THE DICKINSON ALUMNUS

SEPTEMBER, 1956

Year Opens With 910 Students and Fine Faculty

THE College opened for the 184th academic year on September 20 with an increased enrollment, a number new faculty members, including two departmental chairmen, and the return of three teachers who had been on a year's leave. The student body numbers 910 men and women, compared to 860 last year, and the freshman class of 295 is the largest in Dickinson history. The freshmen hail from 12 states, the District of Columbia, Iran and Costa Rica.

Dr. Frank Ayres, Jr., chairman of the mathematics department; Dr. Milton E. Flower, '31, associate professor of fine arts, and Robert Alan McGill, '49, instructor in English, returned from leaves. Dr. Ayres spent the year in Mexico preparing his fourth mathematics textbook for publication. Dr. Flower was visiting professor of American civilization at the University of Dijon, in France, and McGill completed residency and course work for his Ph.D. degree at the University of Pennsylvania.

One of the new teachers is Arthur E. Arnold, II, '50, instructor in modern languages and acting director of the language electronic laboratory. He has taught at Valley Forge Military Academy and the Coatesville (Pa.) High School and spent summers at the Middlebury language schools, in Vermont, and the Purdue University Language Workshop.

New professor of physics and chairman of the department is Dr. Kenneth L. Andrew, who comes to Dickinson from Friends University where he headed the department of physics and mathematics for 14 years. A native of Kansas, he graduated from Friends in 1940, received a master's degree in physics and mathematics at Johns Hopkins in 1942 and his Ph.D. in physics at Purdue in 1951. He also took graduate work at University of Wichita and University of Maryland.

Dr. Andrews was a research associate in physics at Purdue the past two summers and an associate physicist with the Philips Petroleum Company, in Oklahoma, in the summer of 1947. He is the co-author of a number of articles published in the Indiana Academy of Science. As physics department chairman he succeeds Dr. Wellington J. Parlin, who resigned three years ago. Prof. Henry E. Smith served as acting chairman for a year until his death in 1955 and Dr. Julian A. Ripley was the acting chairman last term.

The other new departmental chairman is Dr. William Haller, Jr., formerly assistant professor of economics at the University of Massachusetts and editor of Consumer News, whose appointment as professor of economics and head of the department was announced in the May issue of THE ALUMNUS. An Amherst College graduate, Class of 1936, he has the Doctor of Philosophy degree from Columbia, and he taught at Tulane and University of Vermont before joining the University of Massachusetts faculty in 1946. His writings include The Puritan Frontier, a book published in 1951. As physics chairman he succeeds Prof. Cornelius W. Fink who died last December.

Dr. J. Stuart Prentice, who retired in June after 25 years on the faculty of Middlebury College where he was Hepburn Professor of Economics and chairman of the division of social sciences, was appointed visiting professor of economics. He received his bachelor and master's degrees at Queen's College, in his native Canada, and began his teaching career in India at Hislop College, where he spent six years. He then taught at Defiance College for two and went to Middlebury in 1932.

A one-time economist for the Department of Labor, Ottawa, Dr. Prentice is the author of a number of published articles, including "Canadian Federal Finance" and "Canada's Attitude Toward the Exportation of Hydro-Electric Power." He has been a fellow at Case Institute of Technology and serves on the Council for Social Action of the Congregational Christian Churches.

New assistant professor of biology is Dr. Daniel J. McDonald, formerly of the faculties of Columbia and Long Island Universities. A 1950 graduate of Siena College, he received a master's degree in zoology at Columbia in 1952 and his Ph.D. there last year, also in zoology. His research interests are in the field of population genetics and his articles have appeared in the Proceedings of the National Academy of Science and in Genetics. He is a member of Sigma Xi.

Stuart W. Bruchey and James W. Carson are new instructors in history. Bruchey is a 1943 graduate of Johns Hopkins where he earned a master's in 1946 and his Ph.D. last year. He was engaged for four years in helping write the official War Department history of the Corps of Engineers. Carson, a doctoral candidate at Syracuse, graduated from Miami University, Ohio, in 1949 and received a master's degree there in 1951 and remained at the university as a part-time instructor and lecturer until 1953 when he went to Syracuse for advanced graduate work and to teach.

Andrew C. Houston, a Ph.D. candidate at Pennsylvania State University, who has just completed several years of study and research in Sweden, was named an instructor in economics. An honor graduate of Penn State in 1951, he spent the next year at the University of Stockholm's graduate school for English speaking students and returned to Sweden in 1954 to make a study of investment theories.

William McLennand, native of London, England, and formerly of the Bowling Green University faculty, was appointed instructor in psychology. A University of Pittsburgh graduate with a B.S. in psychology, he earned a master's degree in that field at University of Toledo and has done additional work at Penn State and Pitt. He studied counseling at the American Institute of Family Relations and has gained more than 2,500 hours in direct personal counseling experience. He has done research in child and adolescent development, psycho-physical characteristics of allergies and visual problems in educational development.

The College also has new instructors in music and drama. They are Dr. Lloyd Ultan, young American composer with an impressive number of performed works, and David F. Brubaker, seasoned actor and director with community theatres and summer playhouses. Dr. Ultan's duties will include directing the Dickinson choir and orchestra. A 1951 New York University graduate with a B.S. in music education, he obtained a master's degree in music at Columbia and received his Ph.D. in music composition at University of Iowa earlier this year. Among his performed works are a piano sonata and a cantata for chorus and orchestra, entitled "The Man with a Hoe," based on the Markham poem, which were performed at the Midwest Composers Symposium at Urbana, Ill., last May. He has taught instrumental music at the Forest Hills High School, in New York, and conducted a tour of European music festivals in 1955.

Brubaker will teach drama and augmentation courses and direct the productions of the Mermaid Players. A 1948 graduate of Franklin and Marshall College, he also attended Yale and studied acting and directing at the Cleveland Play House, in Ohio. A former assistant director of the Harrisburg Community Theatre, he has been an actor in recent years with the Allenberry Playhouse, near Carlisle.

Lebanon Valley College Honors President Edel

THE degree of Doctor of Civil and Canon Law (J.U.D.) was conferred upon President William W. Edel by Lebanon Valley College, at the 87th annual Commencement Exercises of the Annville, Pa., institution when he was acclaimed as "a man of great talents, dedicated to his Alma Mater, his nation, his fellow man and his God."

President Edel also delivered the Commencement Address at the exercises held outdoors on the college campus. His subject was "Education for Tomorrow's Needs."

He was presented for the degree to President Frederic K. Miller of Lebanon Valley by Dean Howard M. Kreitzer who read the following citation:

"May I present Dr. William Wilcox Edel, 22nd President of Dickinson College, an historical and honorable institution in neighboring Cumberland County, a college founded before our Country's Bill of Rights, and twelfth oldest in the nation. The notable career of Dr. Edel, retired Navy Chaplain is highlighted by his achievements in the advancement of theology, education, and his beloved United States Navy."

"Born March 16, 1894, in Baltimore, Maryland, Dr. Edel graduated in 1915 from Dickinson College with a Bachelor of Arts Degree, and as a member of Phi Beta Kappa. He also received a Bachelor of Sacred Theology from Boston University, and did further graduate work at the Philadelphia Divinity School, and at the Church School of the Pacific and the Pacific School of Religions in Berkeley, California."

"In June 1917 he was commissioned a Chaplain in the United States Navy. This began a 30 year career of active naval service in stations throughout the globe that spanned two World Wars."

"For 24 years the historian of the Chaplain Corps, he was prominent as a consultant and designer of Navy memorials, emblems and chapels, including the famed Cathedral of the Air, a memorial to aviators at the Lakehurst Naval Air Station, and the Mariners Cross, a medal for Navy Chaplains."

"During the 1920s he supervised educational procedures for the American Samoan Government. By the end of World War II he had charge of all Navy Chaplain activities in the South Pacific area. At the time of his retirement in 1946, he was District Chaplain of the First Naval District, with headquarters in Boston, Massachusetts."

"Since 1946, his ten years at the Carlisle College have been accompanied by a nearly doubled enrollment, an increased faculty with broader training and with a larger number of advanced degrees, many new teaching aids, and much additional equipment, and a greatly increased endowment."

"New dormitories for men and women, new faculty residences, new audiovisual language and accounting laboratories, and definite plans for a new chemistry building, a Student Union and new College Chapel facilities, are but some of the advancements realized under Dr. Edel's inspired and capable hand."

"In 1952, Dr. Edel was made an Honorary Freeman of Carlisle, England, in recognition of his efforts to increase international goodwill through literary and educational works. He is currently president of the Foundation for Independent Colleges, Incorporated of Pennsylvania, and holds honorary degrees from six American colleges and universities."

"A man of great talents, dedicated to his Alma Mater, to his nation, his fellow man and his God, he is respected by countless numbers throughout the world for his accomplishments as a devoted theologian and as a college administrator."

"In recognition of his achievements, I am happy to present to you for the honorary degree of Doctor of Civil and Canon Law, Dr. William Wilcox Edel."

Receives Honorary Degree

The Rev. Kenneth R. Rose, '44, pastor of Lovely Lane Methodist Church of Baltimore, Md., since 1953, was awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters at the Commencement exercises of American University on June 10. Earlier in the year he served as the delegate to the General Conference.

Dr. Rose is the youngest pastor called to the pulpit of Lovely Lane Church, which is known as "Mother Church of American Methodism" in the 184 years of its history with the single exception of Bishop Francis Asbury. He was 31 years of age when he became pastor of that church.

Under an appointment by the Council of Bishops, he served this month as one of the 150 Official Delegates to the World Methodist Conference held at Lake Junaluska, N. C.

His wife is the former Jo Ann Wilson, '45, and they have two sons and a daughter.

Named To Faculty

Two members of the Dickinson administrative staff have been appointed to the faculty. Albert Walker, the assistant to the president of the College, was made an assistant professor of journalism and director of adult education, and Charles E. Peterson, Jr., assistant director of admissions, became an instructor in the department of education and psychology. They will continue their administrative work, in addition to their new duties.

Prof. Walker came to the College last February from the University of Akron, where he was director of public relations and taught journalism. He also taught journalism at Carthage College. As director of adult education, he will have charge of the evening program which was introduced at the College in 1953 by Dean Frederic W. Ness, who directed the program the past two years. Prof. Walker is a graduate of Baker University and has a master's degree from Northwestern University.

Peterson has been assistant to the dean of admissions since July, 1955. Graduated magna cum laude from Lycoming College in 1950, he received a master's degree in education at Bucknell University the next year and has done work at the Lock Haven State Teachers College.

Speaks at Tesla Centennial

Dr. Carl C. Chambers, '29, vice-president for engineering affairs at the University of Pennsylvania, was one of the distinguished speakers at the centennial of Nikola Tesla celebrated in Belgrade in July.

Dr. Chambers read a paper "The Significance of Tesla's Power System. Its importance in the Success of the First Niagara Power Plant" in the morning session on July 11 when he followed the noted Professor Niels Bohr of Denmark, whose subject was "Fundamentals and Prospects of Physical Science."

Six Faculty Members Receive Promotions

SIX members of the Dickinson faculty received advancement in rank by action of the Board of Trustees on recommendation of President Edell in June. Ralph Schecter, Benjamin D. James, '34, Charles Coleman Sellers, Edgar M. Finck and Arthur Max Prinz were made professors and David I. Gleim was advanced to associate professor.

Prof. Schecter has been a teacher of English at the College since 1922 and director of music for nearly as long. Shortly after coming to the campus he organized the band and orchestra and directed them for 25 years. In addition to English literature and public speaking courses, he teaches history of music and appreciation of music and these classes are among the most popular at the College.

For his music classes he has pioneered a technique for correlating the eye and ear which enables the student to follow the score of a composition thrown on a screen from a film strip while listening to a recording of the music. A one-time professional musician, he studied conducting under Sir Henry Wood and for two years led the 234th Engineers Band in the AEF in France in World War I. Prof. Schecter graduated at the University of Illinois in 1916 and spent a year at the University of London where W. P. Ker, the authority on Scottish poetry, was one of his teachers.

Prof. James has been the dean of admissions since 1948 and chairman of the department of education and psychology since 1953, being also the dean of the freshman class. In his student days at Dickinson he was a varsity basketball and football player and after his graduation in 1934 he taught and coached at the high school in Plymouth, Pa., until coming to the faculty in 1942 as an instructor in education and assistant coach. Since World War II in which he served as a Navy officer he has devoted full time to teaching and administrative work. He has done graduate work in education at Bucknell and University of Pennsylvania.

Prof. James has rendered unusual service to the College through the outstanding success of his student recruitment program which has brought Dickinson to the favorable attention of an increasing number of fine high schools and preparatory schools in communities where the College was little known and which has enabled Dickinson to be more and more selective in admissions. This year's freshman class of nearly 300 is the largest in the history of the College and was drawn from an unusually wide geographical area.

Prof. Sellers, who became the librarian of the College on July 1 following the retirement of Prof. May Morris, '09, came to the faculty in 1949 as curator of Dickinsonia. Since that time he has indexed many hundreds of items in the college's vast collection of historical books and documents and has been successful in acquiring many valuable additions through gifts and purchase. Author of a three-volume biography of Charles Willson Peale, 18th Century portrait painter, he has also written lives of several other early American figures and is a frequent contributor to periodicals dealing with American history and art. A graduate of Haverford College and a master of arts of Harvard, he has helped to adapt at Dickinson some of the advanced library techniques developed at Wesleyan University where he was a library staff member for 12 years.

Dr. Finck had a long career in public school teaching and administration in New Jersey before coming to the College in 1952 as associate professor of education. A Princeton University alumnus with a Ph.D. degree from New York University, he has been teaching since 1910 and for a period of nearly 40 years he was the supervising principal of the Toms River schools where he originated the much-copied "Toms River Plan" of family relationships and social behavior courses. At Dickinson, his education classes have had the advantage of his long years of experience in the public school field. He has been advisor to practice teachers and established a chapter of the Future Teachers of America on the campus two years ago.

Dr. Prinz is an economist with an international background who was appointed an assistant professor of economics in 1948 and served as acting chairman of the department during the spring semester of last term. Born in Guatemala City and long a resident of Germany, he received his Ph.D. degree from the University of Berlin and taught economics in German schools until the outbreak of World War II when he went to Palestine to teach. He is an authority on Marxian theories and the author of many articles on economic topics published in this country and abroad. The College gave him a leave of absence in 1950 to accept a grant from the Sloan Foundation to advance his research and writing.

Prof. Gleim has taught in the chemistry department since 1946 when he was named to the faculty with the rank of assistant professor. For a number of years he was a research chemist with duPont's, the Chile Exploration Company and other firms and from 1930 to 1943 was head of the science department of the Mechanicsburg, Pa., High School. A bachelor of science graduate of Franklin and Marshall College, he earned a master's degree in chemistry at Columbia and also did graduate work at the University of Pennsylvania.

Elected Acting President

Dr. Norman Weisenfluh, '24, member of the faculty of Slippery Rock State Teachers College for 20 years, was elected acting president at a meeting of the board of trustees last June.

Receives Doctorate

Assistant Professor Bertram H. Davis of the English Department, who has taught at the College since 1948, received the Doctor of Philosophy degree from Columbia University in June.

His doctoral dissertation, titled "Sir John Hawkins' Life of Johnson: A Re-appraisal," is in part a comparison of the Boswell and Hawkins lives of Dr. Samuel Johnson. It has already received the praise of leading Johnsonian scholars in the U. S.

Prof. James L. Clifford, New York, in a recent bibliography of scholarship about Johnson, declared Dr. Davis' dissertation to be "the most authoritative information concerning" the Hawkins and other early biographies of the 18th Century lexicographer.

Dr. Davis, who has been a contributor to the Johnsonian News Letter, a quarterly, is engaged in editing the Hawkins life of Johnson for the first reprinting since publication in 1787. Hawkins was a friend of Johnson and knew the noted man of letters for a longer period than did Boswell, the most famous Johnson biographer.

A native of Long Island, Dr. Davis attended Phillips Academy, in Andover, and graduated from Columbia in 1941. After World War II service with the Army, he taught one year at Hunter College before coming to the Dickinson faculty. Columbia gave him a master's degree in 1948.

Heads Pennsylvania C.P.A.'s

Irving Yaverbaum, lecturer in taxation and accounting at the College, who heads a large accounting firm in Harrisburg, Pa., has been elected president of the Pennsylvania Institute of Certified Public Accountants. The father of a Dickinson student, he has rendered invaluable aid to the College in setting up its annual tax seminars for CPA's, lawyers, bankers and others professionally concerned with problems of taxation.

Closes Career As a Professor Without a Degree

WITHOUT even a Bachelor's degree, Arthur B. Jennings, '14, retired in June as a full professor and university organist in the Department of Music at the University of Minnesota.

"In my college days organ study and church music were extra curricular," Professor Jennings wrote and added "I batted around getting a bit here and a bit there, never accumulating enough credits at any college or university to obtain a degree."

Before coming to Dickinson, he attended Wesleyan University and the Architectural School at the University of Pennsylvania. When he came to Carlisle, he became organist at Allison Church and served for two years. He then went on to the First Presbyterian Church in York, an Independent Presbyterian Church in Savannah, Ga., St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Sewickley and then the Sixth United Presbyterian Church in Pittsburgh until 1938. That year he became associate professor of music at the University of Minnesota and served there until his retirement last June. A year after going there he became organist of the Plymouth Congregation in Minneapolis and he is serving now in that post.

Through the years he has become a noted church musician, composer and concert organist. He now presides over a large four manual Aeolian-Skinner and his church is now installing a three manual Moeller instrument in the Chapel.

His compositions include both sacred and organ music. Sacred music published by H. W. Gray, New York, include "When to the Temple Mary Went"; "Springs in the Desert"; "The Good Shepherd"; "The Beatitudes"; "Message of the Stars" and "Benedictuses in E Flat." The Remick Publishing House published his Prelude Sarabande and Fugue, while Witmark has published his First Elements of Organ Technic. He has also contributed numerous articles on church music in religious magazines.

A native of New York City, he prepared for college at Pennington Seminary and at Dickinson became a member of Alpha Chi Rho fraternity. He married the former Amy J. Wagner of Carlisle, whose father, Milton Wagner, conducted a hardware store on North Hanover Street for many years. She graduated from Wilson College and attended New England Conservatory.

New R.O.T.C. Instructor

Capt. John E. Scandling, a West Point graduate and Korean veteran, reported at the campus in August to serve as an R. O. T. C. instructor with faculty rank of assistant professor of military science and tactics. He had just completed the advanced course for infantry officers at Fort Benning, Ga.

Long Illness Claims "Dean" Swift

CHARLES LOWE SWIFT, '04, an inspiring teacher of English for 41 years, whose classroom career ended in 1947 with his retirement from the Dickinson faculty, died July 10 in New Bedford, Mass., following a long illness. He had also taught at old Conway Hall and the Hill School, Pottstown, Pa.

He was best known as "Dean" Swift, an affectionate title that endured from his teaching days at Conway Hall where he became a faculty member in 1906 and was the dean for a time. One of his students there was John Charles Thomas, the noted baritone, and they became life-long friends.

Prof. Swift came from early New England whaling stock. He was born in New Bedford in 1878, the son of Arthur Deane and Jennie Lowe Swift. Entering Dickinson in 1900, he withdrew after three years to become a reporter on the old Baltimore Herald and was later with the New York Tribune.

He left the newspaper field in 1906 to teach at Conway Hall, then a flourishing preparatory school for Dickinson College, and in 1913 went to the Hill School where he became head of the English department. He was still at Hill when elected to the College faculty in 1935. His retirement in 1947 was brought about by ill health. After that he spent much of his time at his cottage on Cape Cod, near East Falmouth, Mass.

Prof. Swift remembered his newspaper days with nostalgia, although his career as a reporter was brief. While on the Baltimore paper he became a friend of the great H. L. Mencken. In later years he indulged his love of writing by contributing special articles to newspapers.

He was a raconteur and wit and these gifts endured him to his students and brought him an unusually wide circle of friends. He was also a gifted reader and his selections from the classics enlivened many college and social gatherings. A well-trimmed VanDyke beard and his shock of wavy hair and erect carriage gave him an air of distinction.

He was a Methodist and a member of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

He is survived by a daughter, Katherine Swift, Carlisle; a son, Arthur D. Swift; a sister, Isabelle L. Swift, and two brothers, A. H. Swift and A. Clinton Swift, all of New England.

In New Post With Atlas

The Atlas Powder Company of Wilmington, Del., announced the appointment of Guy F. Rolland, '23, of McKeansburg, Pa., as assistant to the director of the Explosives Research Department on August 31. He will continue to make his headquarters at Tamaqua.

Following his graduation from the College and after receiving his Master's degree in Chemistry from Cornell University, Guy taught for two years at Lafayette College. He joined Atlas in 1927 as a chemist at Reynolds Experimental Laboratory and had headed the laboratory since 1945.

Masland Appointed to U. S. Park Board

FRANK E. MASLAND, JR., '18, vice president of the Board of Trustees of the College, was appointed a member of the Advisory Board on National Parks, Historic Sites, Buildings and Monuments for a six-year term according to an announcement made by acting Secretary of the Interior, Clarence A. Davis, last May.

The eleven member Board advises the Interior Secretary on problems of scenic, scientific and historic interests in the national park system.

In making the appointment, Secretary Davis said that Masland's wide knowledge of national parks and their problems, gained during vacation trips made with that particular objective in mind, will be of great value to the Advisory Board in its deliberations. He added that social and economical problems of the Indians of the southwest have likewise drawn Mr. Masland's special interest and study and he pointed out that he has lectured extensively on both national parks and Indians before conservation and outdoor groups, using movies which he himself has produced.

Mr. Masland traveled down the Colorado River by boat in 1948, 1949, 1954 and 1956. He was admitted to membership in the "Colorado River Rats," a unique organization of less than 200 whose membership is restricted to those who have made the adventuresome boat journey. He also belongs to the Explorers Club of New York City, the Racquet Club of Philadelphia, the National Association of Manufacturers and a number of national conservation organizations.

He heads the rug manufacturing firm of C. H. Masland and Sons, Inc., and is a director of the Carlisle Homes Company, The Denicron Corporation, and the First National Bank of Mt. Holly Springs. He is a member of Alpha Chi Rho fraternity and is an active Layman of the Allison Methodist Church, Carlisle. During World War I, he served as commanding officer on a submarine chaser.

Morganthaler Promoted

John F. Morganthaler, '21, of Harrisburg, has been promoted from the post of chief of federal surplus property to director of publications in the Pennsylvania Department of Property and Supplies in August.

The newspaper stated that the promotion carries a salary increase from $6,510 to $8,250 a year. He was a Democratic candidate for Harrisburg city council last year.

Morganthaler was associated with Montgomery and Company in Harrisburg for 25 years. He organized the individual income and personal property tax bureau during the administration of Governor Earle and served as intelligence officer for the Treasury Department during World War II and later was acting manager of the Veterans Administration records center at Philadelphia.

Represents Michigan on Wayne State Board

ROSCOE O. BONISTEEL, '12, of Ann Arbor now represents the Regents of the University of Michigan on the newly-appointed Governing Board of Wayne State University. A University of Michigan Regent since 1946, and Chairman of the Committee of the Whole since January, 1956, he represents the Regents on the new board during a three-year period while Wayne State University is being converted into a fully state-supported university.

Regarding the appointment, President Harland Hatcher said "Regent Bonisteel has brought wisdom, understanding and a creative mind to the planning of The University of Michigan for the future and it is now taking shape in the present. His vision for higher education in Michigan is exemplified by his constructive work in acquiring and building the great North Campus of the University. He will bring to Wayne the same high qualities of leadership."

Bonisteel, who is a prominent Ann Arbor attorney and civic leader, was appointed a Regent in 1946 and was elected to a full eight-year term which began January 1, 1952. In addition to his legal work, he has served as a director of several leading commercial, business and industrial corporations. A past president of the State Bar of Michigan, and a former State Bar examiner, he has been the Michigan member of the Board of Commissioners of Uniform State Laws since 1947.

His public interests have included the University Musical Society and the Michigan Society for Crippled Children. He is a trustee of the Historical Society of Michigan and a former district governor of Rotary. He has traveled widely throughout the world, including an extended tour of Asia two years ago.

Born in Ontario, Canada, he came to the United States when he was three years of age. He entered Dickinson College in 1908 and later transferred to the

ROSCOE O. BONISTEEL

University of Michigan where he received his LL.B. degree in 1912. Dickinson College conferred the honorary Doctor of Laws degree upon him in 1952.

Dr. Bonisteel's activities in Michigan have not dimmed his interests in Dickinson College, where he spent happy years and became a member of Phi Kappa Sigma Fraternity. He is a Life Member of the General Alumni Association and since its organization has been president of the Dickinson Club of Michigan. A few years ago he made a fine and valued gift to the College when he presented the famed John Drinkwater Collection to the library. Last year he started a fund with the gift of $3,000, the income to be used in the purchase of Dickinsoniana or additions to the John Drinkwater Collection.

A member of the Presbyterian Church, he is a 33° Mason and a Past Grand Master of the Michigan Grand Lodge. His clubs include Ann Arbor, Barton Hills Country, Ann Arbor Golf and Outing. His wife is the former Lillian Coleman Randolph. They have four married daughters and a son.

Laud Service of University of Maryland Regent

THE service of Harry H. Nuttle, '06, of Denton, Md., as a member and officer of the Board of Regents of the University of Maryland over a span of years was recognized in a feature article written by Carol Wharton headed "U. of Md.'s 11 Regents Rule Nine Years Without Pay" published on July 12 in The Evening Sun, of Baltimore. Board members, who also constitute the State Board of Agriculture, serve nine-year terms without compensation.

Mr. Nuttle, who is treasurer of the board, served from 1935, and was appointed again in 1953.

Appointment to the board Miss Wharton wrote "is an honor that carries with it a long commitment to a big task." Few realize, she added, that the Regents "are in reality, a very hard working group, charged with the management of a huge and complex organization which touches directly or indirectly, the lives of a large percentage of the State's citizens."

Harry Nuttle is well equipped for the post. He is a former teacher, a canner, a banker, a churchman, a former Y. M. C. A. secretary, an officer in many organizations, and he was a member of the Maryland House of Delegates in 1914-15 and a State Senator from 1918 to 1921.

Born in Caroline County, Md., on April 30, 1885, he prepared for college in the local schools there. Upon his graduation from Dickinson College in 1906 with Phi Beta Kappa honors, he taught school in Dover, Del., and then entered Y. M. C. A. work. He was associate secretary at Wilmington in 1910 when he became a farmer and a canner at Hickman, Md., in a business he still carries on. Through his business interests he has been active in the Southern States Co-operative, in which he has been a director since 1938 and served as its president 1944-47. He was a director of the American Farm Bureau Federation from 1937 to 1944 and president of the

HARRY H. NUTTLE

Maryland Farm Bureau from 1933 to 1938.

He is a member and was the president of the Tri-State Packers Association in 1939.

Not all of his interests have been in farming. He has been a director of the Peoples Bank of Denton since 1925 and its president since 1945. He served as a director, secretary and treasurer of the Choptank Electric Cooperative from 1938 to 1949.

Actively interested in Dickinson affairs, he is a Life Member of the General Alumni Association, a member of S. A. E. Fraternity and of Ravens Claw. A Mason and a Methodist, he is a Republican, a past president of Rotary and of the Denton Country Club and a member of the Odd Fellows.

His wife is the former Zora Godden Joslin. Their son, Harry J. Nuttle, graduated from the college in 1938, and like his father is a Lifer and actively interested in all Dickinson affairs, now lives in Haddonfield, N. J. They have another son, Byron H. Nuttle.

Alumni Council in Annual Session

A STUDY of ways and means of assisting the numerous Dickinson alumni clubs across the country to improve their annual meetings is under way by a special committee which will make a report at the Homecoming meeting of the Alumni Council on November 2.

The committee, chaired by Homer M. Respass, '17, hopes to come up with suggestions that will help the clubs meet the perennial problems involved in such details as fixing the time, place, price and program of the annual get-togethers. Purpose of the survey, of course, is to make the clubs meetings as attractive as possible to the greatest number of alumni. On the committee with Respass are Mrs. Mary Mackie Eshelman, '43; Jack Caum, '34; John D. Hopper, '48, and C. Weston Overholt, '50.

The committee was set up in June at the Commencement meeting of the Alumni Council when C. Wendell Holmes, '21, was reelected president of the General Alumni Association. Respass was elected vice-president, succeeding Judge Charles F. Greevy, '35. Mrs. Helen Douglass Gallagher, '26, secretary, and Hyman Goldstein, '15, treasurer, were reelected.

The results of the annual mail election for one alumni trustee and five Council members were announced by the tellers. Judge John M. Klepser, '22, was reelected alumni trustee for a term expiring in 1960. Named to the Council for three-year terms were Raymond E. Hearn, '24; Charles F. Irwin, Jr., '27, Mrs. Eshelman, Caum and Overholt. The sixth new member of the Council is John P. Winand, '56, representing the June graduating class.

Recognition of the 10th anniversary of the election of Dr. William W. Edel to the presidency of the College was made by the Council, which adopted a resolution congratulating him on his record of service and assuring him of continued wholehearted alumni support of his efforts to make Dickinson the best possible small college.

The resolution, attractively framed, was presented to Dr. Edel the next day at the Commencement Alumni Luncheon. In accepting it from Holmes, he said that no president could have a more loyal alumni association. "Let me say that the 10 years have been a period of great happiness, the hardest work I've ever done in my life and, I hope, progress for the College," said the President. He spoke for the loyalty of alumni, faculty and others and asked for a "unified goal working first for the College in particular and higher education in general." Dr. Edel said that his hope for the future was: "That we might be one."

The Council discussed the matter of alumni club meetings at length after Holmes in his annual report pointed out that the crowding of club dates into a period of four or five weeks makes it impossible for officers of the College and Alumni Association to attend all meetings. He suggested to club officers that they fix their dates early after consultation with Gilbert Malcolm, alumni secretary, and that they notify their alumni in plenty of time for them to reserve the dates against competing dates.

Some clubs, the discussion developed, have priced their dinners so high as to discourage attendance by younger alumni who find the family budget being taxed by the cost of tickets for themselves and spouse and engaging a baby sitter for the evening. At least one club tries to meet the price problem by having the treasury underwrite part of the cost of the dinner, and some clubs meet in church social halls instead of in expensive hotels.

Attendance at the Baltimore Club meeting jumped "from a handful to 150" when the dinner was switched from a downtown hotel to a church, reported Martha Weis, '53, president.

"Many churches these days have most attractive social halls and are prepared to serve meals to large outside groups at very reasonable prices," she said, advising officers of other clubs to investigate church facilities before making final decision on dinner site.

Why hold dinners at all?, was a question raised by Winfield C. Cook, '32. He suggested 8 p. m. meetings, without dinner, for fellowship and latest news about the college, topped off with light, inexpensive refreshments.

Gilbert Malcolm reported that a number of clubs are being reactivated. Albert H. Aston, '32, is organizing a group in Luzerne County, heart of the Pennsylvania anthracite region, while Judge Greevy and Earl Schroeder, '26, have taken the leadership in reorganizing the Williamsport and York clubs, respectively.

The alumni secretary also reported that alumni contributed $2,531 up to June toward the new directory of living alumni, which cost over $5,000 to print.

The Council extended its thanks to the members of the Annual Giving Fund Steering Committee and to the class agents who helped with the highly successful 1956 fund. John Milton Davidson, '33, committee chairman, said that Annual Giving faces "new horizons" now that the College has a fulltime fund director in the person of George Shuman, Jr. The College has barely scratched the surface of potential support from industry, foundations and bequests, he said. The Steering Committee is responsible for alumni participation in the Annual Giving appeals and is the Alumni Council's liaison with the College Development Council, which directs and coordinates all aspects of Dickinson fund raising efforts.

The Council voted to consider increasing the $40 Life Membership fee but deferred discussion until the Homecoming meeting.

Retiring members of the Council are: Judge Greevy, Cook, Mrs. Helen Weiner Smethurst, '25; Joseph G. Hildenberger, '33; Dr. R. Edward Steele, '35, and Carl F. Skinner, '53.

Retires After 37 Years As English Professor

DR. LEWIS H. CHRISMAN, '08, retired in June after 37 years of service to West Virginia Wesleyan College as professor of English, but continues to teach and lecture there on a part-time basis.

He was chairman of his department for many years and was the acting dean of the college for a period. Before going to West Virginia Wesleyan in 1919, he taught at West Virginia University, Union College and Baldwin-Wallace College. He has been a lecturer at Drew Theological Seminary and Garrett Biblical Institute.

Dr. Chrisman has been a busy writer. His published works include "John Ruskin, Preacher, and Other Essays," "The English of the Pulpit," "The Message of the American Pulpit" and "Ten Minute Sermons." He jointly edited "Selections from Speeches of Abraham Lincoln" and for a long period has been a staff writer for Sunday School publications of the Methodist Church.

As early as 1920 Dickinson recognized his achievements in the fields of education and literature and awarded him the honorary degree of Doctor of Letters, and in the same year the Dickinson chapter of Phi Beta Kappa elected him to alumnus membership. West Virginia Wesleyan made him an honorary Doctor of Humane Letters in 1948.

Dr. Chrisman was born in Chester County, Pennsylvania, in 1883. After graduating from Dickinson he continued his studies at the University of Pennsylvania, University of Michigan and University of Wisconsin. He is a member of the American Association of University Professors and A.X.P.

Committee Reports on Alumni Questionnaire

THE following report of the questionnaire mailed to the Alumni more than a year ago has been presented for publication in THE DICKINSON ALUMNUS by Professor E. A. Vuilleumier, the 1955 chairman and Professor Harold W. Weigel, the 1956 chairman of the Curriculum Committee.

In January, 1955, there was mailed to each alumnus of the College a printed questionnaire with an invitation to record his reaction to certain specific statements concerning the College's program. Data were sought by the Curriculum Committee to help it estimate the effectiveness of Dickinson's present curriculum and to determine what might be done to make it more effective. Approximately 7,000 questionnaires were mailed out; of these, 1,050, 15%, were returned.

The results, tabulated by Professor Winthrop C. Difford, of the Geology Department, are given below. In reading them, two cautions should be observed. Firstly, we realize that the number of questionnaires returned is not large enough to validate their results statistically. However, the committee felt that, because of the nature of the study, repeated mailings to increase the number of replies were not justified. The results are, therefore, presented to you for what they may be worth in a general, rather than in a strictly statistical, way.

Secondly, although President Edel, in his letter accompanying the questionnaire, specifically stated that "we are not asking for complimentary remarks but instead for clear statements of your convictions, whether they be favorable or unfavorable," the results of the questionnaires returned were, for the most part, favorable to the College. Particularly with the older alumni there is a considerable halo effect; that is, the graduate recalls "the good old days," forgetting the unfavorable or unpleasant features. Hence, in reading the replies to the first five questions one should place less statistical weight on the "about right" items and concentrate on the extremes. Thus, in the fifth question, pertaining to the civic-mindedness of the alumni, the significant fact is that, of 867 persons replying, none felt that Dickinson's effort was too great, while 302 felt that it was too slight.

I. Question: It has been suggested that at Dickinson too much emphasis is placed on liberal arts education, too little on vocational preparation; that it would be an improvement to offer more courses that are frankly vocational, or to reorient some present courses in a vocational direction.

Answer: I feel that Dickinson's present emphasis on vocational preparation is: too slight, 290; about right, 612; too great, 32.

II. Question: It has been suggested that Dickinson's practice of offering separate courses, leaving it to the student to grasp the relationships among them, is not satisfactory; that it would be an improvement to offer a series of courses, each one of which combines elements of several courses. Thus, there might be a course in natural sciences, or a course in social sciences, or a course in the humanities (literature, philosophy, religion).

Answer: I feel that the effort Dickinson has made toward offering such integrated courses is: too slight, 416; about right, 457; too great, 20.

III. Question: On the campus a continuous struggle is being waged between curricular and extra-curricular activities for the students' time and effort.

Answer: I feel that the emphasis on extra-curricular activities has been: too slight, 72; about right, 713; too great, 134.

IV. Question: One of Dickinson's aims is to produce persons who are oriented religiously.

Answer: I feel that Dickinson's effort in this area is: too slight, 132; about right, 693; too great, 74.

V. Question: Another of Dickinson's aims is to produce persons who are civic-minded.

Answer: I feel that Dickinson's effort in this area is: too slight, 302; about right, 565; too great, 0.

VI. Question: In retrospect, I feel that—a. The greatest shortcoming of Dickinson College was:

Times mentioned

Lack of vocational counseling	90
Lack of course guidance	64
Too much fraternity	57
Poor athletics	53
Poor publicity	34
Lack of vocational courses	34
Too few effective teachers	33
Poor music-art-culture offerings	27
Lack of facilities, funds	23

b. A remedy for this might be:

Higher salaries	41
Added counseling, and a placement bureau	40

VII. Question: In retrospect I feel that—a. The greatest strength of Dickinson College was:

Devoted and able faculty	337
Small size of the College	264
Friendly student-faculty ties	154
Liberal Arts education	149
High academic standards	53
Student fellowship	35
Religious atmosphere	27
Traditions	25

b. This might have been enhanced by:

Weeding out poor faculty members	45
Adding typing and other business courses	37

Comments concerning this questionnaire:

Good, excellent	205
Not qualified to answer questions	152
Too general, weak, too short	25

This questionnaire seems to indicate that the alumni generally desire Dickinson to remain a small undergraduate college, dedicated to providing a liberal arts education of high caliber. The Curriculum Committee is constantly endeavoring to strengthen and improve the college's academic program along this line. For example, in the matter of presenting integrated subject matter from several different fields so that the student may understand the interrelationships of the various disciplines, it may be pointed out that currently one such course in the area of the social sciences is being offered. A second integrated course, in the natural sciences, is under discussion and preparation for a possible offering in 1957.

Alumni will also be interested to know that in certain areas where criticism was heaviest (e.g., in connection with the lack of adequate counseling) definite advances have been made and further improvements are in prospect. Again the Curriculum Committee thanks the 1,050 Dickinsonians for their replies, their comments and suggestions. It also invites comments on this report, as well as to any other suggestions which the alumni may feel inclined to make.

New York Club Meets

Col. Clarence E. Lovejoy was the principal speaker at the annual dinner of the Dickinson Club of New York on May 11 in the Executive Dining Room at the Esso Building. President William W. Edel, who was one of the speakers offered the invocation and Benjamin Epstein, '31, president of the club, served as toastmaster.

Col. Lovejoy is the author of Guide on Colleges and a member of the Dickinson Parents Advisory Council. His daughter, Barbara, is a member of the Class of 1959.

Other speakers were Gilbert Malcolm and George Shuman, Jr.

J. Cameron Frenlich, '13, was elected president for a two-year term. Other officers chosen were John B. Carroll, '41, vice-president and Erma H. Slaight, '37, secretary-treasurer. The officers and the following form the Executive Committee: Margaret McMullen, '51; Benjamin Epstein, '31; Edward J. Kohnstaum, '30, and Henry Logan, '10.

Twenty-Seven New Lifers Boost Total to 1,585

SINCE the publication of 1,558 names of Life Members of the General Alumni Association in the May number of THE DICKINSON ALUMNUS, twenty-seven new subscribers have been added to raise the total to 1,585. It is expected that the 1,600 mark will soon be passed.

The first $40 check in the new series came from John F. Kelso, '30, who is senior tax analyst with the Wilmington Trust Company, Wilmington, Del. He also serves as treasurer of the Peninsula Annual Conference of the Methodist Church.

A few days later a $40 check arrived from Franklin A. Gray, '21, of New Gretna, N. J., who is in the Department of Conservation and Economic Development of the State of New Jersey.

The next check came from Henrietta R. Mohler, '54, who is a teacher of mathematics in the Junior High School at the Manheim Central School District in Ephrata, Pa.

Mary E. Frankenberry, '23, teacher in the schools of Lewistown, Pa., then became the next Lifer.

When his thoughts turned to the campus on the eve of Commencement, William Ragolio, '35, sent in his check for Life Membership. He is executive director of the Goodwill Industries of Chicago and Cook County.

The next check came from Dr. Earl C. Lyon, '17, who is practicing medicine in Bridgeton, N. J.

Two subscriptions came the next day. The one from Earl R. Handler, '34, attorney of Indiana, Pa., and the other from Herbert Callister, '54, who lives in Laurel, N. Y., and is a budget analyst at the Air Force Base, Westhampton Beach, L. I., N. Y.

When they came back for Commencement, two mothers enrolled their offspring as Lifers. Mrs. Thomas E. Weaver, the former Emma Brenneman, '26, wrote a $40 check to enroll her daughter, Janet L. Weaver, '52, who is engaged in business in New York. At the same time, Mrs. W. E. Smethurst, the former Helen Wiener, '26, wrote her check to enter the name of her son, Lt. Richard J. Smethurst, '55, who is serving at the Army Language School at Presidio, Monterey, Calif.

At the end of the college year, Dr. Edgar M. Finck, Professor of Education, became a Lifer.

The next check came from Richard B. Hunter, '36, who lives in Reading, Pa., and operates a used car agency in Esterly.

This was followed by the check of Jay M. Hughes, '54, who is in his third year as a student at Jefferson Medical College.

Using the gift which had been given to him by the Parents Council, Professor David I. Gleim, of the College faculty, applied $40 of it to enroll the name of his daughter, Mrs. Jack E. Jordan of Mechanicsburg, Pa., the former Kathryn Gleim, '53, as a Lifer.

A letter was then received from Paul T. Collins, '03, of Norfolk, Va., to enroll the name of his father, Samuel Quinton Collins, of the Class of 1867, as a Life Member. He wrote that his father "talked Dickinson all his life" and that he wanted to perpetuate his father's name as well as to honor Dr. William W. Edell for the accomplishments during his presidency of the College.

As a birthday gift to their son, the Rev. Ralph Lee Minker, Jr., '47, the pastor of the Methodist Church in Ocean City, Md., his parents presented him with a Life Membership last June 16. His father graduated from the college in 1920 and his mother is the former Ruth Jones, '24.

A check was then received from Dr. J. Rolland Crompton, '20, headmaster of Tilton School, Tilton, N. H.

The next check came from C. William McCord, '44, who lives in South Orange, N. J., and teaches mathematics at the Abraham Clark High School in Roselle.

A husband and wife team then became Life Members when a check was received from John N. Hall, '29, of Harrisburg, and also his wife and classmate, the former Miriam S. Bell.

When he visited the college on June 23, Joseph F. DiOrio, '53, became a Lifer. He is teaching Latin, English and French in the Delhaas Senior High School, Bristol, Pa.

A check was then received from E. Yates Catlin, II, of Key West, Fla., who is a member of the Law School Class of 1948, and the son of E. Yates Catlin, '19.

To celebrate his 70th birthday on July 11, Charles F. Stevenson, '08, retired insurance executive of Hummelstown, Pa., became a Lifer.

A day later a $40 check arrived from Guy A. Bowe, Jr., '40, '42L, an attorney of Tamaqua, Pa.

Dr. Herbert C. Rubright, '49, graduated from Temple University School of Medicine in 1953 and after spending two years with the U. S. Air Force became a Lifer following his discharge from active duty.

The next $40 check came from Ralph Ebbert, '07, who is retired and is now living in Belleair, Clearwater, Fla.

While he and his wife were on a visit to the campus in July, Percy C. Wilson, '35, became a Lifer. He is director of advertising for the Wise Potato Chip Co., Berwick, Pa., and he and his wife are the owners of the Briar Heights Golf Course in Berwick.

Life membership costs $40 and if desired may be paid in four annual $10 installments. It ends the payment of annual dues and carries a life subscription to THE DICKINSON ALUMNUS.

New U. S. Attorney

Robert J. Hourigan, '50, '48L, of Forty Fort, Pa., was appointed senior assistant U. S. Attorney at Scranton in June. He succeeded Stephen A. Teller, '32, who resigned the post several weeks earlier.

A Medical Problem

Dr. H. D. Kruse, '22, is editor of a book entitled Alcoholism as a Medical Problem, which has just been published by the Hoeber-Harper Company. The book contains an exposition on the epidemiology of alcoholism, its causation and natural history, and an evaluation of current methods of treatment.

As Dr. Kruse explains in the preface the book is not a handbook on the care and treatment of alcoholics but the report of a conference jointly sponsored by the New York Academy of Medicine and the New York State Mental Health Commission on Alcoholism as a Medical Problem. It contains papers of 12 distinguished scholars who participated in that conference.

Dr. Kruse also states that "the need for the medical profession to assume leadership in establishing alcoholism as a medical problem is long overdue. It is hoped that this volume may stimulate physicians to an increased interest in an admittedly complex, difficult and frustrating illness affecting a large part of the population."

Dr. Kruse has just been elected vice-president of the Greater New York Community Council, which is the central coordinating organization for health and welfare work of metropolitan New York.

Appointed Research Chemist

Dr. Robert E. Miller, '44, has been appointed research chemist of C. H. Masland and Sons. A native of Carlisle, he received his Ph.D. degree in organic chemistry from Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1949.

Before joining the Masland firm, he was with the Barrett Division, Allied Chemical and Dye Corp., Philadelphia. Previous to that he was a research chemist for the American Sugar Refining Co., Philadelphia.

He lives in Carlisle with his wife, the former Patricia Behrens, and son, Earl.

Southern Del-Mar-Va Club Opens Club Season

THE second annual dinner of the Southern Del-Mar-Va Alumni Club was held in the Hotel Atlantic, Ocean City, Md., on August 1 with 52 present. Dr. Harry T. Smith, '26, dentist of Salisbury, president of the club, acted as toastmaster and the Rev. Ralph Lee Minker, Jr., '47, pastor of the Ocean City Methodist Church, offered the invocation.

Dr. William W. Edel was the principal speaker. He reported a grant received from the Ford Foundation to the college totalling $406,000 for increased faculty salaries, a new award from the Danforth Foundation for development of religious life on the campus and increased support from several conferences of the Methodist Church.

Vice President Gilbert Malcolm told the members of the club, which was organized last year, that it had been learned that Peninsula alumni held a banquet 62 years ago in the Hotel Orient, Salisbury. He read from two printed pieces, the one listing the menu which named Oysters, half shell, stewed, fried, paned; Cold Meats, Turkey, Chicken, Ham, Tongue; Salads, Celery, Potato, Pickles; Desserts, Fruit, Cakes, Nuts, Cheese and Tea or Coffee.

The other piece was headed "Aftermath—Feast of Reason, Flow of Soul" and contained a lengthy speaking program with the Rev. W. E. Avery, of the Class of 1875, as Master of Ceremonies, and listing titles which would not thrill listeners today. Among these was an address by Bishop J. H. Vincent "Mental Furnishings for a Methodist Minister," and one by the Rev. Henry Clay Turner, '91, on "The Conference Course of Study," while the Rev. Dr. I. L. Wood, '84, discussed "College Curricula." Dr. William L. Gooding, '74, who was then principal of Wilmington Conference Academy and later professor of psychology at the college told of "Our Academy," while the Rev. T.

Snowden Thomas, Class of 1848, editor of the Peninsula Methodist, spoke on "The Peninsula's Debt to Old Dickinson." Naturally enough, the title of the address of President George Edward Reed was "Dickinson College."

Other college representatives present were Prof. Benjamin D. James, Director of Admissions; and George Shuman, Jr., Financial Vice President.

Dr. Smith and the Rev. Mr. Minker continue for another year as officers of the club with Mrs. Mary H. Birnbrauer, '21, of Rehoboth Beach, as secretary-treasurer.

C. Wendell Holmes, '21, president of the General Alumni Association, opened the speaking program. He was followed by Paul A. Mangan, '34, president of the Dickinson Alumni Club of Washington, D. C., who brought the greeting of his club in a brief message. The program closed with the singing of the Alma Mater with Mrs. Helen M. Bucher, of Boiling Springs, Pa., at the piano.

Writes on St. Thomas

Dr. Milton Conover, '31, is the author of a paper "St. Thomas Aquinas in Some Recent Non-Scholastic Writers on Political Philosophy" which was published in the January, 1956 issue of The New Scholasticism. Dr. Conover is a member of the faculty to Seton Hall University, Newark, N. J.

Maze Announcement

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Maze, of Bethlehem, Pa., announced the birth of a daughter, Elizabeth Randolph, on August 25. Maze coached Dickinson football for two years, then was head coach at Colby College and is now in the physical education department at Lehigh University.

"The Making of the King James Bible"

The Making of the King James Bible. A Monograph, with Comparisons from the Bishops Bible and the Manuscript Annotations of 1602, with an original leaf from the great "Sbe" Bible of 1611. By Edwin Elliott Willoughby. Los Angeles: Printed for Dawson's Book Shop at The Plantin Press: 1956. 31 pages. 290 copies for sale.

By PROF. CHARLES COLEMAN SELLERS

Among the many friends of the Dickinson College Library, Edwin E. Willoughby, '22, Chief Bibliographer of the Folger Shakespeare Library, stands out as a constant supporter, a donor of rare books and wise counsel. This slender folio, a superbly beautiful example of the printer's art, comes to us as his latest gift, with the inscription: "To the library of Dickinson College where I delivered the first draft of this essay." The essay is part of a still continuing study of the history of the King James Bible. It is in one sense a progress report on a scholarly enterprise of great magnitude, and so written as to share with the reader the excitements of intricate search and rare discovery, bringing out at the same time the strangely dramatic character of the story.

Few books have had so profound an influence on the growth of our modern civilization as the King James version—or, as the train of events is here lucidly and pleasantly related, gained their eminence through such curiously fortuitous circumstances. The King, "wisest fool in Christendom" as he was, wished to supplant the Puritans' "Geneva Bible," to which he objected not so much because the translation was an inferior one, as because of its annotations which challenged the divine right of kings and were, to James' mind, "savouring too much of dangerous and traitorous conceits." The new Bible, a project in which His Majesty lost interest toward the last, was more readily printed, more widely read. It became a stimulous to literacy and intellectual inquiry far more than its predecessor had been, and advanced the liberal cause far more than the other with its editorial slanting in that direction. "So a king," as Dr. Willoughby concludes, "to promote the doctrine of the divine right of kings, caused the publication of a best-seller which became a milestone in the march of American democracy."

A Town Topper

Col. Newton W. Speece, '12, was the subject of a feature in the "Town Toppers" part of the Minneapolis Star on June 18. In July he was inducted into office as Fifth District Legion commander in Minnesota.

The article told of his days following his graduation from the College when he was superintendent of schools at Bridgewater, S. D., and later at Red Lake Falls, Minn. He left education with the outbreak of World War I and continued his service in the Army until his retirement in 1947. He had a three-year tour of duty in Hawaii and was with the old Third Infantry at Fort Snelling, where he was regimental and post adjutant, following which he saw two years' service in China. During his service he also taught military science and tactics at the University of Minnesota and later was an instructor in the Minneapolis National Guard. He also saw service in the inspector general's office for the air transport command, during World War II.

In Alumni Post

Professor Flint Kellogg, of the College faculty, was elected to the three-member Executive Committee of the Bard College Alumni Association while attending the 25th reunion of his class last June. He is president of the Class of 1931 there.

Honor Head of Children's Home

THE Rev. Victor B. Hann, '28, superintendent of the Methodist Home for Children, Mechanicsburg, Pa., was awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Humanities at the commencement exercises of Lycoming College on June 3.

In conferring the degree, Dr. D. Fred Wertz, '37, the President of Lycoming College, said in part "you have taught boys and girls to love life and have given them a faith by which to live. For this ministry there is no greater reward nor deeper satisfaction than the smile on the face of a child or song which you have put on his lips."

Dr. Hann has been superintendent of the Home for 15 years. During his incumbency, the endowment has more than doubled while the staff has been increased in numbers and two new buildings costing $130,000 have been completed and other improvements made.

The Home cares for 50 children and provides a program of child care under church auspices. Approximately half of the children admitted are returned to their parents when homes are re-established. The others complete high school and of these a number graduate from college or nursing school. Many are now teachers and principals, some are teaching in colleges and others are supervising principals of school systems. The Home is operated under the auspices of the Central Pennsylvania Conference of the Methodist Church.

Before becoming superintendent of the Home, the Rev. Dr. Hann served pastorates at Watsonstown, New Bloomfield, Lewistown and St. Paul's Church in Harrisburg. He was also secretary of the Central Pennsylvania Annual Conference and at one time a director of the Methodist Boys Camp at Newton Hamilton.

He has served as president of the Association of Superintendents of Children's Institutions of Pennsylvania; as a member of the committee which prepared standards for children's home in

VICTOR B. HANN

Pennsylvania and also a member of the Standards Committee for children's homes of the Methodist Church. He is president of the Mechanicsburg Ministerial Association.

A past president of the Mechanicsburg Rotary Club and a past president of the Citizens Advisory Committee of Mechanicsburg, he served as chairman of the Red Cross Fund Drive in Mechanicsburg in 1954.

Born in Clearfield, he prepared for college at Dickinson Seminary, received his A.B. degree from the college in 1928. He is a member of Alpha Chi Rho fraternity.

His wife is the former Muriel Flexer of Williamsport. Their daughter, Victoria K Hann, '50, is Dean of Women at Dickinson College.

Shoots Hole-in-One

Tony Capello, '43, of Dover, N. J., joined the Hole-in-One Club last May 9 at the Musconetong Country Club. Using a Number 5 iron he made the 135 drive in a single stroke.

Heads Manhattan Big Brother Movement

HERBERT A. HEERWAGEN, '32, attorney of New York City, was elected president of the Manhattan Big Brother Movement on May 30. He has been a member of the Board of Directors since 1944.

Founded in Manhattan in 1904 for the prevention of juvenile delinquency, the Manhattan Big Brother Movement maintains offices in Manhattan, the Bronx, Brooklyn and Queens. Through guidance, club, health, vocational and camp activities, the Big Brothers have aided more than 23,000 boys.

Except for a two year period of Army service, Mr. Heerwagen has been a volunteer "Big Brother" for more than 15 years. Previously he was active in Cub Scout work and he is now coaching and managing Little League Baseball and Basketball teams in Chappaqua, where he lives with his wife, their three sons and a daughter.

He has also been active in church affairs and taught in the Sunday School and was a member of the Board of Trustees of the Presbyterian Church in Pleasantville, N. Y., until he moved to Chappaqua in 1954. He now attends the First Congregational Church there where he teaches in the Sunday School.

A native of Newark, N. J., he graduated from the college with Phi Beta Kappa honors in 1932 and received his LL.B. degree from Cornell University Law School in 1934 with special honors. While at Cornell he was editor-in-chief of the Cornell Law Quarterly and won the Boardman Prize for scholarship and the McKenney Prize for law review work. He also was elected to Phi Kappa Phi at Cornell, National Honorary Scholastic Society, and to the Order of the Coif.

Since his admission to the bar of New York state, he has been associated in the general practice of law with Davies, Hardy & Schenck, 1 Wall St., New York.

HERBERT A. HEERWAGEN

His wife is the former Doris L. Richardson, who graduated from Smith College in 1936. They were married May 26, 1939 at Ridgewood, N. J.

Basketball Schedule

Wilkes and Lycoming are newcomers to the Dickinson College basketball schedule for the 20-game season opening December 1 with Susquehanna. Four of last season's opponents are missing from the card. They are Penn State, LaSalle, Carnegie Tech and Western Maryland.

The schedule: Dec. 1, Susquehanna, home; 5, Wilkes, home; 8, at Albright; 11, Johns Hopkins, home; 13, at Elizabethtown; 18, Gettysburg, home. Jan. 5, F. and M., home; 9, at Susquehanna; 12, Juniata, home; 19, Lebanon Valley, home; 30, at Lycoming. Feb. 1, Albright, home; 4, Moravian, home; 9, at Lebanon Valley; 13, at Juniata; 15, at F. and M.; 18, Elizabethtown, home; 20, at Gettysburg; 23, at Wilkes; 27, Lycoming, home.

Football Prospects Appear Brighter

ALIGHTENED schedule and an efficient-looking, although numerically small squad combined to make Dickinson football prospects pretty good as pre-season practice opened September 5 on Biddle Field, two weeks before the new term started. Coach Brit Piez and assistants David Eavenson and Joseph DuCharme, beginning their second year at the College, welcomed a squad of 35 players, including a dozen lettermen.

Dickinson's 71st season will consist of nine games. Wagner and Lycoming Colleges are newcomers to the schedule, while Allegheny is back after a lapse of several years. Lycoming will be the attraction for Homecoming on November 3. There will be four home games during the season, all starting at 2 o'clock.

Alumni living in the western Pennsylvania-West Virginia-Ohio area will have special interest in the game with Carnegie Tech on October 13 in Forbes Field, Pittsburgh. This is the game selected by the directors of the National Football Hall of Fame as the occasion for presenting membership in the "Hall" to Howard Harpster, Tech coach and one of the great all-time football players. There will be special ceremonies. Dickinson is honored to have a role in the tribute.

The Red and White will have a new look this Fall. The split box offense which Coach Piez installed last season has been abandoned for the single wing with unbalanced line. He feels the single wing is better suited to the material and will provide a stronger running game.

The job of installing the new system in time for the opening game with Western Maryland on September 22 was the major problem facing the coaching staff as pre-season drills got under way. The unusually large number of sophomores on the squad and the total lack of experienced ends presented other knotty problems. Some of the ball-carriers, of which there was an over supply, were to be switched to end.

1956 Football Schedule

Sept. 22	Western Md.	Away
Sept. 29	Wagner	Home
Oct. 6	F. & M. (Parents Day)	Home
Oct. 13	Carnegie Tech	Away
Oct. 20	Juniata	Away
Oct. 27	Swarthmore	Away
Nov. 3	Lycoming (Homecoming)	Home
Nov. 10	Johns Hopkins	Away
Nov. 17	Allegheny	Home

Home Games Start 2 p.m.

The coaches had to find replacements for such stellar players as Frank Schwartz, Bob Koontz and Don Allegretto, ends; Andy Comisky and Bob Wyckoff, tackles; Jim Nellas, guard, and Chuck Garwood, Al Barilar and Harold Kissel, backs, all in the June graduating class. But a strong nucleus of lettermen headed by Bob Woodside, Dickinson's candidate for all-state center, included Sammy Rose, Bill Matthews, John Smith and Dick Shanaman in the backfield, and Richie Graham, Harvey Bair, Charles Ferrone, Bob Myers, Robertson Taylor and others up front.

Matthews, a lineman last year, was being groomed for quarterback. At least four sophomores were eyed as possible starters, indicating the high calibre of the large soph contingent on the squad.

Coach Piez looked for important help in the backfield from David Woodruff, a junior, who was a freshman star at Amherst. He transferred to Dickinson in February, 1955, and is now eligible for varsity play. Frank Campanelli, a fast and shifty runner and a senior, who was unable to play in 1955 because of an injury, returned to the squad. The addition of these boys brightened the prospects considerably.

"Early American Science"

A review written by Henry M. Leicester, of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, San Francisco, Calif., was published in the July, 1956 issue of Journal of Chemical Education. The book, the work of Dr. Whitfield J. Bell, Jr., '35, former member of the faculty and a trustee of the College, is titled Early American Science: Needs and Opportunities for Study. It was published by the Institute of Early American History and Culture, Williamsburg, Va.

The review is as follows:

The Institute of Early American History and Culture is a national center for research and publication in American history from its beginning to the close of the Jeffersonian era. It attempts to encourage research into fields of American history which have been little cultivated up to the present. To accomplish this, it holds conferences on such fields and publishes the results. One such conference in the 1952-53 series was on the history of American science. This little book contains the results.

The book is a fervent plea for more research into the history of American science, a plea directed in the main to historians, but of the greatest interest also to scientists. It is full of specific suggestions of problems which could be profitably investigated, and of the sources which should be consulted in such studies. Besides guides to the available literature on a wide range of topics, it contains a list of 50 American amateur or professional scientists who were active before about 1820, their chief works, and what has been written about them. The scientific work of these men contributed to the growth of American culture, but their contributions have almost never been adequately assessed.

It is to be hoped that this book will come to the attention of those who have an interest in the history of chemistry, but who have hesitated to take an active part in developing the field. It can show how much remains to be done, and how to go about doing it. If it stimulates such new workers, it will have been most worth while.

Thirteen Law Grads

Thirteen graduates of the College received their degree of Bachelor of Laws at the annual Commencement of the Dickinson School of Law on June 2. Eight were from the Class of 1953, three from the Class of 1954 and one each from 1951 and 1952.

John J. Shumaker, of Harrisburg, who returned to his law studies after service with the Navy, who graduated from the College in 1951, received his diploma. Gerald Weinstein, of Atlantic City, was the member of 1952 who graduated.

Sidney D. Kline, Jr., '54, of Reading, and George H. Bostock, Jr., '53, of Carlisle, received graduation honors.

The seven from the Class of 1953 were George H. Bostock, Jr.; Harry Kenneth Butera, of Norristown; Roger B. Irwin, of Carlisle; John W. McIlvaine, Jr., of Washington; Karl F. Skinner, of Easton; John C. Smith, of York; Edwin W. Tompkins, II, of Emporium, and Richard C. Wynekoop, of Carlisle.

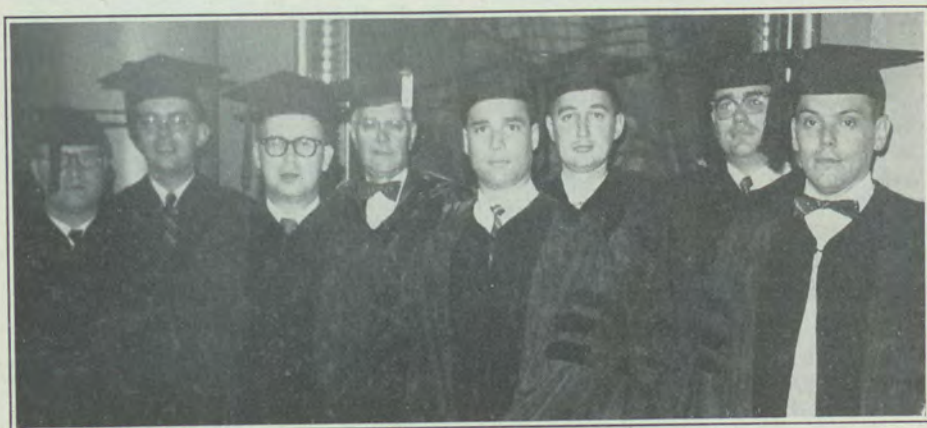

The three from the Class of 1954 were Robert Lee Cable, of Schellsburg, Pa.; Robert Luther Jones, of Wilkes-Barre, and Sidney D. Kline, of Reading.

Receives Merit Award

Dr. J. Milton Skeath, '21, was one of three faculty members to receive a Merit Award of $500 for outstanding service to Lycoming College last June. He is professor of psychology at the College.

The citation read, "During the current academic year you have made the wisdom of your years available to younger educators who have sought your counsel and advice. Your stability has been a steady influence through days of change and faculty and students alike have found in you, strength."

Seven Graduate From Jefferson Medical College

AT JEFFERSON COMMENCEMENT

LEFT TO RIGHT: JOHN B. DAVIES, NELSON M. CHITTERLING, CLAUDE M. WILLIAMS, PRESIDENT EDEL, SEYMOUR Z. GOLDBLATT, KENNETH J. McGRATH, ERNEST R. GRIFFITH AND JOHN T. WHITMORE.

SEVEN of the 11 Dickinsonians who graduated from the Philadelphia medical schools last June received their M.D. degrees from Jefferson Medical College, equaling the same mark set in 1954 and one more than the 1955 total. There were 20 Dickinsonians in the four classes at Jefferson last year, 11 attended the Temple University School of Medicine, 10 were at Pennsylvania and four at Hahnemann Medical College.

Of the 11 June 1956 graduates, John F. Vittrup received his M.D. and his commission as a first lieutenant in the Medical Corps at Pennsylvania; Ali A. Alley received his degree from Hahnemann; Joseph H. Engle and Donald L. Snyder received their degrees from Temple.

Two graduates from Jefferson, Dr. John T. Whitmore and Dr. Seymour Z. Goldblatt, were graduated from Dickinson in 1951 while the other five are all members of the Class of 1952. John Whitmore entered the Navy program and is now interning at the U. S. Naval Hospital, Philadelphia, while Sy Goldblatt is serving his internship at Our Lady of Lourdes Hospital, Camden, N. J.

Dr. Nelson M. Chitterling drew an assignment near his home and is interning at Mountainside Hospital, Montclair, N. J., while Dr. John B. Davies is now at the Scranton State Hospital, Scranton, Pa.

Two of the Jeff grads are at the Harrisburg Hospital. They are Dr. Ernest R. Griffith and Dr. Claude M. Williams, who was a junior interne at that hospital last year.

Dr. Kenneth J. McGrath, whose wife is the former Wilma Edel, the daughter of President William W. Edel, has gone to California with his wife and their two children. He plans to practice medicine there and is serving his internship at San Diego County General Hospital, San Diego, Calif. Dr. Edel invested him with the green hood of the M.D. degree at the Jefferson Commencement Exercises, which were also attended by Vice-President Gilbert Malcolm, who is pre-medical advisor.

The two Temple graduates, Dr. Joseph H. Engle and Dr. Donald L. Snyder, are now interning at Polyclinic Hospital, Harrisburg, and St. Luke's Hospital, Bethlehem, Pa., respectively.

First To Enter New Medical Corps Program

WHEN John F. Vittrup, '53, received his M.D. degree at the Commencement Exercises of the School of Medicine of the University of Pennsylvania in June he was the first medical school graduate commissioned in a new program of the United States Army Medical Corps.

During the past year the Army initiated a new program in which they accept senior students in medical school for appointment and place them immediately on active duty. Upon graduation the men are transferred to the Medical Corps as First Lieutenant and take Army internships. Vittrup was the first man accepted under this program. He is now serving his internship at Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D. C.

After he received his M.D. degree at the Pennsylvania commencement, Jack was sworn into the Army by his father, Major General R. L. Vittrup, who is now Deputy Assistant Chief of Staff to the G-3 Section Department of the Army in Washington. General Vittrup went to Philadelphia expecting to give the oath only to his son but he commissioned all of the school's graduates who had signed up for either Army or Air Force internship.

Jack entered Dickinson while his father, who was then a Colonel, was stationed at the Army War College, Carlisle Barracks. The year he entered medical school, Jack's father was promoted to brigadier general and assigned to duty in Greece. He has since been made a major general.

Jack's sister, Helene, entered the College this month as a member of the freshman class.

Form Law Partnership

Sidney W. Bookbinder, '35, and Joseph Markowitz announced the formation of a partnership for the general practice of law last month, with their principal office in Burlington, N. J., and branch offices in Beverly and Camden.

Mr. Bookbinder is city solicitor of the City of Beverly and township solicitor of Willingboro. He is also solicitor of the Beverly Sewerage Authority and was recently named assistant county solicitor. Active in communal life in Burlington County for many years, he is chairman of the board of directors of the Greater Burlington Chamber of Commerce, after having held the position of executive secretary for ten years. He is also president of the Beverly Rotary Club and a member of the Board of Governors of the Delaware Valley Council. He is a past county commander of the American Legion and a past national judge advocate of the Jewish War Veterans. He is a graduate of Dickinson College and attended Rutgers University Law School.

Mr. Markowitz is a graduate of the College of William and Mary and Rutgers University Law School, cum laude. Both Bookbinder and Markowitz are members of the Burlington County Bar Association, New Jersey Bar Association and American Bar Association.

Mr. Bookbinder is married to the former Bernice Klein and resides in Beverly with his wife and two children.

Death Claims Retired College President

DR. ROY LEE SHAFFER, '09, who served for 25 years as a college president and was also Assistant Commissioner of Education of New Jersey for five years, died in a Florida nursing home on June 14.

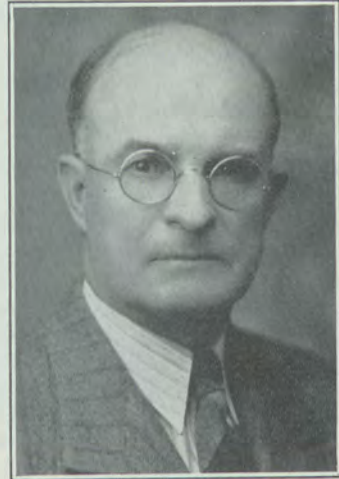

He became president of the State Teachers College in Paterson, N. J., in 1925 and served there until 1933 when he was named president of the State Teachers College in Jersey City. Then from 1940 until 1944 he was president of the State Teachers College at Newark, N. J.

Born in Greensburg, Pa., on September 3, 1881, he attended Central Pennsylvania College and graduated from Dickinson in 1909. The next year he received his A.M. degree. He also was a student at the Dickinson School of Law before entering Teacher's College at Columbia University where he received his A.M. in 1917. He was awarded the Ph.D. degree by New York University in 1933.

Before he entered the College he fought through the Philippine Campaign as a corporal during the Spanish American War. After his service he was employed in several hotels as a steward. Upon his graduation he began teaching and became supervising principal of the Morris Township, N. J., schools until 1918 when he was named head of the department of Practice and Observation at Newark State Teachers College, where he later became president.

He was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Hollywood, Fla., Phi Kappa Psi fraternity, a Rotarian and a Mason. He held memberships in various professional state and national education associations as well as Cincinnatus Society and the V. F. W.

He is survived by his wife, the former Ruth Fishburn, of Mechanicsburg, Pa., and their two daughters, Mrs. Mary S. Smith, and Mrs. William J. Dunn, both of Port Washington, L. I., N. Y., and four grandchildren.

Sigma Chis Burn Mortgage

At the Commencement Banquet, Saturday evening, June 2, 1956, the Sigma Chis burned the mortgage on their fraternity house at 41 South College Street. This property, purchased in 1924 from the Charles Berg Estate, is now debt free.

Lester Etter, '34, Carlisle, Chapter adviser and president of the Dickinson Sig Alumni, was in charge of the ceremonies. Others who participated in the celebration were Merkel Landis, '96, Glenn Todd, '12, Carlisle, and Mrs. Procter D. Foucht, Chicago (daughter of the late Col. Alex. A. Sharp, '83) all of whom are Trustees of Dickinson College.

Named Man of the Year

Dr. J. Paul Slaybaugh, '21, president of Wesley Junior College, was named by the Dover Lions Club as Dover Man of the Year at its 10th annual Charter and Ladies Night dinner meeting in June. The award announced by Dr. John Shilling, '08.

PERSONALS

1896

Ruby R. Vale, Philadelphia lawyer, received a Certificate of Honor from the Pennsylvania Bar Association in June for a half century of practice. He has been a member of the association since 1906.

1897

Following the death of his wife, Francis B. Sellers, Jr., closed his home and is now living at the James Wilson Hotel, Carlisle.

1902

Stricken ill in June while on a trip in New Jersey with his son, Dean Hoffman was taken back to Florida and underwent surgery on July 3. He is now on a postoperative regimen at his home, 4563 First Avenue, South, St. Petersburg, Fla., and is progressing finely.

The perennial traveler James G. Steese visited the campus in June while on another of his around the world tours. As usual he was fit as a fiddle.

Back for Commencement and attending the Alumni Luncheon were Miss Jessie C. Bowers, of New Cumberland, Pa.; Charles S. Evans, of Ebensburg, Pa.; William G. Gordon, of Coatesville, Pa.; Lloyd W. Johnson, of Caldwell, N. J.; Rev. Arthur C. Flandreau, of Farmingdale, N. J., and Beverly W. Brown, of Red Bank, N. J. Rev. T. Edwin Redding, who lives in Carlisle, was unable to attend the luncheon. He was visited by Dr. Johnson, class president and College trustee. The members of the class are looking forward to the 55th class reunion in June, 1958.

On October 1, Dr. Daniel P. Ray will move back to Johnstown, Pa., from Santa Monica, Calif. His address in Johnstown will be 307 Gardner Street.

At the age of 77 years, though he is a retired minister, Rev. William E. Webster opened a new church on June 3 last in Leonardo, N. J.

1906

John R. Milburn, Esq., has announced the removal of his office to 3730 Kanawha Street, Washington 15, D. C. He specializes in patents and trade-marks and his office is continued under the firm name of Milburn and Milburn.

The Class of 1906 in the judgment of the Alumni Secretary of the College had probably the finest 50th reunion that any class has held, when it met together last June. A large amount of the credit must go to Philip S. Moyer, Harry Nuttle and Tommy Atkins for their careful planning and sincere interest in the welfare of their classmates at the College.

1907

C. Wendell Holmes, president of the General Alumni Association, has appointed George M. Briner Chairman of the 50th Reunion Committee. Other members are George W. Pepper, Dr. L. Guy Rohrbaugh and Allan D. Thompson, all of Carlisle. Commencement dates are May 31, June 1 and 2.

George M. Briner, of Carlisle, was re-elected a member of the Executive Committee of the Alumni Association of Shippensburg State Teachers College for a three-year term last May.

Lt. Col. Josiah Scott Kurtz, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Kurtz, of Altoona, graduated from the Army War College at Carlisle Barracks in June. He was then assigned to duty with the Military Academy at West Point.

Ralph Ebbert has become a Life Member of the General Alumni Association. He retired in April, 1955, after three distinct careers and is now living in Clearwater, Fla. He was first a newspaperman in Connecticut and then after five years with the Philadelphia Evening Ledger as a make-up editor and a rewrite and feature writer for the New York Evening Post, he became manager of the Brooklyn and Long Island Automobile Dealers Association. After 22 years in that field he was director of personnel services of the Carrier Corp. in Syracuse, N. Y., from 1942 until his retirement in 1945. His wife is the former Helen E. Williams, a graduate of Wellesley College, and they have two married daughters.

The Alumni Director published a year ago fails to list the name of Warren E. Johnston, who is now living at 240 Forest Hills Road, Rochester 10, N. Y. For 39 years he was associated with the Kee Lox Box Manufacturing Co. there, first as auditor and then for 20 years as secretary-treasurer. He retired in 1952. He married the former Carrie L. Ewing on May 29, 1912, at Woodbridge, N. J., and they have a son, Ralph, a graduate of Dartmouth and Harvard Business School, and a daughter, Alice Louise, a graduate of Mt. Holyoke, with a year spent at the Sorbonne and a year at the Yale Graduate School.

1910

Charles H. Kelbaugh visited the campus in July while traveling around the east. His wife died about a year ago and he retired from his teaching position last June. He plans to continue to live in St. Louis and will probably do some substitute teaching there.

1912

Judge Walter R. Sohn, of the Dauphin County Court, underwent an emergency appendectomy in June. He recuperated quickly.

1915

Helen B. Neyhard was named chairman of the Christian Social Relations Group of the Carlisle Council of Church Women in June. She is a social worker.

An article by Commander H. H. Lippincott, of Morristown, N. J., "W. T. Stace and Cosmic Darkness" occasioned widespread and most encouraging comments when it was published, has just been included in a Scribner's book A College Treasury.

1917

Herman J. Shuey, of Grantville, Pa., is serving as administrative secretary of Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, Hershey, Pa.

1919

Recently, Isabel K. Endsloew spent several months in England and on the European Continent.

1921

Margaret W. Hocker, of Harrisburg, is psychologist for the Dauphin County schools.

1922

Dr. Carle B. and Mrs. Esther Shellenberger Spotts sailed in July for a month's tour in Europe. Dr. Spotts is head of the English Department at the State Teachers College, Slippery Rock, Pa. He has just finished one semester's leave of absence in order to complete Form C of his Fundamentals of Present-Day English, which was published in 1953. Mrs. Spotts is greatly in demand as a teacher of music.

1923

Dr. Florence M. A. Hilbish, member of the English Department at Slippery Rock State Teachers College, spoke in June at the Youngstown Regional English Conference held on the Westminster College campus at New Wilmington. She was a member of the panel which discussed the problem "The English Major Who Does Not Plan to Teach."

1924

Herbert F. Laise, '25, sent in the address of Charles J. Markle as 92 Bar Beach Road, Port Washington, Long Island, N. Y. Markle's address has been unknown for some time.

The Rev. Dr. F. LaMont Henninger is convalescing at his home, 2426 North Second Street, Harrisburg, Pa., after suffering a heart attack while attending the General Conference of the Methodist Church held in Ocean City, N. J., in June. He was brought from the shore to the Polyclinic Hospital, Harrisburg, where he was a patient for some weeks. During the month of June he was re-elected a trustee of Dickinson College, Lycoming College and Drew University, three institutions of which he is a graduate. The General Conference elected him a trustee of Drew and also to the Quadrennial Commission on Higher Education.

Mrs. David A. Bay, the former Mary Pass, is teaching English in the William Penn Senior High School in Harrisburg.

The Rev. and Mrs. G. C. Cromwell left on July 26 to a trip to Europe and the Holy Land and returned to Washington early this month.

The Alumni Directory incorrectly lists Herbert F. Laise as living in Bunker Hill, W. Va. For 15 years he has been living at 41-63 Glenwood Street, Little Neck, N. Y., and for the past 25 years he has been teaching in the Great Neck Senior High School. He has three daughters and a seven-year-old son.

Dr. A. Witt Hutchison was named acting head of the Chemistry Department of Pennsylvania State University in July.

1925

Judge Cornelius P. Mundy was one of three city judges in Maryland who for the first time in 30 years were denied the return to the bench in the voting of the May primaries. While a great deal was written in the Maryland newspapers and editorials protested what has happened, he will not be on the ballot in November. Early this month it was announced that he had become a partner in the firm which is known as France, Rouzer and Harris, with offices in the Equitable Building, Baltimore, Md.

1926

Dr. Roy T. Henwood, of Scranton, Pa., served as a delegate of the Wyoming Annual Conference to the General Conference of the Methodist Church held in Minneapolis in April and May.

Margaret S. Steele retired from the Navy in 1949 and took care of her parents until their death. Her mother died on December 5, 1954. She has purchased a home and is now living at 344 Glessner Road, Johnstown, Pa.

Dr. George H. Armacost is completing his 11th year as president of the University of Redlands, Redlands, Calif.

Robertson C. Cameron has opened offices in the State Street Building, Harrisburg, Pa., rendering his services as a public relations consultant. He represents the Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association and various other clients in public relations.

Dr. Arthur Carlisle Christie, father of Carlisle B. Christie, who was one of the world's foremost radiologists, died of a stroke in Jacksonville, Fla., on June 23.

At the last session of the Peninsula Conference, the Rev. F. Douglas Milbury, formerly at Dover, was named pastor of Calvary Methodist Church, Milford, Del.

1929

Rev. W. Donald Whetsel was recently appointed pastor of the Methodist Church, New Kensington, Pa. He previously served in Turtle Creek, Pa. His new address is 300 Freepoint Road, New Kensington, Pa.

1931

J. Boyd Landis, Carlisle attorney and Democratic candidate for judge in 1947, was appointed a member of the board of trustees of Shippensburg State Teachers College by Governor George Leader in July. He was named to replace Frank E. Masland, Jr., '18, Carlisle manufacturer and active Republican.

1932

Winfield C. Cook has been elected chairman of the board of the National Association of Direct Selling Companies.

Mrs. Sarah Teller, mother of Stephen A. Teller, Esq., died on May 5 in the Wyoming Valley Hospital, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., at the age of 83.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Milton Davidson, of Wayne, Pa., announced the birth of a son, Jay Steelman, on May 29.

Dr. Frederick A. Klemm, a member of the faculty at Union College, is spending part of his sabbatical year in Innsbruck, Austria. His three children, who have been attending the public schools, thoroughly enjoy it. They have been living in a manor house, in part 500 years old, outside and overlooking the town. From this central point, located at the northern opening of the Brenner Pass, they have taken extended trips to Italy, Switzerland, France and Germany. The family returned this month for the opening of the college year.

Professor Benjamin D. James, of the College faculty, became president of the Carlisle Rotary Club in July. A leading layman of Allison Methodist Church, he has been elected a trustee of the Methodist Home for Children, Shiremanstown, Pa., and is serving on the committee of admissions there.

Mr. Landis was active in civic affairs. He was a charter member of the Flemington Rotary Club and served as its treasurer for a quarter of a century. He served on the Flemington Board of Education, and was the board's insurance advisor for more than 30 years. He was dean of the New Jersey Chapter of the American Guild of Organists, a Mason and a member of Sigma Chi fraternity.

Born in Carlisle on May 29, 1873, he attended the Dickinson Preparatory School, received his A.B. from the College in 1894 and an A.M. in 1897. Immediately following his graduation he went to New York City to study organ and in 1896 became organist of the Flemington Church. He also assisted in the Flemington Children's Choir School and taught organ and piano.

He is survived by his wife, the former Katherine B. Ramsey, and a son, John N. Landis, '30, of Dallas, Pa.; a daughter, Mrs. George W. See, of Flemington; a sister, Mrs. Olive Barton, and two brothers, Merkel Landis, '96, of Carlisle and Kenneth Landis, of Highland Park, Mich.

1895—George W. Mitchell, an insurance broker, worked until the day before he died on April 25 at the age of 86 years at his home in Philadelphia.

A native of Newport, Pa., he attended the high school there and Dickinson Preparatory School. He graduated from the College in 1895 with Phi Beta Kappa honors and was awarded an A.M. in 1898. From his graduation, he was a high school principal in New Jersey and Pennsylvania schools until 1918 when he became an insurance broker and agent for the Travelers Insurance Company at Philadelphia. He did graduate work at Columbia University and the University of Pennsylvania before entering the insurance field.

He was a Methodist, a member of the U. P. society and the S. A. E. fraternity. He is survived by his wife, the former Mattie Egbert, and two brothers, M. Frank Mitchell, of Camp Hill, Pa., and Clarence A. Mitchell, of DuBois, Pa.

1899—Mrs. Wilmer M. Ewing, the former Lucia Coleman Hargis, retired teacher, died following a stroke on May 14, in Philadelphia.

Born in the Methodist Parsonage in Carlisle, she was the daughter of the Rev. Dr. James Hepburn Hargis, who graduated from the College in 1870 and her mother was the former Florence Woodward, of Carlisle. She was a sister of the late James H. Hargis, '13, and of the late Jesse Hargis, '00.

She prepared for college at Girls Latin School, Baltimore, Md., and received her Ph.D. degree in 1899. She attended the University of Pennsylvania and the French Summer School at Middlebury College in 1928. Following her graduation she was an instructor in French at the college and then later at Irving College before becoming principal of the Upper Lehigh Private School. She was later head of the department of French, German and Latin at the Radnor High School. At Dickinson she was a member of Gamma Zeta and the Harman society.

She is survived by three stepsons and the children of her late brother.
