Commencement to Mark Tenth Anniversary

By BOYD LEE SPAHR, '00
President of the Board of Trustees

TEN years ago at the annual meeting of the Board of Trustees in June, 1946, Dr. William W. Edel was elected 22nd President of Dickinson College.

When I saw him after he had been recommended for the appointment, he was in the uniform of a captain of the United States Navy. He wore a gold braided visored cap and his left breast was covered with the ribbons and decorations he had won in his 30 years in the Chaplain's Corps. Though he did not serve the Navy as a navigator, he has expertly guided the ship of Dickinson College since he took the helm.

The log of his ten years is now recorded in the 183 years of the history of the College. There has been fair weather and foul, but all in all the sailing has been good. He has charted a course for the years to come headed for the Bicentennial Harbor in 1973 in a finer ship than ever before.

To end this allegory, the entries in the log of the past ten years show advances in academic recognition, improved teaching, a nearly doubled enrollment, a larger faculty, a fine and greater plant, increased endowment, the interest and support of many new friends, most recently manifested in the $406,400 grant of the Ford Foundation, one-half of which will be received in June 1956 and the other half a year later. This grant is in two parts—a basic gift of $270,934, the income from which must for ten years be used only for increases in faculty salaries and an accomplishment award of $135,466, given to only 126 colleges in the country, which may be used for any purpose decided by the College Trustees.

While the College has been fully accredited by a number of standardizing agencies for many years, new recognition came in 1949 when Dickinson became one of the 110 leading colleges and universities of the United States to be members of the College Entrance Examination Board, and then in 1952 joined the Educational Testing Service. More recently, accreditation for professional training in chemistry has been given by the American Chemical Society.

Bringing to the faculty scholars with broad training and advanced degrees and the addition of new teaching aids and equipment have improved the teaching at the College in these years. The great improvement in faculty salaries and fringe benefits since 1946 have enabled the President to hold and to secure teachers who might otherwise have been lost to the College. During this period, six professorial chairs have been endowed, two in Chemistry, two in Philosophy and Religion, one in Political Science and one in American History.

Chief of the teaching aids is the greater use of the library with an increase in the number of catalogued books and periodicals from 75,000 to more than 100,000. Included also are the renovation of the Chemistry laboratories, the acquisition of an electron-microscope, the establishment of a statistical laboratory in accounting and statistics, the electronic language laboratory and the audio-visual aid center.

The teaching has been further strengthened by the broadening of the curriculum and many new offerings. Among these are the Binary Engineering programs with Case Institute of Technology, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute and the engineering schools of the University of Pennsylvania; a department of the Dramatic Arts, a Department of Geology, an Artist-in-Residence, and the R. O. T. C. program.

Of benefit to faculty and students alike are the programs of the Great Preacher Series and the more recent Great Teacher Series, both of which bring nationally known ministers and teachers to the campus.

To these must be added the annual Joseph Priestley Celebration first held in 1952 and each spring since, when many nationally known scientists and educators participate in the program. At this time, the Dickinson College Award in memory of Joseph Priestley, the discoverer of oxygen, is given to a distinguished scientist for his contributions to the welfare of mankind. The Award is in the form of the Priestley Medallion, a ceramic medallion struck from the original molds made in 1779 by the first Josiah Wedgwood. When he went to England in 1951, Dr. Edel located the mold when on a friendly visit to the Wedgwood family. The National Cylinder Gas Company, one of the largest producers of oxygen in this country, has added a check of $1,000 to the award winner. Since the establishment of the Award, it has been presented to the following persons:

- 1952—Sir Hugh Stott Taylor, dean of the Graduate School of Princeton University.
- 1953—Paul W. Burkholder, '24, then Osborne Professor of Botany at Yale University, the discoverer of Chloromycetin.
- 1954—Karl T. Compton (now deceased), former president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology and in 1954 chairman of that corporation.
- 1955—Harold C. Urey, nuclear physicist of the University of Chicago.
- 1956—Detlev W. Bronk, president of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research.

More additions and changes have been made to the physical plant of the College since 1946, when Dr. Edel became president, than in the term of any other president. The new structures erected are South College, Drayer Hall, Morgan Hall and the Maintenance Building at the rear of Conway. Buildings purchased and remodeled for college purposes are the Biddle House and the McIntire House, now used as women's dormitories; Montgomery Hall, the former residence of Dr. Harry B. Stock, which was practically rebuilt to provide faculty apartments; and dwellings on Chapel Avenue which were renovated as residences for college employes. The former health center was moved back to adjoin Conway Hall and its former site became the residence of the dean of the College.

A few years ago changes to the heating system cost nearly $100,000. This included for a central plant where the old gymnasium had stood and the replacing of a number of underground steam lines which cannot now be seen.

In 1946 the appraised value of the grounds, buildings and equipment of the College was about $2,000,000 while today it is $5,500,000.

Earlier this year ground was broken for the new Allison Church, now being erected on the Benjamin Rush Campus where the College chapel will be held following its completion.

Some of the improvements to the College plant during his presidency were made possible through the major financial campaign inaugurated in 1948 when more than a million dollars was subscribed in the first phase of a Ten Year Development Program which he instituted. Other needs were met through the Annual Giving Fund which up to June 1955 totaled $281,048.89 for his first nine years and is now over $50,000 for this year as this is written to assure a total of well over $330,000 by Commencement. Last year's total of $60,968.65 was the highest in the history of the fund.

During the ten years the endowment fund of the College has grown from about $2,000,000 in 1946 to a market value of $4,989,861 as of June 30, 1955. The addition of the Ford Gift will bring this to at least $5,390,000.

Our President won international recognition in 1951 when he was made an Honorary Freeman of Carlisle, England, and early this month he was honored at a luncheon in Carlisle by the Newcomen Society of England and the United States, an international society of industrial leaders with more than 14,000 members. In 1949, the University of Pennsylvania and Gettysburg College each conferred upon him the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws and in 1950, Boston University awarded him the degree of Doctor of Humanities. On June 4, Lebanon Valley College will award him the degree of Doctor of Canon and Civil Laws.

Alert to the need for greater financial support for the College and the enlistment of new friends, Dr. Edel was active in founding the Mary Dickinson Club and also the Parents Council, which last year gave $7,000 for faculty salaries. The Mary Dickinson Club has raised $11,300, including a Life Membership Fund of $3,500 now part of the College endowment and has made many other gifts. Dr. Edel also took a leading role in the formation of The Methodist Foundation for Higher Education in Pennsylvania and in the Foundation for Independent Colleges, Inc., of Pennsylvania, of which he is the president for 1956 and 1957.

Looking ahead, Dr. Edel has recommended to the Board of Trustees the erection of a new building for Chemistry adjoining the Tome Scientific Building, the demolition of the Baird Building and the building there of a new Student Activities Building which will include an Auditorium. He also envisions the possibility of other buildings on the Benjamin Rush Campus. With these additions, he sees the probability of Dickinson College having one of the finest physical plants of any small college in the country and with him, I hope the alumni and friends of the College will join to make this dream come true.

Luncheon at Pittsburgh

A near blizzard marred attendance, though 33 made it, at the annual luncheon of the Dickinson Club on March 17 at the Gateway Plaza Restaurant. The Rev. W. Donald Whetsel, '29, pastor of the Methodist Church, Turtle Creek, Pa., offered the invocation.

Clarence B. Nixon, Jr., '44, retiring president of the club, turned over the gavel to James L. Bruggeman, '50, who was elected his successor, and who introduced the speakers.

D. Fenton Adams, Acting Dean of the Law School, opened the speaking program. He was followed by George Shuman, Jr., Treasurer and Financial Vice President of the College and Gilbert Malcolm closed.

James G. Parks, '52, was elected vice president of the club and Mrs. C. W. Baker, the former Dorothy M. Williams, '38, of Glenshaw, Pa., was named secretary-treasurer.

Four to Receive Honorary Degrees in June

HERBERT W. GLASSCO

LEWIS D. GOTTSCHALL

TWO Dickinsonians from the Class of 1922 are among four distinguished persons who will be awarded honorary degrees at the 183d Commencement Exercises on June 3.

The Reverend Dr. Lewis Douglas Canon Gottschall, rector of St. Peter's Protestant Episcopal Church, Piedmont, Calif., will receive the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters. He will also deliver the Baccalaureate Sermon on Sunday at 10:30 a.m.

The Reverend Herbert William Glassco, superintendent of the Altoona District of the Methodist Church since 1950, will receive the degree of Doctor of Divinity.

Others to be honored are:

Prof. Samuel McCune Lindsay, distinguished authority on social legislation and professor emeritus of Columbia University, with the degree of Doctor of Social Legislation.

Dr. Frank C. Marino, prominent Baltimore surgeon and civic leader, who will receive the Doctor of Science degree.

One of the few perpetual canons of the Episcopal Church, the Rev. Dr. Gottschall has received several honorary degrees including the Doctor of Laws from St. John's University in India. He has been rector of St. Peter's for the last 20 years, where he has also appeared regularly on radio and television. He pioneered the "Dial-a-Prayer" movement and approximately 20,000 persons have availed themselves of this unique service in its first year of operation. The Rev. Dr. Gottschall is the author of several pamphlets and numerous articles of faith and prayer. He has been awarded the Grande Prix Humanitaire de Belgique and is the wearer of the $5,000 re-created signet ring of King Solomon. A loyal and active Dickinsonian, he has been president of the Dickinson Club of Northern California since 1954 and is a Life Member of the General Alumni Association.

The Rev. Glassco received both his Bachelor and Master of Arts degrees from Dickinson College and a Bachelor of Divinity degree from Drew Theological Seminary. He has been a member of the Central Pennsylvania Conference since 1922 and has served several prominent churches. He is the present superintendent of the Altoona District. He was a Trustee of the annual conference of the Methodist Church, a member of the conference Board of Ministerial Training and a Director of the Home for the Aged at Tyrone. He served on the board of the Committee for Conference Relations as a director of the Methodist Training Camp in Newton Hamilton, and as a delegate to the General Conference.

Prof. Lindsay has been one of the most distinguished leaders in education in the country. He has served as adviser on social legislation to United States Presidents from William McKinley to Woodrow Wilson and also New York state governors during that period. He is Chairman Emeritus of the National Child Labor Committee. Since his retirement from Columbia University in 1939, he has worked on his memoirs and has written a paper on the Recollections of Theodore Roosevelt. Prof. Lindsay is co-author of an educational survey of Puerto Rico, where he was at one time Commissioner of Education and was awarded an honorary degree by the University of Puerto Rico. He also has honorary degrees from the University of Pennsylvania and San Marcos University, Peru.

Dr. Marino received his medical degree from the University of Maryland in 1916 and has been practicing in Baltimore since 1920. He has distinguished himself as both an outstanding surgeon and a civic leader and has been at the forefront of several philanthropies of that city. He is also a member of the faculty of the University of Maryland Medical School. In 1956, he was honored by the Sons of Italy for his contributions to civic leadership.

Dr. Marino was born on Christmas Day, 1894 in Baltimore, Maryland. He was graduated with honors from high school and college and completed the four-year medical course at the University of Maryland at 21 years of age and at the head of his class. He interned at the University Hospital and entered the service during World War I, serving in France. After the war, he returned to Baltimore and became superintendent of St. Joseph Hospital. He entered private practice in 1922 and became prominent as a Baltimore surgeon.

Early in his practice, Dr. Marino became interested in civic improvements. He founded and served as first president of the Italian-American Charities of Baltimore and chairman of the state organization committee for Boystown of Italy. He served on the State Welfare Board under three Maryland governors and headed the drive for a Baltimore Symphony Orchestra.

Prof. May Morris to Retire as Librarian

PROF. MAY MORRIS, '09, Librarian of the College since September 1927, will retire at the end of the academic year in June, after a career of devoted service to her Alma Mater during which the library became "the heart of the College."

When she became Librarian she had one assistant. Today there are five professionally trained members of the staff with faculty ratings and four clerical assistants. In addition, a varying number of students have part-time jobs in the library.

Miss Morris estimates that when she became Librarian in 1927 there were then about 30,000 books in the collection which had been catalogued and that today there are more than 75,000 books properly catalogued and many periodicals.

Perhaps the most difficult time in her tenure was in 1940-41, when Bosler Hall was rebuilt. The reconstruction began in April 1940 and was completed for Founders' Day on May 3, 1941. During the rebuilding, the library remained open, reference and reserve collections were transferred to Old West, and no interruption in faculty or student use of the library occurred as a consequence.

A volume could be written of the additions to the library and its use during the years Miss Morris has been its head. This would list many rare collections, priceless Dickinsoniana and other memorabilia, manuscripts and educational films in addition to the steady acquisition of new books annually.

Born in Greenwood, Del., Miss Morris prepared for college at Wilmington Conference Academy. She received her Ph.B. degree from the College in 1909 and graduated from Pratt Institute of Library Science in 1917. She then was on the library staff of Bryn Mawr College for ten years before accepting the appointment of President James Henry Morgan in 1927. Upon the recommendation of President William W. Edel to the Board of Trustees in June 1949, she was advanced to the rank of full professor.

A Chi Omega, she is a member of the American Library Association, the Pennsylvania Library Association and the Association of College and Reference Librarians.

Delaware Club Meets

The annual dinner of the Dickinson Club of Delaware was held in the Tack Room of the new Hunter Restaurant in Wilmington, on May 4 with 43 present.

The Rev. Harry H. Conner, '37, offered the invocation and Jack H. Caum, '34, president of the club, was the toastmaster.

The speakers were Prof. Benjamin D. James, Dean of Admissions; Dr. Frederic W. Ness, Academic Vice President and Dean of the College and Vice President Gilbert Malcolm in that order.

In a brief business session, Jack H. Caum was reelected president of the club. Newly elected to office were Arthur W. Koffenberger, Jr., '48, vice president; Ivy M. Hudson, '23, secretary and Howard L. Williams, '40, treasurer.

Appointed Head of Department of Economics

THE chairmanship of the department of economics at the College, vacant since the sudden death of Prof. C. W. Fink last December, was filled in March with the appointment of Dr. William Haller, Jr., a member of the faculty of the University of Massachusetts since 1946, who has also taught at the University of Vermont and Tulane University.

The appointment will become effective with the start of the new college year July 1, and Dr. Haller will take up his duties in September. He has been given the faculty rank of full professor.

A native of New York City, he attended public school in Leonia, N. J., and Monson Academy, in Massachusetts, and was graduated at Amherst College in 1936 with an A.B. in economics. Columbia University awarded him a master's degree in 1938 and the Ph.D. in 1949.

Dr. Haller began his teaching career in 1939 as instructor of history and economics at Newcomb College, Tulane University, where he remained until 1941 when he went to the University of Vermont as instructor in economics. While at Vermont, he was called to active duty in the U. S. Naval Reserve in 1943 and on concluding three years of service in World War II he joined the faculty of the University of Massachusetts in 1946 as assistant professor of economics.

Currently engaged in research on attitudes toward consumer credit, Dr. Haller was called to Washington this spring with a small group of persons especially concerned with consumer interests and consumer behavior for a conference with the Council of Economic Advisers to the President.

He is the editor of Consumer News, a monthly publication of the National Association of Consumers, and the author of the book "The Puritan Frontier: Town-Planting in New England Colonial Development," published in 1951 as part of the Columbia University Studies in History, Economics and Public Law. He has also written a pamphlet "Consumers Look at Fair Trade" which was published in 1955 by the Council on Consumer Information.

Dr. Haller was married in 1937 to Ruth Grossman. They have two sons, Benjamin Kendall, 14, and David Alexander, 11.

New History Instructor

Appointment of James W. Carson, a graduate of Miami University, in Ohio, and a candidate for the Doctor of Philosophy degree at Syracuse University, to the Dickinson faculty as an instructor in the department of history, effective July 1, has been announced by President Edel.

Mr. Carson graduated from Miami with a B.S. in education in 1949 and earned a master's degree in history there in 1951. He remained at Miami as a part-time instructor and lecturer until the fall of 1953 when he went to Syracuse as an assistant instructor and for advanced graduate work.

He was a Fellow in social science at Syracuse during the 1954-55 term and a part-time instructor in history there for the past year while completing work for his Ph.D. He is a member of the American Political Science Association, American Studies Association, the Ohio Academy of History and the Mississippi Valley Historical Association.

Officers All Dickinsonians

All of the officers elected by the Cumberland County Bar Association at its annual dinner are Dickinsonians. Russell B. Updegraff, '25, '29L, New Cumberland lawyer, was elected president of the association.

The other officers elected were: Joseph L. Kramer, '35L, of Carlisle, vice-president; Robert M. Frey, '50, '53L, of Carlisle, secretary, and Kenneth W. Hess, '57L, Boiling Springs, treasurer.

Named Dean of the Dickinson School of Law

DR. MORRIS L. SHAFER, scholar, educator and lawyer, has been appointed dean of the Dickinson School of Law, it was announced by Judge W. C. Sheely, president of the Board of Trustees of the Law School, in March.

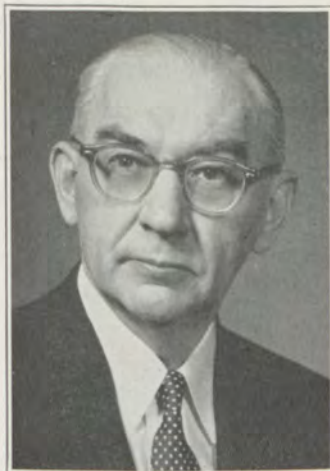

He succeeds Dean Walter Harrison Hitchler and will fill the office held by Prof. D. Fenton Adams, who has been acting dean since Dean Hitchler's retirement. Dr. Shafer has been spending about a day a week in Carlisle since his appointment and will assume full time duties as dean in September.

A Pennsylvanian, Dr. Shafer was born in Weatherly and attended the schools in Northampton. In 1925 he received his Ph.B. degree at Muhlenberg and an A.M. in Economics at Lafayette in 1929. He has done graduate work in history at Lehigh University and in economics at the University of Pennsylvania. He received the Ph.D. degree from New York University in 1935 and the Bachelor of Laws degree from the University of Pennsylvania Law School in 1947. Since then he has practiced law in Allentown.

Beginning in 1934, Dr. Shafer taught economics in the School of Education of New York University in both undergraduate and graduate levels. He then reorganized and supervised off-campus courses of N. Y. U. in various centers in eastern Pennsylvania, and was appointed administrative assistant of the Division of General Education. These courses extended from courses in commerce, through all levels of teacher and nursing training to community surveys and forums. While engaged in this work, he prepared a plan for establishing several junior colleges as university units in New York State.

During the war, he assisted in the Air Cadet Program at the State Teachers' College at Kutztown, Pa., teaching civil air regulations.

While a student at the Pennsylvania Law School he lectured at the Wharton

School for one semester and afterward at Rutgers University.

Dr. Shafer is a Lutheran and a member of the Livingstone Club. He and Mrs. Shafer plan to move to Carlisle during the summer. They have no children.

Elected Vice President N.A.M.

Frank E. Masland, Jr., '18, President of C. H. Masland & Sons, Carlisle manufacturers of rugs and carpets, was elected as a regional vice-president of the National Association of Manufacturers in January.

He is serving as head of the Middle Atlantic Region, which includes Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey, Maryland, Delaware and the District of Columbia.

A director of N.A.M. for five years, he has been active on various committees of the association. Among his committee appointments are Conservation, Inter-Association Relations and Membership Development.

Mr. Masland is vice-president of the Board of Trustees of Dickinson College.

Many Educators Attend Founders' Day

LIBERAL arts programs such as Dickinson's "stimulate the appeal to reason and the craving for truth" which are ever needed to keep men both free and disciplined, said Robert L. D. Davidson, '31, president of Westminster College, in the Founders' Day address on May 1 when he and two other alumni, Gilbert H. Jones, '06, former president of Wilberforce University, and D. Fred Wertz, '37, president of Lycoming College, received the honorary Doctor of Laws degree from President Edell.

Many alumni in careers in education were in the audience that heard Dr. Davidson say that the dilemma of our times is the task of determining the proper boundaries between freedom and discipline and any process of higher education that refuses to bring young minds to grips with the dilemma is fraudulent. He said liberal arts courses thrust all curious minds into the struggle, and it is only as a man can resolve the struggle that he is truly educated.

The Founders Day speaker represented a direct tie with Dickinson's early years. His great-grandfather, Robert Davidson, was the second president of the College and his granduncle, Robert Laurenson Dashiell, was the eighth president and the first alumnus to hold the office. Dr. Davidson was presented for the degree by his brother, John Milton Davidson, '33. Former Cong. Robert F. Rich, '07, a Dickinson trustee, presented Dr. Wertz while Dr. Jones was presented by a lifelong friend, James G. Young, of Carlisle, a retired teacher.

Dr. Jones is one of the first Negro graduates of the College, perhaps the first, and one of the few American educators in the British Who's Who. He represents the third successive generation of his family to have provided a Wilberforce president. His grandfather was a founder and first president of the university, which was also headed by his father. Dr. Jones was president from 1924 to 1932 and is now the vice-president and dean of Wilberforce's College of Liberal Arts.

He said in one of the speeches of the day that the search for knowledge about God must be the basis for all learning. Man, he declared, has always sought to know more about his own nature, life, the universe and God and has made remarkable progress in the first three areas but has neglected the fourth, which must be the basis for the others.

Dr. Carl C. Chambers, '29, vice-president of the University of Pennsylvania for engineering affairs, a convocation speaker, noted that Founders' Day, 1956, was set aside by a proud College to honor all Dickinsonians in higher education as a life work. This uncounted number, he noted, was represented at the exercises by four college presidents, a former university head, and others who have carried Dickinson into administrative posts in many parts of the educational world.

Another purpose of the day found its expression in a Colloquium in which a panel of the visiting educators and a panel of the department heads of the College discussed "Dickinson and Tomorrow's Education." The wisdom and experience of the visiting alumni was brought to bear on the problems of the College as it faces the impact of the educational needs of the coming years.

William E. Kerstetter, '36, president of Simpson College, was moderator and he and Dr. Wertz gave the opening talks. At the close of an interesting session, summations were made by Dr. Chambers and John W. McConnell, '29, dean of the Graduate School, Cornell University.

Other alumni who took part in the colloquium or in other events of the day included Roy M. Dunkelberger, '06, former president of Lutheran Mission, Guntur, India; Lester F. Johnson, '19, former president of York Junior College; J. Paul Slaybaugh, '21, president of Wesley Junior College, and D. Fenton Adames, '47, acting dean of the law school.

Named Dean of Men at Monmouth College

DR. JOHN J. KETTERER, '43, assistant professor of biology at Monmouth College, Monmouth, Ill., since 1953, will become its dean of men in July. He will continue teaching in the department of biology on a reduced schedule.

Dr. Ketterer, who is married to the former Margaret C. Cary, '46, began his teaching career at Dickinson in 1946 as a graduate assistant in biology following three years of service in World War II as a naval officer.

He entered New York University in the fall of 1946 to work for a doctorate in biology. There he combined teaching and study until receiving his Ph.D. in 1953 when he was appointed to the Monmouth faculty. He was an instructor in biology at N. Y. U. during the 1952-53 term.

Dr. Ketterer's research field has been protozoology. Two articles dealing with his research have appeared in the Proceedings of the Society of Protozoologists. His organizations include Sigma Xi, national research society; American Association for the Advancement of Science, American Society of Parasitologists and the New York and Illinois Academies of Science. He has been co-chairman of the Northwest District, Illinois Junior Academy of Science.

The Ketterers' only child is Robert Cary, born May 6, 1952.

A star-studded program arranged by Paul R. (Irish) Walker, '21 and busy officers, unrolled at the annual dinner of the Dickinson Club of Harrisburg at the West Shore Country Club in Camp Hill on May 3 with 93 present.

The top features were a tribute to Dr. E. Roger Samuel, '10, who had been named "Practitioner of the 1955" by the American Medical Association; an address by Judge Robert E. Woodside, '26, of the Pennsylvania Superior Court on

JOHN J. KETTERER

"The Fifth Amendment" and a half hour program by the Men's Glee Club.

The evening began with the singing of America led by Mary Ann Spence, '51, who is now practising law in Harrisburg, and the invocation by the Rev. Victor B. Hann, '26, followed by a fine dinner. The Glee Club sang following the dinner.

Lewis F. Adler, '30, retiring president of the club, presided and after first presenting several guests, including Dean W. H. Hitchler and R. H. MacAndrews, introduced C. Wendell Holmes, president of the General Alumni Association, who made a brief report. He was followed by Dr. M. L. Shafer, new Dean of the Law School.

President William W. Edel was the first speaker of the formal program. Paul Walker then introduced Dr. Samuel and after his address also presented Judge Woodside.

In the business session the following all members of the Class of 1948, were elected to office: William D. Caldwell, president; Howell C. Mette, vice president; John A. Roe, vice president and John D. Hopper, secretary-treasurer.

Playing Major Role In Pingry School Development

THE Pingry School, of Elizabeth, N. J., whose headmaster has been E. Laurence Springer, '24, since 1936, has gone through a remarkable period of development during his leadership.

Pingry, a country day school for boys, founded in 1861, moved three years ago from a 60-year-old wooden building on a two-acre campus to a new location of 26 acres at Hillside, N. J., and occupied a new, beautiful building. The cost of the new project was $2,000,000. The remaining $300,000 mortgage was burned on February 15 at the annual meeting of the board of trustees in a ceremony celebrating the debt-free status of the school.

This ceremony was just three months after observance of the 20th anniversary of Mr. Springer as headmaster when his portrait was presented to the school. In his 20 years as headmaster, the enrollment has increased from 220 boys to 500 and there is a long waiting list.

Announcement has been made that additional facilities are soon to be added to the new Pingry campus. An athletic building costing $275,000 and four faculty houses will be constructed, all as gifts from various foundations who evidently think highly of Pingry.

The development of the Pingry School is a perfect example of what a devoted group of trustees, faculty, alumni, parents and students can do. Though their early dreams seemed shattered by World War II and soaring costs afterward, the goals were kept in sight. The most remarkable accomplishment during the years of fund-raising was that more than a million dollars was subscribed and paid without the services of professional fund-raisers.

"Larry" Springer will be remembered by many Dickinsonians as the son of the late Chaplain Ruter W. Springer, who was a member of the faculty during the first administration of President James Henry Morgan. His sister is Mrs. William A. Trees, of Carlisle, the former Constance Springer, '18.

Born in Buffalo, N. Y., he graduated from the Carlisle High School, and after two years at Dickinson transferred to Princeton University where he received his A.B. in 1924. He then taught at the Nichols School, Buffalo, N. Y., and received his A.M. from the University of Buffalo in 1928. From 1930 to 1935 he was headmaster of the Country Day School, Troy, N. Y., and after a year at the Montgomery School, Wynnewood, Pa., he became headmaster at Pingry, where he has been since.

A member of Beta Theta Pi Fraternity and a Presbyterian, he is a past president of the Rotary Club of Elizabeth, N. J. He is also a member of the Elizabeth Town and Country Club, the Princeton Club of New York, the Corinthians, the board of directors of the Elizabeth Y. M. C. A. and of the Family Welfare Society. He is a past president of the Rotary Club of Elizabeth.

His wife was the former Mrs. Elizabeth Randolph Ballard. They have a ten-year-old daughter, Susan Randolph.

Four Industrial Concerns Make Gifts to College

FOUR industrial concerns have made to the College gifts totalling $10,500.00, it is announced by George Shuman, Jr., Financial Vice President and Treasurer. These came from Aircraft Marine Corporation, Colgate-Palmolive Company, Esso and the United Gas Company.

The largest gift, one of $5,500.00, came from the Aircraft Marine Corporation, of Harrisburg, a concern which is using some faculty members and students on research problems. Dr. George W. Ziegler, Jr., of that company, is teaching at the College with the rank of Associate Professor of Chemistry.

A gift of $1,000.00 to the Annual Giving Fund has been made by the United Gas Company, which supplies the Carlisle area.

The Esso Education Foundation of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and the Colgate-Palmolive Company have each made unrestricted gifts of $2,000 to the College.

The Esso Education Foundation grant was part of $1,067,900 allocated to 236 educational institutions across the country. Fifteen of them are located in Pennsylvania.

The Foundation was established last October to "coordinate and continue" the educational assistance programs of the participating companies of Standard Oil.

A total of 186 colleges and universities shared in $500,000 given by the Colgate-Palmolive Company, now observing its 150th anniversary. The announcement pointed out that only 10 colleges, including Dickinson, were in existence when the company was established.

"During the 150 years of the company's history, America has seen its greatest period of expansion and progress," the announcement noted. "The educational institutions have kept pace and have met the rapid demands of the country's increasing educational needs."

Despite financial difficulties, the colleges and universities are doing an excellent job in training the country's young people, the company said. "Colgate-Palmolive considers it a privilege to help support the efforts of these institutions."

Altoona Club Dinner

By DR. GEORGE HENRY KETTERER, '08

The 1956 dinner meeting of the Dickinson Club of Altoona was held on April 10 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Silverman, 2715 Dysart Avenue, parents of Louis Silverman of the junior class of the College.

Grace was said by Rev. George Henry Ketterer.

Miss Jeannette Stevens, '10, the president of the club, cut short her winter stay in Orlando, Fla., to return for the dinner and to preside.

At the brief business session these officers were elected for the new year: President, Raymond N. Hoffman, '30, Altoona; Vice President, Miss Dorothy E. Harpster, '28, State College; Secretary, George Henry Ketterer, '08, Warriors Mark, and Treasurer, George K. Cox, '40, Altoona.

Dickinson College was represented by Dr. Gilbert Malcolm, Vice President; Mr. George Shuman, Jr., Financial Vice President and Miss Victoria K. Hann, Dean of Women. The Trustees were represented by Dr. George H. Ketterer.

A panel discussion, directed by Dr. Malcolm, Mr. Shuman and Miss Hann, considered buildings for men and women students, the chapel-church, standards of admission, faculty tenure and responsibility, financial problems and progress, the Ford Foundation gift of $406,400 and the program of athletics. Mr. Shuman exhibited some fine slides showing some of the buildings of the college and some striking sections of the campus.

At the conclusion of the meeting, a rising vote of thanks was given to Mr. and Mrs. Silverman for their very gracious hospitality.

Ends Career with Esso

J. Cameron Frendlich, '13, manager of Esso's Solvent Sales Division for 12 years, retired in February. At a party held in his honor, he was presented with a 30-year button and a television set.

The first week in April, he and his wife, the former Helen Tritt, '16, sailed on a cruise to the Caribbean. The trip was a gift from his associates and customers in the solvents field and was sponsored by men not on the Esso payroll.

"Cam" began his career as a technical salesman for the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey in 1926. Three years later he moved to Esso as a tank car salesman and later became a technical salesman.

In 1942, he moved into Solvent Sales. He sold railroad products, solvents and liquified petroleum gas. He was named manager of the Solvent Sales Division in 1944. During the years, he managed the division, sales of solvents, other than those used in the chemical industry, grew by some 75%.

A Life Member of the General Alumni Association and a past president of the Dickinson Club of New York, Mr. Frendlich has had a lifetime interest in the affairs of the College. His daughter, Helen, the present Mrs. William J. Bott, graduated from the college in 1944.

Mr. and Mrs. Frendlich live in East Orange, N. J.

In Foreign Service

William B. Paxson, Jr., '40, is at the American Embassy, Rome, Italy, as an economist—Foreign Service (ICA). This is one of the administrators of the U. S. Foreign Aid Program. He has been with ECA, MSA, FOA and ICA since December, 1948, the year he received his M.A. degree from Harvard University.

He married the former Edna Simmons of London, England, in September, 1945. They have a six year old son and a three year old daughter.

Promoted by Pennsalt

J. MILTON DAVIDSON

John Milton Davidson, '33, has been appointed manager of the Metal Processing Chemicals Department of the Pennsylvania Salt Manufacturing Company, Philadelphia. He had been the assistant manager.

Pennsalt with its main office in Philadelphia, has greatly expanded its activities in recent years, especially in the department which he now heads.

Davidson has been associated with the company's sales organization since 1946 when he was separated from the U. S. Navy with the rank of commander following World War II service. An active alumnus of the College, he has been chairman of the Dickinson Annual Giving Fund for the past three years.

He and his wife and their four children live in Strafford, Pa. Both Mr. and Mrs. Davidson are active in the young people's program of the Wayne Presbyterian Church. In addition, he is a member of the Philadelphia Council of the Boy Scouts of America and a trustee of the Rosemont Presbyterian Village. Student Speakers Feature Reading-Berks Dinner

A NEW departure in alumni club dinner programs high-lighted the annual dinner of the Dickinson Club of Reading-Berks held in the Walnut Room of the Hotel Berkshire, Reading, on April 3 when four students spoke of four subjects dealing with the life of the college.

There were 48 present. Frederick G. MacGavin, '39, retiring president, acted as toastmaster and Dr. Thomas H. Ford, '14, Superintendent of Schools, offered the invocation.

Before entering the student participation part of the program, the toastmaster introduced Prof. D. Fenton Adams, Acting Dean of the Law School, who spoke briefly. He also presented the three Trustees from Reading, Dr. C. Scott Althouse, William L. Eshelman and Sidney D. Kline.

Miss Jennifer F. Westcott, a member of the Senior Class, was the first student speaker. Her subject was "The Present Curriculum" and she asked her alumni listeners to remember the offerings of their student days as she outlined the courses and teaching aids in today's catalogue. The three other speakers are all sophomores.

John A. Richard Tucker, of Shillington, Pa., then spoke on "The Facilities of the School." He told of the many building additions in recent years and also told of the student interest in the erection of the new church, chemistry building and student center now in the planning stage.

He was followed by Miss Virginia M. Wolford, of Reading, whose subject was "Extra Curricular Activities" and her list was a long one though contained in her five-minute limit.

The final student speaker was Robert C. Kline, the son of Sidney D. Kline, '24, and Leona B. Kline, '27, whose subject was "Athletics." Himself a member of this year's victorious swimming team and the track team, he is fully qualified to report on the subject assigned to him.

Three representatives of the College spoke briefly. They were Victoria K. Hann, Dean of Women; George Shuman, Jr., and Gilbert Malcolm.

In the closing business session Llewellyn R. Bingaman, '31, '33L, was elected president and Alvin A. Woerle, '45, '48L, vice president. Mrs. W. Richard Eshelman, Mary P. Mackie, '43, was reelected secretary-treasurer.

"Cross Currents"

By Charles Coleman Sellers

Cross Currents. By Arnold Forster and Benjamin R. Epstein. New York Doubleday & Co., 1956. $4.00.

It is almost as rare as it is salutary to see current controversial issues brought to public attention with a systematic, factual clarity. This book deals with the continuing use of Anti-Semitism as a political weapon. Its material is presented under date-lines ranging from 1952 to 1955. It discusses three general areas, the United States, Germany, and the Middle East. Each stands clearly apart from the others, but in no less striking contrast.

However well and plainly told, the story of Anti-Semitism cannot be an attractive one. The forces which today focus suspicion and hatred on the Jewish people are as unworthy as in the past, and even more unstable. They present a repugnant picture. But it has always been true that the persecuted present a stimulating spectacle in contrast to the persecutors, and truth posed against error is always inspiring. It is in this that Cross Currents as a book is dramatic and memorable.

Benjamin R. Epstein, '33, co-author of the book is head of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith and has been a member of its staff since 1939. He is the President of the Dickinson Club of New York and a Life Member of the General Alumni Association.

Saves Baby On Plane By 'Backwoods' Obstetrics

DELIVERING a baby without any equipment in a military plane 11,000 feet over the Pacific was the task of Lt. Col. John A. Norcross, '33, who happened to be aboard when the mother developed premature labor pains. He told reporters that he relied on "backwoods obstetrics" and a pair of scissors.

In February the plane was enroute on the 700-mile flight from Johnston Island to Honolulu, where Col. Norcross is surgeon at the Hickam Air Force Base, when Mrs. John Garnett, wife of an airman, developed premature labor pains. She gave birth to a 4 pound 10 ounce daughter, her third child after being in labor seven hours.

"The mother had no trouble at all," Col. Norcross said, adding "The baby was a seven-month baby and the problem was keeping it alive. It looked awfully blue and couldn't breathe by itself. I gave it artificial respiration all the way."

The doctor held the child for the last 35 minutes. Crewmen rigged an incubator around his hands with a curtain, an oxygen mask and a Thermos bottle of hot coffee. The pilot turned on all the plane's heat which resulted in a lot of perspiration for the adults aboard.

The mother and her daughter landed safely and were taken to the Army Tripler General Hospital in Honolulu and at last reports all was well.

Born in Washington, D. C., on August 5, 1910, Col. Norcross graduated from Western High School there and from the College in 1933. He received his M.D. from the George Washington University Medical School in 1937 and served a residency in surgery at Garfield Hospital in the nation's capital. He was there at the outbreak of World War II when he enlisted and served in the Army from 1941 to 1946 and then returned to private practice. In 1951 he entered the U. S. Air Force and expects to be on the Islands another year.

A Methodist, he is a member of Phi Kappa Sigma Fraternity and a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons.

On June 17, 1937, he married Cecelia Baum at Silver Springs, Md. She and their 12-year-old son, David, are with him at Honolulu. He wrote "I would be very happy to welcome any Dickinsonians who come here."

Returning to U. S.

John G. Main, '51, and his wife, the former Eleanor Cattron, '50, who are now living in Dunedin, New Zealand, plan to sail for San Francisco on December 14 and to go on to Philadelphia. John has been admitted to the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania for the semester to begin in February, 1957, and he will take a course in marketing leading to the M.B.A. degree. He received his M.A. with honors in 1953 from the University of Otago.

Eleanor's mother, Mrs. John G. Cattron of Williamsport, Pa., has been in New Zealand visiting her daughter and son-in-law since last August and plans to return to her home in June. Since last April, Eleanor has been a secretary-bookkeeper with the Ultra Products, Ltd. in Dunedin.

Lecture On Far East Features Club Dinner

AN EXCELLENT lecture on the Far East by Dr. Leslie R. Severinghaus, Headmaster of the Haverford School, featured the annual dinner of the Dickinson Club of Philadelphia held at the Merion Cricket Club on April 17. His thought provoking address, dealing mainly with events in Formosa and Hong Kong and the mistakes and accomplishments in that unsettled part of the world, was warmly received by his listeners.

Dr. Severinghaus, who received the honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters by the College last June, spent some of his earlier years in the mission field in China. Through the years he has maintained his interest in the Far East and visited there two years ago when he made the motion pictures he showed at the dinner.

Lt. Commander Benjamin F. Hughes, '40, of the Navy Chaplains Corps, introduced the Rev. Noel B. Chapman, Rector of St. John's Church, Hamilton, Bermuda, who offered the invocation.

Dr. Robert L. D. Davidson, president of the club, was absent as he is now president of Westminster College, Fulton, Mo., and the Vice President James L. McIntire, '35, who had just returned from an assignment in South America for Atlantic Refining Company, presided. He first presented the four members of the Board of Trustees who were at the dinner, Boyd Lee Spahr, president of the board; Dr. William C. Sampson, Dr. Roy W. Mohler and Dr. J. Watson Pedlow.

When he was introduced George Shuman simply waved a salute, and then C. Wendell Holmes, president of the General Alumni Association, spoke briefly. He was followed by a few minutes of Gilbert Malcolm. Dr. Roy W. Mohler then introduced Dr. George A. Bennett, Dean of Jefferson Medical College, who became a member of the Dickinson family at the June 1955 Commencement when he was awarded an Sc.D. degree.

President William W. Edel gave a condensed report of the college and introduced the main speaker, Dr. Severinghaus. At the close of the meeting, J. Milton Davidson, Chairman of the Annual Giving Fund, was also presented.

Falling off from the record attendance of 120 in 1955, there were 92 at the dinner. In a short business session, James L. McIntire, '35, was elected president; James W. McGuckin, '42, vice president and Mildred E. Hurley, '50, vice president. C. Wendell Holmes, '21, was reelected secretary-treasurer.

Writes for Medical Journals

During the last year, Dr. James H. Tisdell, '44, physician of Port Huron, Mich., has had three articles published. Two dealt with Cervical Pathology Complicating Labor which were published in July 1955 in the American Journal of Obstetrics and Gynecology. The other on Ovarian Pregnancy was published in April in Obstetrics and Gynecology, the Journal of American Academy of Obstetrics and Gynecology.

Returning from two years in the Army, where he was assistant chief of Obstetrics and gynecology at the William Beaumont Army Hospital, El Paso, Tex., he has recently re-established himself in practice in new offices with two other specialists in his field in Port Huron, Mich. He is secretary-treasurer of the Mercy Hospital there and on the staff of both Port Huron and Mercy Hospitals.

When he went back to Michigan from Texas, he and his wife brought along a Mexican girl to add to their family of three boys and a girl so they had to find a bigger house and they moved into their new home last December.

He reports that Norman Timmins, who was with the duPont Company in Cleveland, called at his home in March.

Writes Anthology for Freshman English

By PROF. WILLIAM SLOANE
Chairman, Department of English

CRAIG R. Thompson, '33, Professor of English at Lawrence College, and John Hicks, Professor of English at Stetson University, are the editors of an anthology designed for Freshman English courses, Thought and Experience in Prose (Oxford University Press). The book first came out in 1951, has been well received by college English teachers, and has just appeared (1956) in a second, revised edition.

This is a collection of writings by distinguished British and American authors of the past three centuries. There are 53 selections in 588 pages, with a brief comment on each author and some study questions on each selection. It is not "either an 'easy' or a 'hard' book, but rather one with sufficient range and diversity of content and style to enable readers of different capacities and different interests to use it with profit."

The editors have carefully avoided foisting a set pattern on the book or obtruding themselves unnecessarily between the teacher and the student. The imaginative teacher thus has considerable latitude in adapting the book to the special needs of the students he is working with.

Dr. Thompson has been commuting between Appleton, Wis., and Washington, D. C., in recent years in pursuit of special research at the Folger Shakespeare Library where he has access to some of its rarest records and manuscripts. A Master of Arts and Ph.D. of Princeton, he taught at Cornell University and Elmira College before joining the Lawrence faculty in 1946. He was a fellow of the American Council of Learned Societies in 1952-53.

Fine Attendance At Baltimore Club Dinner

The Dickinson Club of Baltimore set new marks for the largest attendance and the longest program of the alumni club dinner season at a gathering in Lovely Lane Methodist Church on April 10 when 120 were present and the program ran from 6:30 to 11:00 o'clock. Included in the 120 were the 30 members of the Men's Glee Club, who gave a delightful program.

When the dinner, served by a ladies' class of the church, ended and while the tables were being cleared there was a recess. Those present made a tour of the church of which the Rev. Kenneth R. Rose, '45, is pastor.

Theodore R. Bonwit, '53, presided and he first called on C. Wendell Holmes, president of the General Alumni Association, and then introduced the three Baltimore-area Trustees, S. M. Drayer, Charles C. Duke and G. Harold Baker, all whom spoke briefly. He then presented Cornelius P. Mundy, '25L, who since the last dinner had been appointed Judge of the Supreme Bench of Baltimore City. He was followed by Edna R. Eitemiller, '52, president of the Mary Dickinson Club of Baltimore, who made a report of that group's activities.

The speakers from the College, all of whom spoke briefly, were Dr. Frederic W. Ness, Academic Vice President and Dean; Prof. Benjamin D. James, Dean of Admissions; Prof. Donald W. Flaherty, of the Department of Political Science and President William W. Edel. A panel session, which had been planned to conclude the program, proved to be of short duration.

In the business session Martha Lee Weis, '53, was elected president; Robert C. Respass, '41, and Edna R. Eitemiller, '52, vice presidents; E. Elizabeth Tipton, '30, secretary; Henry C. Engel, Jr., '53, treasurer and Theodore R. Bonwit, '53, assistant secretary-treasurer.

Presentations Made at Priestley Celebration

TWO interesting and valuable additions to the College's growing Joseph Priestley Collection—a letter in the handwriting of the discoverer of oxygen penned less than a month before his death and a handsome, well-preserved piano-forte he owned—were announced by President Edel during the annual Priestley Day celebration in March. Detlev W. Bronk, president of the National Academy of Science, was the celebration speaker and received the Dickinson College Priestley Memorial Award for "distinguished service to mankind through biophysics."

The letter was written by Priestley December 26, 1803, in his home at Northumberland, Pa., to John Vaughan, of Philadelphia, prominent member of the American Philosophical Society. It gives instruction to Vaughan for getting published the manuscript of what was to be Priestley's last literary work, a concordance of the Scriptures. The manuscript accompanied the letter. "It cost me more labour than any thing I ever wrote of the size," wrote Priestley. "You may judge of this when I tell you that, besides turning to evert text, to see that it corresponds to the Index, and the first copy in short hand, I copied it twice in long hand myself."

The letter was the gift of Mrs. George H. Neff, of Sunbury, Pa., who with her husband had been custodian for many years of the Priestley Mansion, a shrine of American chemistry. She also gave to the College a collection of books of early date, the most interesting and valuable of which is a two-volume Works of Aristotle, published in 1495 in Venice by the great Aldus Manutius. The incunabula now provides the College Library with one of its oldest books.

Mrs. Neff's interest in the Dickinson also brought about the acquisition of the piano-forte, which Priestley purchased for his home in Northumberland and which was made, according to its markings, in London in 1796 by John Broadwood & Son, the oldest makers of pianos still in existence. Richly wrought in walnut and delicately inlaid, the little instrument has been put on permanent exhibition in the Spahr Dickinsoniana Room with other Priestley items, including the famous burning glass.

The day-long Priestley Day program was opened by Prof. Ira Brown of Penn State University with a paper on "The Religion of Joseph Priestley" in which he noted that the man who wrote nearly 30 books on ethology and who was one of the leading religious thinkers of his day should be remembered today chiefly for his scientific discoveries. Many of these books were on exhibition, on loan from Penn State University.

Dr. Bronk, the 1956 recipient of the Priestley Memorial Award, was on the campus throughout the day with Mrs. Bronk and their son. President Edel presented the award, a handsomely mounted Wedgwood portrait medallion of Priestley at a public ceremony which brought the celebration to an end. For the third year the award was accompanied by $1,000, a gift made possible by the interest in the celebration of the National Cylinder Gas Company, Chicago, world's largest producers of oxygen. The firm was represented on the program by W. Roberts Wood, Louisville, Ky., a vice-president.

A dinner for celebration participants, special guests and the faculty was participated in by several score members of the Southeast Pennsylvania Section of the American Chemical Society who combined their monthly meeting with the tribute to Priestley.

A Deputy Attorney General

Jack M. Cohen, '20L, of Philadelphia, was appointed a deputy attorney of Pennsylvania by Governor George Leader last March. His office is now at the State Capitol in Harrisburg.

To Direct Five State Area In Leprosy Missions

AMERICAN Leprosy Missions, Inc., has announced that the Rev. Dr. Everett F. Hallock, '33, of Nutley, N. J., will take over the supervision of its southwestern area in mid-June.

The area covers Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana and New Mexico. Dr. Hallock, a Methodist minister with wide administrative experience, will have his headquarters in Dallas, Texas.

American Leprosy Missions raises more than $600,000 annually in the United States for care and treatment of leprosy victims and for clinical research. A total of 160 units in 50 countries are helped by funds it gathers. The Methodist Church is one of the supporting organizations.

All of Dr. Hallock's years in the ministry have been spent in New Jersey. A former superintendent of the Newark Conference, he is pastor of the Vincent Methodist Church, in Nutley. He has also had pastorates in Jersey City, Orange, Maplewood and Rutherford.

One of New Jersey's many active Dickinsonians, he has been president of the Dickinson Club of Northern Jersey and is a frequent visitor to the campus for Commencements and other alumni gatherings. The College gave him the honorary Doctor of Divinity degree at the 175th anniversary convocation in 1948.

Called to Jersey City Church

The Rev. G. Elliott Presby, '33, who for four years served as pastor of the South Presbyterian Church in Elmira, N. Y., was installed by the Jersey City Presbytery as pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Jersey City on February 12.

Last summer a disastrous fire nearly destroyed the church in Elmira, where he was then serving as pastor. It is one of the oldest church buildings in that city. Within a few days after the fire, an architect was secured, plans were drawn and work was begun to reconstruct the building on even more beautiful lines. The building rededicated last November 20, is a fine example of New England Colonial Church architecture.

Having completed his great task in Elmira successfully, the Rev. Mr. Presby accepted the call to the First Presbyterian Church in Jersey City.

Heads College of Bishops

Bishop Fred P. Corson, '17, former president of the College, was elected president of the College of Bishops of the Northeastern Jurisdiction of the Methodist Church at the General Conference held in Minneapolis in April.

He also delivered the Episcopal Address, the Bishops' State of the Church message at the first evening session held in the Municipal Auditorium. The conference body, with many Dickinsonians among its delegates, is composed of 766 delegates, half laymen and half ministers from over the world, and held a two weeks session.

Writers Embark On Transatlantic Migration

Transatlantic Migration, The Contemporary American Novel in France, Duke Univ. Press, 1955, by Smith, Thelma M., and Miner, Ward L.

By PROF. FRANCIS W. WARLOW

THELMA M. Smith, '35, a member of the faculty from 1948 to 1951, has written another book, Transatlantic Migration, The Contemporary American Novel in France, a collaboration with her husband, Ward L. Miner. This is the second book for both. Uncollected Poems of James Russell Lowell was Thelma's first, and The World of William Faulkner was Mr. Miner's.

The Miner's present subject, the impact of the contemporary American novel on French readers, critics, editors and writers, is an important one. The influence has been generally acknowledged on both sides of the Atlantic, but the Smith-Miner study is the first attempt to explore it thoroughly and systematically. The Miners spent two years in France, one on an American Learned Societies' grant, getting the feel of French literary life, interviewing publishers, editors, writers and critics, and studying French periodicals and books. A 53 page Check List of pertinent periodicals and books attests to the thoroughness of the Miners' research and roughs out the terrain for any explorers who may follow them into this scholarly Louisiana Territory.

The Miners' method is to try to settle into French life and to re-see the American novel through French eyes, principally those of French reviewers and critics. In their overview of the subject, they consequently draw us into French critical wars waged over the American novel during the last twenty years. The American novel's ups and downs, its French champions and attackers, are followed closely from the 'Thirties, when it fomented considerable speculation, through its triumph immediately after World War II, when it almost overshadowed the native French novel and vied in popularity with another American import, the movies, to a levelling off toward steady importance in the present. The American novel's fortunes are documented generally by the frequency and nature of critical comments, by the number of novels translated into French, and by the number of printings and editions each ran through.

French critics ascribe ideas and techniques in the French novel to American sources. They repeatedly refer to the influence of this or that American on this or that Frenchman. Jules Romains, for instance, is indebted to our Dos Passos' social involvement and his technique of simultaneity, the effect of presenting various narrative strands in various levels of society at the same time. And, of course, Sartre has openly acknowledged his debts to Dos Passos. He has also praised American Faulkner's treatment of time over that of the Frenchman Proust, usually considered to have written the novel to stop all novels on time in his million word The Remembrance of Things Past. Sartre, the promulgator of secular existentialism after the last war, has furthermore claimed many American novelists, generally without their consent, as existentialists. The narrative method of another fine French novelist and precise thinker, Albert Camus, is often likened to our Hemingway's clarity.

Out of their extensive reading of critical literature, Thelma Smith and her husband abstract the qualities which the French find most distinctive in our novels: a journalistic sense of reality, shock, the achievement of emotional effects by accumulations of details and incidents, concreteness, a rhythmical prose, a poetical attitude toward life, colloquial speech, a rapid nervous prose associated with the rapid pace of American life, a romanticism which is paradoxically rooted in reality, Puritanism—especially in William Faulkner, a highly developed social sense, individual alienation, and a sense of tragedy. All these qualities, according to the consensus of French opinion, make the American novel the modern "equivalent of Greek Tragedy."

The Miners' study culminates naturally by concentrating on les cinq grands, in French judgment the big five American novelists, Faulkner, Hemingway, Dos Passos, Caldwell and Steinback. A chapter is devoted to each. This reviewer, at the moment most interested in Faulkner, found the chapter on him piquant. The disparity between French and American critical opinions of particular novels was a challenge to speculate along with his old friends, the authors.

This book suggests that a productive team of researchers into American literature and civilization has completed its maiden voyage with pennants flying. Faculty friends of Thelma "Minor"—so-called because she was one and a half inches shorter than Thelma "Major," a faculty wife, who isn't very big either—and of her husband Ward, congratulate them and wish them well on subsequent voyages.

"The Plight of God"

By Raymond J. Wells, Instructor in Philosophy and Religion.

Reverend Richard Morgan, M.A., B.D., The Plight of God, As Told in Bible Story, Richard R. Smith Publisher, Inc., Rindge, New Hampshire, 1955, 206 pages. $3.00.

In The Plight of God, the Rev. Richard Morgan, '22, of Port Norris, N. J., develops his thesis—suggested in his first book, The Christ of the Cross—that the Church today fails to accomplish its intended purpose because it has rejected God and exalted the Devil. In tracing the Biblical record, the author can only conclude that the Devil has always controlled God's people "in every crucial hour of history." Moreover, today the Church has become "the stronghold of the Devil."

Herein lay the plight of God, for the Devil has not only taken over the world, but "has even taken over the Church which God ordained to take over the world for his own kingdom." In one of his many sweeping statements the author goes so far as to say, "The world is full of churches, theological seminaries, colleges, universities, assemblies, presbyteries, councils, boards and pulpit committees. Yet, no where does any of these religious organizations of God's Church (italics mine) send forth or call for representatives of God to teach or preach on the basis of how loyal they are to God and his righteous cause, but rather, on the basis of to what extent they are willing to have their loyalty to God modified by the policies and practices of the particular religious organization concerned."

Although in using "dark glasses" to view the Bible story and the Church today, the author appears to have overstated his case, the book is stimulating. It will awaken the reader to the need of being aware of the "work of the Devil in the Church." More positive suggestions as to how to overcome the "Devil" in and out of the Church is the great desideratum of the book. However, the author does suggest that the Church must not only believe, but practice the teachings of the Bible in the whole of life, if God's plight is to be improved.

Writes Missionary Manual

Lois Eddy McDonnell, '35, who has written many pupils books and teachers guides for Sunday School and weekday church school use, has just added another to the long list. It is entitled "Finding Christian Friends in the Philippines," a missionary manual published by Abington Press. Lois is also the author of the Friendship Press' current study for primary pupils, entitled "Guide for Indian Americans."

Club Honors Law School Dean

Dr. Morris L. Shafer, newly appointed Dean of the Dickinson School of Law, and Mrs. Shafer were guests of honor at the annual dinner of the Dickinson Club of Lehigh Valley held on April 24 at the Lehigh Valley Club, Allentown, Pa. A member of the Lehigh County bar, he has been engaged in the practice of law in Allentown for some years.

After Dr. Shafer spoke briefly, he was followed by Dr. Herbert Wing, Jr., senior member of the faculty and head of the Department of History, who earlier offered the invocation. While speaking informally, Dr. Wing delighted his hearers. Gilbert Malcolm concluded the formal program and then a short panel session was held in which he and Dr. Wing answered questions.

Officers having been named a year ago a vote was only needed to continue them for the customary two-year term. Jerome W. Burkepile, Jr., '40, who acted as toastmaster, continues as president of the club. The other officers are Mrs. R. H. Griesemer, the former Katherine E. Keller, '33, vice president and Mrs. Walter L. Sandercock, the former Evelyn Learn, '29, secretary-treasurer.

Dine in Nation's Capitol

Four students and President William W. Edel were the speakers at the annual dinner of the Dickinson Club of Washington held on April 27 in Phillips Hall of the Chevy Chase Methodist Church with 60 present. Prof. Benjamin D. James, Dean of Admissions, also spoke briefly.

Paul A. Mangan, president of the club, served as toastmaster. The Rev. Adam Nagay, '14, offered the invocation and Dr. Edward, '21, pronounced the benediction.

Two of the students, both Seniors, Walter Beech and David Stephan have held the Dickinson Club of Washington

Scholarship. The third speaker was Sallie Anderson, also a Senior, of Gaithersburg, and the fourth, Robert L. Simons, a Junior, who is attending the Washington Semester at American University during the current semester. He is the Junior Sophister, having had the highest of last year's sophomores.

The officers having been elected last year for two-year terms no election was held at this year's meeting. William Batus gave a report of the scholarship fund campaign.

Receives Air Force Citation

Carl T. Sieg, '41, Chief of the Placement Branch, Placement and Employee Relations Division, Directorate of Civilian Personnel, Headquarters United States Air Force, was presented a Citation for Outstanding Service for his efforts in promoting the employment of physically handicapped persons. The award was presented in February by Major General Melvin J. Maas, U. S. Marine Corps (Ret.), Chairman of The President's Committee on Employment of the Physically Handicapped.

Mr. Sieg has been in placement and employee utilization work with the Air Force since 1942. Prior to going to Washington in 1951 to work at Headquarters USAF, he was employed at Firriss Air Force Base as Chief of Placement Branch. While there, his accomplishments in placing disabled veterans won him a citation from the Disabled American Veterans' Chapter at Rome, N. Y.

He is presently engaged in planning and arranging for static and live exhibits for use in two expositions on employment of the physically handicapped. In addition, he is technical advisor for the projected production of a film on the utilization of such personnel throughout the Air Force.

A native of Duncannon, Pa., he now resides with his wife and daughter in Fairfax, Va.

North Jersey Club Dinner

A fine dinner meeting of the Dickinson Club of Northern New Jersey was held at the William Pitt Inn at Chatham on May 2 with 57 present.

A feature of the evening was the singing of the Kappa Sigma Trio composed of three sophomores, William H. Hought, who is director of the Men's Glee Club, and Walter Barnes, both of Philadelphia, and William E. Rogers, the son of Prof. and Mrs. Horace Rogers.

The Rev. G. Elliott Presby, '33, who recently became pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Jersey City after a pastorate at Elmira, N. Y., offered the invocation.

Roy D. Tolliver, '33, who served as toastmaster, was reelected president of the club in the business session. Other officers reelected were Mrs. Mary Read Oerthur, '26, vice president and Edward E. Johnson, '32, secretary-treasurer.

George Shuman, Jr., Financial Vice President and Treasurer of the College and Gilbert Malcolm were the speakers. A short panel session concluded the program with these men answering questions.

Again U. S. Commissioner

Ray Patton Smith, '11, who served as United States Commissioner at Johnstown from 1918 until 1944, was reappointed to that office in April.

He was first appointed to the post by the United States District Court of Pittsburgh in January 1918 and during his tenure over 1600 cases were returned to the Pittsburgh District Court.

He resigned in 1944 to go to Washington as a member of the legal staff of the Appellate Branch of the enforcement office of the OPA. While there he also served as liaison officer with other government agencies.

From 1947 until 1949, he taught business law at the Junior College of Commerce in New Haven, Conn., and then returned to Johnstown to resume private practice. He has announced he will continue his general practice of law at his offices in the U. S. National Bank Building in Johnstown in conjunction with his duties as Commissioner.

"MISSION U. S. A."

By Charles Coleman Sellers

Mission, U. S. A., Friendship Press, New York. $2.50.

James W. Hoffman, '42, has written a book, Mission, U. S. A., which is small in size but large in subject. It is a survey of the work of the Christian churches in this country, their active programs and their adjustment to the ever-changing conditions of our national life. It is a sort of front-line report on living Christianity, covering our whole vast territory and every aspect of our society. It represents thousands of miles of travel and months of patient study. Necessarily concise, its material is presented in a personal, anecdotal style which insures easy and interesting reading.

Mr. Hoffman is an associate editor of Presbyterian Life, and wrote the book for the National Council of Churches. In connection with his work he interviewed many leading world personalities including Arnold Toynbee, Arthur Rank, the Duke of Hamilton, the ex-premier of Hungary Feune Nagy and Reinhold Niebuhr. His journalistic assignments have taken him to India, Pakistan, the British Isles and most major cities of the United States.

He and his wife, the former Elizabeth W. Parkinson, '42, native of Carlisle, make their home in Llanerch, Pa., with their three sons and a daughter.

Before joining the magazine staff in 1948, he taught in the high school at New Hope, Pa., for three years. He holds an A.B. from Penn State and is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, S. A. E., Phi Kappa Phi and of the Board of Deacons of the Llanerch Presbyterian Church.

Scores Upset

Former Congressman S. Walter Stauffer, '12, of York, who was unseated two years ago by Representative James M. Quigley, '42L, won the Republican nomination in the 19th District at the April primary election, when he rolled up a plurality of nearly 2,500 against his three opponents, one of whom was endorsed by the Cumberland County Republican Committee.

In the congressional district, which embraces York, Adams and Cumberland Counties, Stauffer polled 13,350 votes against 10,875 cast for Ralph L. Fisher, York lawyer, who carried the endorsement of the Cumberland County GOP Committee.

Mr. Stauffer is a trustee of the College, a member of the Executive Committee. He is a former secretary of the General Alumni Association.

Hold Theater Party

The Dickinson Alumnae Club of the New York Metropolitan Area met in New York on St. Patrick's Day for a luncheon and theater party. After lunching at Schrafft's the group held a short business meeting where plans were made for a Fall luncheon to take place on October 27, at the home of Mrs. Horace B. Hand, '20, in Jersey City. Later they proceeded to the Ethel Barrymore Theater where they saw "The Chalk Garden." Arrangements for the party were made by Miss Linette Lee, '09.

Officers for this year are: Mrs. William M. Spencer, '30, president; Mrs. Clifford E. Conner, '30, vice president; Mrs. William R. Gibson, '40, secretary-treasurer.

Campus Scenes on TV

Scenes from the Dickinson College campus and the Priestley collection play important roles in a half-hour film to be shown, July 8, over approximately 150 CBS-affiliated television stations throughout the country.

The film, entitled "The Joyful Lunatic," is the life of Joseph Priestley and will be seen on the Telephone Time Series of programs sponsored by the Bell Telephone Co. The series appears on Sundays at 6 p.m. in the eastern time zone.

Dr. Edel is technical adviser for the film, which was produced in Hollywood by the Hal Roach studios.

Establishes Library Guild Fund

Judge Charles F. Greevy, '35, of Williamsport, Pa., has established a Library Guild Endowment Fund by a gift of $500 through the Annual Giving Fund.

His gift will go into the permanent Endowment Fund of the College and the income will be used for the purchase of books for the College Library.

Other alumni have established similar funds through the years. This new fund will be known as the "Charles F. Greevy Library Guild Fund."

Form Law Partnership

Three Dickinsonians, Walter H. Compton, '26L; Nolan F. Ziegler, '26L and H. Joseph Hepford, 46, '48L, who were formerly associated in the general practice of law announced the formation of a partnership in April under the firm name of Compton, Ziegler & Hepford. The new firm's offices are at 203 Keystone Building, 23 South Third Street, Harrisburg, Pa. Announcement was also made that Richard Eisenhour, '50, '53L, will be associated with the firm.

In Lebanon Valley Post

M. Charles Seller, '55, became Public Relations Director at Lebanon Valley College in February. He had worked for a time on the Lebanon Valley News.

In his new post, he will edit the alumni magazine of Lebanon Valley College and be associated with the Alumni Secretary there.

Tennis Team Undefeated

Coach Gardner Hays' tennis team, undefeated in the first six matches and playing hard for a perfect record, has been setting a fine but unheeded example for Dickinson's four other spring sports teams this season.

This is Hays' 25th season at the College and he has announced that it will be his last. It may also be his best. Without being pressed, the team raced through Gettysburg twice, Albright, Elizabethtown, Juniata and Moravian by May 1.

The coach calls it the "best balanced team I've coached." His son, Raphael, a senior, plays the tough No. 1 position. William Lynam, senior, and Christian "Kit" Spahr and Ronald DePass, freshmen, were undefeated through the first six matches. Spahr is the Philadelphia district junior squad champ. DePass was junior tennis champ of Costa Rica in 1954.

The golfers, with a 3-3 record, were the only other team with a chance for a winning season. The baseball nine opened with victories over Albright and F. & M., then lost six in a row. The lacrosse team defeated Lehigh as a starter but lost the next four matches, while the track squad lost two dual meets, finished third in two triangular meets.

Pass Pennsylvania Bars

Twelve Dickinsonians passed the Pennsylvania bar examinations given in January by the State Board of Law Examiners. They are: P. Nelson Alexander, '52, '51L, Dillsburg; John L. Costello, Jr., '52, '55L, Harrisburg; R. A. Davis, '54L, Harrisburg; Jack Guy DePasquale, '52, '55L, Pittston; Charles W. Gross, '55L, Phila.; Albert J. Hajjar, '50, Harrisburg; John A. Harris, '55L, Bellefonte; John A. Hoffer, Jr., '55L, Reading; Mary Elizabeth Hoerner, '55, Harrisburg; Joseph R. Kowitski, '55L, Centralia; William F. Potter, '55L, Smethport, and Henry J. Steiner, '52, '55L, Myerstown.

New Director of Research

PAUL R. BURKHOLDER

The Brooklyn Botanic Garden has announced the appointment of Dr. Paul R. Burkholder, '24, as director of research, effective July 1. He is presently chairman of the Department of Bacteriology of the University of Georgia.

Dr. Burkholder is one of America's leading physiologists and microbiologists, and is best known for his discovery of the microorganism that produces Chloromycetin, one of the "wonder" drugs.

The new appointment will enable him to broaden his research for new antibiotics and extend his investigations to many parts of the world. Under his guidance, the Brooklyn Botanic Garden's research program will explore the fields of tissue culture, physiology of lower plants (fungi, algae, mosses), and experimental horticulture.

Dickinson recognized his scientific achievements when it conferred the honorary Doctor of Science degree upon him in 1949 and called him again to the campus in 1953 to receive its annual Priestley Memorial Award for "distinguished service to mankind through biochemistry."

Roster Lists 1,558 Names of Life Members

THE roster of Life Members of the General Alumni Association, published annually in the May number of THE DICKINSON ALUMNUS by direction of the Alumni Council, lists a total of 1,558 names on the following pages. About one out of five living alumni is a Lifer.

Since the publication of the February number, 21 new Lifers have been enrolled to make the gain 112 for the year and to raise the total published last year from 1,446 to 1,558.

The Class of 1950 with 57 Lifers continues to lead all other classes, 1927 is second with 43 and 1935 third through a gain of four during the year. Naturally, last June's graduates had the most new Lifers in the year with a total of 14.

The Classes of 1924 and 1953 each gained seven new Lifers for the best gains of other classes, while 1952 added five. The Class of 1924 now has a total of 31 as has 1952, while 1953 has 20.

The first $40 check in the new series came from Gladys R. Myers, '47, who is IBM supervisor at Ostheimer and Co., Inc., in Philadelphia.

A few days later a $40 check was received from Carl E. Rothrock, D.O., '23, a graduate of the Kirksville College of Osteopathy and Surgery, Kirksville, Mo., in 1924, who is practicing in Lewistown, Pa.

Edward J. McClain, '37, of Beaver Falls, Pa., became the next Lifer. An attorney, he is also a director and counsel for the Citizens National Bank of Beaver Falls and was recently elected vice-president of the Pennsylvania Citizens Association. He is serving on the statewide committee on Mental Health for the American Psychiatric Association Survey.

The next subscription came from the Rev. Dr. Howard B. Warren, '15, pastor of the East Avenue Methodist Church, Norwalk, Conn.

Fred H. Bachman, '13, became the next Lifer. He is out of the army, located in Hazleton, Pa., where he has assumed a position in the public schools as director of Audio-Visual Aids and Curriculum Supervisor.

The next day a $40 check was received from Dr. Lloyd S. Persun, Jr., '36, physician of Harrisburg, Pa., who is chief of the Department of Otolaryngology at the Harrisburg Polyclinic Hospital.

The next Lifer to be enrolled was Mrs. Robert Grangy, the former Genevieve Marechal, '37, of 9 Rue d'Assas, Paris-Vieme, France. In her letter she asked that Dickinsonians traveling in Europe call at her home "to make it a kind of club house for Dickinson alumnus abroad." Recently she has sent several fine books in the French language, which have been placed in the College Library.

A few days later, a $40 check from Mrs. Stephen A. Kuntz, the former Grace Hoffman, '30, of Drexel Hill, Pa., enrolled her as a Lifer.

Two more former coeds were the next to become Lifers. The first of these subscriptions came from Mrs. Richard E. Miller, the former Barbara Jeanne Macy, '47, of Allentown, Pa. The other was from Barbara Ruth Majeski, '55, who lives in Trenton and is teaching first grade in Titusville, N. J.

A $40 check was then received from Mrs. George B. Goldman, of Cynwyd, Pa., to pay for Life Membership for her son, Edward C. Goldman, '52, '54L, who is now serving in the Army at Fort Bragg, N. C.

A subscription was then received from Robert S. Hershey, '53, of Lemoyne, Pa., who is temporarily in Philadelphia working as a claims representative for Liberty Mutual Insurance Co. He was married last July to Cathy Keplinger, of New Cumberland, following his discharge from the Army.

Another memorial subscription was made by Mrs. Anna B. Carver, of Carlisle, to enter the name of her late husband, Dr. Clarence J. Carver, '09, as a Life Member. Professor Carver was a member of the faculty from 1920 until the time of his death in August, 1940 and for some years was secretary of the faculty.

The next check came from Jerry L. Coslow, '52, who is a sales engineer with the Gulf Refining Co. at Fort Wayne, Ind.

A check of $40 was then received from Rev. Robert H. Comly, '02, of Lancaster, Pa., to pay for Life Membership for his daughter, Mrs. Frances C. Bear, of the Class of 1930.

The Class of 1955 gained another Lifer when a check came from Virginia Radonich, who is a teacher at Atlantic Highlands, N. J.

William R. Ludwig, '49, became the next Lifer. He recently received a promotion with General Motors and is now district sales manager at the Harrisburg, Pa., office.

When he came to Founders' Day to receive the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws, Dr. Gilbert H. Jones, '06, of Wilberforce University became a Lifer.

Another Founders' Day check was that of Prof. May Morris, '09, who will retire as Librarian of the College in June.

The name of Jack H. Caum, '34, president of the Dickinson Club of Delaware, was added at the annual dinner of that group of May 4, when his wife, Mary Prince Caum, '34, received a receipt for her payment for her husband.

The last entry was one in memory of Helen Bucher Malcolm, '15, made by Gilbert Malcolm, '15.

Life Membership costs $40 and may be paid in one sum or in $10 or $20 annual installments. It carries a Life subscription to THE DICKINSON ALUMNUS and ends the payment of annual dues. It is not a contribution to the Annual Giving Fund. Checks should be made payable to Dickinson College and sent to The Dickinson Alumnus, Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa., or may be addressed to Gilbert Malcolm.
