Expect Fine Attendance At 179th Commencement

HIGHLIGHTED by the presence of Sir Robert Chance, Lord Lieutenant of the County of Cumberland, England and Lady Chance, the 179th Commencement on June 6, 7 and 8 promises to cap a year of fine events at the College. Sir Robert will be the speaker at the Commencement Exercises in the Alumni Gymnasium on Sunday afternoon, June 8, when he will receive the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws. Six other honorary degrees will be conferred that afternoon.

Returning to the campus for his 35th reunion and 50th anniversary of his fraternity, Kappa Sigma, Bishop Fred Pierce Corson, who was president of the college for 10 years, will preach the sermon at the Baccalaureate Services that morning. Mooredeen Plough, '27, will come from Louisville, Ky., for his 25th reunion and to serve as Commencement Organist.

For many returning alumni, perhaps the chief center of interest this year will be Drayer Hall, the new dormitory for women dedicated on May 1, which will be open for inspection throughout Commencement, but especially on Saturday afternoon, Alumni Day, from 3 to 5:30 o'clock.

A high spot will also be the dedication at 2 o'clock on Saturday afternoon of the new Law School dormitory. John S. Fine, '14L, Governor of Pennsylvania, will be the speaker.

All alumni will plan to return at least in time for the Alumni Luncheon at noon on Saturday, June 7. The box luncheons of other years will not be followed. At Homecoming and again Founders' Day, buffet luncheons were served and delighted everyone. Additional serving tables will be provided to speed the service for the larger crowd expected for Alumni Day. The 50th Reunion Class, 1902, will have the place of honor.

Throughout Commencement, there will be many interesting exhibits in various rooms in Bosler Hall well worth taking time out to see. These are being arranged by Prof. Charles Coleman Sellers, Curator of Dickinsoniana.

Commencement will get under way on Friday afternoon, June 6. That day is Class Day when the Senior Induction is held and the Class of 1902 Award is presented. This year the presentation will be made by Col. William A. Ganoe, '02. Orations will be given on the passing of the Old Stone Steps and the planting of the Ivy. The Senior Ball will be held that night. Friday is also the day for meetings of the Board of Trustees and the Alumni Council.

There will be no baseball game on Saturday afternoon as in other years, but it will be a full afternoon. The Law School dormitory dedication starts at 2 o'clock. Then the President's reception and inspection of Drayer Hall will fill the time until the 5:30 and 6 o'clock hours being set for fraternity commencement banquets and celebrations.

The Alumni Prom, with a band concert, will be held on Saturday night and Prof. John Steckbeck, director of the college choir, asks all former glee club members to gather on the steps of Old West for a song fest, which will start about 9:30 o'clock.

The annual meeting of Phi Beta Kappa in Memorial Hall at 9:30 Saturday morning will open the day and Raven's Claw will hold the last gathering about 11 o'clock that night.

To Dedicate Law School Dorm At Commencement

THE dedication and formal naming of the handsome new dormitories of the Dickinson School of Law, which have just been completed at a cost of $550,000, will take place on Saturday, June 7, as one of the many highlights of the College's 179th Commencement program.

The ceremony will be held at 2 p.m., with Judge W. C. Sheely, president of the board of trustees of the school, presiding and Gov. John S. Fine, also a trustee, delivering the main address. There will be guided tours of the dormitories, beginning at 12 noon, and a reception will follow the dedication. The trustees of the school will hold their annual meeting at 4 p.m.

Adjoining Trickett Hall on the north, the dormitories consist of five separate two-story brick houses connected by breeze-ways and grouped in U fashion about a landscaped court. The open end of the court or quadrangle faces South

College Street. The buildings are of the same striking colonial architecture as Trickett Hall.

The quadrangle will be formally named "Sadler Curtilage" in memory of Judge Wilbur F. Sadler who was the leader in the reorganization of the Law School in 1890 and who obtained the distinguished William Trickett as first dean.

The separate buildings, to be known as "houses," will be named for Dr. Walter H. Hitchler, dean since 1930; Dr. C. Scott Althouse, Reading, Pa., a trustee, who is also a trustee of the College; Prof. A. J. White Hutton, a member of the faculty for 50 years until his retirement a year ago, and two deceased members of the faculty, Judge Fred S. Reese and Joseph P. McKeehan.

The dedication is expected to bring to Carlisle a host of graduates of the School holding prominent positions in the state government and sitting on county and state benches.

Receives Fine Promotion

William D. Gordon, '36, has been promoted by the Pennsylvania Railroad from division freight agent at Grand Rapids, Michigan, to division freight agent-special duty, with headquarters in the System traffic department, Philadelphia.

Leaving Dickinson, where he was graduated with the degree of Bachelor of Philosophy, Mr. Gordon started as a cadet in the Pennsylvania's freight traffic department at Pittsburgh and advanced through varied jobs in that city, Wheeling, Buffalo, Canton, Cleveland and Boston to district freight agent at Nashville, in 1945.

Mr. Gordon served in a similar capacity at Baltimore and Chicago prior to his appointment to the Grand Rapids post last October, and his experience paved the way for promotion to his present position on May 1.

Honored At Pennsylvania

Boyd Lee Spahr, '00, president of the board of trustees of the College, gave the address and received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws on February 16 at the mid-winter graduation exercises of the University of Pennsylvania.

President and Mrs. Edel, Prof. Mae Morris, Dr. Whitfield J. Bell, Jr., and Prof. Charles C. Sellers attended a luncheon given by the University for Dr. Spahr before the exercises.

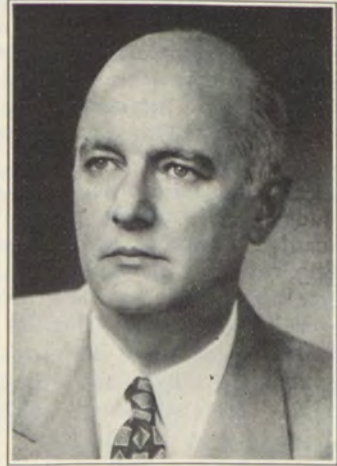

In addressing the 500 graduates at the exercises, Dr. Spahr said that the second half of our century, which opened with so many misgivings, may bring better times for freedom-loving people than the first half, which opened with so much promise.

Lafayette College was the first to honor Dr. Spahr with an LL.D. degree. On the occasion of his 50th Reunion in 1950 Dickinson awarded him the degree.

Announces Name of New Dormitory at Baltimore

PRESIDENT William W. Edel chose the occasion of the annual dinner of the Dickinson Club of Baltimore on April 17 to make the first announcement that the new dormitory for women, which was dedicated on May 1, would bear the name Drayer Hall, in honor of Sumner N. Drayer, '02, Trustee of the College, and Alice Pettigrew Drayer, his wife.

Appropriately, Mr. Drayer, whose home is in Baltimore, was a guest at the dinner and heard the first announcement. His wife was ill and unable to be present.

Dr. Edel stated that Mr. Drayer had made the largest single subscription of any living person to the Ten Year Development Program. Mr. and Mrs. Drayer have made many large contributions to the college through the years. A few years ago they presented the organ and chimes in Bosler Hall. Later they paid the costs for the building of the Prayer Chapel in West College. They have both contributed annually to the Alumni Fund since its establishment in 1936.

The dinner was held at the Green Spring Inn with 60 present. C. Blair Kerchner, '40, president of the club, acted as toastmaster and the Rev. W. Gibbs McKenney, '03, offered the invocation.

Dr. E. A. Vuilleumier, C. Scott Alt-house Professor of Chemistry, was the principal speaker and delighted his audience with a report of some of his experiences through the years.

Mrs. Russell I. Thompson, president of the Mary Dickinson Club, was one of the speakers and she announced plans for the organization of a Baltimore chapter of that organization and also the appointment of Catharine Eitemiller, '46, as the chairman of the group. Mrs. Elinore Smith, wife of Prof. Henry E. Smith, secretary of the club, also attended the dinner with the delegation from Carlisle.

C. Wendell Holmes, president of the General Alumni Association, opened the speaking program, which also included

President Edel and Vice-President Malcolm. Mr. Drayer also spoke briefly.

W. Gibbs McKenney, Jr., '39, son of the Rev. W. G. McKenney, '03, lawyer and tax specialist, was elected president of the club succeeding C. Blair Kerchner, Kay Eitemiller, who had been secretary, was named first vice-president and Robert Linkins, '49, second vice-president, Joanne Stafford, '51, was elected secretary and J. Harold Passmore, '39, treasurer.

Pittsburgh Luncheon

After a lapse of three years, there were fifty present in the Century Room of the Hotel Pittsburgher at noon on Saturday, March 22, for a luncheon of the Dickinson Club of Pittsburgh. That club has found luncheon meetings more successful than dinner meetings.

James M. McElfish, '43, who is a member of the Alumni Council, was elected president for a two year term. The Rev. Adam A. Nagay, '14, who offered the invocation, was re-elected vice president and "Bud" Nixon was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Short speeches were made by those who journeyed from Carlisle, George Shuman, Jr., treasurer of the College; Dean W. H. Hitchler of the Law School; President Edel and Vice President Malcolm.

Watch For July Bulletin

With the dedication of Drayer Hall occurring on May 1, it is impossible to report that occasion in this number of the magazine. Instead the issue of the Dickinson College Bulletin for July will depart from its usual format and become a Drayer Hall feature number.

In other years, the July Bulletin has been only a report of the Alumni Fund listing the names of contributors and listing the total gifts by classes. This report will be included in the issue for next July. In addition there will be photographs of the interior and exterior of Drayer Hall and the story of the Womens' Day celebration of May 1. It will be mailed to all alumni.

In 1943 Dr. Ness married Dore Roberts, of Tacoma, Wash., who is a graduate of the University of California at Los Angeles. They are living in Rye, N. Y., with their four children, Lynn, Dianne, Merryl Joan and Melanie Barbara. R. Donald Ness, '32, of York, Pa., is a brother.

The story "He Plays Tag With Death" by Milton Lehman rolls back the clouds from what Frank Romanick has been doing at Indian Head, Md., on the long thin stretch of sand running from Rehoboth, Delaware to Ocean City, Md. It is now revealed that he is director of the Explosive Ordnance School there training soldiers, sailors, airmen and marines in taking apart friendly and enemy bombs, mines, rockets, booby traps and torpedoes. A graduate of the school becomes a disposaleer.

Commander Romanick is a veteran of Guadalcanal, Bougainville and Iwo Jima, and now has a job where all disposaleers, including students, are granted "hazard pay"—$50 a month extra for enlisted men and $100 extra for officers. The story quotes Frank as saying "Hazard pay makes some boys feel the work isn't quite safe."

Frank Romanick apparently hasn't changed. He liked to stick his neck out when he played on the football team, and no better "wise cracker" ever travelled with any group of players. He was always the life of the party.

Writes Research Guide

A new book by Dr. Florence M. A. Hilbish, '23, now Chairman of the Department of English and of the Division of Language and Literature at Taylor University, will be welcomed by all teachers of literature, history and indeed every field in which research is required of the student. The Research Paper (Bookman Associates, Inc., 1952. $2.95) guides the student through every step in the preparation of a paper, from the selection of a subject, through study, organization, writing, the correct footnote abbreviations and the final bibliography.

Its last chapter, "Freshman Papers," shows for whose benefit the work is primarily intended. The Freshman for whom this is a required text will certainly be well grounded in study, in writing, in the intelligent use of library materials and the intelligent presentation of facts. The book itself is a model as well as an exposition of just that. It can be read through, as intended, with profit, or used as a reference work on the standards of research presentation,

President's Aide Dies Following Operation

DR. ROWLAND R. LEHMAN, '23, the assistant to the President of the College, died on February 19 in Polyclinic Hospital, Harrisburg, Pa., after an illness of four days. Stricken during the night at his home in New Cumberland, he failed to rally from an emergency operation performed the next day in a futile effort to stop internal hemorrhages.

He was active in his duties at the College up to the day he was seized but, nevertheless, he had not been in complete health since mid-December when he became ill suddenly and had to have a number of blood transfusions. He improved rapidly on that occasion and was back at his office after a brief absence. Re-occurrence of the illness two months later was unexpected.

Dr. Lehman came to the College in an official capacity in June, 1950, to fill the newly created position of assistant to the president for duties in connection with alumni activities and the Ten Year Developing Program. The campaign for the new women's residence hall and added endowment moved ahead rapidly under his leadership and in less than a year after he took over, the drive had passed the initial goal of $750,000. At the time of his death it was over the million mark and the new dormitory all but completed.

Dr. Lehman was a devoted Dickinsonian. He served on the Alumni Council for a number of years and was the president of the General Alumni Association for the 1949-50 term. He was a chapter trustee of his fraternity, Kappa Sigma, at the time of his death.

He was born March 21, 1897, in Williamsport, Pa., the son of Thomas and Elizabeth Specht Lehman. He attended old Dickinson Seminary, now Lycoming College, and after Army Service in World War I entered Dickinson College in 1919 as a pre-ministerial student. After graduating he went on to Drew and received a Bachelor of Divinity there in 1925. All of his ministerial career was spent in the Central Pennsylvania Conference of the Methodist Church. He served pastorates at Milesburg, 1925-1929; Northumberland, 1929-1936, and Trinity Church, Clearfield, 1936-42.

In 1942 he succeeded Dr. Lester A. Welliver, '18, as superintendent of the Harrisburg District of the conference and served until 1947 when he was appointed director of the Ministers Pension Plan in the conference. He conducted that $550,000 appeal to a successful conclusion and as the drive ended accepted the position at the College.

While serving at Northumberland, he was appointed chairman of the Northumberland County Emergency Relief Board by Gov. Pinchot. He was a director of the Methodist training camp at Newton Hamilton and a trustee of the Methodist Home for Children, Shiremanstown, and served also as chairman of the finance committees of the camp and Home. He made his home at New Cumberland following the completion of service as district superintendent.

The College, which gave him a Master's in 1927 after his two years of study at Drew, conferred on him the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity in 1943. To all of his work in the ministry and at the College he brought great devotion and energy and organizational ability.

He is survived by his wife, the former Miriam Gouldy, to whom he was married in 1923; a daughter, Miriam Jean, at home, and a son, Rowland Ritchey, presently in the Army. Services in his boyhood church, Newberry Methodist, Williamsport, were conducted by President Edel; Dr. William W. Watkins, '05, district superintendent; the Rev. Bartholomew E. Crites, '15, pastor of the church; Dr. J. E. A. Bucke and the Rev. Victor B. Hann, '28. Burial was in the East Wildwood Cemetery, Williamsport.

Addresses Science Session

When the 850-member Pennsylvania Academy of Science held its 28th annual meeting on the Dickinson campus in April, the visiting scientists had as their main lecturer, Dr. Paul R. Burkholder, '24, Eaton Professor of Botany at Yale, who is internationally famous as the discoverer of chloromycetin, one of the new wonder drugs.

In an illustrated talk, Dr. Burkholder, who probably knows as much about microorganisms as any living person, suggested that man might well go to the lower forms of life to learn how to abandon some undesirable primitive traits that keep the world in conflict. He told how even these creatures learn to live together in unfavorable environment. It was during an examination of microorganisms in a soil sample at his laboratory at Yale in 1949 that he discovered the mold that contains chloromycetin.

Over 300 persons attended the two-day meeting. They chose for their president in 1953 Dr. Elmer C. Herber, of the Dickinson faculty, who was in charge of local arrangements for the convention.

Fine Attendance at Philadelphia

A jump in attendance over dinners in recent years marked the annual dinner of the Dickinson Club of Philadelphia, which was held at the Merion Cricket Club on March 25. There were 111 in attendance.

The Honorable Robert E. Woodside, '26, '28L, attorney general of Pennsylvania, was the principal speaker. Dr. J. Watson Pedlow, '29, retiring president of the club, acted as toastmaster. Other speakers were Dean W. H. Hitchler, President William W. Edel and Vice-President Gilbert Malcolm.

Classes from 1892 to 1951 were represented by those in attendance at the dinner. Frysinger Evans, Esq., former treasurer of the college and attorney of Clementon, N. J., represented the earliest class, that of 1892. Elwood J. Long, Jr., Ted Miller and George Mooradian were the representatives of 1951.

C. C. F. Spahr, '33, was elected president for a two-year term and Dr. Robert L. D. Davidson, '31, and Mrs. Jeanne Whittaker Mead, '33, were elected vice-presidents, while C. Wendell Holmes, '21, who is also president of the General Alumni Association, was again re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Reads A Paper

Dr. Whitfield J. Bell, Jr., '35, of the history department, read a paper entitled "Science, Medicine and Technology in College American History Texts" at the annual meeting of the Mississippi Valley Historical Association at Chicago on April 19.

The paper was one of two read at a session devoted to the teaching of the history of science in American colleges. The other paper was read by Dr. Brooke Hindle, of New York University, who delivered the Boyd Lee Spahr lecture at Dickinson College in 1951. Both papers were discussed by Dr. Richard H. Shryock of the Johns Hopkins University.

Delaware Club Urges Restoration of Dickinson Home

A MOTION to endorse a project initiated by the Colonial Dames Society of Delaware for the purchase and restoration of the home of John Dickinson, founder of the college, and to save it from obliteration was adopted at the annual dinner of the Dickinson Club of Delaware held in Dover on March 26.

It was a coincidence that on their way to the dinner, President Edel, Vice President Malcolm and Treasurer George Shuman, Jr. drove first to see the Dickinson home located a few miles beyond Dover. They found it in bad repair and that since a former visit there had been great deterioration in a fairly short time. All agreed that immediate steps needed to be taken if the mansion is to be preserved. Arriving at the fine new hall of Wesley Church where the dinner was held, they learned of steps being taken to that end.

Dr. John Shilling, '05, president of the Delaware Club read a letter he had received from Mrs. Harriet C. Reese, chairman of the Historic Activities Committee of the National Society of Colonial Dames of Delaware, which brought an enthusiastic response from all present. Her letter, in part, reads as follows:

"When Senator Frear's appeal to the National Park Service, for Federal funds to restore the mansion was turned down in November 1951, the sorry condition of the old house was brought to the attention of the Colonial Dames. Because of its great historical interest to the state and to the nation, and because architecturally it is one of the fine early plantation manors still standing in Delaware, the Society felt it must make an effort to save it.

"A Delaware contractor gave the opinion that the building is structurally sound. The owner, who is only interested in it as a tenant house, will sell it and 10 acres of land for $15,500. The repairs to make it weather tight and board it up will cost about $9,000.

"In January 1952, the Colonial Dames Society undertook to try to raise $25,000 to buy the mansion and repair it, and if successful, intends to give it to the State in the custody of the State Archives Commission as allowed by Bill No. 401 passed by the last General Assembly. Our society hopes that an organization can be formed on a state-wide basis that will advise and guide the Commission in its care of the mansion during the years between acquisition and restoration.

"From interested people from all over the state, our committee has been able to raise the sum of $16,600. Of course financial help of any amount from your club would be most welcome, but also your interest and backing of the project would be of greatest value."

When Dr. Shilling finished reading the letter a resolution was immediately adopted endorsing the project. President Edel said the college would send a check of $100 as concrete evidence of cooperation and C. Wendell Holmes, President of the General Alumni Association, pledged his support and said he would present the matter to the Alumni Council at its annual meeting in June. All present agreed that the project should not only plan for making the house weather-tight, but that the aim should be for complete restoration.

As president of the Delaware Club, Dr. Shilling will serve as chairman of a committee from that group to cooperate with the Colonial Dames and Mr. Holmes will probably name a committee from the Alumni Association. Just what committee organization is needed is not yet known. Gifts toward the project, however, may be sent directly to the college at any time by any one interested.

Meeting for the first time in Dover, there were some "down-Staters" present among the 56 who were there who do not attend the Wilmington meetings. A fine fried chicken dinner was served by a ladies organization of the church. Dr.

Shilling presided and the Rev. Dr. Walter A. Hearn, '14, of Elkton, offered the invocation.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bleeke presented an excellent program of violin and soprano solo numbers. Mr. Bleeke is a member of the faculty of Wesley Junior College, Dover, where Dr. J. Paul Slaybaugh, '21, is now the president. The speakers were Wendell Holmes, George Shuman, Jr. President Edelman and Gilbert Malcolm, who closed his remarks singing "A Wee Deoch-an-Doris" with his classmate, J. Ohlum Small, '15, at the piano.

Some of the officers were reelected including Dr. Shilling; Vice-President Ernest H. Sellers; secretary Mrs. Phyllis Mason Heck and treasurer, Walter From, while two vice-presidents were added, Dr. Slaybaugh from Kent County and Dr. Oliver James from Sussex County.

Altoona Club Meets

With 41 present the annual dinner of the Dickinson Club of Altoona was held in the Oneida Room of the Penn Alto Hotel on April 25. Robert C. Slutzker, '48, president of the club, acted as toastmaster and the Rev. Dr. J. Merrill Williams, '08, offered the invocation.

Robert Porter, '49, one of the vice-presidents, acted as pianist for the opening and closing numbers. Two students from the Altoona High School offered a short musical program consisting of clarinet, saxophone and piano numbers.

It was announced at the dinner that Mrs. Robert C. Slutzker, the former Barbara A. McMullen, '51, would serve as chairman for the Mary Dickinson Club of Altoona and Blair County.

A tribute was paid to the Honorable John M. Klepser, '22, treasurer of the club, who was elected judge of Blair County since the last dinner.

The speakers were Dean W. H. Hitchler, President William W. Edelman and Vice-President Gilbert Malcolm.

Harrisburg Club Dinner

The annual dinner of the Dickinson Club of Harrisburg was held in the Y. W. C. A. with 70 present on April 21. LeRoy W. Householder, '28, '30L, retiring president, acted as toastmaster and Dr. William E. Watkins, '05, offered the invocation.

During the dinner Professor John S. Steckbeck, with his wife at the piano, led some group singing and later in the program sang two solo numbers.

Following the opening address by C. Wendell Holmes, president of the General Alumni Association, Mrs. Russell I. Thompson, president of the Mary Dickinson Club, spoke. She announced that Dorothy Hoy, '41, had been appointed president of the Mary Dickinson Club of Harrisburg which is soon to be formed. Other speakers were Dean W. H. Hitchler, President William W. Edelman and Vice-President Gilbert Malcolm. Following the dinner President Edelman showed some of his fine color photographs of Scotland and England, which he made during his trip there last summer and lectured on them.

I. Emmanuel Meyers, '37, '39L, was elected president of the club, while Mrs. Sarah R. Goldie, '32, and Paul J. Smith, '24, '26L, were elected vice-presidents. Mrs. Harold M. Fredericks, '36, was elected secretary-treasurer. Completing the executive committee the following were elected: Francis G. Wilson, '14; Edward E. Knous, III, '39; Dr. William E. Watkins, '05; Mrs. Charles Rhein, '32, and Mrs. Ruth Crull Doolittle, '37.

At Rutgers Inauguration

Dr. John W. Shive, '06, served as the representative of Dickinson College at the inauguration of President Lewis Webster Jones at Rutgers University on May 8. Dr. Shive is a member of the faculty of the College of Agriculture, Department of Plant and Physiology, at Rutgers.

Three Receive Appointments to College Posts

ROBERT A. MCGILL, '49, of the faculty of Westminster College; H. Chace Davis, '50, a graduate student at the University of Pennsylvania, and Irvine N. Smith, formerly of the faculty of Armstrong College, have been appointed to positions at the college by President William W. Edel.

McGill and Smith were named instructors in the English Department while Davis will fill a newly created post of assistant to the director of admissions. All three appointments are effective July 1.

McGill entered the College with the Class of 1949 but actually completed his work for graduation in 1948 by attending the summer session that year at Temple University. He obtained a Master's in English at the University of Pennsylvania in 1949 and since then has been teaching English composition and world literature at Westminster College. The McGills have two children.

Smith, who will teach drama and speech courses and direct dramatic productions, graduated at the University of North Carolina in 1948 and the next year received a Master's in English there. He attended the University of Wisconsin last summer and is now completing a year of graduate study in dramatic literature at Cornell University.

He taught for two years at Armstrong College, Savannah, Ga., where he also directed the college drama program and served as assistant debate coach. In the summer of 1950 he taught creative writing and English literature at the New York State Teachers College, Oneonta, N. Y.

He will bring considerable theatre experience to his drama and speech classes at the College, having been a director of the Community Players of Cortland, N. Y., and a leading actor for two summers with a professional group at Manteo, N. C. He has accepted a position for this summer with a new theatre in Boone, N. C. He has also sung professionally.

Davis will teach a course in history in addition to his work as assistant director of admissions. He plans a European trip this summer and will take up his work at the college on return to the country in August. He was an outstanding campus leader in his student days and as a junior won the highly-honored Class of 1902 Award.

On Radio Program

Richard N. Boulton, '37, who has been a regular book review critic for the Hartford Courant these past four years, and writes a drama column for the West Hartford News, has been invited to be on a weekly half hour book panel show sponsored by WHTH, the radio station of the Hartford Times.

Dick is also working on a book for Erskine Caldwell's "American Folkways Series" and has recently been promoted to Major in the Military Intelligence Reserve. His bread and butter job is taking care of Sales Promotion for the Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Company.

Awarded Medallion During Priestley Celebration

NO BETTER report of the Priestley Celebration on March 20, during which the first presentation of the Priestley award was made, could be written than one which was printed in Chemical and Engineering News in the issue of April 7.

Chemical and Engineering News, the news magazine of the American Chemical Society, with over 72,000 subscribers, made the following report in its issue dated April 7, 1952, under the heading "Lessons of Freedom Seen in Joseph Priestley's Life."

Carlisle, Pa.—A twin plea for freedom was heard at Dickinson College here on March 20 during the first annual Priestley Day Celebration. The first plea, one for academic freedom, came from Karl T. Compton, chairman of MIT, who chose his subject, because, said he, Priestley's career and experiences are so suggestive of situations existing today which lead to the jealous safeguard of certain principles embodied in the term "academic freedom." He believes that we now have an additional reason to maintain our freedoms, of which academic freedom is a part. If we allow our freedoms to lapse here in the U. S., he said, there will be no other refuge for those who, like Priestley, come to the new world seeking a greater freedom.

The other plea for freedom came from Hugh S. Taylor, dean of Princeton's graduate school, who sees freedom of research challenged from two sources. He views the necessity for devoting a large measure of scientific effort toward specific ends in the total defense effort as a restriction of the scientist's freedom of choice—a necessity which he hopes will soon pass.

Another threat to scientific freedom comes from advocates of the "planned society who would also seek to plan science," declared Dr. Taylor. This viewpoint would seek to advance scientific knowledge by a series of five-year plans. In refuting this idea, Dr. Taylor discussed the history of catalysis in the two decades between 1920 and 1940. He said that during this period there were major advance in catalytic theory during each five-year span. If it were possible, he theorized, to "plan" scientific advance, some master mind of the scientific world might have produced the developments that occurred by a sequence of five-year plans. In retrospect, he said, it is possible that someone could have defined what new factors entered the problem and speculated as to where they would lead. The forward step, however, is dependent on the emergence of genius and "that is a process beyond the reach of the geneticist or the planners, beyond even the reach of dollars."

ALL-DAY CELEBRATION. Priestley Day was celebrated here with a display of laboratory apparatus which the discoverer of oxygen had used and several addresses on the life of Priestley and his friend Thomas Cooper, who is referred to as the father of industrial chemistry. The ceremonies ended in the evening with a dinner attended by members of the Southeastern Pennsylvania Section of the American Chemical Society, and the presentation of a portrait medallion of Joseph Priestley to Dr. Taylor. The medallion is made from the mold cut by Josiah Wedgwood, a contemporary of Joseph Priestley. The medallion was given to the college by Hensleigh C. Wedgwood, great-great-grandson of Josiah Wedgwood and president of the American branch of the English firm.

Dr. Taylor, first winner of the award, is, like the award's namesake, an English-born immigrant to America. Unlike Priestley, his departure from England was not precipitated by angry mobs and the burning of his possessions, Dr. Taylor remarked. However, like Priestley, Dr. Taylor said that he had found a warmth of reception and rich hospitality here.

Among the guests at the celebration were Dr. E. C. Britton, president of the American Chemical Society and Dr. A. H. Emery, executive secretary of the society. Dr. C. Scott Althouse, college trustee and industrialist-chemist, presided at the dinner meeting.

Roster Lists 1,150 Names of Life Members

THROUGH the receipt of 33 additional subscriptions since the publication of the February number of THE DICKINSON ALUMNUS, to make a total gain of 125 Lifers since May, 1951, there are 1,150 names listed in the roster of Life Members in the General Alumni Association published in this issue by direction of the Alumni Council.

A year ago the report was made that in 1950-51 there had been a gain of 114 Lifers in the preceding year which was largely accounted for by 40 subscriptions from the Class of 1951. This year the gain of 125 subscribers is more evenly distributed. The Class of 1951 has 18 Lifers instead of the 40 which 1950 had a year ago.

The Class of 1950 is still the leader but gained only three new Life Members during the year and now has a total of 43.

The Class of 1927 added six names during the year and jumped into second place above the Class of 1939 which was the leader in 1950 and went into second place last year. The Class of 1939 added two names and now has a total of 34, which places it in a tie in third place with 1934, which added 3 names and also has 34 Lifers.

The Class of 1926 is next with 31, while two classes, 1933 and 1935, have 30 each. Then follow the Classes of 1929 and 1931 with 29 and 1941 with 27 to round out the top ten.

The Class of 1932, which will celebrate its 20th anniversary in June, added 6 Lifers during the year and now has a total of 21. The Class of 1948 also added 6 Lifers during that year and now has a total of 22.

Two classes, 1947 and 1948, added five new Lifers during the year. While three classes added four each, namely 1912, 1918 and 1924.

The Alumni Council has devised a new form of Life Membership certificate which is sent to all those who have paid

Thirty-three new subscriptions have been received since the February number was printed.

The first subscription in the new series came from James H. Bates, Jr., '49, who lives in Uniontown, Pa., and is the representative in sales promotion for Mead, Johnson & Co., of Evansville, Ind., a pharmaceutical house, specializing in nutritional products.

Two former co-eds were next in line. The one, Mary Prince Caum, '35, daughter of the late Prof. Leon C. Prince and wife of Jack Caum, lives in Wilmington. The other Margaret N. Horner, '30, lives in Altoona.

Three subscriptions came on the same day from J. Freeman Melroy, '14; Walter R. Kerschner, '33, '36L, and Philip E. Kistler, '51. Melroy is in the biology department of the Lansford, Pa., high school, while Kerschner is the Buick dealer in Shamokin and Kistler is a first year student in the Temple University Medical School.

Another former co-ed became a Lifer when a check was received from Mrs. Chester E. Watts, the former Sylvia Lutz, '16, of Johnstown, Pa.

Wendell James Damonte, '51, of Brooklyn, N. Y., dropped out of college shortly before time for his graduation to enter the U. S. Army where he is now in service. He was the next subscriber.

Continuing the fine showing of the former co-eds, Mrs. Jack W. Harman, the former Nora Shank, '27, of 3400 Rutherford Avenue, Paxtang, Pa., sent in her forty dollar check early in April.

On a visit to Carlisle on April 5, William P. Billow, '33, turned over his forty dollar check. He is now vice president of Fiddes, Moore and Company, dealer in lumber, plywood and doors and has his offices in Chicago.

Sending a check for $80, Col. M. Brandt Goodyear and his wife, the former Mary Minick, '18, became Lifers on the same day. Col. Goodyear was a member of the class of 1919 when he left for service in World War I. He recently re-entered as a student of the college and will receive his degree at the June 1952 Commencement.

The next subscription came from J. Thomas Lewin, '49, who is a social worker at the U. S. Disciplinary Barracks, New Cumberland, Pa.

The same day Fred V. McDonnell, '37, vice president and trust officer of the Carlisle Trust Company, made his subscription to Life Membership.

When William E. Bretz, '21, came to the college on May 2d to be the accompanist for one of his pupils, Robert Riedel, baritone, at a concert in Bosler Hall, he made his subscription to Life Membership. Mr. Bretz is teaching singing privately in Pittsburgh.

The 33rd and last subscription in the series came from Earl H. Biel, Jr., '49, of 43 South Clifton Ave., Aldan, Pa.

Sheppard Diesel Tractor Winning Customers

BELIEVING the Diesel tractor a highly efficient and economical power unit for the farm, R. Harper Sheppard, '35, of Hanover, Pa., is marketing a unit which is proving the fastest growing part of his business.

For many years Sheppard has manufactured marine and stationary Diesel engines, turning out such an acceptable product that dollar volume has increased 23 times during the last 10 years.

Combustion engines fascinated him from his childhood. He built a gasoline engine while still in high school and his first Diesel engine while in college.

The son of Mr. Harper Sheppard of the Hanover Shoe Company, he did not follow his father's footsteps and accept a position with that great industry when he graduated from the college in 1935. Instead he started work in a machine shop to design and manufacture Diesel engines. Then he looked forward to the time when he could produce and sell a Diesel-powered farm wheel tractor. Three years ago that ambition was realized as the firm he founded brought out a line of full-Diesel wheel tractors of popular size that can be used on the average farm.

"Although I have been producing marine and stationary Diesels for some years, I have always had farm tractors uppermost in my mind," Sheppard relates. "I spent years developing a simplified full-Diesel engine, one that could be operated and serviced by anyone familiar with an ordinary gasoline engine, and then adapting it to the farm tractor."

Economy of operation is the principal theme in Sheppard advertising now appearing in national magazines. His sales manager says that these tractors using No. 2 furnace oil or Diesel fuel oil effect a 75 per cent saving on fuel costs. He avers that through economical operation the tractor pays for itself in seven years by savings in fuel costs.

Sheppard already has some knowledge of how his tractor will be received on a national scale. To test it, he ran a half-page, two-color ad in Country Gentleman in July 1949, followed by a black-and-white half page in October. The first ad drew 4,000 inquiries from practically every state in the Union. Included were many persons interested in dealerships. He wasn't ready then to handle that kind of business, but the results made him confident of the future and he built up a dealer organization.

TRIAL RUN

Sales last year represented a 40 per cent increase over 1950 and a similar increase in volume is expected this year providing metal shortages and restrictions do not interfere.

The company continues building marine and stationary Diesels and is not stopping with the building and marketing of the Diesel tractor. A line of farm equipment which can be attached to the tractor's new hydraulic tool bar is being produced, with new items being added steadily.

Writes Concluding Volume

Ruby R. Vale, '96, College trustee, has published the fifth and concluding volume of his extensive study of "Some Legal Foundations of Society."

This final volume is entitled "Justice, Science, and Religion as Contributions to Civilization." Like its preceding volumes, this ranges widely over human knowledge and experience, relating the physical sciences, politics, war, economics, ethics and religion to the concept of justice and the service of civilization.

In his introduction, which takes up some specific contemporary problems, Mr. Vale points out that the intelligence and jealous care of the citizenry for its liberties are the ultimate protection against the abuses of legislation. Only the electors, he writes, "can prevent the waste of the food and wealth of a nation by the profligate spending of public money to the abasement of its workers, the corruption of its citizens, and . . . final destruction of their representative government."

Wins Recommendation

Edwin M. Tompkins, '25, '27L, lawyer in Emporium, Pa., was nominated by Republicans for his fourth term in the State House of Representatives at the Pennsylvania primaries on April 22. At just about the same time he was presented with the Certificate of Merit by the Pennsylvania Veterans Council for "interest and diligent devotion to the cause of the veterans and their dependents." The presentation was made by the national commander of the American Legion.

County Solicitors

Until last January Robert Stuckenrath, '25, had been solicitor for Mifflin County, Pa. Then the county commissioners named the firm of Stuckenrath and Levin, which is composed of Robert Stuckenrath and Norman L. Levin, '48, whose law offices are in Lewistown, Pa., to the post.

Heads Council of Bishops

Bishop Fred Pierce Corson, '17, of Philadelphia, was elected president of the Council of Bishops of The Methodist Church in a session held in San Francisco prior to the opening of the Quadrennial General Conference there on April 23.

The Council of Bishops is charged with the "promotion of the temporal and spiritual interests of the church." There are 70 bishops, 36 supervising episcopal areas in the United States, 15 in service abroad and 19 retired.

This is the first time that a bishop of but eight years tenure has held this top office. Bishop Corson was elected to the episcopacy in 1944 at the end of his tenth year as president of the college.

Marking his 35th Reunion year at the coming Commencement, he will preach the Baccalaureate Sermon in the Alumni Gymnasium on Sunday morning, June 8. The Commencement Exercises will be held that afternoon.

Bishop Corson is also president of the General Board of Education of the Methodist Church. He is chairman of the Board of Trustees of Temple University and a trustee of the college.

Receives Ford Grant

Prof. Francis W. Warlow, a member of the English department of the College since 1947, was notified in April that he had been awarded a grant for the 1952-53 academic term by the Ford Foundation-supported Fund for the Advancement of Education.

The grant, equivalent to a year's salary plus certain expenses, will enable Prof. Warlow to take a year's leave of absence for literary study and research and the writing of a novel. He has had stories published by the Saturday Evening Post and the American Magazine.

During the last war he wrote aircraft articles for the Air Force Magazine and wrote and directed over 100 motion pictures on indoctrination, training and combat.

Hold Reading Dinner

There was a good attendance at the annual dinner of the Dickinson Club of Reading-Berks, which was held in the Hotel Berkshire in Reading on April 25. W. Richard Eshelman, '41, '47L, retiring president, served as toastmaster and the Rev. Joseph H. Price, '92, offered the invocation.

The Hon. Robert E. Woodside, '26, Attorney General of Pennsylvania, was the principal speaker and he was followed by President William W. Edel. Alumni association president, C. Wendell Holmes, opened the program.

Mrs. Elinore Smith, wife of Prof. Henry E. Smith, secretary of the Mary Dickinson Club, was one of the speakers. She told of plans of that organization and announced that Mrs. Harry W. Lee, the former Mildred H. Price, '18, had been appointed to serve as the first president of a chapter to be established in Reading.

John B. Stephens, Jr., '42L, was elected president, and Mrs. Sidney D. Kline was reelected secretary-treasurer. Horace F. Shepherd, '10, who recently became General Secretary of the Reading Y. M. C. A. was made vice-president.

To Write Biography

A new biography of Spencer Fullerton Baird, 19th century American naturalist and Dickinson alumnus and teacher, will be written by Dr. Elmer C. Herber, professor of biology at the College, with the help of a research grant awarded to him in February by the American Philosophical Society. The grant, for $500 and certain travel expenses, will enable Dr. Herber to continue his task of gathering material for the life.

Baird, who graduated in 1840 at the age of 17 and then taught at the College for five years, was the second secretary of the Smithsonian Institution and founder of the U. S. Fish Commission and the Marine Biological Laboratory at Woods Hole, Mass. The last biography of him was published in 1915.

With the help of the research grant Dr. Herber, who is the president-elect of the Pennsylvania Academy of Science, hopes to compile a complete bibliography of all of Baird's writings and of works about him and to copy all of his known letters, of which there are hundreds in the Smithsonian Institution, the Academy of Natural Science and the library of the American Philosophical Society, Philadelphia. Dr. Herber estimates that it will take a year to assemble the material he needs for the biography.

New York Alumnae Meet

Members of the New York Alumnae Club met at Schrafft's, 43d Street and Broadway, on February 2 for luncheon and following luncheon proceeded to the National Theatre to see "The Constant Wife," starring Katherine Cornell. Twenty-eight enjoyed the luncheon and quite a few more joined the group at the theatre for the play.

The May meeting will be held on May 3 in New Brunswick with Linette E. Lee, '09, as hostess. At that meeting the nominating committee with Mrs. William Long as chairman composed of Mildred Zinn and Mrs. William Beard will make their report of the officers to be voted upon to take over next fall.

Meet at Court Martial

Lt. Commander William E. Thomas, U. S. N., who graduated from the College in 1940, recently was appointed president of a Special Court Martial convened by his squadron. At the conclusion of the trial, he discovered that the civilian counsel was Vincent Bertolini, '42L, who is now practicing law in Norfolk.

The two then held a Dickinson reunion talking about the classmates of their college and law school days and what had happened when they were in Carlisle.

Live on House Yacht

Capt. and Mrs. Wm. S. Stephens and family have moved aboard their house yacht "Tortoise," homeport Charleston, S. C. The skipper is a member of the Class of 1926 while his wife is the former Clara F. Pepper, '27.

Until about August 1, their address will be Box 105, St. Andrews Branch, Charleston, S. C., but at any time they might take off for places along the coast. The Captain writes "This may be a slight departure from the average Dickinsonian mode of living but for us it is most enjoyable since my work is anywhere from Maine to Florida. We will be leaving for Florida sometime this summer on a new assignment and of course will travel aboard our home. Is there any other Dickinson family living aboard a yacht?"

Where Are The Scrapbooks?

Dickinson is fortunate indeed in the great collection of manuscripts, pamphlets and books with which her early history is now documented. The later years, however, are represented in a rather fragmentary way. We have too little of that ephemeral sort of thing which the next College historian will need to describe student life in the Nineteenth and Twentieth Centuries.

Beginning in the Eighteen-fifties, every American student kept a scrapbook of photographs, invitations, letters from home, examination papers, and all the rest. The Dickinsoniana Collection has only one of these—"Personal Property of Everett A. Burns, 1892-1896." The College archives should have, and will carefully preserve all of this material that alumni and friends can contribute. The history of the founding fathers, Dickinson, Rush, Nisbet, Durbin and the others, can only be completed in the history of their sons and daughters to the present time.

The Dickinsoniana Collection also lacks copies of the College Handbooks before 1893-94, from that year until 1901-02, and for the two years, 1911-13.

Anyone having any of this material to present to the college should mail it to Prof. Charles Coleman Sellers, Dickinson College Library, Carlisle, Pa.

With his wife and three daughters, he set out as an agricultural missionary family for Korea, but they have been in Sumatra for about one year and a half. They have twin girls, 2½ years old, and a daughter, Elaine, who is 4.
