DECEMBER, 1952

Large Crowds Attend Homecoming

THAT long-awaited football victory over arch-rival Gettysburg, which hadn't really been expected anyway, was just about the only thing missing at Homecoming in November. The weekend provided good weather and alumni were on hand in large numbers.

The Class of 1903 reunion committee, headed by Dr. Daniel P. Ray, came early for a meeting to advance plans for their "Fiftieth" next June at Commencement. The committee found Homecoming a good time to get out a fine attendance, a happy experience holding a helpful suggestion for class reunion committees of the future.

A near-record attendance of 40 persons at the fall dinner-meeting of the Alumni Council got Homecoming off to a good start on Friday evening. C. Wendell Holmes, '21, president of the General Alumni Association, presided. Present with the Council members and their wives and husbands were the presidents of the Dickinson Clubs of New York City, Washington, D. C., Lehigh Valley and Hagerstown, and President Edel, Dr. Gilbert Malcolm and Dr. Frederic W. Ness, the new dean of the College.

Dean Ness, making his first appearance before the Council, gave an informal "State of the College" report. The College, he said, is in "excellent health," enjoys a fine class of students and made "strong" additions to the faculty over the summer. In a reference to the new Army R. O. T. C. corps at Dickinson, he said this program is definitely impressing itself upon the character of the students as enrollees carry into their other classes and campus activities the lessons of deportment and seriousness of purpose learned in their military training.

The Council discussed the financial problem that has arisen from the steadily mounting costs of publishing THE ALUMNUS. The large number of free copies sent out at the request of the College has added to the problem, which might be solved, Dr. Malcolm, the editor, said, by sending the magazine only to subscribers, or by reducing its size, or by having the College pay for all free copies. The problem is acute now because of termination of the Development Program drive. Throughout the drive, which started in 1947, THE ALUMNUS was sent to all living alumni, whether or not they were subscribers, and to many friends of the College, and the free copies were charged to campaign expenses.

The Council passed a motion recommending to the President of the College that an item be placed in the 1953 college budget underwriting the magazine deficit deriving from free copies. A committee of Miss Dorothy Hoy, '41; Hyman Goldstein, '15; Monroe Ridgely, '26, and Dr. Robert "Larry" Davidson, '31, was set up to study ways of improving the finances of THE ALUMNUS, and to report at the June meeting.

A proposal that all incoming classes at the College be indoctrinated in Dickinson history, customs and great personalities, possibly by means of a special course to be offered by the Department of History, was made by William M. Young, '21. The suggestion was referred to the President of the College.

Close to 1,000 persons attended the Alumni Luncheon, always a big Homecoming event, at noon on Saturday. A splendid hot buffet lunch was served. It was a good time for visiting with classmates and old college friends. There was no program and the only speeches were brief greetings by President Edel and Holmes.

The football game with Gettysburg on Biddle Field before the season's largest home-game crowd had all of the traditional atmosphere and to this was added a special half-time ceremony for presentation of unit colors to the Dickinson R. O. T. C. corps by President Edel. The banner utilizes the College colors of red and white and the Dickinson seal. The cadets marched upon the field in parade formation and came to attention facing the Dickinson stands.

"Your colors," Dr. Edel told the corps as he presented the flag to Col. Daniel Rachal, commander, "are older than the national flag. Carry them proudly and with distinction."

In another half-time ceremony Biddle Field's handsome new electric scoreboard was presented by the Class of 1952 and accepted by President Edel.

The annual lawn decorations competition among the fraternity houses was won by Phi Delta Theta for a huge mechanical Mermaid which hurled back "Bullets" shot at her from a toy cannon. Phi Kappa Sigma took second place and Beta Theta Pi, third.

Writes Math Text

Another book on mathematics by Dr. Frank Ayres, Jr., chairman of the department of mathematics at Dickinson College, has been published by the Schaum Publishing Company of New York under the title "Schaum's Outline of Theory and Problems of Differential Equations."

The 290-page book, containing over 500 solved problems, is intended as a supplement to standard classroom texts and as a reference for practicing engineers and other scientists.

Dr. Ayres is also the author of "Basic Mathematics for Aviation," published in 1943, and "Schaum's Outline of Theory and Problems of Differential and Integral Calculus." The latter book, published two years ago, has become a math best seller with over 21,000 copies sold.

Club Sponsors Church Services

A new departure in the program of an alumni club occurred on Sunday, November 30 when the Dickinson Club of Hagerstown sponsored a "Dickinson Day" on the anniversary of the St. Paul Methodist Church there.

President William W. Edel was the guest preacher at the morning service and after a dinner in the church social hall at 5:30 the Dickinson College Choir presented a service of music at the evening service beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

H. Monroe Ridgely, '26, member of the Alumni Council, an official of the Moller Organ Company and a member of the official board of the church, planned the day's program. He presided at the dinner when 40 club members had the choir and their director, Prof. John S. Steckbeck as their guests. President Edel, Vice President Gilbert Malcolm and Roger H. Steck, '26, Director of Public Relations, each spoke briefly.

In a brief business session, the club decided on two dinner meetings a year and will plan another function late in the Spring.

Fifty members of the choir participated in the program with one of their number Philip Anderson, of Washington, D. C., a pre-theological student, officiating at the service.

Meet At Sea

Professor J. Wesley Robb, member of the faculty of the college, who was called back into the Navy, writes that John Wesley Weise, '25, is staff chaplain of the Military Sea Transport Service in the Pacific area, and that he is serving under him.

Chaplain Robb is on a transport ferrying troops to Inchon and sometimes to Pusan. On a November voyage, he tells of an officer sitting across from him in the mess. That man is Major John S. Schwartz, the husband of the former Arlene Reed, '30, of Allentown.

President Adds Three To College Faculty

Dr. Clyde E. Wildman, president emeritus of DePauw University, will become Visiting Professor of English Bible at the College in February. The appointment was one of three to the faculty announced during the fall by President Edel.

John J. Iorio, a former newspaperman, has joined the faculty as an instructor in English and Charles C. Tharp as the new cataloger on the library staff, with the rank of instructor. Iorio graduated at Columbia in 1950 with an A.B. and received an M.A. there in 1951. At the time of his appointment he was book editor and columnist on the Trentonian, newspaper published in Trenton, N. J.

Tharp, a native of Missouri, graduated at Missouri State College in 1948 and received a Master's in library science at the University of Illinois in 1951. He came to the College from the staff of the Public Library of Long Beach, Calif. He has also worked in the Washington State College library.

Dr. Wildman will take up his work at Dickinson with the start of the new semester in February. He was president of DePauw from 1936 until his retirement in 1951, the longest term by any president in the university's 115-year history. Since his retirement he has been visiting professor at Southern Methodist University and Garrett Biblical College.

He is the vice-president of the University Senate of the Methodist Church and has been the president of the National Association of Independent Methodist Colleges and Universities, the Indiana Conference on higher education and the Indiana Association of Independent and Church-Related Colleges. He was dean of Cornell College, Iowa, 1924-16; professor of English Bible at Syracuse University, 1926-39, and professor of Old Testament history and religion at the Boston University School of Theology, 1930-36.

Dr. Wildman, a native of Indiana, graduated at DePauw and the Boston University School of Theology where he also received his Ph.D. He also studied in Scotland and Switzerland. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

His coming to the College will continue a Dickinson-DePauw link that goes back to 1858 when Thomas Bowman, of the Dickinson Class of 1837, became DePauw's sixth president and one of its greatest. Bowman served until 1872 when elected a Methodist bishop. Dr. Edwin Post, of the 1872 Class of Dickinson, was at DePauw for almost 50 years as professor of Latin and dean.

On Operation Enterprise

Winfield C. Cook, '32, of the Vita Craft Company, Ambler, Pa., returned last month as one of seven top American business executives on the third "Operation Enterprise" team to make the latest marketing techniques available in nine European countries. His trip covered 15,000 miles, and his portfolio was to discuss selling as the key factor in a competitive economy.

After selling Wearever products during his summer vacations in his student days, Mr. Cook entered sales work with the Aluminum Company of America upon his graduation. He resigned in 1939 to start the Vita Craft enterprise which suspended manufacturing aluminum ware during World War II and resumed in 1946 and it is reported to have already grown into a five-million dollar business.

He is president of Vita Craft Pennsylvania Sales, Inc. and has fourteen states from Maine to Virginia and West Virginia in his franchise with about 300 salesmen under him. He is a member of the Philadelphia Sales Managers Association, the National Sales Executives, Inc., the National Association of Direct Sales Companies, and former president of the Pennsylvania Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Life Membership Roll Passes 1,200 Mark

WITH the addition of fourteen new subscriptions since the September number of the magazine was printed, there are now 1,211 Life Members in the General Alumni Association.

With the payment of $40, or when an installment subscription is paid in full each Lifer received a life membership card and a certificate of such membership. Many of these have been framed and can be seen in the offices and homes of alumni.

Life membership costs $40 and may be paid in one sum or by paying $10 a year for four years. Checks should be made payable to Dickinson College and mailed to THE DICKINSON ALUMNUS, Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa.

The first subscription in the new series came from the Rev. Dr. John Emerson Zeiter, pastor of Hanson Place Central Methodist Church, Brooklyn, N. Y., who received the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity at the June 1952 commencement.

Another of the 1952 graduates became a Life Member, when a check was received from Mrs. Sophia M. Zucker of Chester, Pa., to enroll the name of her son, Marvin A. Zucker, who is now in service overseas.

When he visited the College early in October while on his way to a convention at Hershey, Francis E. Simmons, '23, president of the Dickinson Club of Washington and member of the Alumni Council, became a Lifer.

Two subscriptions came the same day when one was received from Dr. J. Murray Barbour, '18, of the faculty of Michigan State University, who lives in East Lansing, Mich. The other was from Hubert E. Hoyaux, '40, of Carlisle, who is a salesman.

Another member of 1951 became a Lifer, when a subscription was received from William J. Zapcic, who is in his second year as a student at the Temple University Medical School.

On the same day forty dollar checks came from two who received degrees at the 1952 Commencement. One of these was from Dr. William F. Hufstader, vice president of the General Motors Corporation, who was awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters. The other was from Colonel Andrew R. Lolli, who completed requirements for graduation while being stationed with the Army War College. He is now serving with Headquarters with the Allied Forces for Southern Europe.

Another memorial was created when a check came from the Rev. Henry E. Walhey, '00, of Cornwall, Pa., to pay for a memorial Life Membership for his wife's sister, Miss Cyrille S. Frank, of the Class of 1900, who died in Carlisle on April 21, 1950. Miss Frank was a well known citizen of Carlisle, and always interested in the progress and welfare of the College.

Doing her Christmas shopping in October, the former Jean E. Lentz, '46, bought Life Membership for her husband, Charles F. Saam, '43, of Binghamton, N. Y. He is clinical psychologist at Binghamton State Hospital and also is doing part time work as school psychologist in the centralized school district where they reside. He has been admitted to Syracuse University Graduate School and plans to get his doctoral program on the way soon.

David H. Taylor, of 5507 Montgomery Street, Chevy Chase, Md., wrote a note on October 28, with which he sent his check for forty dollars which read, "Ring up another Lifer for the Class of 1950. Now that I am out of the Army, I can start living again."

November opened with the receipt of $40 from Eugene R. Sowadski, '29, of Trenton, N. J. Since 1938 he has been Employment Interviewer of the N. J. State Employment Service. Prior to that he was with the U. S. Department of Justice.

When he visited the College on Homecoming Day, Donald E. Oeschger, '50, wrote his check for forty dollars for Life Membership. He is with the Central Intelligence Agency and living in Apt. 102, Glass Manor, 4821 Fourth Ave.; Washington 21, D. C.

The last subscription came from Harry L. Stearns, '22, superintendent of schools of Englewood, N. J.

Names in Who's Who

A count of college graduates listed in Who's Who is contained in the new edition of Lovejoy's College Guide published by Simon-Schuster. There are 78 Dickinsonians listed in the total.

A study of 20 Pennsylvania colleges places Dickinson in seventh place. In this standing, it is to be noted that with the exception of Haverford, to which Dickinson is very close, all of the colleges having more names in Who's Who are much larger and turn out more graduates and per contra quite a number of those with fewer listings are also larger.

The totals are as follows:

Killed In Korea

CAPT. RALPH E. LOWER

Captain Ralph E. Lower, '44, was killed in action while serving with the U. S. Marine Corps in Korea on March 10, 1952 and has been buried in Arlington National Cemetery.

He entered the Marine Corps upon his graduation from the college in 1944 and was a veteran of World War II combat duty in the Pacific.

Born on October 1, 1921 in Williamsburg, Pa., the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thaddeus A. Lower, he was a graduate of the high school there and a member of the Lutheran Church. His father died before he came to college.

He married Miss Una Mae Foshee, of Red Level, Ala., on January 17, 1947. She now lives at 631 Hillman Avenue, Montgomery, Ala., with their two little daughters, Ann E. and Linda Mae Lower. He is also survived by his brother, T. Dean Lower, '41, lawyer of Altoona, Pa.

Serves As Delegate

Dr. Milton E. Flower, '31, associate professor of Fine Arts, served as the representative of the College at the inauguration of David Marion Delo as president of Wagner College, Staten Island, N. Y., on November 8.

Bequests Create Two Memorial Library Funds

THE College has received a total of $5,467.43 creating two endowed funds in the Library Guild, from the estate of Florence H. Bursk, '05, who left the bulk of her estate to the college.

After her death on December 1, 1951, when her bequests became known, it was reported by her executor, Merrill F. Hummel, '08L, Carlisle attorney, that the College would probably receive about $4,500. His estimate has proved a conservative one.

By the terms of her will $500 was bequeathed to the College to establish a fund in the Dickinson College Library Guild as a memorial to her father, John

S. Bursk, who for many years was treasurer of the college. The income alone is to be used for the purchase of books.

She then made a bequest to the Woman's Society for Christian Service of Allison Memorial Methodist Church and provided that all of the remainder of her estate should go to the Library Guild. The remainder amounts to $4,967.43 and has been placed in the Library Guild Endowment as the Florence Hensel Bursk Fund.

Upon her graduation from the college, Miss Bursk began teaching in Carlisle and continued elementary teaching for more than 40 years until her retirement in 1947.

Patents Instrument to Locate Ship's Position At Sea

William R. Woodward, '34, New York sent the editor a copy of patent No. 2,604,704 that was issued to him for the benefit of the United States Government on a device he invented during the war. He said "The device is an application of what I learned in Doc Landis' classes. I have no idea whether anything of the sort has actually been used. Perhaps Roy Kuebler or Frank Ayres would be interested in having the enclosed document as additional material for the study of conic sections."

The editor could read the letter but he promptly passed on the nine pages of pictures and printed matter describing Hyperbolic Position-Plotting Instrument to the sea going member of the Department of Mathematics, Prof. Roger E. Nelson, who is a retired Rear-Admiral of the Navy. He knew what it was all about and has written very well about it as follows:

Bill Woodward has lately patented a device that seems to be just the answer to one of the time-consuming uncertainties of modern navigation by radio.

It seems that the essence of finding a ship's position at sea by Loran is the problem of plotting two hyperbolic curves. If the navigator can lay those curves down on his chart the position of his ship will be shown right where they cross.

Well, Bill's little gadget can be fixed right to the chart. If the focal points are affixed to the positions of the Loran stations, an easy adjustment made for the reception, then his "Hyperbolic Position-Plotting Instrument" will put the finger smack on the ship's position.

This is something deep sea navigators will receive with relief and gratitude. Bill got the idea one day when he was working at the M.I.T. Radiation Laboratory, and whipped the gadget out off hand sort of.

Appointed College Physician

Dr. Helen H. Heim, '38, general practitioner of Chambersburg, Pa., was appointed college physician and instructor in hygiene at Wilson College in September.

A graduate of the college in 1938, Dr. Heim received her M.D. degree from Women's Medical College in Philadelphia.

The Lane Millers Publish New Bible Dictionary

AFTER six years of planning, labor, and collaboration, Madeleine S. and J. Lane Miller, '06, in consultation with eminent specialists in various fields have published Harper's Bible Dictionary.

The publication date was October 15 and the volume has met with a fine reception. It is the November selection of the Religious Book Club.

Dickinsonians may secure autographed copies by sending orders through Dr. J. Lane Miller, The Methodist Parsonage, 964 Boston Post Road, Rye, N. Y.

The Millers have collaborated in several other works including Footprints in Palestine and Encyclopedia of Bible Life. These works and their new Dictionary contain many unusual and fine photographs taken by the Millers during their ten visits to the Mediterranean. They are both expert photographers.

Dr. William D. Gould, professor of Religion at the college, has reviewed their latest work for THE DICKINSON ALUMNUS as follows:

HARPER'S BIBLE DICTIONARY, by Madeleine S. and J. Lane Miller.
New York: Harper and Brothers.
851 pages. $7.95.

Dr. Miller (Dickinson '06) and Mrs. Miller achieved distinction in the field of Biblical scholarship when their Encyclopedia of Bible Life was published in 1944. Two years later they began work on an even more ambitious undertaking: the preparation of the first completely new Bible dictionary in thirty years. The Miller's brought to this task a lifetime of study and travel. They have made ten visits to Palestine and other Mediterranean lands. Their work is authoritative and thoroughly up-to-date. They have incorporated recent discoveries in the fields of Biblical archaeology, geography, and textual research. While no attempt has been made to include obscure individuals or place-names, the authors are confident that "no person, place, or topic of moderate or major significance is omitted." There are 3,015 articles, 424 photographs, 107 line drawings, and 16 multi-colored maps. The articles range in length from a few lines to the longest one of ten pages dealing with Jesus Christ. Four pages or more are allotted to such topics as archaeology, English Bible, flowers, Jerusalem, Palestine, worship, and the Temple. The authors have consulted with prominent specialists in particular fields. Articles or charts have been contributed by Professor Edwin Lewis of Drew University, Professor Robert H. Pfeiffer of Harvard University, Professor Allan P. Wikgren of the University of Chicago, and Professor Frederick C. Grant of Union Theological Seminary. The dictionary is written in a clear and concise style, and attractively printed on coated paper. Ministers, teachers, students, and general readers will find it an invaluable aid to a better understanding of the Bible. It is a happy coincidence that this work and the Revised Standard Version of the Bible are making their appearance at approximately the same time.

At the time of his election, the church reported that sales of Methodist materials totaled $15,500,000 last year.

Dr. Washabaugh is a trustee of Drew University, Centenary Junior College, the Methodist Hospital of Brooklyn, the Oak Grove Camp Meeting Association and the Home for the Aged in Ocean Grove.

Elected to State Supreme Court

JOHN C. ARNOLD

Judge John C. Arnold, a trustee of the college and of the law school, was elected a justice of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court as the Republican candidate in the November elections.

Judge Arnold graduated from the University of Pennsylvania Law School in 1909 and practiced law in Clearfield, Pa. until his elevation to the bench of the Superior Court in 1945. He was district attorney of Clearfield County from 1917 to 1924.

He is a prominent layman of the Methodist Church, a trustee of his church and a teacher in the Sunday School. He is a 33° Mason, a member of Delta Chi Fraternity, the Duquesne Club of Pittsburgh, the Union League of Philadelphia and the Socialegal Club of Philadelphia.

Judge Arnold was married in 1913 to Clare E. Platt, of DuBois, Pa., a graduate of Edinboro State Teachers College. They have two sons, John C. Arnold, Jr., and Dan P. Arnold, and two daughters, Mrs. Jane Mann and Mrs. Mary Brandis.

He was elected to the Board of Trustees of the College in June 1951.

Football Team Wins Three of Nine Games

DICKINSON harvested a lot of game experience and a good crop of freshmen material for next year but few victories during the 1952 football season. The team finished a tough schedule with three victories in nine games.

It was a difficult first-season for the new coaching staff of A. C. "Slim" Ransom, Lindy Lauro and Harry Bush. They found themselves at the beginning without a game-tested quarterback for the split-T offense they introduced at Dickinson. A squad topheavy in freshmen contained only four seniors and a handful of experienced sophomores and juniors. All things considered, Head Coach Ransom and his youthful aides did a good first-year job and can look forward to better things in 1953.

Graduation will take only four players, Tackle Ray Phillips and Backs Jack Smith, 1952 captain, Robert Gasull and George Slingland. All were first-line performers and will be missed but they will leave behind a good nucleus for next fall.

For probably the first time in the history of football at Dickinson an end, Sophomore George Mauro, led the team in scoring with five touchdowns, all on passes. He was also credited with two safeties. Bob Jones, a junior and the split-T quarterback, threw 12 touchdown passes, the best seasonal mark in this category since the pre-war days of the great Doug Rehor.

Seldom has Dickinson had such fine line backing as Gordon Haney, Don Bush and Jim Nellas, a freshman, provided. Other defensive standouts through the season were Dave Orbock, end; Paul Tarr, best of the tackles, Joe Kunda and two big freshmen, Andy Cominsky and Joe Minkevitch, tackles. A number of good freshmen backs came to the fore, including Charles Garwood, the starting fullback in every game, George Padjen, Bob Mitzell, and George Spengler.

No less than nine freshmen were used by Ransom in the course of the opener on Biddle Field, against a veteran, well-drilled Trinity team which took Dickinson into camp for the second year in a row, 21-0. Trinity scored on two long marches and got a third tally after blocking a punt on the Dickinson 15. The game closed out a home-and-home arrangement with the New Englanders, one of the strong small-college outfits in their area.

The next week Dickinson went to Meadville and upset Allegheny, 18-0, on superb passing by Bob Jones. After George Slingland put the Red and White ahead on a short buck Jones threw touchdown passes to his ends, Dick Johe and George Mauro. Jones entered the game as a substitute but after this performance he was the starting quarterback.

A real thriller took place next week in the game with traditional foe F. and M. in Hershey Stadium before 6,000 fans gathered to watch the fifth annual Chocolate Bowl game for benefit of Harrisburg Rotary Club charities. F. and M., which was to lose only one game in the course of the season, had a 13-0 lead by the end of the first six minutes of play. Things were beginning to shape up as a rout until Dickinson recovered a fumble deep in F. and M. territory and Capt. Smith crashed over for his teams first score. F. and M. pulled away again, scoring on a pass from Witmer to Davis, making it 20-6 but seconds before the half ended Jones passed deep to Johe for a touchdown on a play that covered 48 yards, putting the score at 20-6. In the third quarter, the Red Devils played with a fury indicated by their name and raced to a 21-20 lead mid-way in the period on a Jones-to-Mauro touchdown pass and a safety resulting from a blocked punt. But Ransom's team did not have the physical resources to maintain the pace and F. and M. put the game away in the fourth period on the running of its great backs Davis, Witmer and Heppler, winning finally 33-21.

Two freshmen were the heroes of the 7-6 victory over Western Maryland the next week at Westminster, Md. Trailing 6 to 0 in the last period, Dickinson scored on a 40-yard run by Garwood, the frosh fullback. Cominsky, the yearling tackle, kicked the extra point for the margin of victory.

The wear and tear on limited manpower was beginning to show and the team lost the next four games. Juniata showed unexpected defensive strength to win, 10-8, at Huntingdon. Dickinson tried a comeback the next week against a fine Drexel Tech team before a big Parents Day crowd on Biddle Field but after wiping out a 6-19 halftime deficit by another great third-period rally that put it ahead 26-20, yielded two touchdowns to Drexel in the final quarter and bowed 33-26. Fine passing by Jones and remarkable catches by Slingland and Capt. Smith stood out in this game.

The biggest things about "the big game of the year" the following week with arch-rival Gettysburg were the size of the Homecoming crowd on Biddle Field and the Bullets' winning score, 35-7. Dickinson was out-matched and had nothing to equal the great passing of Berky Ward, Bullet quarterback, and the running of Joe Ujobai who scored three touchdowns. The winners got off winging the opening moments of the game when one of their passes, batted into the air by a Dickinson defender, obligingly fell into Ujobai's arms in the end zone for the initial touchdown. Dickinson trailed 0-21 at the half and got its only score in the third quarter on a plunge by Capt. Smith following a Bullet fumble deep in Gettysburg territory. Gettysburg was blanked in this period (another great third-quarter performance by Ransom's team) but scored twice in the final period.

The team had the usual post-Gettysburg game letdown the following week at Baltimore, losing to Johns Hopkins, 32-14. Coach Ransom called it "our worst game of the year." But his boys closed out the season on a happy note the next week on Biddle Field, taking Ursinus into camp, 18-6. The big thrill in the finale came right after Ursinus tied the score at 6-6. George Spengler, a freshman, took the ball on the ensuing kickoff, raced to midfield and lateraled to Bob Mitzell, another freshman, who raced the rest of the way for a touchdown. In the final quarter Jones passed to Johe for the score that put the game beyond reach of the Bears.

Resigns As Teacher

A. Todd Coronoway, '20, a teacher for 22 years in the school system of Lansdowne, Pa., whose battle against extra work without pay attracted wide attention two years ago, resigned his post in September. He then became associated with Charles Noll, Inc., realtors, of Marshall Road at Windermere Ave., Lansdowne, a concern engaged in property management, appraisals and mortgages.

A mathematics teacher at Lansdowne High School, he protested his assignment as a ticket collector at high school football games on Saturdays without extra pay.

A year later, the Delaware County Court ruled that teachers do not have to collect tickets at athletic contests. The school board did not make an appeal from the decision and announced that it would pay $6 a game to teachers who volunteered for the job.

Green Basketball Team Faces Hard Schedule

THE hopes of Dickinson basketball followers for a return to the eminence so long occupied by the Red and White in this sport are being carried this winter by a new coach and a tall but inexperienced squad confronted with a difficult 18-game schedule. With the exception of Trinity (Conn.) and Upsala, long-time opponents make up the card.

Prof. A. C. "Slim" Ransom, who came to the College in September to head the department of physical education and coach football, has the job of leading Dickinson back from "the great fall" of last season when the team won only one game out of 19. The towering tall Ransom was a great basketball center at Geneva College in the early '30s (a coach of a rival team once called him the best college center in the country). He turned out some fine teams after he returned to coach at his alma mater.

Lindy Lauro, another new member of the coaching family this term, is the assistant coach in charge of the junior varsity. He played at Pitt where he graduated in 1950.

There are no seniors on the varsity squad for probably the first time in the history of basketball at Dickinson. Three juniors, seven sophomores and three freshmen comprise the 13-player squad. Big blow to Dickinson hopes for an improved season was the loss through ineligibility of Bill Stark, a senior and rated the best of the holdovers. He signed a contract with the St. Louis Cardinals baseball team last summer.

Dick Johe, 6-4 junior now in his third varsity season, and Robert Varano, 6-2, a sophomore, are the only lettermen. Backing them up are three others who saw limited service last season, Lee Huber, 6-2, a fine sophomore prospect, and Sidney Kline, 5-9, and Elton Richards, 6-2, juniors.

Bob Steger, leading scorer on last year's good frosh team, is one of the best prospects. He is expected to supply some of the scoring punch that was lost when Dick Zilling, one of Dickinson's all-time greats, graduated last June. Zilling set no less than four individual scoring records while in college. Neil Graham, a 6-5 sophomore, is the squad's tallest member. Frosh making strong varsity bids are Bruce Gourley, 6-4, Jamestown, N. Y.; Thomas Hester, 6-3, Punxsutawney, Pa., and John Kohlmeier, 6-2, Flushing, N. Y.

The schedule follows: December 6, at Lebanon Valley; 9, at Johns Hopkins; 12, Trinity (Conn.); 16, Bucknell.

January 8, Albright; 10, F. and M.; 14, Susquehanna; 16, Upsala; 17, at Albright.

February 5, at F. and M., 7, at Elizabethtown; 16, at Penn State; 18, Gettysburg; 21, Juniata; 25, at Western Maryland; 28, Elizabethtown.

March 4, at Gettysburg; 7, Lebanon Valley.

Opens Williamsburg Sessions

A paper by Dr. Whitfield J. Bell, Jr., '35, of the History Department at the College, opened on October 29 a series of three conferences on needs and opportunities for research in early American history being held at Williamsburg, Va., this winter under auspices of the Institute of Early American History and Culture.

Dr. Bell's paper was on the subject of early American science. He discussed reasons why the history of science has been neglected by American historians and he pointed out specific subjects which need to be studied and for which research materials exist. There followed a discussion by experts who were specially invited to the conference.

Other conferences in the series will be led by Professor Mark A. Howe of the Harvard Law School, on early American Law, and Dr. William N. Fenton of the Smithsonian Institution, on Indian relations.

Leading Clergymen In New Chapel Programs

A SERIES of sixteen worship services featuring the preaching of representative American clergymen is being held at the College this term.

The series, entitled "Religion in Today's World," is designed to bring before the students outstanding religious thinkers of various faiths and to provide them with additional opportunity for religious experience in a formal atmosphere of worship.

Two services are held each month at the usual morning chapel hour. By the end of the series in May Dickinson's 875 students will have heard such noted American preachers as Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, the Very Rev. James A. Pike, Bishop J. Wesley Lord, Dr. George A. Buttrick, President Harold C. Case of Boston University and others.

The services are held in a formal setting, heightening the atmosphere of reverence and worship and setting them apart from the usual twice-a-week chapels. A special order of service arranged by President Edel is followed. This includes processional and recessional by the program participants and the robed Chapel Choir, the Scripture Lesson, unison prayer, a prayer of consecration, anthem and the sermon. The Cross and candles are placed upon the chapel altar, normally bare for chapel.

In most cases the guest preacher remains on the campus for the entire day, holding student conferences during the afternoon and participating with two faculty members in a panel discussion in the evening. The fraternities take turns in acting as host to the guest preacher at dinner and opening their houses for the evening panel discussions.

A Dickinsonian, Dr. Lester A. Weliver, '18, president of the Westminster Theological Seminary, preached at the opening service on October 7. He was followed on October 9 by the Rev. Sheridan W. Bell, pastor of the First Methodist Church, Harrisburg. November's preachers were Dr. Paul W. Hoon, pastor of the First Methodist Church, Germantown, and Dr. Ross H. Stover, pastor of Messiah Lutheran Church, Philadelphia.

Dr. Ralph W. Sockman of Christ Church, New York, was unable to reach the campus for the December 2 service because of a snowstorm that grounded his plane. President Edel preached in his stead. Dr. Sockman will return at a later date. President Charles B. Ketcham of Mount Union College, Alliance, O., was the preacher on December 4.

The balance of the series schedule follows: January 6, Dr. Howard L. Rubendall, '31, headmaster of the Mt. Hermon School, Mt. Herman, Mass.; January 8, the Very Rev. James A. Pike, dean of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, New York.

February 9 and 12 (the date of annual Religion-in-Life Week at the College, Dr. Harold A. Bosley, pastor of the First Methodist Church, Evanston, Ill., and a former dean of the Duke Divinity School.

March 3, Bishop J. Wesley Lord, '27, bishop of the Methodist Church resident in Boston, Mass.; March 5, Dr. George A. Buttrick, pastor of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church, New York, and a former president of the Federal Council of Churches.

April 7, President Harold C. Case of Boston University; April 9, the Rev. Jule Ayres, minister of the First Presbyterian Church of Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

May 5, President A. Charles Baugher of Elizabethtown College, and May 7, Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, minister emeritus of the Riverside Church, New York.

Heads Hospital Board

Bishop John Wesley Lord, '27, was elected president of the New England Deaconess Hospital, Boston, Mass., by the members of its corporation at their annual meeting in February.

Heads Camp Meeting

HOWARD W. SELBY

Howard W. Selby, '13, vice-president of the Ocean Grove Camp Meeting Association since 1941 and a trustee since 1934, was elevated to the presidency on October 17. He succeeded the late Rev. Dr. George W. Henson, honorary alumnus of the college, who died during the past summer.

A trustee of Dickinson College, Mr. Selby is recognized as an outstanding leader in business, civic, educational and religious fields. He is president of the Dickinson Club of Boston.

He is general manager of the United Farmers of New England, Inc.; president of Walker-Gordon Laboratories of New England, Inc., chairman of the executive committee of the board of trustees of Boston University and an ordained elder in the New England Methodist Conference. He is also a member of the Northeast Jurisdictional and General Conferences of the Methodist Church, where he serves on important committees.

His wife is the former Ethel Wagg, '15.

In his address of acceptance, Mr. Selby proposed the establishment of an endowment fund of $1,000,000, to be managed by an outstanding trust or fiduciary, the income to be used in the further promotion of religious work in Ocean Grove. In suggesting some new committees, he also said he planned to name a committee to prepare for the centennial anniversary of Ocean Grove, which will be observed 1969.

The newly-elected president pledged that the fundamentals will not be changed under his administration. He stated that the gates of the community will continue to remain closed on the Sabbath Day and that the dedication of the community will continue to be to the cause of Evangelical Christianity.

Colgate Honors Andy Kerr

A fine three-quarter portrait of Andrew Kerr, '00, was presented to Colgate University at the Commencement Exercises last June and hung in a place of honor in the gymnasium of the Hamilton, N. Y., institution. It was painted by Alfred Krakusin.

Until his retirement a few years ago, Andy was coach of the football team and professor of physical education at Colgate, where he held his longest tenure in that field. One of his statements while there has become a classic in the sports world when at the end of an unbeaten and unscored upon season, the Bowl promoters paid no heed and Andy said "Unbeaten, unscored upon and uninvited."

Contributions for the painting of the portrait were limited to the football letter men who had played for Andy at Colgate. There were about 200 contributors, all of whom sent letters expressing their friendship and loyalty to form a priceless collection for their former mentor.

"I have been fortunate in receiving almost every honor that can be accorded a football coach" was Andy's comment, to which he added "I consider the presentation of my portrait one of the most heart warming recognitions I have ever received."

Consecrate Educational Building

A new $104,000 educational building of Marvin Memorial Methodist Church, Four Corners, Silver Spring, Md., was consecrated at services in October. The Rev. Marion S. Michael, '39, has been pastor of the church since 1945.

The new structure is part of the four-unit program planned by the congregation. The sanctuary has been erected and future plans envision another educational structure and chapel.

The educational building is a three-story unit to accommodate 450 students. The Sunday School has an enrollment of nearly 1200.

Mr. Michael is a graduate of the Boston University School of Theology and served pastorates previously at Bel Air and Huntington, Md. He and Mrs. Michael live at 9611 Evergreen Street, Silver Spring. They have three children, Charles Reid, 9; Walter Marion, 6, and Margery Elisabeth, 2.

Receives High Honor

Miss Irmela M. Witke, '26, administrator of the 425-bed Seaside Memorial Hospital, Long Beach, Calif., was accorded the highest honor that can be achieved in her professional field when she was elected a fellow of the American College of Hospital Administrators at its annual meeting in Philadelphia last September.

Miss Witke, a native of Scranton, Pa., studied at Columbia University after leaving Dickinson. She was administrator of the Parkview Hospital in Pueblo, Colo., and the Lutheran Hospital, Sioux City, Iowa, before going with the Seaside Memorial Hospital in 1939.

Under her administration the Long Beach institution has doubled its bed capacity, established an interne and resident teaching program approved by the American Medical Association, organized a vocational nursing school having national certification, and liquidated all indebtedness.

Promoted At Jefferson

ROY W. MOHLER

Dr. Roy W. Mohler, '17, was appointed clinical professor of Gynecology and Obstetrics at Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, with the opening of the academic year in September.

Dr. Mohler, who is a trustee of the College, received his medical training at Jefferson and has been on the faculty there for sometime. His offices are 1806 Spruce Street, Philadelphia, and he lives with his wife and daughter Barbara, in Ardmore.

Entertains Jefferson Students

Seventeen of the 26 Dickinsonians now attending Jefferson Medical College were guests of Dr. Roy W. Mohler at his home in Ardmore on November 12 when they met six other members of the staff of Methodist Hospital. Dr. Mohler is Chief of Service at Methodist Hospital, a member of the faculty of Jefferson Medical College and a Trustee of the College.

Of the 26 graduates of the college now at Jefferson, nine are seniors; four are juniors, five are second year men and eight are first year men.

Dr. Shaw is associate professor in the Department of Political Science at Tulane University, a post he has held since 1948. Since 1942 he has been director of personnel of the City of New Orleans and continues in that work while teaching at Tulane. Last year he served as chairman of the Southern Regional Conference of the Civil Service Assembly.

He received his M.A. in 1934 and his Ph.D. degree in 1935 from Princeton University. The next year he was instructor in politics at American University and then went into the work of government administration first in New Jersey and then for three years in California. Heads Overseas Relief

Dr. Gaither P. Warfield, '17, was named executive director of the Methodist Committee for overseas relief in September.

Dr. Warfield was a military and political prisoner from September 1939 to June 1942. From 1924 until he was made a prisoner, he was a missionary to Poland and was living in Warsaw until World War II broke out.

Following internment in Russia and Germany, and later as political prisoner in Warsaw and in Bavaria, Dr. Warfield was among those German and American citizens included in an exchange arranged by the Swiss government. Returning to the United States in July 1942, he joined the Board of Mission staff and since 1946 has been associate secretary of the Methodist Committee for Overseas Relief.

Dedicates Church Addition

A new education-recreation addition, costing $125,000, built to Bethesda Church, Middletown, Del., was opened and dedicated at public services on September 25. The Rev. Howell O. Wilkins, '44, is pastor of the church.

The new facilities provide an auditorium, stage, storage, lavatories and kitchen on the first floor, and three classrooms and a social meeting room on the second floor.

The Dickinson School of Law has appointed to its faculty as librarian and teacher of personal property and legal bibliography Walter C. Wright, Jr., until last fall the acting chief of the rulings and opinions section of the Legal Division of the Wage Stabilization Board for District 4. He succeeds Frank M. Davis, who resigned to enter private practice in Dillon, Mont.

While with the Government, Mr. Wright lived in Richmond, Va. He formerly resided in Wenonah and Woodbury, N. J. A graduate of Duke University, 1937, and Temple Law School, 1939, he is a Master of Arts of the University of Pennsylvania, a Master of Laws of the Yale University Law School and a candidate at Yale for a Ph.D. in political science.

Serves As Representative

Dr. Raphael E. Rupp, '22, of Lyman, S. C., served as the representative of Dickinson College at the inauguration of Francis Pendleton Gaines, Jr., as sixth president of Wofford College, on November 14. The exercises were held at Spartanburg Memorial Auditorium, Spartanburg, S. C.

Dr. Rupp received his Ph.D. degree in Chemistry from Yale University and is now engaged in industrial work.

Honor Pierce Butler, '06, Upon His Retirement

THE JULY number of the Library Quarterly was made a "Festschrift" in recognition of Pierce Butler's retirement after twenty-one years as teacher of library history at the University of Chicago, following sixteen years of service as rare book expert at the Newberry Library. This number consists of a portrait of Pierce Butler, three articles about him and essays on various topics in librarianship by fifteen of the thirty-seven persons who have taken their doctorates under his direction.

The bibliography of Pierce Butler's publications by Fr. Redmond Burke, a Roman priest, enumerates ten independent publications and some seventy papers and reviews.

Among other things the biographical sketch by Stanley Pargellis emphasizes the influence of Dickinson College, and of Professor Prettyman in particular, during his formative years. And the essay entitled, "Pierce Butler, Professor and Priest," by Canon Bernard Iddings Bell presents vividly the possibilities of religious service that are open to a devout teacher.

But perhaps most interesting of all to a Dickinsonian is the ancient printer's mark reproduced on the cover and the explanatory note about it by Edwin Willoughby, '22, who was recommended to Pierce Butler by President Filler, served as his assistant for some five years and finally took his doctorate under him. This mark was selected by Dr. Willoughby with his usual felicity and sense of humor: it bears prominently the initial P. B., it belonged to a man who was a priest as well as a scholar, and it bears the motto, Saepe Jovis Quercus Fulmina adusta viret, (Frequently an oak smitten by Jove's thunderbolt flourishes), presumably in double reference to Pierce Butler's partial deafness since childhood, and to his own speed impediment—handicaps which in both cases have proven incentives rather than obstacles to a successful career.

Since his retirement, Dr. Butler has been just as busy as before. In addition to frequent services as a non-parochial minister in the Episcopal Church, he is completing during the autumn a catalogue of rare books for a Chicago bibliophile, he is to spend the winter as research fellow at the Newberry Library and in the spring he is to conduct classes at the University of North Carolina for ten weeks.

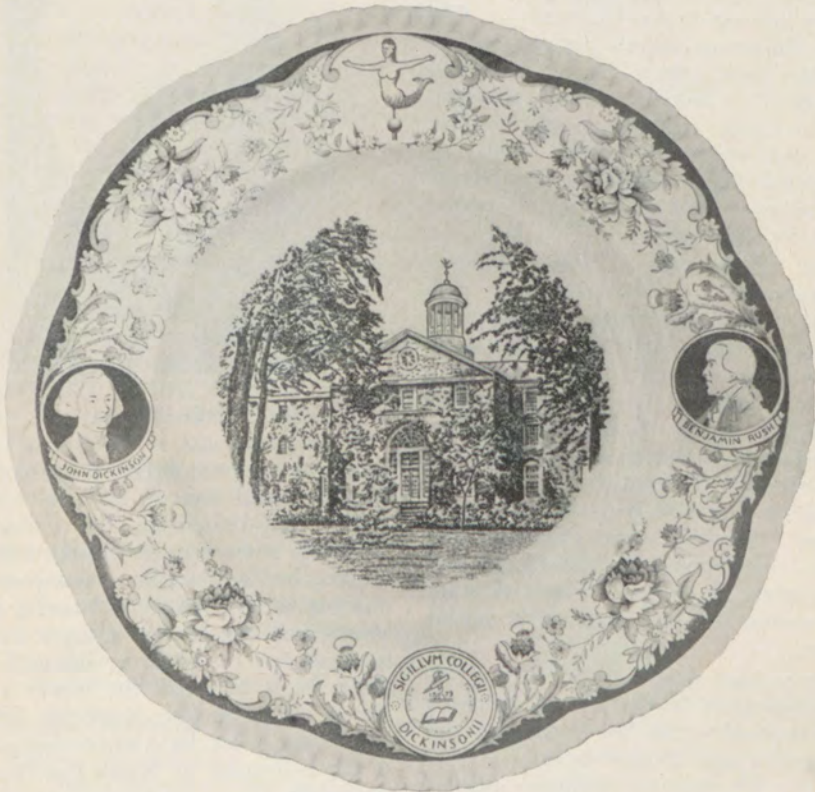

Elected to Methodist Board

Samuel W. Witwer, Jr., '30, Chicago attorney and member of the Board of Trustees of the College, was elected to a general agency of the church, namely the Board of Social and Economic Relations at the North Central Jurisdictional Conference of the Methodist Church held in Milwaukee in July. The board, composed of several bishops, fifteen laymen and a like number of ministers, has been set up to interpret and define the position of Methodism in social, economic and political matters.

Dickinson Service Plates Being Made By Wedgwood

THE first edition of Dickinson College Service Plates is now being made by Josiah Wedgwood & Sons, Inc., in Barlaston, England and will be ready for delivery sometime early in 1953.

For this first set the four separate center designs will picture: Old West, the Old Stone Steps, Denny Hall and East College. The plates will be Wedgwood Queensware, ten inch, Gadroon shape, with special-engraved border. This border consists of a floral background featuring the rose and the thistle, with portraits of John Dickinson and Benjamin Rush worked into the design to balance a vignette of the Mermaid at the top of the plate and the College seal at the bottom. As all collectors know, the value of good china is attested by the back stamp, which certifies the maker. The backstamp for these plates will include the Wedgwood name, the title of the center view and a certification that the plates are an authentic First Edition. The color of all the plates is crimson and white.

There is an interesting connection between these new service plates and the John Dickinson Mansion at Dover, Delaware. In 1781, during the Revolution, a party of Tories from New York raided the home of John Dickinson at Dover and stole the silver and much of the clothing and provisions in the Mansion. Following this raid, Mary Dickinson wrote to her husband that he should place all their belongings in a safe place, a room in William Killen's house, saying that there was in the Mansion "a great deal of China queensware and Pewter" which should be safe-guarded. After 172 years, there is Dickinson China again and it is Queensware, by Wedgwood, the same Pottery that made the "Queensware" so dear to John Dickinson's wife, Mary.

Nothing would grace the table of a hostess with Dickinsonian background so well as twelve or eight lovely crimson and white service plates by Wedgwood, and how much more is this true if the plates carry scenes from the Campus of the old College. Or a young Dickinson couple, planning their first "company dinner," can show their pride in their Alma Mater by setting their table for four with the College service plates.

These are First Edition Dickinson plates. In a few years they will be museum pieces. You may be sure of your "First Edition" by ordering them from the College Bookstore.

OBITUARY

1882—Samuel Frisbee Snively, Western pioneer and for 16 years mayor of Duluth, Minn., died at the home of a niece there on November 7. He would have been 93 years of age on Nov. 24.

Known as "Mr. Duluth" he will be remembered for the skyline drive in that city which bears his name and which he first envisioned when the city was still a stand of big trees.

His life story is the saga of pioneer life in the West, with an added chapter of seeking gold in Alaska and the struggles of a young lawyer. A native of Greencastle, Pa., he received his A.B. from the College in 1882 and an A.M. in 1886 when he graduated with an LL.B. degree from the University of Pennsylvania Law School. He was admitted to the Pennsylvania bar and that year arrived in Duluth with a capital of $15.00. Meeting with success he became a heavy investor in real estate only to lose a fortune in the panic of 1893.

Five years later, he went to Alaska where he gained a small fortune only to be swindled out of it in Nome. He returned to Duluth and soon acquired several thousand acres of timber land which was wiped out in a 1918 forest fire.

He was elected Mayor of Duluth in 1921 for his first term and served in that office until 1937. When he died the Duluth News Tribune said editorially: "His immense figure, his smile, his fatherly concern for the city and everyone in it, made him a living symbol of Duluth. Our incomparable sky-line drive and many of our parks will be his monuments as long as our hills endure."

A member of Beta Theta Pi Fraternity, he was a life member of the Arrowhead Association of Minnesota, an Elk, and a member of the Lutheran Church.

He never married and made his home with his niece, Mrs. W. E. Overland, her husband, who is employed by the D. M. & I. R. Railroad and their three sons.
