MAY 1955

Philadelphia Club Pays Tribute To Boyd Lee Spahr

GLOWING tributes were paid to Dr. Boyd Lee Spahr, '00, president of the Board of Trustees, in commemoration of his 75th birthday at the annual dinner of the Dickinson Club of Philadelphia held at the Merion Cricket Club, Ardmore, on April 13 with 120 present. It was one of the finest affairs ever planned by the officers of the Philadelphia club.

Dr. Robert L. D. Davidson, newly elected president of Westminster College, Fulton, Mo., and the club's president, acted as a capable toastmaster. The Rev. Dr. Milton Nichols, '06, offered the invocation.

With another year to serve as the club's president, Dr. Davidson appointed a committee of three to handle the club's affairs during his absence in Missouri. He named James L. McIntire, '35; Winfield S. Cook, '32, and Mrs. Jeanne Whitaker Meade, '33.

After the dinner, Dr. Davidson introduced the following trustees who were present: Judge John Klepser, of Altoona; Glenn E. Todd, of Carlisle, and Dr. Whitfield J. Bell, Dr. Carl C. Chambers, Dr. Roy W. Mohler and Dr. William C. Sampson, all of the Philadelphia area.

Dr. E. A. Vuilleumier, Professor of Chemistry, opened the speaking program by giving a report on the Questionnaires which had been sent to all alumni and appealing for every one to fill in and return the form. The remainder of the program was then devoted to the tributes to Dr. Spahr.

Sherwin T. McDowell, '36, opened this part of the program to speak as the representative of the Philadelphia Bar and also as a member of the firm of which Dr. Spahr is the senior partner. He was followed by Dr. Carl C. Chambers, '29, vice-president for engineering affairs at the University of Pennsylvania and a Dickinson Trustee, who spoke in behalf of the Trustees of Dickinson College.

J. Milton Davidson, '33, chairman of the Alumni Annual Giving Fund, brought the greetings of the General Alumni Association and President William W. Edel the tribute of the administration, faculty and students of the College.

Every speaker told of some facet of Dr. Spahr's record as a student, lawyer, citizen and trustee and of his many years of devoted service and his many contributions to the College.

The highlight of the evening then took place when Dr. Davidson presented Dr. Spahr with a beautifully bound volume containing letters from his classmates, fellow trustees, professional associates, and those affiliated with him in learned societies. It was bound in red leather with a white leather inlay on the front cover with the College seal and the words of dedication stamped in gold. The letters were all gold edged and the opening dedication had been written by Dr. Whitfield J. Bell, Jr. This was read by Dr. Davidson in making the presentation. The response of Dr. Spahr is printed on following pages of this issue of the magazine.

A different note was then interjected by Vice-President Gilbert Malcolm when he said that the one who merited the praise for the life of Boyd Lee Spahr was his wife, the former Katharine Feb-

iger, as he presented an arm full of red roses to her. Mrs. Spahr then received a standing enthusiastic ovation from every one present as she kissed the Vice-President on the cheek.

The program closed with a short speech by C. Wendell Holmes, president of the General Alumni Association.

"I KNOW OF NONE BETTER"

By BOYD LEE SPAHR, '00

Text of an address made by the President of the Board of Trustees at the annual dinner of the Dickinson Club of Philadelphia on April 13, 1955.

I am most appreciative of what has been said and done here tonight, for I can assure you that this testimonial, while somewhat embarrassing, is most gratifying, but I presume that you want something more than an expression of thanks, which I do give most heartily.

It is difficult to believe and yet it is a fact that my connection with Dickinson began 61 years ago, for it was in the autumn of 1894 that I entered the preparatory school, then conducted in old South College on the site of the present Alumni Gymnasium. In those days there was not the variety of subjects taught in the secondary schools that there is today. We had the ancient languages, mathematics and English, and that was all. In two years we went through beginner's Latin, Caesar, Cicero and Vergil, beginner's Greek and the Anabasis, algebra, plain geometry, English composition, some reading in the Victorian classics and two or three of Shakespeare's plays. In 1896 twenty-seven of us went over to College in the entering freshman class. All together we had 71 in the Class of 1900 and we graduated 43. In the college of our day, including the three classes preceding us and the three classes following us, the average per class was 80, but 30 out of this average did not graduate, so that the average graduating number was 50. The faculty in our day was 14. The administrative staff consisted of the President and a Dean. One of the faculty doubled as Treasurer and another as Librarian, the latter with rather perfunctory duties as the library was open only a few hours daily, five days a week. The two literary societies at that time maintained their own libraries in Bosler Hall with a student librarian and they also were open only a few hours daily. Nowadays the library is a student workshop open seven days a week with approximately 110,000 volumes and a trained library staff of six or seven.

Up to World War II, the trustees had set a limit of 600 on the number of undergraduates, with 25% women, but to maintain this would have been unfair to the GIs who flocked to the colleges in great numbers under congressional legislation and accordingly the limitation was removed. Today we have between 850 and 900 undergraduates, which is about the number which can be properly accommodated in the physical plant and with a proper ratio of students to faculty which now numbers 75.

On the financial side it is only in recent years that the College has had anything like a substantial endowment. In its early days, 150 years ago and more, it had very little, but that was true of all colleges at that time. Unfortunately, later years produced very little, so that other institutions, including many younger than ours, far surpassed the College in resources. When I first became a Trustee of the College in 1908 it had a total endowment of approximately $325,000, against which there was a debt of $126,000. Today our endowment in securities at market value is upwards of $3,200,000 and we own valuable real estate in Baltimore under the will of the late Lemuel T. Appold, on the Class of 1882, who was the greatest benefactor of the College, which real estate is carried on our books at $88,500 and which yields a net income in excess of $12,000, or about 14%. Our plant assets carried in 1908 at $445,000 had increased to $2,000,000 ten years ago and as of today are conservatively appraised at approximately $5,000,000. Our bank loans at present amount to approximately $330,000, which were largely incurred in the construction of Drayer Hall and in the unforeseeable heavy cost of modernizing Montgomery Hall, but these loans are being periodically reduced. I believe that our endowment and our plant assets combined are greater than any other college in Pennsylvania of less than 1,200 students, with the exceptions of Haverford and Swarthmore.

As of ten years ago, we were expending $110,000 on faculty salaries and $25,000 on the salaries of the administrative officers and employes. In our last fiscal year, faculty salaries were in excess of $316,000 and the administrative salaries approximately $89,000. The salary scale now in force applying to all ranks of the faculty is about the medium of those of privately controlled colleges of under 1,200 students in New England and the Middle Atlantic States, but better than the medium of such colleges in Pennsylvania. In addition most of the faculty are members of the Teachers Insurance and Annuity Association, the College contributing half of each member's annual payments, and in addition to that the trustees have recently put into effect group disability and life insurance, the latter being equal to a teachers' salary for two years. Furthermore, the Parents Advisory Council recently created by President Edel is now raising the Parents' Appreciation Fund to supplement faculty salaries. At the present time a special committee of the Trustees is studying the matter of salaries and also of academic tenure. The faculty may be assured that the Trustees will endeavor to increase salaries at the earliest moment the College finances warrant it.

It is a matter of common knowledge, frequently to be observed in the newspapers, that over half the colleges of the country, large and small, are operating in the red and many of them have done so for years. In the last ten years we have been in the red only twice but our operating surplus in the other years was made possible in most of those years only by the contributions to the Alumni Fund.

In academic standing, the accreditation of the College by the Middle States Association was recently renewed without question. A few years ago the College was invited into membership of the College Entrance Examination Board and four of the outstanding engineering schools in the east invited the College to be associated with them in a combined liberal arts-engineering program; of these inventions three were accepted.

There has been some criticism lately arising from the withdrawal from the College in the last few years of a number of the faculty, including two full professors and several associates, assistants and instructors. While the loss of some of these men is to be deplored, nevertheless such turnover in a faculty of our size is not unusual. Unfortunately there are some few who ascribe reasons for such withdrawals which are either incorrect or at best only partly correct. These critics ignore the fact that we continue to have able teachers with established reputations; to mention only a few: Vuilleumier and Rogers in chemistry; Eddy and Herber in biology; Tayler in political science; Sloane and Ness in English; Wing and others in history, as well as a substantial number of younger men who are showing great promise.

The aphorism attributed to James A. Garfield that a college is a log with a student at one end and Mark Hopkins, the long time President of Williams, at the other never was an accurate statement and certainly is not now. Our plant facilities have been increased, as they had to be to attract desirable students. The new and largest dormitory for women, Drayer Hall, in use since 1952, is as fine a building as can be found at any college, and the same can be said for Morgan Hall, the new dormitory for men now under construction, which will be in use this autumn. The reactivation of the Ten Year Development Plan about to take place should produce funds for the erection of a new student activities building on the Benjamin Rush campus on part of the site of the present Baird building, the erection of a new building for chemistry on the old campus and the removal of biology to the space in Tome vacated by chemistry. The new church soon to be erected near the southwest portion of the Rush campus will provide chapel facilities which will free the present chapel in Bosler Hall for much needed expansion of the library.

I hope I have not tired you with these figures and other remarks, but the alumni are entitled to full information. While the Trustees are the legal owners of the College, the alumni in a sense are its equitable owners, and it is largely to them that the College must look for its resources. In fact, of the 47 Trustees, 35 are alumni, four of them elected by the alumni for a term of four years and eligible for a second four year term.

I happen to know a good deal about a good many colleges not only in Pennsylvania but elsewhere. For a comparatively small liberal arts college, which the Trustees intend Dickinson to continue to be, I can honestly say that I know of none better, and the same may be said of the loyalty of a very large number of the alumni.

Three Seniors Receive Awards

Yale University and the Danforth Foundation have awarded fellowships to a member of this year's graduating class for the quality of his education at Dickinson and promise of success in a teaching career. Two other members of the class have received resident assistantships from Stanford University and Ohio Wesleyan University.

Howard E. Davis, who was elected to Phi Beta Kappa following the mid-year examinations, will be a Falk Fellow at the Yale Graduate School next term while doing work for a master's degree in political science, his major field at Dickinson. In the letter of notification from the university, Davis was told that he had been selected for the fellowship on recommendation of the Graduate School and in recognition "of the merit of your scholastic achievement at Dickinson, which bears promise that you will undertake graduate study with the serious purpose of attaining distinction in your chosen field."

The award, which carries a stipend covering tuition charges and $1,000 in cash, was followed by another from the Danforth Foundation, Inc., which gives fellowships each year to a few college graduates of high Christian character who plan to go on in graduate work with the goal of becoming college teachers. Davis was one of the 50 chosen this year from 438 applicants. Only three of the recipients are from Pennsylvania colleges.

Davis has had an unusual record at Dickinson. As the leader of his class in scholarship he holds the title of Senior Sophister and as a campus leader he has won membership in Omicron Delta Kappa and Pi Delta Epsilon. His home is in Jim Thorpe, Pa.

Two of his classmates have received resident assistantships for graduate study in student personnel administration. Susan Marquardt received such an award from Stanford University and Phoebe Stambaugh from Ohio Wesleyan.

John Thomas Heistand, Bishop of the Diocese of Harrisburg of the Protestant Episcopal Church, who will receive the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws, was born in Lancaster, Pa., and educated there under private tutors. He was ordained a Deacon in the Episcopal Church in 1921 and a Priest that same year, when he also received the S.T.D. degree from the General Theological Seminary, New York City. He served as Chaplain of Bucknell University from 1924 to 1926 and then as Rector of St. Paul's Church in Bloomsburg from 1926 to 1934, when he became Dean of St. Stephens Cathedral in Harrisburg. He became Bishop of the Diocese of Harrisburg in 1943.

Bishop Heistand's career was interrupted by service as a 2nd Lt. with the AEF from 1917 through 1919 in France.

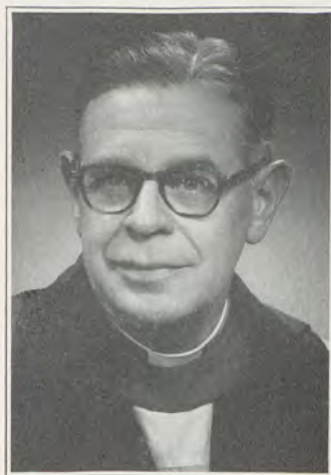

This will be the second time that he has been honored by Dickinson College as he received a Doctor of Divinity in 1940.

Born in Orange, N. J., she settled in Rochester, N. Y., after her marriage to Harper Sibley, well-known agriculturist and Christian layman. It was in the latter community that Mrs. Sibley began her long association with church related work.

For many years she was a missions and Sunday School leader of St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church, and later headed the Rochester Council of Churchwomen. In 1928 she was named a dele-

From that same year to 1945, Mrs. Sibley was the presiding officer of the interdenominational Northfield League. In 1944 and until 1950, she headed the United Council of Church Women, the largest body of church women in America. From 1946 to 1952 she served on the board of the National Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

Following World War II, Mrs. Sibley was appointed a visiting expert to Germany with the Educational and Cultural Division of the Department of the Army, and also traveled to Japan to help women's groups to rebuild their shattered programs.

In 1945, Mrs. Sibley, mother of six children and grandmother of 18 grandchildren, was chosen "Mother of the Year" by the Golden Rule Foundation.

Mr. Sibley, former president of the United States Chamber of Commerce and wartime head of the U.S.O., is also very active with local, national and international boards of the Y.M.C.A. Similarly, Mrs. Sibley holds counterpart positions with the Y.W.C.A.

In 1953 the Sibleys visited the Far East to study the programs set up by the international Y.M.-Y.W.C.A. and by Church World Service. While in Japan they visited the new International Christian University near Tokyo, on which campus the students celebrated "Sibley Day" in their honor.

Bishop Ledden, who heads Methodist work in a large area of upstate New York, will take over the presidency of the Council of Bishops at the 1956 convention. Until then he will serve as vice president of the Council. The retiring, present and designate presidents become members of the five-man executive committee.

How High Will It Be at Commencement

Come Back to Commencement and see Morgan Hall, the new dormitory for men now being built on the Benjamin Rush Campus. The above photograph was taken on May 1, 1955. Builders plan to complete the structure for use next September.

Rare Etchings on Exhibit

Dickinsonians who plan to be on the campus during the coming Commencement season, June 10 to 12, should be sure to see the memorial exhibition of rare etchings from the collection of the late Eugene Allen Noble, art patron-connoisseur, who was president of the College from 1911 to 1914.

The exhibit, in the Hall of the Presidents in West College, consists of over 50 prints on loan from Mrs. Therese Noble, of New York City, Dr. Noble's widow, who was present for the opening on April 15. Opening ceremonies included a tea in honor of Mrs. Noble, who shared her husband's interest in the arts.

The prints review the history of the art of etching from the early 16th Century to its great masters of 100 years later and living artists of the present. Supplementing the exhibition is a display of print-maker's tools, which have been lent by the Philadelphia Museum of Art.

Dr. Noble, who died in 1948 at the age of 83, was an authority on prints, of which he had a vast collection, and a connoisseur and collector of works of art. He had been president of Goucher College before coming to Dickinson. From 1920 to 1937 he was the executive secretary of the Juilliard Musical Foundation and was one of the developers of the famous Juilliard School of Music. The etchings exhibition at the College is a memorial of his life and taste.

Form Law Firm

Fred T. Cadmus, III, '43, '47L, and C. Richard Morton, '52, '54L, have announced their association in the general practice of law under the firm name of Cadmus and Morton with offices at 124 South High St., West Chester, Pa., and 240 S. Hanover St., Pottstown, Pa.

Elected President of Westminster College

DR. ROBERT L. D. DAVIDSON, '31, associate dean of Temple University's Community College, has been elected president of Westminster College, Fulton, Mo., and assumed his duties there early this month. He replaces Dr. Wm. W. Hall, who resigned the post to become president of Franklin and Marshall College at Lancaster.

When he left the Navy as a Lieutenant Commander in 1945 after several years in the South Pacific theater, Dr. Davidson joined the department of history at Temple. He was also Director of Placement until 1948 when he was named Associate Dean of the Community College of the university.

Born in Dover, Del., on January 11, 1909, he graduated from the West Philadelphia High School and received his Dickinson A.B. in 1931. He then did graduate work at Temple, Northwestern, New York University and the University of Pennsylvania.

Following his graduation he was a teacher and administrator of several public school systems in New Jersey. He was adjunct professor of social sciences at Temple when he entered the Navy.

Dr. Davidson was president of the Clayton (N. J.) Kiwanis Club and is a member of the Philadelphia Kiwanis Club. Hold Testimonial Dinner for Dean Hitchler

MORE than 500 persons, most of them lawyers and judges who had been his students, gathered in Carlisle on February 19 from a half dozen states to honor Walter Harrison Hitchler for 48 years of service to the Dickinson School of Law. Until his retirement a year ago, Dr. Hitchler had been a member of the faculty from 1906, the dean of the school from 1930.

Highlights of the dinner, held in the Alumni Gymnasium, were the unveiling of an oil portrait of the guest of honor and the announcement of the creation of the Hitchler Scholarship Fund in "grateful recognition of his devoted service to the school." Proceeds of the fund will be used to help exceptional and worthy students. Speakers pointed out that Dean Hitchler had often used his own funds to assist deserving students.

"The Dean," noted Judge W. Clarence Sheely, president of the school's board of trustees, who presided, "has influenced more lawyers in Pennsylvania than any other man. We felt we would like to perpetuate the influence of his life and his devotion to the law through the years to come. This scholarship will carry the inspiration of the man to the students through all time."

Presentation of the portrait was made by Eugene D. Siegrist, a trustee, who referred to Dr. Hitchler as one of the school's immortals. It was unveiled by Richard H. "Mac" MacAndrews, associate professor emeritus of physical education at the College and one of Dr. Hitchler's warmest friends and a constant companion. It will hang in Hitchler Hall of the Sadler Curtilage, dormitory of the school.

D. Fenton Adams, '47, acting dean of the school, accepted the portrait. The principal speaker was Harry W. Lee, vice-president of the trustees. He spoke of Dr. Hitchler's devotion to teaching, his concern for the welfare of students and his respect for law. The school, he said, had prospered and grown strong under his leadership. President William W. Edel of the College sat at the speakers' table and made the invocation.

Two Honored At Hood

Two Dickinsonians prominent in the lay leadership of the Evangelical and Reformed Church were honored by Hood College on March 25 as churchmen "whose lives have reflected the qualities of devotion to Christianity which the College endeavors to instill in its students."

Glenn E. Todd, '12, Carlisle, Pa., and Judge Charles F. Greevey, '35, Williamsport, Pa., received Church Citations during one of the ceremonies held on the Hood campus in Frederick, Md., for the dedication of its new Coffman Chapel.

President Andrew G. Truxal of Hood presented awards to 10 persons. Todd's citation pointed out that he has been the president of a Bible Class for 30 years and serves on the boards of the Home-wood Church Home, Mercersburg Academy and Dickinson College. Judge Greevey was cited for service on boards of the Pennsylvania Council of Churches and the Phoebe Church Home.

Death Claims Oldest College Trustee

EDWARD M. BIDDLE, JR., '86, a prominent Carlisle lawyer and former county judge and for 50 years a Trustee of the college, died March 25 in the Carlisle Hospital after a brief illness. Aged 89 years, he was the oldest active member of the Cumberland County Bar Association.

One of the last surviving members of his Class, he played on Dickinson's first intercollegiate football team in 1885 against Swarthmore. He never lost his enthusiasm for sports and seldom missed a home football game. He was a member of the Board of Athletic Control of the College at the time of his death.

Judge Biddle was the oldest member of the Board of Trustees both in respect to age and continuous years of service. At his death he served on the executive committee and was chairman of the nominating committee.

He was born in Irvine, Pa., in 1865, the son of Edward Macfunn and Mary Irvine Leiper Biddle. After his graduation from Dickinson with Phi Beta Kappa honors in 1886, he read law in the Carlisle office of Judge E. W. Biddle, '70, and was admitted to the Cumberland County bar in 1888. He cultivated a busy and important practice and appeared frequently in review of cases in the State Superior and Supreme Courts. For many years he was recognized as the leading member of the county bar.

Elected sole judge in 1922, he served until 1932 and earned the distinction of never having had a decision reversed by a higher court. He resumed private practice upon leaving the bench. He was a delegate to the Democratic National Conventions of 1916 and 1924.

Judge Biddle had many interests. In addition to his long service to the College as Trustee and as a Trustee of Metzger College, he was a director of the Carlisle Trust Company and the Frog, Switch and Manufacturing Company and served on the board of numerous civic groups. He was a member of the Second Presbyterian Church.

Judge Biddle never married. Cousins were his closest survivors. He was buried in the Old Graveyard, in Carlisle.

Receives Air Force Award

Thomas W. Richards, '50, has received an Air Force award for inventing a slide rule device that saved his office $5,000 the first year of operation.

This is the third Air Force award he has received within a year. In June 1954, he and two associates were recognized for developing and implementing a mechanical system for the collation of research materials. The system, in operation, saved the Air Force $56,000. In further recognition, he received a Civil Service outstanding performance rating in June 1954.

Following his graduation from the College, he received his M.A. from the University of Maryland in 1951. He now resides with his wife and son in Arlington, Va.

Professor Milton W. Eddy to Retire in June

DR. MILTON W. EDDY, a teacher for 45 years and chairman of the department of biology at Dickinson for 34, will retire from active teaching duty at the end of the current academic year in June, President William W. Edell has announced.

Dr. Eddy, who was born in Calcutta, India, of American parents, was 26 years old when he began his teaching career at Pennsylvania State College in 1910. He was chairman of the zoology department there from 1912 to 1918. He spent the next three years at Perry Point, Md., with the U. S. Public Health Service and as assistant chief chemist of the Atlas Powder Company and came to Dickinson in 1921 to head the biology department.

He has been a visiting professor of the University of Pennsylvania and Brooklyn College. He was president in 1949 of the Pennsylvania Entomological Society which he helped found 32 years ago.

Dr. Eddy has kept his classrooms and well-equipped laboratory in step with educational advancements, and his department, upon which ever heavier demands have been placed by increasingly high standards for pre-professional training for medicine and allied fields, rates with the strongest at Dickinson. Hundreds of his students have gone to enviable places in science. Probably his most noted former pupil is the University of Georgia biochemist, Paul R. Burkholder, '24, discoverer of chloromysetin, one of the "wonder" drugs.

In his laboratory at Dickinson, Dr. Eddy made the investigations into microphotography of hair which added a new weapon to the armory of criminal investigation and established him as the recognized authority on the identification of persons by hair specimens. His knowledge in this field has allowed him unequivocally to identify persons by hair samples, and at the request of law enforcement officers he has taken part in many investigations in several states. His testimony has helped to bring about the conviction of nearly a score of persons involved in murder or assault.

He is the author of many published articles on such varied scientific subjects as "Pathological study of a commercial yeast in the lungs of white rats," "Oxygen consumption of the fresh water mussel," "Technique in hair, fur and wool identification," all based upon research of his own or in conjunction with departmental associates or students.

A man of many interests and hobbies, Dr. Eddy is an ardent photographer and his collection of old lamps, candlesticks and other lighting devices illustrating the history of illumination from ancient times is a large and noted one.

Dr. Eddy graduated from Northwestern University in 1910 and did graduate work at the University of Pennsylvania, where he received his master's degree in 1912 and his Ph.D. in 1918.

Dr. and Mrs. Eddy are the parents of Mrs. Fred C. McDonnell, '35; Mrs. Frances Quinn, '37, and Mrs. Jeannette Graham, '43.

Reviewers Laud Book of Professor Sloane

Children's Books in England & America in the Seventeenth Century. By William Sloane. 251 pp. New York: King's Crown Press, Columbia University. $5.

DR. WILLIAM SLOANE, Martha Porter Sellers Professor of English, Chairman of the Department of English, is the author of Children's Books in England & America in the Seventeenth Century, a book published by King's Crown Press, Columbia University, which has won the praise of all reviewers. It also won such wide acceptance as to require a second printing, a rarity in scholarly publications.

It has been called the first comprehensive description of books written for and read by children between 1557 and 1710 and has become a standard reference on early children's books in a few months' time.

Dr. Sloane spent a year in England gathering the material for his book. He found that contrary to general opinion that many children's books were written in the seventeenth century. The second part of his book lists 261 books in a checklist which also gives "pertinent, descriptive, scholarly and amusing information about each one. The volume is a treasure for everyone interested in children's literature and in the effect of ideas upon the young," according to one reviewer.

Writing in the Books for Boys and Girls Section of the New York Herald Tribune Book Review in February, Louise S. Bechtel said "In half the book five chapters present a remarkably well-rounded picture of the religion, philosophy, educational ideas, history, adult reading, of the seventeenth century as they affected writing of that era for children. These essays happily mingle research and learning, in an attempt to distinguish the seventeenth century point of view from our own so that our understanding goes far beneath the quaintness of the titles."

In his book Dr. Sloane answers such questions as What kinds of books were written for 17th century children? Did children read the books written for them? What books were recommended or forbidden? What effort was made to write at the level of children's understanding?

Frank H. Ristine writing in the Hamilton Alumni Review, where Dr. Sloane graduated in 1932 and later was instructor in English, wrote "the reader who approaches this book with the reluctance reserved for scholarly research will be agreeably surprised. Dr. Sloane's study of children's books is entertaining as well as erudite and written with precision and charm."

Writes History of The Methodist Church In Carlisle

History of the Methodist Church in Carlisle, Pennsylvania, 1792-1954
By Ruth E. White. 100 pp. $2.00

AN INTERESTING, authoritative and well written book appeared in March from the pen of Miss Ruth E. White, '04, retired teacher, titled History of the Methodist Church in Carlisle, Pennsylvania, 1792-1954. While the book is exactly what the title sets forth, it is a volume which will interest many Dickinsonians because of the frequent mention of sites and names known to many.

It is apparent that Miss White did a considerable amount of research and carefully scanned all available factual material, and yet succeeded in writing a readable book. Prompted to her work by the disastrous fire which destroyed Allison Church in January 1954, she produced the book and has provided that all proceeds of its sale go into the building fund for the new edifice to be erected on the Benjamin Rush Campus. Copies at $2 each will be available in the Registration Room throughout Commencement, or may be ordered from Thompson's Book Store, 56 West High St., Carlisle, Pa.

The story begins with the a church building at South Pitt Street and Chapel Alley in 1792 and records the six sites used to 1954. Two years after the college affiliation with the Methodist Church in 1833, the congregation bought a site from the German Reformed Church at Pitt and High Streets and sold a former building for $1,250. This new building was used 40 years and was used by the College for all ceremonial occasions. In 1875, the lot was cleared and "The Centenary Church" was built there. The building, which is still standing, is occupied by the Carlisle Commercial College and has several stores on the first floor.

The book recalls that for nearly twenty years (1858-1877) there were two Methodist Churches in Carlisle. The new church was known as "The Emory Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church," and many alumni will remember it. It was the college preparatory school from 1877 to 1888, and the Dickinson School of Law building from 1890 to 1919. It is now the site of the Grace E. U. B. Church.

The story of the building of Allison Church which was completed and dedicated in March 1892 is well told. The volume also gives accounts of the organizations within the church and a list of the pastors.

Miss White reveals that the use of the church buildings by college organizations and for college functions brought qualms to church officials. She tells that in 1836 the Union Philosophical Society asked for the use of the church to hold an anniversary meeting. The qualms and the beliefs of that day are found in "Resolved: To grant their request upon the following conditions: that no instruments be used than such as form a suitable accompaniment to vocal music, such as bass viol, flute, violin and clarinet,—also that it be understood there be no clapping, shouting, or other unseemly noise during the exercises."

Either times changed in eight years or the men of Belles Lettres were better behaved for in 1844 the restrictions for an anniversary meeting "had to do only with despoiling the church property for the sake of decoration."

On Evangelistic Crusade

Rev. Dr. Howard B. Warren, '15, pastor of the East Avenue Methodist Church, Norwalk, Conn., on invitation of Bishop John W. Branscomb of Florida, participated in the International Evangelistic Crusade in Cuba February 7-17th.

There were 180 ministers and laymen from 38 states who went to Cuba and Dr. Warren was the only participant from New England,

Write the Story of the Micmac Indians of Canada

The Micmac Indians of Eastern Canada* by Wilson D. Wallis and Ruth Sawtell Wallis. University of Minnesota Press, $7.50.

A COMPREHENSIVE anthropological study of an Indian tribe that lives chiefly in the maritime provinces of Canada has just been published by the University of Minnesota press. The book, "The Micmac Indians of Eastern Canada," by Dr. Wilson D. Wallis, '07 and Ruth Sawtell Wallis, his wife, describes in detail how the Micmac live, what they believe, and how their culture has changed in the last 300 years.

Dr. Wallis is one of Dickinson's few Rhodes Scholars. A native of Maryland, he received his A.B. from Dickinson in 1907 and the A.M. in 1910. He attended Oxford University, England, as a Rhodes Scholar, and received his diploma and Bachelor of Science degree there in 1910. He received the Ph.D. degree from the university of Pennsylvania in 1915.

During his earlier years, Dr. Wallis taught at the University of Pennsylvania, the University of California and Fresno Junior College. He then spent two years at Reed College and joined the faculty of the University of Minnesota in 1923. Until his retirement last year, he was the chairman of the department of anthropology there. His wife is a research associate in anthropology at the Science Museum, St. Paul, Minn. Their home now is South Woodstock, Conn.

The Micmac tribe now numbers about 5,000 members and has stayed in the same regions of eastern Canada—the Gaspé Peninsula, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, and Prince Edward Island for 300 years.

The earliest accounts of the Micmac Indians were written by French missionaries and explorers who settled or visited in these regions in the seventeenth century. The Wallises, a husband and wife anthropologist team, base their study on field research covering a 40-year span, and they compare their twentieth-century observations with those recorded by the French 300 years ago.

Wilson D. Wallis first visited the Micmac settlements in 1911-12. He and Ruth Wallis visited them in 1950 and again in 1953, assessing changes in the material culture of the tribe and in the orientation, drives, and motivations of the people. The ethnographic study describes the arts and industries of the Micmac, the social and political life, religious concepts and practices, festivals, witchcraft, and many other aspects of the tribal culture.

A second section of the book contains a collection of 144 Micmac folktales, such as stories of supernatural beings, of adventures of men and animals, and of fights with the Mohawk tribe, the French, and the British.

The book contains 49 illustrations, both photographs and drawings, showing some of the members of the tribe, wigwams and houses, articles of craft and clothing, and details of designs and methods used in craftwork. The appendixes contain glossaries of Micmac zoological, botanical, and anatomical terms, and there is an extensive bibliography.

At Millersville Centennial

Dr. Mary A. Brightbill, '27, was the Dickinson College delegate at the 100th Anniversary Celebration of Millersville State College, Millersville, Pa., on March 4. She has taught English there since 1946.

Following her graduation from the college with Phi Beta Kappa honors, she taught Latin at Hershey, Pa., 1927-29 and then taught Latin and English at Piermont, N. Y., from 1932 until she joined the Millersville faculty. She did her graduate work at Cornell, where she received her A.M. in 1932 and the Ph.D. degree in 1932.

“Let’s Have A Better World”

DANIEL W. LA RUE, '04, in his “sky parlor” in East College, used to try his hand at poetry, fiction and essays, and dream of becoming an author. He contributed to The Dickinsonian and was literary editor of the Microcosm. On Class Day, the prediction for him was that he would achieve eminence in letters.

Dr. La Rue disclaims the fulfilment of that prophecy, although he has produced several textbooks, some of which have been used in Dickinson, Harvard, Columbia and other institutions of high standing. He has also contributed numerous articles to such periodicals as School and Society, The Scientific Monthly, The Nation's Schools, and The Journal of the National Education Association. He is listed in the who's who books among leading authors, scientists and educators.

In his latest book*, fresh from the press, he addresses a wider audience, the general public, presenting a comprehensive, systemic, creative study of civilization, its maladies and their remedies.

The volume has already received high praise. It “ignites me,” said a former president of the American Psychological Association. A committee representing The American Association for the Advancement of Science reported that it was “very highly regarded,” and unanimously approved it.

The compass of civilization, Dr. La Rue finds, has four cardinal points, four major objectives. These are, for all humanity, freedom for self-realization, abundance of economic goods, a super-equipped superself, and a philosophy of life that harmonizes us with our universe. Despite the profundity of the problems involved, the book is simply written.

After leaving Dickinson, Mr. La Rue served as supervising principal of the schools of Milford, Del., and superintendent of schools in Augusta, Me. He won his degree of Doctor of Philosophy at Harvard, and later taught psychology, education and eugenics in the Summer School there. Until recently, he has had charge of the Department of Education in the State Teachers College at East Stroudsburg, Pa., where he taught psychology, ethics, and the history and philosophy of education. He was also acting president for a time. Mrs. La Rue, a Syracuse graduate, is a well-known writer of books for children.

Dr. La Rue has retired from classroom work and now devotes his whole time to research and authorship.

Printer Misses Schedule

The firm printing the Alumni Directory has apparently gotten behind schedule and the new book has not been delivered to the Alumni Office and cannot be mailed with this issue of the magazine as had been announced. It will go into the mails to all Lifers and members of the General Alumni Association as soon as possible.

Harrisburg Club Stages Panel Session

By Robert G. Crist, '47

ALUMNI spanning six full decades of Dickinson history attended the annual meeting of the Dickinson Club of Harrisburg April 28 at the West Shore Country Club. Taking bows as the youngest alumni were George Orwig and William Woodside, of the class of 1954. "Ted" Moses, of the class of 1898, announced his willingness to accept the mantle as "oldest present" if permitted the privilege of telling a story.

Anxious to hear a panel discussion, the 97 persons present raced through a business session, stopping only long enough to applaud W. P. C. Morgenthaler's, '25, application for Life Membership in the Alumni Association.

John Morgenthaler, '21, was named moderator of a panel of college and law school "brass" which took on all "comers." Questions from alumni centered around recent efforts of the college to formulate a policy satisfactory to all concerned in regards to fraternity rushing. A corollary issue which got through treatment was the question of whether freshmen shall eat in the new Morgan Dormitory.

Judge Robert E. Woodside, '26, from the audience made known the appointment of a trustee's committee to study fraternity-college relationships. He told of a bulging dossier of facts gleaned by the committee and urged interested alumni to attend an open hearing on the subject May 7 in Carlisle.

Asked about athletic policy at the college, Treasurer George Shuman acknowledged that the policy had not been changed at least since 1934. A final subject for discussion was the rapid faculty turn-over. President William W. Edel suggested that about 80 members of the faculty had left in the last ten years but said that higher salaries and positions of greater prestige were the chief reasons for the departure of the half-dozen men which the President said the college would have liked to retain.

Elected president of the club was Lewis F. Adler, '30. John D. Hopper, '48, and William W. Caldwell, '48, were elected vice presidents and Howell C. Mette, '48, secretary-treasurer. Twelve Life Members, including retiring president Mrs. Charles S. Rhein, '32, were elected to the Executive Committee.

'83 Alumnus Honored

At its 1954 session the New Jersey Conference of the Methodist Church erected a memorial to the Rev. Henry Nehemiah Cheesman, A.B., A.M., '83, by its acceptance as the "New Jersey Conference Cane" of the gold-headed ebony stick he once carried. By direction of the Conference it is for the present in the possession of the Rev. Dr. George H. Neal, oldest member of the Conference, now a resident of the Methodist Home at Ocean Grove, N. J. After correspondence with Bishop Fred P. Corson, '17, the cane was presented to the Conference, as a memorial gift for assignment to its oldest member, by the minister's nephew, William H. Cheesman, '04, of Washington, D. C., it having been preserved in his family since the owner's death in 1894. It was originally presented by the police force of Camden, N. J., to the mayor of that city in 1874 as a token of esteem, and on his death it was reinscribed in 1911 by his widow as a gift to the Rev. Mr. Cheesman, then her pastor in Camden. On the death of Dr. Neal the cane will revert, as proposed by Bishop Corson, to the wardenship of Dr. W. W. Payne, superintendent of the Ocean Grove Home, in order that by reassignment it may again serve an oldest member of the Conference resident in the Home, as a continuing memorial to the Dickinson alumnus of 1883.

New York Alumni Club Makes Scholarship Award

HIGH-LIGHTED by the appearance of the Men's Glee Club of the college and a fine dinner, the annual meeting of the Dickinson Club of New York was held on April 22 in the Executive Dining Room of the Esso Company in Schrafft's Restaurant, Rockefeller Center. There were 96 present.

In the business session, the club voted to continue the annual scholarship award and planned to raise the funds needed for it.

Awarded Columbia Fellowship

Frank S. Houck, '52, who is doing research at Columbia University for a doctorate in the field of nuclear chemistry, was recently awarded a University Fellowship by Columbia for study during the 1955-56 academic year. The fellowships are awarded by the University Council to graduate students who have shown themselves especially fitted to pursue courses of higher study and original investigation as candidates for a degree. During the term now closing Houck has been a National Science Foundation Fellow. He expects to complete his doctoral studies in one more year.

Awarded Rotary Grant For Study Abroad

MISS Elizabeth A. Swaim, '54, who will receive a master's degree in library science in June from the Carnegie Institute of Technology, will study next term at the University of London under a Rotary Foundation Fellowship. She will enter the University in October following a month's tour of Europe.

Miss Swaim was one of 108 outstanding graduate students from 28 countries to be named Rotary Fellows for the 1955-56 term, from among several hundred candidates. The grants average $2,500. Becomes A Magistrate

Dorothy V. Reeve, '36, attorney of Toms River, N. J., was appointed magistrate there by the Mayor in March.

She was admitted to the New Jersey Bar in 1939 and practiced law until 1942, when she enlisted in the Waves. She was discharged with the rank of Lt. in 1946 after a tour of duty in Hawaii. She then returned to practice in Toms River. As a reservist she was recalled to active duty in 1950 and was released with the rank of Lt. Cmdr. a year ago, when she reopened her offices.

On Education Board

Robert A. Waidner, '32, was elected on the Education Fund of the Baltimore Annual Conference board in April. He was named to succeed the late Lewis M. Bacon, '02. He is a trustee of the college, as Charles C. Duke, who is president of the board. Homer M. Respass, '17, is secretary-treasurer and Carlyle R. Earp, '14, is also a member of the board. The others are Mr. John G. Matthews, Dr. Arthur Davies and the Rev. Dr. Edgar Cordell Powers, who received an honorary degree from the college.

Becomes Drew Trustee

F. LAMONT HENNINGER

The Rev. Dr. F. LaMont Henninger, '24, was elected a member of the Board of Trustees of Drew University last month. This is probably the first time that such a place has been given to a member of the Central Pennsylvania Conference. He is the district superintendent of the Harrisburg District.

In succeeding years, 1953, 1954 and 1955 Dr. Henninger has been elected a trustee of all three of his alma maters, Lycoming, Dickinson, Drew respectively.

During the past year he was elected a trustee of the Pennsylvania Temperance League and trustee of the Pennsylvania Council of Churches. Recently the Pennsylvania Council of Churches named him chairman of a committee of fifteen denominational leaders and prominent laymen across the state to study the possibility of erecting a Protestant Center for Pennsylvania in Harrisburg which may cost $500,000.

In April he went to Alaska on an educational mission in connection with the establishment of a Methodist College in Anchorage.

Baltimore Attendance Jumps

The best attended dinner in years of the Dickinson Club of Baltimore was held on March 22 when 102 were present. It was held in the Lovely Lane Methodist Church of which the Rev. Kenneth R. Rose, '45, is pastor.

Headed by Homer R. Respass, '17, president of the club, an energetic committee reaped the reward for work well done in a fine gathering. An excellent baked ham dinner was served by a ladies group of the church at a charge of $2 a plate.

Following the dinner, a male quartet and their accompanist from the college gave a half hour's program after every one sang "We're Lounging On the Old Stone Steps."

Mr. Respass proved an efficient toastmaster. The Rev. Mr. Rose offered the invocation and the speakers were President William W. Edel and Vice President Gilbert Malcolm.

Catherine S. Eitemiller, '46, was elected president to succeed Mr. Respass. In the business session she also made a report of the Mary Dickinson Club of Baltimore. Theodore R. Bonwit, '53, was elected first vice president and Martha L. Weis, '53, who had been secretary and read the minutes in the business session was elected second vice president. Robert C. Reppess, '41, was elected treasurer, while Edna R. Eitemiller, '52, and Robert C. Respass, '41, was chosen secretary and assistant secretary respectively. It will be noted that with the exception of Bob Respass all of the Baltimore club officers have been out of college less than ten years.

Serves As Representative

George E. Myers, '10, of Grand Forks, N. D., served as the delegate of Dickinson College at the inauguration of Dr. George W. Starcher as President of the University of North Dakota on April 20.

The Bramble's Aren't Lost!

The last number of the magazine listed a number of missing addresses and sought the whereabouts of Dr. Charles C. Bramble, '12, and his wife the former Edith Rinker, '13. The mechanics of a mailing room could not very well keep up with them, but they are now in White Plains, N. Y.

At the end of January, 1954, after over 36 years with the Navy Department and most of it as Senior Professor of Mathematics and Mechanics at the U. S. Naval Postgraduate School, Dr. Bramble retired from government service. He then joined the technical staff of the Norden Laboratories at White Plains where his professional life goes on quite actively.

Last summer he and Mrs. Bramble took a five week trip to Europe travelling by air. Early this year they went to Florida to visit one of their daughters and her family. She is Mrs. James C. Aller, Oxnard, Calif. They have another daughter, Mrs. Martin P. Knowlton, who lives in South Portland, Maine, and a son, James Henry Bramble, who is instructor in mathematics and a graduate student at the University of Maryland.

As a member of the Norden staff, Dr. Bramble is a technical consultant particularly in the fields of applied mathematics, mechanics, ballistics and computation. He is also concerned with the technical coordination of some major laboratory projects.

Writes Several Articles

Dr. John J. Bunting, Jr., '40, now minister of the Newark Methodist Church, Newark, Del., is the author of articles appearing currently in two national religious publications.

An eleven-page article entitled "Religion Among the Novelists" appears in the Spring Issue of Religion in Life, "A Christian Quarterly of Opinion and Discussions," published by the Abingdon Press. It provides a Christian criticism of twentieth century American fiction, discussing the surprising number of insights to be found which, although often by negative means, provide support of the Christian viewpoint.

A full-length sermon, "I Feared," appears in the April issue of The Upper Room Pulpit, and tells autobiographically the history of Simon Peter during the days of Jesus' Passion.

Dr. Bunting has also written for The Pastor, The Christian Century Pulpit, and other periodicals.

The Newark Methodist Church, of which Dr. Bunting is minister, has 1,200 members and serves the students and faculty of the University of Delaware through the Wesley Foundation, Methodist student organization. During the five years he has been minister of the church the budget has doubled in size and the membership of the church has had a net increase of four hundred.

Heads Happiness House

Mrs. Elizabeth Ney Singe, '46, was appointed executive director and chief therapist for Happiness House and Clinic for physically handicapped children and adults at Sarasota, Fla., in January. It is the most outstanding institution of its type in Florida.

The staff is comprised of four teachers with certificates in special education, eight registered therapists, an occupational therapist, a speech therapist and a clinical staff of five M.D.'s. Happiness House incorporates both a day school for physically handicapped children and an outpatient clinic for both children and adults in which an average of 750 treatments are given weekly.

Mrs. Singe graduated from the college with Phi Beta Kappa honors in 1946 and received her B.S. in nursing education at the University of Dayton. A registered nurse and a registered therapist, Mrs. Singe is a graduate of the Jefferson Hospital School for Nurses. She is the wife of Colonel Donald C. Singe, Medical Corps, U. S. Army.

To Hold Commencement Outdoors Again

EXACTLY following the program of last year, the 182nd Commencement Exercises and the Baccalaureate Services will be held outdoors on the Benjamin Rush Campus with the Baird Biology Building as the background on Sunday, June 12. In the event of rain, the Alumni Gymnasium will be used.

The Rev. Frederick Brown Harris, D.D., '08, Chaplain of the United States Senate, will preach the sermon at the Baccalaureate Services at 10:30 o'clock on Sunday morning. The academic procession will form half an hour earlier. At the Commencement Exercises at 3 o'clock that afternoon the speaker will be Dr. Leonard Carmichael, Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution.

The three day Commencement week end will open with the Senior Day Exercises on Friday afternoon, June 10, at 3 o'clock at the Old Stone Steps, and these ceremonies will include the presentation of the 1902 Award, the traditional Ivy Oration and the induction of the Senior Class into the General Alumni Association. This will be followed by the Dean of Women's Tea at Drayer Hall and the Commencement Ball that night.

The highlight of Alumni Day will be the Alumni Luncheon at noon on Saturday, June 11, in the Alumni Gymnasium. Alumni can procure their tickets at $1 per person in the Registration Room in Old West which will open on Thursday afternoon, June 9. All reunion classes will gather at the luncheon. The Class of 1905 celebrating their 50th Reunion will have the place of honor on the platform and it appears a fine representation from that group will be there.

The spotlight will fall on the Class of 1920 gathered in their 35th Reunion, when the Rev. Ralph L. Minker, who is reunion chairman, unveils a portrait of a member of that class, Dean Emeritus Russell I. Thompson. Other classes are planning major gifts to the College at the luncheon. As has been done for the

For the Unattached

A limited number of rooms in Drayer Hall will be provided for the accommodation of former co-eds during Commencement. These may be used either Friday or Saturday, June 10 and 11, or for both nights.

Accommodations will also be available in Conway Hall for men desiring them.

So far as possible requests should be made in advance to George Shuman, Jr., Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa., or at the Registration Room in Old West immediately upon arrival.

past several years, the luncheon will be served buffet style by the Slater System.

The President's Reception will be held from 3 to 4 o'clock that afternoon and fraternity banquets will start at 6 o'clock. The Alpha Chi Rho chapter will hold a special celebration to mark its 50th Anniversary at Dickinson. Those without fraternity affiliations will be welcomed at the dinner meeting of the Mary Dickinson Club at Drayer Hall.

The Alumni Prom and Band Concert will begin at 9 o'clock Saturday night on the John Dickinson Campus with the Old Stone Steps as the focal point.

Alumni of the College are also invited to attend the Commencement Exercises of the Dickinson School of Law which will be held on Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the Sadler Curtilage, or in Bosler Hall in the event of rain. The address will be delivered by the Hon. Horace Stern, Chief Justice of Pennsylvania.

To answer a question many older alumni always ask—there will be no baseball game on Saturday afternoon. The team closes its season in May.

Lectures At Centenary

Bishop Fred P. Corson, '17, spent three days in March at Centenary College, Shreveport, La., to deliver five lectures in the Willson Lecture Series. It was the second such program in which Centenary brings to the campus each year an outstanding speaker in the field of religion or education.

The college opened the new Brown Memorial Chapel for the lectures which were presented in three morning and two evening sessions.

The theme of the series was "Living In A World Of Difference." Bishop Corson spoke on "Disorder In A World Of Difference," "Life In A World Of Difference," "The Individual In A World of Difference," "Communication In A World Of Difference," and "Co-operation In A World Of Difference."

At the Methodist Council of Bishops held in Seattle in April, Bishop Corson was chosen to deliver the Episcopal address at the quadrennial general Methodist Conference in Minneapolis in April, 1956.

Dr. Herber Wins Award

Dr. Elmer Charles Herber, professor of biology at the College, and a Temple University scientist were named co-winners of the annual Darbaker Award of the Pennsylvania Academy of Science for presenting the best papers on original research in biology at the academy's annual meeting in April at Philadelphia. Each received $150.

Dr. Herber, a former president of the society, whose special field is parasitology, described the life cycle of a parasite that infects muskrats and snails. Research was done in his laboratory at the College and the Michigan Biological Station. At the same meeting of the academy, he read a second paper on Spencer Fullerton Baird, 19th century naturalist and Dickinson graduate, whose life is the subject of special research by Dr. Herber.

The resignation, effective May 31, was given to the seminary's board of governors on May 3.

In leaving the educational field, Dr. Welliver returns to a Methodist conference in which he served with marked success as pastor and administrator for many years. His pastoral appointments in the Central Pennsylvania Conference included Altoona, Bellwood, Lewisburg and Clearfield. He was superintendent of the Harrisburg District in 1943 when called to head the seminary.

Dickinson College Athletic Policy

To set forth the Dickinson College Athletic Policy, President William W. Edel prepared the following statement, which was approved by the Athletic Board of Control in April and endorsed by the Faculty on May 2, 1955. It is as follows:

1. The educational purpose of the College is primary and athletics, both intercollegiate and intramural, must be an integral part of this primary purpose and must not detract from it.
2. There is not now and there will be no subsidization of athletes. Scholarships and Grants-in-Aid are made to athletes on the same terms as to all other students.
3. Where athletes receive student employment by the College, it will be under the same terms and conditions as for all other students.
4. The College appreciates the loyalty and devotion of its athletes and honors them by its highest award in the area of sports: the red "D" of Dickinson College.
5. In recognition of the services of athletes in representing the College in intercollegiate contests, members of the faculty should make it possible that athletes have the opportunity to make up all work missed when on trips representing the College.
6. Intercollegiate athletic contests are amateur events and will be scheduled where possible only with other institutions having similar athletic and academic policies.

THE roster of Life Members of the General Alumni Association, published annually in the May number of THE DICKINSON ALUMNUS by direction of the Alumni Council, lists a total of 1,446 names on the following pages. About one out of every five alumni is a Lifer.

The Class of 1934 stood pat with 38 and is now tied by 1929 which gained two. There is another tie with 1917 and 1935 each having 37.

The Class of 1954 added eight to lead all classes in the greatest number for the year, but of the earlier classes 1938 added five to total 30 and get into contention, and a place in the top classes.
