorney and member of the Board of Trustees of the College since 1920. Mr. Rhey was 90 on August 9.

Elected to Phi Beta Kappa

Three alumni were honored by election to the Alpha Chapter in Pennsylvania of Phi Beta Kappa at the annual meeting in June. They are Dr. Robert L. Davidson, '31, member of the faculty of Temple University, who attained one of the highest scholastic ratings ever made in the graduate school there; Dr. L. G. Rohrbaugh, '07, professor of philosophy and religion in the College; and Dr. Gilbert Malcolm, '15, vice-president of the College.

Joins College Faculty

FERDINANDO D. MAURINO

Ferdinando D. Maurino, assistant professor in Triple-Cities College of Syracuse University, has been appointed assistant professor of romance and classical languages by President William W. Edel. He succeeds Professor William T. Avery, a member of the faculty for the past two years, who resigned to accept an appointment at Louisiana State University at Baton Rouge.

Professor Maurino, who is a native of Italy, will teach Latin, Italian and Spanish. He can also teach French. He has been a member of the faculty at Syracuse for the past two years and at one time was an instructor at Iowa State University and later at the Atlanta Ordnance College in Georgia. He has also been on the faculties of high schools in New York City. He received his A.B. degree from the City College of New York in 1939 and an A.M. from Columbia in 1941 and has completed all the requirements for his doctorate at Columbia University, which he will probably receive next month.

From 1940 to 1943 Professor Maurino held the Garibaldi Scholarship at Columbia University for studies in Italian and French.

Becomes Biology Instructor

WILLIAM H. MCGEE

William H. McGee, of Punxsutawney, Pa., has been named instructor in biology in the place of Mrs. L. Holland Taylor, who resigned in June when her husband graduated from the College and entered the University of Rochester School of Medicine. McGee was graduated from the high school at Punxsutawney and from the State Teachers College at Indiana, Pa., in 1941. He served in the Army Medical Corps for four years. In February of this year he received the degree of master of science from Kansas State College, Manhattan, Kans.

Wins Scholarship Award

H. Gilman Wing, who graduated from the College in June and will do graduate work at Harvard University, is one of two men in the country to be awarded the Omicron Delta Kappa scholarship award of $300 for graduate study. He is the son of Dr. Herbert Wing, Jr., senior member of the College faculty, and was an active member of Omicron Delta Kappa during his college course. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

1898 Publishes 50th Edition of Class Letter

SETTING a record probably unparalleled in the annals of American colleges, the class of 1898 published the 50th edition of the class letter as part of the celebration of its 50th anniversary at commencement. The pamphlet is a bound volume of 28 printed pages and cover, carrying letters and photographs of surviving members of the class, the family records of many members, and the dates of the deaths of others. It was fitting that the class of 1898, while seated in the place of honor on the platform at the alumni luncheon, should witness the presentation by the class of 1923, of the portrait of one of its most illustrious members, the late Professor Leon C. Prince.

In the unsigned foreword, probably written by Cecil A. Ewing, appears: "Just who originally thought of the idea, I do not know, but, unless, my memory is at fault, the proposition was made to the class by William H. Bosley, Jr., at one of our class meetings near the close of the Senior year. The letter got off to a good start under the direction of Harry C. Hubler and later was carried on by J. Banks Ralston; but its success is largely due to the untiring work of Leon C. Prince, who for 35 years was the magnet that held the class together and successfully kept up interest in the letter."

Since the death of Professor Prince on January 31, 1937, the work has been carried on by Professor Ewing, who is the director of the town schools of Port Deposit, Maryland, after 40 years as instructor in English and mathematics at the Tome School.

Professor Ewing writes that he has made a review of all the previous letters and he found that six members contributed to all 50 letters, namely, Austin E. Armstrong, Cecil A. Ewing, T. M. Hays, Howard E. Moses, W. W. Rice and Rev. J. W. Watts. Fifteen others had 100 percent records up to the time of their deaths, among them was Samuel McWilliams, who died last October, who had contributed 49 times. Properly, Professor Ewing concludes, "Taken all in all it is a record of class solidarity that is hard to equal."

Completes 40 Years With State

Howard E. Moses, '98, completed 40 years of service with the Pennsylvania State Department of Health on June 16 and his fellow workers in the engineering bureau, where he is chief consulting engineer, staged a small surprise party in his honor. He was congratulated by Dr. Norris W. Vaux, State Secretary of Health.

Mr. Moses, who entered the department in 1908, has served at various times as chief of the water works and sewage section, assistant chief engineer, and chief engineer and director of the bureau of sanitary engineering. He has held his present post since April of this year.

He is a life member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, a member of the American Water Works Association, a past president of the Engineers' Society of Pennsylvania, and a founder and past president of the Pennsylvania Sewage and Industrial Wastes Association.

Coaching at Hanover

Frank E. Noonan, '48, quarterback of last year's football team and co-captain of the basketball team, was appointed assistant coach in these sports at Hanover, Pa., in July. Though only 5'5" and weighing 122 pounds, he was one of the outstanding athletes at the college during the past three years since his return from service in the Navy. Last year he received the trophy as the outstanding Dickinson athlete and also the Jack Dempsey sports trophy. He is certified to teach English, history and social studies.

Trustee and His Wife Die in Auto Crash

EDGAR R. HECKMAN

MABEL GEIGER HECKMAN

THE Rev. Dr. Edgar R. Heckman, secretary of the Board of Trustees and retired Methodist clergyman, and his wife, Anna Geiger Heckman, both graduates of the College in the class of 1897, were killed when three automobiles collided during a rain storm on the night of May 24 two miles east of Millerstown, Pa.

Dr. Heckman was killed instantly and Mrs. Heckman died in the ambulance enroute to the Lewistown hospital.

They were enroute to their home in Harrisburg from the annual session of the Central Pennsylvania Conference, which had been held in Clearfield, and where Dr. Heckman had conducted the love feast as a part of the sessions the previous day.

Born in Ennisville, Pa., on February 11, 1875, Dr. Heckman graduated from Williamsport Dickinson Seminary in 1894, and from the College in 1897. For three years following his graduation he taught in the Dickinson Preparatory School and coached the football team. While a student he was one of the stars of the College team. He was a member of Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity and graduated from the College with Phi Beta Kappa honors. He received his M.A. in 1898 and the honorary degree of doctor of divinity in 1917.

Admitted to the Central Pennsylvania Conference on March 22, 1898, he held many prominent charges, among them the pastorate of Allison Church, Carlisle from 1929 to 1932. He was district superintendent of the Harrisburg area from 1918 to 1925. In 1936 he was appointed superintendent of the Methodist Home for the Aged in Tyrone, continuing in that position until his retirement a year ago. Seven times he was a member of the General Conference and he also served as a member of the Uniting Conference in Kansas City in 1939 and of the Northeastern Conference in Ocean City, N. J. in 1941. Through his ministry he held many of the important offices in the Conference and served on various Conference boards. He was a trustee of the Methodist Home for Children and a co-founder of the Methodist Training Camp.

Dr. Heckman was a Mason and a member of the Consistory and Shrine, as well as of the I.O.O.F. and the

P.O.S. of A., and the Rock Run Rod and Gun Club. He served a term as lieutenant governor of division seven of the Pennsylvania District of Kiwanis.

Dr. and Mrs. Heckman were married on July 5, 1900, at Shippensburg. Mrs. Heckman was born in Harrisburg on May 6, 1875, and prepared for college at the Cumberland Valley State Normal School. Following her graduation from the College in 1897 she taught in the high school at West Pittston, Pa., and received her M.A. from the College in 1899. She was a member of Gamma Zeta and of the Harmon Society.

Mrs. Heckman was active in all phases of church work and was especially interested in the Woman's Home Missionary Society, which she served as Conference Secretary for many years. She was hostess at the Home for the Aged while Dr. Heckman was superintendent there.

Mrs. Heckman was a member of the Daughters of 1812 of Shippensburg and of the Harrisburg branch of the American Association of University Women. She was also a member of the Order of the Eastern Star of Bellefonte, of Grace Methodist Church, Harrisburg, and of the Women's Society of Christian Service there.

Following the double funeral services held in Grace Church, Harrisburg, interment was made at Shippensburg, Pa. Bishop Fred P. Corson, '17, delivered the eulogy at the church services, which were conducted by Dr. William E. Watkins, '05, superintendent of the Harrisburg area, and Dr. W. Emory Hartman, pastor of Grace Church.

Dr. and Mrs. Heckman are survived by their three daughters, Mary Louise Heckman, '33, of Harrisburg; Mrs. Edwin C. Jefferies, '30, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. H. D. Rits of Sinking Springs, Pa.

Sell Chocolate Shop

Mary K. Line, '23, and Mary Wetzel, '22, who operated the 112-year-old Chocolate Shop since 1932, sold the business in June to Millard E. Landis, who for some years has operated the adjoining newspaper and magazine store.

The Chocolate Shop was founded in 1836 by Peter Monyer, but was not known by that name until B. Roy Kauffman purchased it in 1907 from George Hilton. Kauffman ran the shop until 1927 when he sold out to Thomas Johns.

Becomes Professor of Education

Alvin A. Fry, '26, has been appointed professor of education at West Virginia Wesleyan University, Buckhannon, W. Va. He has recently been supervising principal of schools at Hamburg, N. J., and prior to that for a number of years was instructor of chemistry in the high school at Dover, N. J.

Writes of Giant Trees and Men

George William Huntley, Jr., is the author of "Sinnamahone," a book dealing with the hardships and customs of the pioneers, published by the Christopher Publishing House of Boston.

The collection of stories are based on the spar business in a country drained by the Sinnamahoning River in Pennsylvania and records the hardships, customs, and ways of the hardy pioneers who felled great trees in this industry. The product was a class of spars used only on sailing vessels, though the story of this business is but a small part of the book.

No one character runs through the entire book, but the author tells the story of many persons and weaves a fine account of life in a pioneer day. The work reveals careful research and a gathering of data of much unwritten history and the book should prove a valuable source of information for future writers of the earlier days in American life.

EDITORIAL

It's Time For Homecoming Again

HOMECOMING is a theme for the September ALUMNUS which is never new and never quite old and hackneyed. For a cordial welcome can never be extended too often and a cordial welcome back to the campus is always the theme of the Homecoming editorial. Homecoming is always different, yet ever the same. If nothing else, Carlisle's weather adds an element of doubt, suspense, and adventure to any plans to spend a fall weekend in Carlisle. This year the Alumni Association especially wants to point to two features of the program.

The first is the alumni luncheon on Saturday. Inaugurated a year ago, the Homecoming luncheon proved so overwhelming a success that it has been added to the annual program. Hopes that it might prove a miniature reproduction of the Commencement week-end luncheon evaporated last year when the event showed that far from being an echo, it was the very equal in size and enthusiasm of the older feature. No one will want to miss the alumni luncheon at Homecoming.

Nor, we think, will anyone want to miss the Homecoming Chapel this year. These chapels have varied; sometimes an alumnus has spoken, generally seriously, often in humorous reminiscence; often the President of the College has addressed the returning graduates. This year the senior member of the faculty will talk on "Dickinson—1949 Model." No one is better able to do this than Professor Herbert Wing, Jr. For 33 years a member of the faculty of the College, he has seen the College grow and change and grow again; because he has personally and intimately known the way Dickinson has come since 1915, he can pretty accurately guess where it is going. Not that Professor Wing is all serious academic solidity—he can recall when that distinguished member of the bar, now gray-haired and protuberant, played a lithe, if hesitant, slave in the annual Greek play.

And, of course, there is a football game and there is a faculty reception in New South College and there are suppers at the fraternity houses and the College Commons and a dance to top it all off.

The date is October 23.

The Uses of $750,000

THE drawing of the proposed new woman's dormitory for the College, published in this issue of the DICKINSON ALUMNUS, will evoke feelings of pleasure and pride in most alumni. Not only does this building promise to answer the long-standing need of additional modern housing for the women students, but it will be a handsome addition, architecturally speaking, to an already beautiful campus. This new dormitory is to be the first physical monument of the Ten Year Development Program launched last spring. It will not, Dickinsonians are confident, be the last.

The campaign for funds now opening has two specific objectives. Three quarters of a million dollars are sought, half a million for the dormitory and the remainder for the general endowment for the support of instruction. Both needs are clear. The women of the College have never had a dormitory originally planned for their special needs. From the time women were first admitted more than 60 years ago, Dickinson has made shift with rented and remodeled dwellings and with the useful but now old Metzger College. In some ways the most adequate dormitory facilities provided for the women have been East College, opened to them two years ago, but when East was made a women's dormitory, the men were crowded into Conway Hall, the fraternity houses, and in their turn, into remodeled private dwellings. The proposed women's dormitory is certainly a needed addition to the physical plant.

It is not necessary to argue the importance of increasing the endowment for the support of instruction. After all, teaching is the most important function of the College. At bottom it is more important than any number of buildings, however perfectly designed. Without good instruction, a college is no college; and as its teaching standards decline, its reputation dies. An addition to the endowment gives promise that first-class teachers can be engaged and retained because their conditions of living offer them an assured and dignified position in which to think and work. The endowment of teaching means that instruction in this College will continue in the tradition shaped in recent years by Filler and Prettyman and Landis and Prince and Mohler.

When these two immediate objectives have been reached—in the next two years, it is expected—another campaign will get under way for another sum. Precisely what the objectives of the second wave will be, must be determined finally at a later date. It is revealing no secret, however, to state that the College acutely needs a student union building with an auditorium large enough to hold the entire student body at once; it needs a house of worship that is really a chapel; and it will need, as always, undesignated endowment to be translated into ever better instruction.

Why One Subscribed

THE first report from the office of Dickinson's Ten Year Development Program has now been published. "The Bronze Tablet," as this and succeeding reports will be called, lists particularly the names of those persons who have joined the "175 Club." This growing fellowship is composed of all those who have made a gift to the present campaign of at least one dollar for each of Dickinson's 175 years, and whose names will be inscribed on a bronze tablet in the new women's dormitory.

Not the least interesting thing about those names is the diversity of groups and interests from which they come. There are, of course, many alumni names on the tablet; they are the largest group. There are trustees' names—which was to be expected, since gifts of time and money seem inseparable from trusteeship. More interestingly there appear the names of Carlisle businesses, some of them closely related to the College and the trade it brings to the town, others more remotely associated. But the most intriguing, in some ways, is the gift "in tribute to" one particular alumnus.

The story behind that gift is interesting and moving. A physician who is an alumnus has a patient who felt a debt of gratitude for his skill and care and kindness which no fee could adequately discharge. Learning of the Dickinson campaign for funds for a new dormitory and for general endowment, the patient conceived the idea of making an anonymous gift to a cause dear to her physician in recognition of his professional services to her. And so it was arranged; and so this gift by one who was a stranger to the College testifies alike to the goodwill and generous impulse of the donor and to the respect and gratitude which the labors of one of Dickinson's sons have inspired in his community. The College is grateful for both.

Classes Present Gifts At Alumni Luncheon

PRESENTATION OF PORTRAIT OF PROF. LEON C. PRINCE
DONALD H. GOODYEAR AND PRESIDENT WILLIAM W. EDEL

A portrait of the late Professor Leon Cushing Prince, '98, a member of the College faculty from 1900 until his death in 1937, was presented to the College at the annual alumni luncheon in June by the class of 1923. The classes of 1918 and 1928 also presented gifts of a thousand dollars each as additions to the endowment funds of the College.

The portrait, painted by Wilbur Fiske Noyes, of Boston, Mass., who has done many other paintings for the College, shows Dr. Prince sitting at a desk before an open book in an attitude that was characteristic of him. He is painted in a gray suit, wearing a necktie of bright red which was the distinguishing feature of his dress. The presentation was made by Donald H. Goodyear, of Carlisle, who wore one of Dr. Prince's red neckties for the occasion.

The portrait was paid for by gifts from members of the 25-year class. More than $500 was left in the class treasury and this sum was presented to the College. In accepting the monetary gift, President William W. Edel announced that, with the approval of the Board of Trustees, he would earmark it for the endowment of the Leon C. Prince professorship of American history.

The alumni luncheon opened with selections by the glee club and then tribute was paid to the class of 1898 gathered in its 50th reunion. Dr. Edmund G. Soper made a response for the class to the introduction. Dr. Charles F. Berkheimer then presented the gift of the class of 1918 and following the presentation of the Prince portrait, Robertson C. Cameron presented the gift of the class of 1923. J. Henry Baker, '93, vice president of the Board of Trustees of the College, accepted the gifts on behalf of the trustees.

An alumni citation, similar to those presented at the 175th anniversary celebration, was then made to Dr. Edward S. Conlyn, '78, of Carlisle, the oldest living alumnus of the College, who alone could celebrate the 70th reunion of his class.

Name Senior Professor to Re-established Chair

PROFESSOR HERBERT WING, JR., head of the department of history since 1937 and senior member of the College faculty, was named first incumbent of the Robert Coleman Professorship, for which funds were first given to the College a hundred and twenty years ago.

The Coleman professorship was part of the forgotten history of the College until 1947 when, in a collection of papers relating to the College presented by Mary Himes Vale, '33, there was found a printed statement dated 1828 announcing the bequest by Robert Coleman, Esq., of Lancaster, Pa., of 40 shares of stock in the Carlisle Bank, with a par value of $1,000, and that this bequest had been appropriated by the Board of Trustees to accumulate at compound interest for the endowment of a professorship in the College.

There is no record of the disposition of these funds. The trustees may have called upon them in the next few years when the College was in desperate financial straits. In any case, all remembrance of Robert Coleman's bequest vanished until last year. President Edel recommended to the Board of Trustees at its annual June meeting, that the College reappropriate from the undesignated endowment a sum sufficient to re-establish the Robert Coleman professorship; and this was done.

The first incumbent of the chair, Dr. Wing, joined the faculty of the College in 1915 as an instructor in Greek. He was subsequently professor of Greek language and literature, teaching courses in ancient and medieval history as well, until some time after the death of Professor Leon C. Prince, '98, in 1937, when he was made professor of history.

Professor George E. Mark, '04, brought a teaching career of 44 years to a close in June when he retired from the faculty of the Pennsylvania Military College in Chester, Pa., where he had served during the three years since his retirement from Shippensburg State Teachers College.

After graduation from Dickinson in 1904, Professor Mark was principal of the schools at Windler, Pa.; subsequently he joined the faculty of Shippensburg; and during the last war he was a member of the faculty of the Air Cadet Training Program at Dickinson College. At Pennsylvania Military College he was professor of English and political science.

Professor Mark received the degree of master of arts from Dickinson College and from the University of Pittsburgh.

Modern Latin and Greek

Paul D. Leedy, '30, of the department of English in the Newark College of Arts and Sciences of Rutgers University, is the author and teacher of a course "Latin and Greek in Modern Use," which in a single year has mushroomed from an enrolment of 15 to one of the most popular courses in the institution, which must be taught in the largest lecture hall.

Designed as a thoroughly utilitarian course, Leedy shows students the uses of Latin and Greek in modern speech. The students apparently are fascinated by etymology and impressed by the practical results in increasing word power. By student demand, the course was repeated during the first part of the summer session.

This term Leedy is offering a new course with a similar approach, designed to popularize English and American biography. Leedy was formerly pastor of the Methodist Church at Mt. Holly Springs, Pa. During the war he taught English at Dickinson in the air cadet training program.

After the close of the war Romanick, who enlisted in the Navy in 1941 at the end of his junior year, attended the Naval Post-Graduate School at Annapolis.
