Trustee Presents Ceremonial Mace

PRESENTS GREAT MACE TO COLLEGE

Frank E. Masland, Jr., the donor; Professor Herbert Wing, Jr., senior member of the faculty; Professor E. A. Vuilleumier, Grand Marshal of the College and President William W. Edel.

A HANDSOME ceremonial mace, carved from American cherry and black walnut by Mary O. Abbott, the American sculptress, and rich in Dickinson symbolism, was presented to the College by Frank E. Masland, Jr., '18, a Trustee and Carlisle manufacturer, at a Special Convocation on Parents Day, October 13.

Thirty-eight inches long and weighing nearly nine pounds, this new ensign of the corporate authority of the College suggests in size and outline the imposing maces of many of the ancient cities and universities of Europe and England. It was, in fact, adapted by President William W. Edel from the official mace of Carlisle, England, but all of its symbols and ornaments, the cherished mermaid being among them, are exclusively Dickinson in character.

It holds special meaning for the many generations of students who rubbed shoulders with the old "Washington stump" as they went in and out of the Tome Science Hall's main entrance. For the mace contains three pieces of that stump, the last vestige of the black walnut tree that in Colonial time stood on the present site of Denny Hall and shaded Gen. Washington in 1794 when he reviewed militia rendezvoused in Carlisle for the westward march to quell the Whiskey Rebellion.

"Thus," said Dr. Edel in accepting the mace, "it visibly links the earliest days of the College with the present. As the symbol of the corporate authority of the College it will be carried at the head of all academic processions on such formal and official occasions as commencements, matriculation services and regular and special convocations."

The mace, which was two years in the making, is surmounted by a bronze mermaid with outflung arms. Around the head of the mace is carved the legend "The Great Mace of Dickinson College" and the founding date, 1773. The head also bears the seal of the College, bas-relief likenesses of John Dickinson, Benjamin Rush and Charles Nisbet and the emblems of the Belles Lettres and Union Philosophical Societies and the Dickinson chapter of Phi Beta Kappa.

Around the staff are carved in spiral fashion the names of all of the principals and presidents of the College, 26 names in all, and the years of their administrations. The two bosses or rings which encircle the staff and the finial acorn at the base are carved from wood of the old Washington stump.

At the presentation ceremony, the marshal of the College, Dr. E. A. Vuilleumier, was formally charged with custody of the mace which will be carried on all formal occasions by the assistant marshal and mace bearer, newly created offices being filled by Prof. David I. Gleim.

Heads Historical Society

Boyd Lee Spahr, '00, president of the Board of Trustees of the College, was elected president of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania on October 15.

Founded in 1824, the Historical Society is one of the oldest, wealthiest, and most widely known for its scholarly work of all the historical societies in the country. Mr. Spahr had been counsel of the Society for a number of years before he was elected president.

Always a keen student of history, Mr. Spahr frequently contributes reviews to the Society's magazine, the Pennsylvania Magazine of History and Biography; while the rapidly expanding collection of materials relating to the history of the College and its graduates, now housed in the Boyd Lee Spahr Room of Dickinsoniana in the College Library, is principally the result of his interest and generosity.

Organize Alumni Clubs in Columbus and Hagerstown

AT DINNER meetings in October and November, two new alumni clubs have been organized in Hagerstown, Md., and Columbus, O., with fine responses from alumni in both areas.

With Dickinsonians present from Cumberland and Frederick in Maryland and others from nearby Greencastle and Waynesboro in Pennsylvania, the Dickinson Club of Hagerstown was given birth at a dinner in the Women's Club auditorium there on October 25.

Going to Columbus, the day before the meeting of the club in Cleveland, President William W. Edel and Dr. Rowland R. Lehman effected the birth of the Dickinson Club of Columbus at a dinner on November 5 at the Grandview Inn there. The organization of a club for southern Ohio had been urged by alumni in that area because of the distance to Cleveland when Dr. Lehman spent part of August in Ohio as director of the Ten-Year Development Program.

The meeting in Columbus was well attended and much enthusiasm was shown by all present. It was decided that the club should meet annually or the evening prior to or succeeding the dinner in Cleveland to enable college representatives to attend both functions.

Walter V. Edwards, '10, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in Springfield, O., who presided as chairman of the meeting, was elected president of the Columbus Club. Colonel John P. Haines, Jr., '37, was named vice-president and his wife, the former V. Pendery Spear, '39, became secretary-treasurer.

Among the guests who attended the dinner in Columbus were Dr. and Mrs. Carl G. Doney, parents of the late Professor Paul H. Doney; Dr. and Mrs. W. Emory Hartman, who now reside in the Ohio city, and Mrs. Amy Courtney Brightman, a daughter of an honorary alumnus of the College. President Edel and Dr. Lehman were the speakers.

H. Monroe Ridgely, '26, sales manager of the M. P. Moller organ company, and Wilson P. Sperow, '14, who did the spade work of organization, were elected president and vice-president while Mrs. Edgar C. Washabaugh, of Waynesboro, the former Carolyn M. Loder, '42, was elected secretary-treasurer of the new Dickinson Club of Hagerstown.

C. Wendell Holmes, president of the General Alumni Association, drove from his home in Upper Darby to attend the organization dinner, and to officially form the new club. In the delegation from the campus there were President Edel, Vice-President Malcolm, Presidential Assistant Dr. Rowland R. Lehman and Treasurer George Shuman, Jr.

Prof. John Steckbeck headed a delegation of students who presented an excellent musical program. A tenor and soprano sang solo numbers, a violinist rendered several selections and a male quartet presented a group of songs. After the formal program, Dr. Edel showed colored photographs he made in England and Scotland during the past summer.

Serves as Representative

The Rev. Adam A. Nagay, '14, was the representative of Dickinson College at the inauguration of the Rev. Clifford Edward Barbour as President of the Western Theological Seminary in Pittsburgh on November 8.

The Rev. Mr. Nagay is pastor of Brookline Methodist Church, Brookline Blvd., Wedgemere Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Reelected to Office

E. Yates Catlin, '19, was reelected treasurer of the American Public Relations Association at its national convention last month in Philadelphia. He is director of public relations for the American Waterways Operators, Inc., the national association of the barge and towing vessel industry, with offices in Washington, D. C.

First Woman Elected To Carlisle School Board

Mrs. Wilson R. Ritter, '17, the former Christine B. Stuart, and the mother of two Dickinsonians, became the first woman school director in the history of Carlisle last month in the general election when she led all other candidates for that office in the number of votes received.

A member of an early Carlisle family, Mrs. Ritter had been induced to be a candidate after the Civic Club and other women's organizations led a movement to have a woman named to the school board. There had never been a woman candidate.

Mrs. Ritter, active in civic and church work, won the nomination on both the Republican and Democratic tickets and in the general election received almost twice as many votes as either of the other two candidates.

Her husband is a certified public accountant with offices in Harrisburg and Carlisle. Two of their three children attended the College. Baird graduated with Phi Beta Kappa honors in 1949 and is in his third year at the University of Pennsylvania Medical School. Mary, '45, is married to C. Marius Haayen, Jr., '48, and is living in Shelbyville, Ind., while her husband, a master sergeant, is stationed at Camp Atterbury.

Mrs. Ritter, who is a member of Pi Beta Phi, is the sister of the former Harriet Stuart, '14, wife of Dr. Samuel L. Mohler, '14, of the faculty of Franklin and Marshall College.

Two at Agnes Scott

Dr. Harold H. Bixler, '18, who is professor of education in the graduate school at Western Carolina Teachers College, Decatur, Georgia, was a delegate of Dickinson College at the inauguration of Dr. Wallace McPherson Alston as the third president of Agnes Scott College on October 22 and 23.

Dr. Alvin Biscoe, '27, dean of the University of Georgia, represented his institution at the inauguration.

New York Alumnae Club Meets

Mrs. Ethel D. Liebensberger, of 220 Union Avenue, Rutherford, N. J., secretary, makes the following report of alumnae activities: The Dickinson College Alumnae Club of New York, Mrs. Horace Hand, '20, president met on October 20th at the home of Mrs. Roy B. Karn, '22, 224 Montague Place, South Orange, for luncheon and business meeting. The day was a perfect fall one and the attendance was twenty, most heartening as it was proof of renewed life in the club.

A nominating committee consisting of Mrs. William Long, chairman and Miss Mildred Zinn and Mrs. William Beard, was appointed to draw up a slate for consideration at the May meeting. As usual the February meeting will be a luncheon theatre party, play and luncheon place to be decided upon by a committee.

Mrs. Lillie Reese Brown, '09, of Delaware, was a guest. Miss Linette Lee, '09, it was learned, has been chosen president of the New Brunswick, New Jersey A. A. W. W.

Death Claims Another College Trustee

CHARLES E. PETTINOS, '92, a trustee of the College since 1935 and for a number of years a member of the Executive Committee of the board, died on November 15 at his New York home after a short illness.

Known as "the Graphite King" because of his world-wide interest in the mineral, he was head of the firm bearing his name with offices at 1 East 42d Street, New York City. His business and cultural interests made him an extensive world traveler and he spent a great deal of his time in Europe, India and the Far East.

Born at San Francisco on December 5, 1871, he was the son of George F. and Sara Porter Pettinos, who early in his boyhood moved to Carlisle. His mother was one of the five Porter sisters of Carlisle, who were renowned for their beauty and grace.

He received his early education in the Carlisle schools and the Dickinson Preparatory School, from which he graduated in 1888. He graduated from the College with a Ph.B. degree in 1892 and an A.M. in 1895 when he completed graduate work at Lehigh University.

At Dickinson he became a member of Theta Delta Chi Fraternity. At the time of his death he was a member of the Metropolitan Club and the Uptown Club of New York, the Piping Rock Club of Long Island and Union Interallice of Paris. In his earlier years he held memberships in the Calumet and New York Yacht Clubs, the Garden City Golf Club and the Seawamka Yacht Club of Long Island.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Joy Chapman Pettinos, formerly of Bethlehem, Pa., and an alumna of Moravian Seminary, and a grandson, Richard M. Blow. He is also survived by his brother, George F. Pettinos, '85, of Merion, Pa. The late Dr. Montgomery P. Sellers, '93, was his cousin. Other cousins include Mrs. Martha Sellers Williams, '93; Frank B. Sellers, Jr., '97, of Carlisle; Mrs. Ida Sellers Haines, '92, of Bay City, Mich.;

CHARLES E. PETTINOS

Mrs. Helen M. Bucher, of Boiling Springs, and Montgomery P. Crook, of Maplewood, N. J.

Known to his intimates during his college days as "Bish" Pettinos, he was a great banjo player with the glee clubs of that era, and also a baseball player. He maintained a lifelong interest in music and also followed sports doings.

An Episcopalian, funeral services were held at St. Bartholomew's Chapel in New York City, and interment was made in Bethlehem, Pa.

Homecoming Program Finely Attended

A TYPICALLY fine turnout of alumni and other visitors, clear, brisk weather and a many-event but informal program combined to place the 1951 Homecoming celebration on November 10 among the finest of these increasingly popular autumnal rallies. The only thing missing was a football victory. Johns Hopkins spoiled this aspect of a gala day by taking the Biddle Field fixture, 34-13.

During the morning four attractive campus markers, the gift of Dr. G. Floyd Zimmerman, '15, Largo, Fla., were unveiled and the new campus lighting system, graduation gift from the Class of 1950, was formally accepted in brief ceremonies conducted by President William W. Edel and C. Wendell Holmes, president of the General Alumni Association.

For the old grad familiar with the box lunch that had become standard equipment of Homecomings and Commencements, the noon luncheon provided a pleasant development. In place of the time-honored sandwiches, fruit salad and other boxed items, a delicious buffet lunch of hot turkey on biscuits, baked ham and potato salad, cheese, coffee and ice cream was served by professional chefs in white from a long, heavily-laden table at one end of the Alumni Gymnasium.

The buffet innovation was so heartily endorsed by one and all that it will be repeated at Commencement next June and likely will be a fixture at all future alumni luncheons. There was no program beyond informal greetings by President Edel and C. Wendell Holmes.

A Homecoming sidelight was a dinner given Saturday night by the Phi Epsilon Pi chapter honoring three of its alumni, graduates of the Law School, serving as county judges in southern New Jersey. The chapter presented Achievement Awards to Judges Leon Leonard, Atlantic City; Harry Tennebaum, Wildwood, and David Huruvitz, Bridgeton. Many alumni were present to join in the tribute.

Alpha Chi Rho walked off with first prize in the fraternity lawn decorations which are becoming more elaborate with the passing years and providing a great splash of color and fun to Homecoming. Themes centered in the football game.

Student-staged merriment between halves of the game featured the return of President Edel's 21-foot, 2,000-pound sailing boat, a memento of his Navy days, which had disappeared a few nights earlier from drydock in the backyard of his home. Flags flew from the tall mast as the boat, captained by a Kappa Sig in Dr. Edel's blue Navy cape, sailed onto the gridiron aboard a truck. The ship came to anchor in front of the Dickinson stands and after Dr. Edel was escorted from his seat by the Kappa Sig crew he was presented with his cape, piped aboard and given the wheel as co-eds piled into the big craft as a new crew. In getting back the boat, the skipper said he was nearly as happy as when the mermaid of Old West was returned last year after a mysterious a.w.o.l. of a week.

The new campus lighting system consists of 20 ten-foot ornamental castiron standards supporting attractive octagonal glass shades. Placed along campus walks and connected by underground cables, they replace the old-fashioned hanging lights so familiar to all Dickinson classes since 1915.

Like the lights, the new campus markers fill a long-felt need. Attractive roadside-type metal signs having brief descriptive texts concerning four main areas of the College property, they mark the John Dickinson Campus, Benjamin Rush Campus, Metzger Hall and Biddle Athletic Field. They provide for the first time adequate identification of these spots for visitors unfamiliar with the College. Seven-foot aluminum posts support ornamental plates on which the texts appear in gold lettering upon a field of blue. The seal of the College surmounts them.

Eighteen New Lifers Raise Total to 1,070

SINCE the publication of the September number of THE DICKINSON ALUMNUS, 18 new subscriptions to Life Membership in the General Alumni Association have been received to raise the total number of Lifers to 1,070.

The Class of 1950 still leads the van with 41, and 1939 is in second place with 33. The Class of 1926 has jumped into a three-way tie with 1927 and 1934 with 31 each. Then follows 1929 with 28, the Classes of 1933 and 1941 with 27 each and 1921 and 1943 with 26 each.

The first subscriptions in the new series came on the same day, one from Robert L. Mumma of Dauphin, Pa., which helped the Class of 1950 to keep its lead for the largest number of Lifers. The other was received from Robert E. Berry, '51, who is a student at Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, Pa.

When Dr. Rowland R. Lehman, Director of the Development Program, was at work in Ohio, John R. Milburn, '06, Cincinnati attorney, gave him his $40 check for Life Membership. Some days later, Dr. Lehman was in New Hampshire and Dr. Harry E. Fidler, '43, physician of Derry, wrote his check for $40.

Following the mailing of the September number of the magazine, two lawyers immediately became Lifers. On the same day checks arrived from Robert H. Horner, '47, who has offices at 300 Blackstone Building, Harrisburg, Pa., and Norman L. Levin, '48, '50L, who is practicing in Lewistown, Pa., in the firm of Stuckenrath and Levin.

While he was at the College for Parents' Day on October 13, H. Monroe Ridgely, '26, official of the Moller Organ Company of Hagerstown, Md., wrote his check for $40 for Life Membership. A little later he was elected president of the new Dickinson Club of Hagerstown.

Two subscriptions came in the next day's mail. The one was from Samuel L. Lebovitz, '48, Allentown, Pa. The other came from Glenn W. Kunkle, '51, who is a student of law at the University of Pennsylvania.

The next subscription came from William B. Yeagley, '29, who was elected treasurer of York, Pa., last month and has been in public and private accounting for some years.

E. Gardner Hays, coach of the tennis team and a Yale graduate, then bought a Life Membership as a gift for his wife, the former Jeannette Burgyes, '31.

The next name to be enrolled on the Life Membership roster was that of Fred Barish, '47, who is in the office of Luria Brothers and Company, in California. His mother, Mrs. Sadie Barish, of Philadelphia, bought Life Membership for Fred as a birthday present.

When he returned to the campus for Homecoming, Richard E. Hicks, '51, who is a first year student at Jefferson Medical College, became a Life Member.

Another of last June's graduates, Joan L. Ericsson, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., then became the ninth member of 1951 to become a Lifer.

The mail then brought a $40 check from Carl B. Shelley, '17, who for some years has been district attorney of Dauphin County and returns to his practice in Steelton and Harrisburg in January.

From Tokyo, Japan, Paul B. Denlinger, '43, sent his check with a letter recommending the daughter of T. Hamada, '21, also of Tokyo, as a prospective student.

The Rev. Dr. James Edwin Dunning, '05, was the next subscriber. He is field secretary of the Southern California-Arizona Annual Conference of the Methodist Church with offices in the Plaza Community Center Building, Los Angeles, Calif.

Keeping the Class of 1941, which is one of the ten top classes, in the running was effected when a subscription came from Dr. Morris Foulk, Jr., who practices medicine in Aldan, Pa.

Life membership costs $40 and may be paid if so desired in $10 or $20 annual installments.

Appointed Judge of Allegheny County

JOHAN DREW, '39L, attorney of Pittsburgh, was appointed Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Allegheny County by Pennsylvania's Governor John S. Fine, '14L, late in September to fill a vacancy created by the death of Judge Frank P. Paterson. His term expires in January, 1954.

Wins Stirring Election In Coatesville

SAMUEL HEFFNER, '31, was elected the first Democratic mayor in the history of his native Coatesville, Pa., an industrial city of 20,000, last month after a brief campaign on a non-partisan basis in which a tieup between the administration and gambling was an issue.

Friends and other citizens interested in sound government nominated Heffner by write-ins. He had not been an avowed candidate until this manifestation of confidence in him. Then he staged a whirlwind campaign, won the support of all church groups, the local Unions and newspaper and gained the help of a voluntary organization.

In the general election he defeated the incumbent seeking a third term by almost 2 to 1, although the Republican registration in the city favored his opponent, 4 to 1. Heffner had never been a candidate for public office before.

Born in Coatesville in 1908, he attended the high school there and graduated from the College in 1931. He was a member of Phi Delta Theta and the Ravens Claw and played on the baseball team.

He taught in the Coatesville schools from 1931 to 1937 when he was appointed Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue in charge of the Coatesville office, a post he held until resigning last July to enter the insurance business.

Heffner holds a master's degree from the Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania, which he received in 1939. He is on the board of trustees of the Methodist Church, teaches a large Sunday School class and is active in the Lions Club. He is a brother of the late John E. Heffner, '26.

Weary, '37L, his Democratic opponent. Weidner, who has been the county's first fulltime assistant district attorney, will succeed another Dickinsonian and a Sigma Chi fraternity brother, William R. Mark, '34, '36L, whose term expires.

A native of Carlisle, Weidner had just begun the practice of law when he was called into the armed forces in 1941 and on release five years later with the rank of captain in the Military Intelligence Service resumed his law work. ## Will Provides Large Bequest to College

THAT the College will ultimately receive a substantial sum from the estate of John V. Nicodemus, '04, is revealed by his will filed in October in Frederick, Md. No estimate of the value of the bequest is yet possible.

After the termination of life estates set forth in the will, the large estate is distributed to charitable and educational institutions. One-eighth of his estate is bequeathed to the College and one-fourth to Western Maryland College. Other parts of the estate will go to the Strawbridge Home for Boys in Maryland, the Asbury Methodist Home for the Aged, Gaithersburg, Md., the Salvation Army and Frederick Memorial Hospital, Frederick, Md.

The terms of his will portray in part the life of a man who "played an active and important role in the civic and religious life of Walkersville" while contributing to the prosperity of the Maryland community through his business activity.

Born in Walkersville on November 10, 1880, he spent all of his life there and died suddenly of a cerebral hemorrhage in his home on September 28. He was the son of the late Dr. John D. and Rebecca Nelson Nicodemus. His father was a leading physician in that area for many years.

After attending the local schools of Walkersville, he spent a year at Western Maryland College before entering Dickinson. He was called home in his junior year to enter business in 1902 and for 48 years was associated with his brother, Kent C. Nicodemus, '05, and Robert N. Nicodemus.

He was president of the Glade Valley Milling Company, of Walkersville and Woodsboro; president of the Glade Valley Bakery, Inc., of Walkersville and also president and treasurer of the Mt. Airy Milling Company at Mt. Airy and president of the Valley Supply Company of Middletown.

He was a devout churchman, a member of the Walkersville Methodist Church, superintendent of the Sunday School for 15 years and circuit treasurer for many years.

A leader in civic activities, he served his community as mayor for several terms and was a town commissioner at the time of his death. During World War II from 1940 to 1947 he was on the Frederick County Selective Service Board. He held no club memberships and at College became a member of S. A. E. Fraternity.

He never married. He is survived by his two brothers and three sisters the Misses Nellie, Edith and Mary Nicodemus.

Following funeral services in the Walkersville Methodist Church, interment was made in Mt. Olivet Cemetery in Frederick.

Attends Inauguration

Mrs. H. J. Maginniss, the former Elizabeth Pedlow, '29, of Mansfield, Ohio, was the delegate of Dickinson College at the Inauguration of Dr. Paul Stanley Weaver as President of Lake Erie College, Painesville, Ohio, on October 27.

Bishop Corson Writes "Your Church and You"

A BOOK, Your Church and You, an interpretation of the member's obligation to the Church and its responsibilities to society, which has just been published by the John C. Winston Company, of Philadelphia and Toronto, is the work of Bishop Fred P. Corson, '17, president of the College from 1934 to 1944. He is the Resident Bishop of the Philadelphia Area of the Methodist Church.

Bishop Corson is now president of the General Board of Education of the Methodist Church, and a member of the Executive Committee of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the United States of America.

In 1947 Bishop Corson was named chairman of the Clergy Commission by the Secretary of War and traveled through seven European countries studying the problems faced by our armies of occupation. This past summer, he and Mrs. Corson spent two months in Europe going over much of the same route he traveled in 1947. Bishop Corson was also one of the speakers at the Ecumenical Conference in London in September.

A trustee of Temple University since 1948, Bishop Corson was elected chairman of the board of the Philadelphia institution last month.

His book is reviewed by Professor Dr. Lewis Guy Rohrbaugh, '07, chairman of the Department of Philosophy and Religion at the College.

Your Church and You—By Fred P. Corson, S.T.D., Bishop of the Methodist Church. The John C. Winston Company, Philadelphia. $2.50.

Your Church and You reveals an acquaintance with the Church and its problems which could come only from broad training and experience. The book begins on a high level of interest and maintains an intensive appeal to the end. It would be easy in a work of this nature to swamp the reader with generalizations but, instead, the treatment of problems is significantly factual. We have here a helpful discussion of pertinent problems, reinforced with a background of historical facts. The emphasis is upon knowledge. Just as Socrates vigorously urged his motto, "Know thyself," the key to success here is "Know thy Church."

Jesus founded the Church. He is its Head and the early disciples were its charter members. When the Church was born something new and unique came into the world, something with its home in the hearts of men, offering new hope for a groping world. In John Adams and the American Revolution Catherine Drinker Bowen quotes Adams as saying the war with Britain was only the effect or consequence of the revolution. The revolution was in the minds and hearts of the people. In the same spirit the author of Your Church and You says the Church first existed in the fellowship which bound the true believers together and to Christ, before it became an organization. When the Church was founded upon Peter, the rock, and Christians like him, Jesus was thinking more of human foundations than organizational superstructure.

As Christians in "the upper room" came to see a divine significance in daily work they set a pattern for all later followers. The Church, however, became indifferent to this mold, lost its vision, and became decadent. At this low ebb in its history great personalities, such as Luther, Zwingli, and Calvin, came forth with the faith and courage of Apostolic Christianity, and opened the door for Protestantism with its message of a free mind, a sure word, an open way to God, and a trusting heart. Thus a new era began for Christianity. The interest in schools, hospitals, asylums, care for the aged, was initiated by the Christian Church, and the great spiritual achievements in these areas are the voice of the Church speaking in a practical way.

Serious problems face the Church today. The problem of denominational differences is a considerable one, but the principles involved represent great possibilities for good. Protestant leaders must be alert here and not sacrifice high values in an effort to eliminate frictional difficulties. The baby should not be thrown out with the bath. If the voice of the Church is to be heard in American life, its evangelical, educational, and social notes must ring out again clearly and distinctly.

The Church began in the home and if it is to endure and fulfill its mission it must become a family church again. The young people must be given opportunity and responsibility. In this framework the minister needs to become "the parson" again, and all members must come to feel that the Church belongs to them and that they belong to the Church. All this will make for an inseparable bond of unity. Then will the Church again take its rightful place in our democracy—as the builder and guardian of spiritual values.

Your Church and You is optimistic concerning the possibilities of the future. The book constitutes a challenge to all Christians to believe that the Church is the only institution which, with its members faithful and diligent, is capable of leading our confused world from chaos to order. This volume should become a handbook for all seriously minded laymen and should also find a useful place in the libraries of young ministers.

Educational Exchanges

An article, "Educational Exchanges," by Dr. Paul S. Smith, '30, appeared in the November 15 issue of Higher Education, the semimonthly publication of the Federal Security Agency of the Higher Education Division of the Office of Education.

Dr. Smith is the director of the International Educational Programs Branch of the Office of Education with headquarters in Washington. His work carries him almost all over the world.

In his article, Dr. Smith says that in the present year nearly 10,000 persons are being exchanged with more than 60 countries for study, teaching, lecturing, and research under various programs of the Department of State. He says that the Office of Education participates in this vital enterprise by administering and operating the following programs: The Convention for the Promotion of Inter-American Cultural Relations; the travel and/or maintenance grants for Latin American graduate students; the Fulbright program for teachers who go to teach in the national elementary and secondary schools abroad; the interchange of teachers; the teacher-trainee program; specialized programs for Germany, Austria, Japan, and Ryukyus, and technical assistance in education in economically underdeveloped countries (point IV).

Elected to National Post

Dr. J. Fenton Daugherty, '21, was elected educational advisor at the annual meeting of the National Interfraternity Conference held at Old Point Comfort on December 1. Dr. Daugherty is Dean of Men at the University of Delaware, Newark, Del.

Writes an Historical Survey of Music

TWO members of the College faculty have read the book, Tuning and Temperament, by Dr. J. Murray Barbour, '18, which appeared in October from the Michigan State College Press. Dr. Barbour mailed a copy to the College library "in memory of my mentōr, Professor W. W. Landis."

Dr. Barbour, who is with the Music Department of Michigan State College at East Lansing, received the first American doctorate in musicology in 1932 at Cornell University, where he studied under Otto Kindeldey. He also has a doctorate in music from the University of Toronto and has studied musicology as an exchange fellow at Cologne and Berlin. He is also a student of mathematics and has a Master of Arts in English Literature. In 1924, he received his bachelor's degree in music at Temple University.

A member of Theta Chi Fraternity, he graduated in 1918 with Phi Beta Kappa honors. He is a Mason, a member of A. A. U. P., the American Musicological Society, and the Mathematical Association of America.

After his return from World War I service in the Army, he spent three years as organist and instructor at the Haverford School. Then for 13 years he was associate professor of music at Wells College and for seven years he had a similar post at Ithaca College until 1939 when he went to Michigan State College.

A native of Chambersburg, Dr. Barbour married Mary C. Disert there in 1923. Their daughter, Margaret, is a junior at Wilson College, while their son, James, is an assistant field director of the American Red Cross, stationed at Camp Carson, Colorado Springs.

When Professor Ralph Schector, associate professor of English and Director of Music, who for years conducted the college orchestra, read the book he said the review should be written by Professor Ayles. However, Professor Schector wrote his own but meaningful review as follows:

J. MURRAY BARBOUR

"A lucid contribution in a field where there is some misinformation. The mathematics of music is quite complex, and while this book might not be required reading for anyone who is to have a piano tuned, it has the virtues of simplicity and completeness. The glossary alone is worth the price of the book."

Following the suggestion of Prof. Schector, the book was then given to Prof. Frank Ayres, Jr., who is the successor to Prof. W. W. Landis as Susan Powers Hoffman Professor of Mathematics and Chairman of the Department of Mathematics. He also played the flute in the College orchestra for many years. His review follows:

Tuning and Temperament. A Historical Survey. By J. Murray Barbour, Michigan State Press, 1951.

It has always been a moot question with the reviewer whether tuning an organ is worth the effort. Apparently many individuals have answered the question in the affirmative and Professor Barbour's book is concerned with the theories which underlie the various proposals for doing this.

The earliest (Pythagorean) system, based on the octave (C, c; ratio 2:1) and the fifths (C, G; ratio 3:2), resulted in unpleasant thirds (C, E). The main part of the book is given over to a detailed study of the many schemes for softening (tempering) the dissonances, ending with the present day equal temperament. In doing this, the simple ratios of integers had to be abandoned and new ratios, devised by the use of algebra, geometry, and trigonometry, substituted. From the number of contributors included here it would appear that during the 17th and 18th centuries every musician with sufficient knowledge of mathematics and every mathematician with sufficient knowledge of music tried his hand. Anyone who, after counting on a piano the number of semitones in an octave, has unchained his curiosity to ask, Why not 22? will be astonished to find in Chapter 6 the thoroughness with which the problem of increasing the number has been studied.

In setting forth all this, the author has accomplished the difficult task of producing a work on a somewhat complex subject which has the virtue of clarity as well as completeness. Even those who practice the art of judicious skipping when anything mathematical turns up will find much of interest in the book. In addition to an index and bibliography, there is a most helpful glossary.

—FRANK AYRES, JR.

That Prof. Ayres found something else in the book was revealed in a postscript he meant only for the eyes of Prof. Schector. But all those who ever sat under Ralph Schector's baton will chuckle when they read what Ayres wrote. It was this:

"I wanted to point out that in this volume the reviewer discovered why for 25 years in the College orchestra violinist Schector insisted that flautist Ayres was playing flat. Answer: Schector tuned his fiddle according to the Pythagorean system (page 200). But, alas, I couldn't find an appropriate place to stick it in."

Receives Engineering Award

Howard E. Moses, '95, sanitary engineer, has received the Charles Alvin Emerson Award of the National Federation of Sewage and Industrial Wastes Association for "more than 40 years of devoted service in the field of public health engineering."

Mr. Moses, the chief consulting engineer of the Pennsylvania Department of Health, received the award in St. Paul, Minn., in October during the annual meeting of the association, an international group with 5000 members in seven countries, which he helped to organize in 1928 and for 13 years was its secretary.

The citation recognized his leadership in the control and abatement of water pollution, the improvement of water supplies and the almost complete elimination of typhoid fever and other water-borne diseases in Pennsylvania. According to the citation, he has contributed more than any other individual to the noteworthy progress made by his state in its water pollution abatement program.

Mr. Moses also holds the George W. Fuller Award of the American Water Works Association and is a life member of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

At AXP Ceremonies

At the reactivation of the California Chapter of Alpha Chi Rho Fraternity at Berkley, California, October 19, 1951, Dr. James Edwin Dunning, '05, of Los Angeles, represented the Dickinson Chapter of AXP.

Two weeks later in Los Angeles, when fifteen alumni of Bachelordon Club of University of California were initiated into Alpha Chi Rho, Dr. Dunning acted as chief ritual officer. He was a charter member of the Dickinson Chapter in 1905. In November, he became a Life Member of the General Alumni Association.

Professor Flower Writes Biography of James Parton

PROF. MILTON E. FLOWER, '31, is the author of James Parton, The Father of Modern Biography, published this month by the Duke University Press. Dr. Flower has been a member of the faculty of the College since 1947 and for the past two years has been acting chairman of the Department of Political Science. He is also teacher of the fine arts.

A native of Carlisle, he graduated from the Carlisle High School and received his A.M. in 1938 from Columbia University and his Ph.D. in history in 1946 from the same institution.

With his mother, Mrs. Lenore E. Flower, he published This Is Carlisle a few years ago, and he has written several plays and numerous magazine articles. He was research editor and historian at the Army Information School, Carlisle Barracks in 1946-47 and did considerable work on the Army Almanac.

He is a member of a number of professional, historical and educational associations, while he is also active in community projects in Carlisle. He is a member of the council of the First Lutheran Church.

His book is reviewed by Thayer A. Westlake, of the department of English, who became a member of the faculty this year. That review follows:

James Parton, The Father of Modern Biography, by Milton E. Flower, Duke University Press. Price $4.50.

The Atlantic Monthly had its greatest influence on American intellectual life during the years immediately following the Civil War, and James Parton was its most frequent contributor during those years. Because of this the name of this crusading liberal was a household word among the intelligentsia of that day, but today the name of Parton has dropped into relative obscurity except among literary and social historians.

He deserves to be remembered, for it was Parton who introduced the modern type of biography. Like others before him he engaged in exhaustive research, but in his life of Horace Greeley he wrote about a man still living and very active in public affairs, which had never been done before, while in his life of Aaron Burr he satisfactorily demonstrated that the subject of a biography need not be an inspirational hero. In these, as well as his lives of Jackson, Franklin, Butler (The Beast of New Orleans), Jefferson and Voltaire, he presented the facts and let them speak for themselves with a sure touch that made for a "popular" reading public. Modern writers on Jackson, Franklin and Jefferson acknowledge their indebtedness to Parton, and to a man they are amazed how he was able to amass the materials upon which he drew with the limited research facilities at his disposal.

In addition to writing these books, Parton wrote extensively for newspapers of his day, as well as for such magazines as The Atlantic Monthly, The North American Review and The Youth's Companion. The subject matter of these articles ranged from the effects of smoking and drinking, through such problems of labor as a ten-hour day and the right to organize, to agitation for an international copyright law and the right of free-thinkers to hold and promulgate their own opinions. Parton was the first liberal in America in the sense that the term is understood today, even to the extent of writing an article on "Our Catholic Brethren" for The Atlantic Monthly in times when there was still a strong anti-Catholic opinion in what was still predominately Protestant America.

Dr. Flower must be commended on the excellent style in which he has written his book, for it is easy and holds one's attention from beginning to end. He has succeeded in portraying Parton against the background of his times, and the book is therefore not only a biography but an excellent social history. His device of commencing the book with a short summary of Parton's activities and concluding the text with a similar brief compendium is an excellent means of firmly fixing the details of his subject's life in the mind of the reader.

The text is furnished with a copious number of footnotes, and it is a pleasure to find that a sustained argument is not carried on within their compass. A carefully compiled index is included, as well as an appendix containing materials which did not properly belong in the text but which would have seriously straightened the picture if their content had been omitted. In this appendix the Parton side of the Parton-Walt Whitman controversy is presented for the first time in print from the Parton viewpoint, as well as an illuminating elucidation of the "Dusky Sally" incident in Jefferson's life.

All in all, this valuable addition to American Studies merits the attention of any one interested in the origin and development of the forces that have made Americans what they are today.

Heads Lemoyne Schools

Resuming his career in education after a lapse of two years in which he gave fulltime to business, Raymond W. Wert, '32, became supervising head of the schools of Lemoyne, Pa., in October.

Wert had been the principal of the Lemoyne High School in 1949 when he resigned to become president of the Beemtem Lumber and Manufacturing Company, a large mill concern with plants in Lemoyne and Carlisle.

In his new educational position he has withdrawn from active participation in the concern but has retained the presidency. Wert began his educational work in Lemoyne on graduating from the College in 1932. He holds a master's from Pennsylvania State College.

He and Mrs. Wert, the former Harriet Crist, '34, have two children of high school age, Barbara and James. He is the brother of Howard Wert, '28, of the Cranbrook School, Bloomfield, Mich.

Receives His Doctorate

Philip Low Bridgham, assistant professor of political science, received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy from the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, Harvard University, in October. He also holds his master's from Fletcher.

A student of international relations, particularly Far Eastern affairs, Dr. Bridgham wrote his dissertation on "American Policy Toward Korean Independence—1866-1910." He came to the Dickinson faculty in September, 1950, after two years of teaching in the department of government, University of Hawaii.

A native of Iowa, he graduated at Grinnell College with Phi Beta Kappa honors in 1942 and during the war saw service in the Far East as a Japanese language officer in the Navy. He did graduate work at Fletcher from 1946 to 1948 and also in the summer of 1950, receiving his master's in 1947.

Chosen Coach of Basketball Team

CHANGES in the athletic department made necessary by the sudden death of Charles H. B. "Chick" Kennedy last summer were announced in mid-September by President William W. Edel.

John D. Hopper, '48, '51L, who played on Dickinson's strong teams after the last war, was named head basketball coach. His old teammate, Weston Overholt, '49, who is a senior at the law school, was appointed assistant coach in charge of the junior varsity. Frank Maze, the football coach, who holds a master's from Syracuse, was made the acting head of the department and acting director of athletics.

The new head basketball coach first entered Dickinson in 1942 and made the varsity in his freshman year. With the coming of the war he entered the Army Air Corps, became a pilot instructor and on release from the service returned to College in 1946. For three years in a row he received the Phi Epsilon Pi trophy as the player voted the most valuable to the team. He captained the great 1946-47 team which lost only two games and as a senior the next year was placed on the All-Pennsylvania first team.

Hopper set many Dickinson scoring records and two of these still stand—the most points in one season, 329, and the most field goals in one season, 146. An all-around athlete, he played varsity baseball and was the No. 1 man on the golf team.

He helped to put himself through law school by playing basketball with the Harrisburg Senators of the Eastern Pro League. He also coached and managed this team for part of a season. After graduating from the law school last June, Hopper served his clerkship in the Carlisle office of Dickinsonians J. Boyd Landis and Joseph McIntosh.

He is married to the former Ann Bowman and they have two sons, John Steven, who is six years old, and Robert Andrew, two. The family lives at 3200

JOHN D. HOPPER

Trindle Road, Camp Hill, which is within easy commuting distance of the campus.

"Hop," as the 28-year-old coach is known at the College, is a Beta and as a student was in Ravens Claw and Omicron Delta Kappa. Once he is through the bars, he hopes to combine a career in law with college coaching.

Installation at Dover

Dr. J. Paul Slaybaugh, '21, became the president of Wesley Junior College, Dover, Del., on December 1, in a ceremony during which the installation address was delivered by President William W. Edel. Numerous Dickinsonians in the field of higher education were among the delegates at the inauguration.

Dr. Slaybaugh began his education career at Mercersburg Academy where he taught mathematics on graduating from the College in 1921. For 25 years he was headmaster of West Nottingham Academy and then became director of admissions at Westminster College, Fulton, Mo.

Football Team In Disappointing Season

AN OVERLY-TOUGH schedule and as cruel a succession of injuries as ever plagued a Dickinson eleven left little to cheer about in the 1950 football season which, nevertheless, ended on a happy note with a crushing victory over Allegheny and the triumphant players carrying Coach Frank Maze, all 240 pounds of him, off Biddle Field on their shoulders. The season's log shows three wins, five defeats.

The team could claim that it was the first Dickinson eleven ever to play in New England, but this invasion of Hartford, Conn., which opened the season, was a fruitless one, Trinity winning 27-7, with a team that had lost only one game in two years.

Stewart Harkness, one of 11 seniors on the squad and the best of the ends, was lost for the season in this game. He suffered a broken wrist. In the next five weeks three more players were lost by way of fractures, another by a concussion.

With these and the usual assortment of minor injuries to treat, it turned out that John Steckbeck, assistant coach who doubles as trainer, was the busiest man connected with football at the college this fall. The whirlpool bath and other therapeutic aids with which the training room in Conway Hall was newly outfitted by the graduating gift of the Class of 1951 came none too soon.

Despite the won-lost record of the team, two players won recognition. Wilbur Gobrecht, halfback, the leading scorer for the second year in a row, closed out a brilliant gridiron career by winning honorable mention on the AP all-Pennsylvania selections for the second time and William Hostetter, fine tackle, was placed by Drexel Tech on its all-opponent team. Both are seniors.

Other players for whom the season was their last were Owen Kertland, quarterback; Harkness, Robert Ulbricht and Robert Marta, ends; Edwin Martin, tackle; Daniel Williams, Norman Kranz-dorf and Guy DePasquale, guards, and Richard Placey, center.

After Trinity came F. and M. at Lancaster. This traditional opponent, which can boast that it has not lost to Dickinson in 16 games since 1926, although tied twice, had too many guns and, scoring in every period, won 27-6. Quarterback Kertland missed this one because of illness.

The next week the largest Parents Day crowd in the history of the College was on Biddle Field for the first home game and saw the team defeat Ursinus, 21-0, on great running by Gobrecht and the passing of Kertland and Richard DiGuardi, little sophomore.

Western Maryland was next and after a close first half (13-6) proceeded to demonstrate the running power that was to take it through the season undefeated. The Terrors won, 33-12, on Biddle Field.

At Philadelphia the next week Dickinson delighted alumni of that area by coming from behind in a 13-8 victory over Drexel Tech. The highlight was a great 80-yard touchdown run by Robert Jones, sophomore quarterback playing his first varsity game.

A trip to Gettysburg and another bid for the Old Oaken Bucket, symbol of this keen rivalry, ended in disappointment again, the Bullets winning 34-7 for the seventh time since 1937. Coach Maze who had used only the T formation until this game, tried a surprise with the double wing but even this strategy was not enough. Dick Johe, 6-4 sophomore end, scored the team's touchdown on a pass.

The Homecoming game the next week brought out a fine crowd but with Johns Hopkins winning, 34-13, the alumni had little to brighten them up besides half-time pageantry during which President Edel got back his 2,000-pound sailing boat which had disappeared a few nights earlier from its mooring in the backyard of the President's Home. Loaded with co-eds and flags flying from its mast, the dinghy came "sailing" onto the field on a trailer manpowered by students. As for the game, Jack Smith, junior fullback, brought the alumni up cheering on a 56-yard touchdown run and a 78-yard sprint with the second-half kickoff.

Coach Maze used his entire squad in the 31-13 victory over Allegheny with which the team closed out the season. Gobrecht sparked this win with three touchdowns.

Becomes Illinois Librarian

H. Vail Deale, '35, who had been Humanities Librarian at Drake University, Des Moines, Iowa, for five years, became University Librarian of Illinois Wesleyan University in Bloomington this fall.

A native of Baltimore, he graduated from Central Senior High School in South Bend, Indiana, and entered the college in 1931. He withdrew two years later to enter DePauw University where he received his B. A. degree. He has a B.L.S. from the University of Illinois and an M.A. from Drake University.

Before going to Drake University to be Humanities Librarian in 1946 he had been assistant librarian at Ripon College in Wisconsin, prior to that he was on the staff of the Withers Public Library in Bloomington for two years and his first professional duty was as circulation assistant of the Northwestern University Library in Evanston in 1937-39.

Honored in DeMolay

W. Reese Hitchens, '28, '30L, received the Legion of Honor Degree, the highest conferred by the Order of DeMolay on its members at a public ceremony in the Masonic Temple, Newport, Del.: on September 28. He was one of three Delaware men, leaders in the Order of DeMolay, to receive the award.

These men were selected by the Grand Council of the Order of DeMolay at the annual convention at St. Louis, Mo., last spring. The award is conferred upon members, who are conspicuous as leaders in civic, professional, or fraternal endeavors.

Mr. Hitchens is a charter member of the Evergreen Chapter in Milford, Del., where he became a member while attending the Georgetown High School. He is a partner in the Law Firm of Hering, Morris, James and Hitchens, with offices in the Delaware Trust Building, Wilmington, Del. He served as a deputy attorney general of the state in 1941 and was chairman of the state tax board from 1945 until 1949.

Attends Centennial

Dr. Craig R. Thompson, '33, professor of English at Lawrence College, was Dickinson's delegate to the Ripon College Centennial Celebration on November 6 at Ripon, Wisconsin. Dr. Thompson taught at Cornell and Yale Universities and Elmira College before joining the Lawrence faculty in 1946.

Gives Charge At Inauguration of Michigan President

Dickinson's contribution to the development and growth of the University of Michigan through having no less than three of its former students serve at one time or another on the university's governing board was underscored by the installation of Dr. Harlan Hatcher as university president on November 27.

Roscoe C. Bonisteel, '12, Ann Arbor, Mich., lawyer, who was the official Dickinson delegate at the inauguration and wore the hood of the College, delivered the installation charge on behalf of the university's board of regents of which he has been a member for five years.

He was president of the Michigan State Bar Association in 1937 and has served on important committees of the American Bar Association. Director of a number of firms and banks, he has been a member of the Michigan State Board of Law Examiners and a district governor of Rotary International. He was first appointed a university regent in 1946 to fill a vacancy and in 1950 was elected to a full eight-year term.

Earlier Dickinsonians to have served on the board were Ross T. Wilkins, Class of 1818, who was a Federal judge of the Eastern District of Michigan for 33 years, and Robert McClelland, Class of 1829, Governor of Michigan from 1851 to 1853 and the Secretary of the Interior of the United States under President Pierce. Judge Wilkins was first a trustee, and in 1837 when the first board of regents was set up he and McClellan were named to that body.

Becomes Associate Minister

The Rev. Percy F. Smith, '42, was appointed associate minister of the South Methodist Church in Manchester, Conn. by Bishop John Wesley Lord, '27, effective November 1.

The Rev. Mr. Smith had been the minister of the Methodist Church in Putnam, Conn., for five and a half years. He was chairman of the local ministerium and also president of the Eastern Windham County Preacher's Association.
