ON THE COVER

President and Mrs. Howard L. Rubendall extend a warm invitation to all alumni to visit them at The President's House.

The Dickinson Alumnus is published quarterly in October, December, February and May. Entered as second class matter May 23, 1923, at the post office at Carlisle, Pennsylvania, under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Your New Alumni Magazine

The editors are pleased to present to you the first issue of a "new look" magazine. This new format is the result of the initial meeting of the Alumnus Advisory Committee, appointed by the President of the General Alumni Association, consultation with our new president, and much soul-searching.

The "raison d'être" of this publication has undergone a change in the past several years. The audience it serves has increased to include all persons interested in Dickinson—alumni, undergraduates, parents, faculty and other friends of the College. It can be no longer only a commentary on the activities of our alumni. It must keep its readers informed about the College—its problems, its accomplishments and its plans. The magazine competes with other reading matter which reaches your home or office for your limited reading time. Finally, this magazine is a medium for keeping the general public informed and aware of the increasing importance of higher education.

For these and other reasons, the Alumnus has to become a quality publication serving an important purpose. We hope that we have met this challenge in this issue and that we will continue to improve in the issues to come. In order to do this, we must have your support. In keeping you better informed about Dickinson College we hope to stimulate your interest. It is our hope that we will hear your comments, your opinions and your questions and that they will be answered, not only by College personnel, but also by other readers. A better Dickinson is the desire of all connected with her. We hope that the pages of the Alumnus will be one means by which we can get an exchange of ideas that will result in a better College.

Introducing . . .

HOWARD LANE RUBENDALL

24th President of Dickinson College

“IN his future career (he) will lead the angelic chorus . . .” While the College cannot be described as an “angelic chorus,” the 1931 Microcosm prophecy for Howard Lane Rubendall became a fact on July 1, 1961, as he assumed the title and duties of President of Dickinson College.

There was no ceremony on that date as he took over the reigns from Gilbert Malcolm, who had been president since June, 1959. The formalities were postponed until October 28, when he will be formally inaugurated. (See page 5 for details of the inauguration.) He entered his office on that day to tackle the many problems which face his administration.

That he is well qualified to cope with these problems is attested to by his life-long devotion to education and the ministry. To come to Dickinson he left the position of president of the Northfield Schools, in Northfield, Massachusetts, an educational corporation operating the Mount Hermon School for Boys and the Northfield School for Girls. He joined the Northfield Schools in 1944 as headmaster of Mount Hermon. In 1955 he was made president of the combined schools and remained as headmaster of Mount Hermon. The Northfield Schools form the largest independent preparatory institution in the United States. During his administration, the schools made noteworthy advances both scholastically and physically. Mount Hermon became known as one of the outstanding college preparatory schools in the country. Four major buildings were erected during his reign; a recitation building, two dormitories and a one million dollar addition to the Mount Hermon gymnasium. In June 1959 the Northfield Schools reported a three-year total of over 2 million dollars in gifts and bequests as a result of the development work which Dr. Rubendall directed.

Born in Williamstown, Pennsylvania in 1910, Dr. Rubendall was graduated from Millersburg High School in 1927 and from Dickinson College in 1931 with a bachelor of arts degree. From 1931 until 1934 he taught English and was director of athletics at the American University of Cairo, Egypt.

He attended Union Theological Seminary from 1934 to 1937 and received the degree of bachelor of divinity. In 1937 he went to the Hill School, Pottstown, Pennsylvania to teach. He was also chaplain and student advisor. In 1941, Dr. Rubendall became the pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Albany, New York and also taught religion at the Emma Willard School, until 1944 when he was appointed headmaster of the Mount Hermon School for Boys.

The recipient of an honorary Doctor of Divinity degree from his alma mater in 1945, his career was cited as a “fine example of practical Christianity in both religious and academic fields.”

Trinity College, in Connecticut, awarded Dr. Rubendall the honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters in 1957 and his citation read, in part: “a true furtherer of religion at home and abroad,” and “completely dedicated to instilling the love of sound learning, vigorous and fair sportsmanship, cultivation of the Christian life.”

That his interest in service to both education and religion have been his life's work is evidenced by his many affiliations. He is a member of the Connecticut Valley Presbytery of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., and of the United Board for Christian Higher Education in Asia. He was chairman of the Council for Religion in Independent Schools from 1950 to 1953. He is a founder and past president of the Independent Schools Foundation of Massachusetts, and past president and honorary vice president of the American Friends of the College Cevenol, an independent Protestant school in France. An honorary member of the Headmasters Association, he serves as a trustee of Williston Academy, and was formerly a trustee of the Northfield Schools, the Hillside School (Mass.), Albany Academy (N.Y.) and the Franklin County (Mass.) Public Hospital.

He is a Life Member of the General Alumni Association of Dickinson College and a member of Phi Kappa Sigma and Omicron Delta Kappa. While an undergraduate, he served as president of the freshman class, president of the Inter-Fraternity Council and chairman of the all-college social committee. He was the drum major for the band, a member of the YMCA cabinet, and participated in both football and track. During his junior year he was a member of Skull and Key.

Married in 1935 to the former Carolyn Dennett, he has two married daughters. The older is Mrs. Richard Vair Shanklin, III, of Seattle, Washington. The younger was married this summer to Keith E. Ballard, a professor of Philosophy at Amherst College. The Shanklins have presented the Rubendalls with their only grandchild, two-year-old Carolyn.

The duties of the first lady are not new to Mrs. Rubendall, although she is looking forward to living on a co-education campus since the campuses of Northfield Schools were separated. A graduate of the Institute of Musical Art of the Juilliard School of Music, she is a devotee of chamber music and was a member of the Pioneer Valley Symphony in Greenfield, Mass.

Living with the Rubendalls is Mrs. Rubendall's mother, Mrs. Annie L. Dennett, a widow who has lived with the president and his wife for many years. Completing the household is “Boy,” a black poodle.

The president is the son of Mrs. Lottie Rubendall of Millersburg, Pennsylvania and the late Charles W. Rubendall. He has one sister, Mrs. Richard Barnhart, of Dallas, Texas, and two brothers, Robert L., a lawyer in Harrisburg, and Charles W., a Millersburg businessman.

DICKINSON COLLEGE

FOUNDED 1773

CARLISLE, PENNSYLVANIA

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

OCTOBER 10, 1961

Dear Fellow Alumni:

The opportunity for direct communication provided by the President's Page is a new and welcome one. This page will serve as a means of drawing your attention to matters of current importance and note in the life of Dickinson, her achievements, special problems, and needs. At the same time, I hope it will always serve as an instrument for holding forth the purpose of the College and as a call to all of us to affirm our faith in that purpose.

The alarms often sounded today about the future of our independent liberal arts colleges are not false. The American public's awareness that the country's educational system has not been training talent in sufficient quantity to meet the demands of our times has led to important educational emphases that could be inimical to the welfare of the liberal arts colleges. Such concepts as mass education, standardization of method and program, education for high technical competence and vocationalism so necessary today to bring emergency strength to the nation, have never been and should never be the forte of the independent liberal arts colleges.

The business of the liberal arts college, the unhampered pursuit of those studies which nurture the human spirit while they inculcate the values which bring freedom and dignity to the individual, is today the first order of business for Dickinson College. This purpose is not set to counter national trends in education but to help these trends save the nation.

Each Dickinsonian should know that this has always been the purpose of his College. Dickinson pledged itself at its 18th Century chartering to do its part in promoting the security and welfare of the new nation through "virtuous principle and liberal knowledge instilled into the minds of the rising generation." It is of the utmost importance that our alumni today, as Dickinsonians and Americans, reaffirm their faith in this "business" of Dickinson.

During these first months in the office in Old West, I have found a Dickinson which merits the continuing pride of the alumnus in his Alma Mater: students of high calibre, responsive and friendly; faculty with competence and a gratifying incidence of dedication to excellence in teaching and scholarship; a physical plant and campus with all the old, familiar charm, bravely attempting to meet today's demands. I have, of course, found problems needing immediate attention. (An administrator normally finds himself for the most part in a sort of pendulum existence: swinging from "problems needing immediate attention" to "emergencies" and back again; or, as a cynic might put it, things are always going from bad to worse and back to bad again.)

Our problems are mainly those affecting comparable educational institutions. Among them are: faculty relations, including the need for better salaries; student housing; policy for future growth; the public "image of the College"; and the ubiquitous need for funds.

We are attending to our own special portions of matters of general collegiate concern. Dickinson has now taken positive steps to clarify and bring into proper order the College's relations with its professional associations. Studies of curriculum, plant usage, religious life, procedures for institutional support and management have been initiated. The aims of these studies are to help establish policy for the future, mark the needs, and find the means. Such enterprises are an essential part of operating the College so that her established purpose may be more fully realized in the actual life of the College.

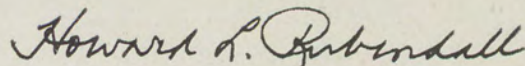

In the meantime, and over-riding all our necessary questions and concerns, there is here on the campus the thrill of seeing Dickinson move ahead in strength as her fine students respond to a genuine liberal education in the arts and sciences and show evidence of the burgeoning of that critical and creative intelligence which is the finest expression of the good minds of the children of God.

I repeat: the President's Page is to me a welcome instrument for direct communication. Communication is a two-way street; word and help from my fellow alumni would be appreciated. The Editor of the ALUMNUS and the President have entered into a pact on editorial policy for this journal. It is our aim to keep our alumni more informed than ever before about "what goes on" at the College. We believe that an alumni publication has much more freedom than a college catalogue or view book, and we intend to use that freedom. Its effective use will be aided by help from you.

I send you the good wishes of Dickinson and ask that you remember her in your deeds and prayers.

Mrs. Rubendall joins me in extending to you a cordial invitation to call on us when you are in Carlisle.

Faithfully yours,

Howard L. Rubendall
President

2. Dr. and Mrs. Gilbert Malcolm—Mrs. Malcolm is the former Ethel Wright Thompson—at their wedding reception held at Allenberry.

3. The new Provost receives an honorary Doctor of Laws at the June Commencement Exercises of the Dickinson School of Law.

"Mr. Dickinson" Assumes a New Role

Also Takes a Bride, Gets An Honorary Degree and Is Awarded a Medal

FILLING out a career which has seen him hold every important non-academic administrative position at Dickinson, Gilbert "Red" Malcolm '15 became Provost of the institution he has served for 39 years on July 1st. He will serve as Provost, a position which has been filled only once before in the history of the College, until he reaches the mandatory retirement age of 70, two years hence.

As Provost "Red" will work in fund raising and in public and alumni relations, as well as serving as advisor to his successor, a job for which he is well qualified since he has "broken in" five previous presidents, beginning with Mervin Grant Filler and including Karl Tinsley Waugh, Fred Pierce Corson, C. William Prettyman, and William W. Edel. The new Provost also hopes to find time to prepare a history of the College. In this task he can fall back on the many duties and positions he has held since returning to the College in 1922 to assist with an endowment drive under James Henry Morgan. Since 1922, he has served as endowment secretary, was the first alumni secretary and established the Dickinson Alumnus, was treasurer for 23 years, was the College's executive secretary, superintendent of grounds and buildings, and served as acting president on three occasions.

In addition to his new position, "Red" was elected a trustee of the College at the board's Commencement meeting and was elected to the executive committee. He had previously served as an ex-officio member.

On July 27th he was married to Ethel Wright Thompson, widow of Russell I. Thompson, former Professor of Psychology and of the College, and the only other Provost in Dickinson history. The wedding took place at 6:30 p.m. in the Fred Pierce Corson Chapel of the Allison Methodist Church. Rev. J. Artley Leatherman, pastor at Allison, performed the ceremony. Mrs. Malcolm's sister, Mrs. Parker S. Rettew, of Carlisle, and Dr. Edward C. Raffensperger, '36, were the couple's only attendants. Following the ceremony, the Malcolms entertained about 100 wedding guests at a dinner party at Allenberry. The bride and groom spent their honeymoon in Ocean City, Maryland and made their first public appearance as newlyweds at the Del-Mar-Va Alumni Club meeting on August 4th at the George Washington Hotel in Ocean City.

The annual Reserve Officers' Training Corps Award Day in May was a rare day indeed. On this occasion a surprise was pulled on "Red." Thinking he was merely performing his duties as President of the College, he participated in the award ceremony. The climax of the afternoon was the presentation of the Department of the Army's Outstanding Civilian Service Medal to President Malcolm by Major General Ralph C. Cooper, Commanding General of the XXI Corps, Indiantown Gap, Pa. This medal is one of the highest civilian awards made by the United States government.

The citation accompanying the medal read, in part "... his sincere interest in the development of the military virtues by young men and his strong support of the ROTC earned the respect and admiration of both the ROTC students and their instructors."

Instrumental in bringing the ROTC program to Dickinson nearly nine years ago, "Red" was largely responsible for its incorporation into the regular curriculum.

Another highlight in the life of one whose career has been endowed with outstanding events and commendations occurred on June 3, during the normally heavy schedule of a Commencement week-end, his last as president, when his other alma mater, Dickinson School of Law, awarded "Red" the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws. A law school graduate in 1917, his citation read, "... No person has served (Dickinson) more faithfully, more assiduously than he has since he entered it as a student nearly half a century past. No wonder its enthusiastic alumni have honored him for loyal and devoted service and placed him in that high niche reserved for its greatest leaders. He has earned his exalted position. No other person has given so unselfishly of his services to that College, nor served it in so many capacities, nor has had so profound knowledge of it. Phi Beta Kappa and other associations have done him honor but it is that immeasurable enduring affection of students, many now leaders in industry and professions throughout the world, which elevates him to that high plane reserved for the great alone."

These events of the past few months have done little to change the man who has devoted his life to the College and its students. "Mr. Dickinson" recently said that he will continue to serve the College. "My platform is the same as it was when I was elected president, to keep on trying to make the College a great one. Much can be done in service to the College in two years." We are sure that "Red" will do much in the next two years and in the next two hundred years much that he has done will be remembered and revered.

THE NEW ALUMNI

The Class of 1961

NOTE: Of the 203 graduates of the Class of 1961, 153 replied to a questionnaire from which this profile is taken. Although incomplete, we feel it is a good indication of the disposition of the members of the class.

ON June 4th, the 188th class in the history of the College—the Class of 1961—became alumni. A typical group of seniors, they were anxious to leave Carlisle to get started in graduate schools, to begin their careers, or to satisfy their military obligations. Also, like all classes which preceded them, some were headed for the altar. Thirty-three marriages were scheduled or had taken place by the members of this Class. They included four marriages of classmates. Altogether 49 Dickinsonians were involved in the nuptials.

The class distinguished itself in one respect—the scholarship of some of its members. Frederick S. Richardson, a senior sophister and a member of Phi Beta Kappa, was awarded a Woodrow Wilson fellowship entitling him to one year of graduate study in chemistry. He has selected Princeton University as his graduate school. Three Dickinsonians were awarded honorable mention in the selection: Gretchen Kuykendall, for mathematics; Stanley Lindberg, for English; and Allen Sidle, for psychology.

Elizabeth A. Keat, also a member of Phi Beta Kappa, was awarded a Fulbright Scholarship for study in France. She studied at Middlebury this summer and is now at the Sorbonne at the University of Paris taking courses in French language and literature. At the completion of her studies next June, she will receive a master's degree from the Middlebury Graduate Program. She plans to teach.

Another recipient of a Fulbright Scholarship is Barbara Jo Thome, a third member of Phi Beta Kappa. She also spent the summer at Middlebury and is now studying at the University of Mainz in Germany, majoring in German literature.

Altogether, the Class of 1961 sent 67 of its members to graduate school. Seventeen went on to law schools, with six entering the Dickinson School of Law. Eight entered medical schools in September, and four, dentistry. One female member of the class began studies at the Veterinary School of the University of Pennsylvania. Eight graduates entered as many theological seminaries. One former co-ed is enrolled in public health.

Four members of the class will do further work in the field of psychology. Engineering schools have accepted three '61ers, while three entered graduate schools in business administration. Four have selected English as their field of graduate study. Two geology majors are continuing their field of interest at graduate school. One of our foreign students entered the Royal School of Administration in Cambodia.

Twenty-five graduates of the Class of 1961 have started a career in education, with 11 teaching in senior high school, six in junior high school level, and four in the elementary schools. Four had no definite commitments in June.

Thirty-one classmates went to work in other fields of endeavor. The general field of industrial concerns employed 19 of these newest alumni. The Federal Government appointed five '61ers to positions on the federal payroll. Family businesses claimed four graduates, while three went to banking concerns.

The Reserve Officers Training Corps at Dickinson enabled seventeen members of the class to gain commissions in the U. S. Army and 11 of them are presently on active duty, with the balance due to go on active duty within the next six months.

Four classmates are presently serving in the Army as enlisted men. The U. S. Navy has granted commissions to two members of the class—one male and one co-ed. The Marine Corps Officers' Candidate School attracted one '61er.

Twenty-one of the respondents to our survey were unsure of their plans upon graduation and we have no further word on their activities.

Regardless of the choice of their future endeavors, it is certain that the members of the Class of 1961 will uphold the tradition of graduates of Dickinson College—they will be good citizens in vocation, in community, and in church affiliations. This is the value of the liberal arts graduate that he goes forth as an individual prepared to meet the many and varied challenges of our world.

THE NEW DICKINSONIANS

Benjamin D. James, '34
Dean of Admissions, Chairman of the Department of Education and Psychology

THE primary aim of the Admissions Department is to attract quality young men and women to Dickinson College. This quality is determined by the tradition of the College and by the desire of the faculty, trustees, administration, alumni and students as to the character of the student to be admitted to the College. The selection process which is necessary and essential to the admissions process is the relating of quality to these desires. The applicants selected must possess both a high potential for intellectual attainment and an approved performance in character development.

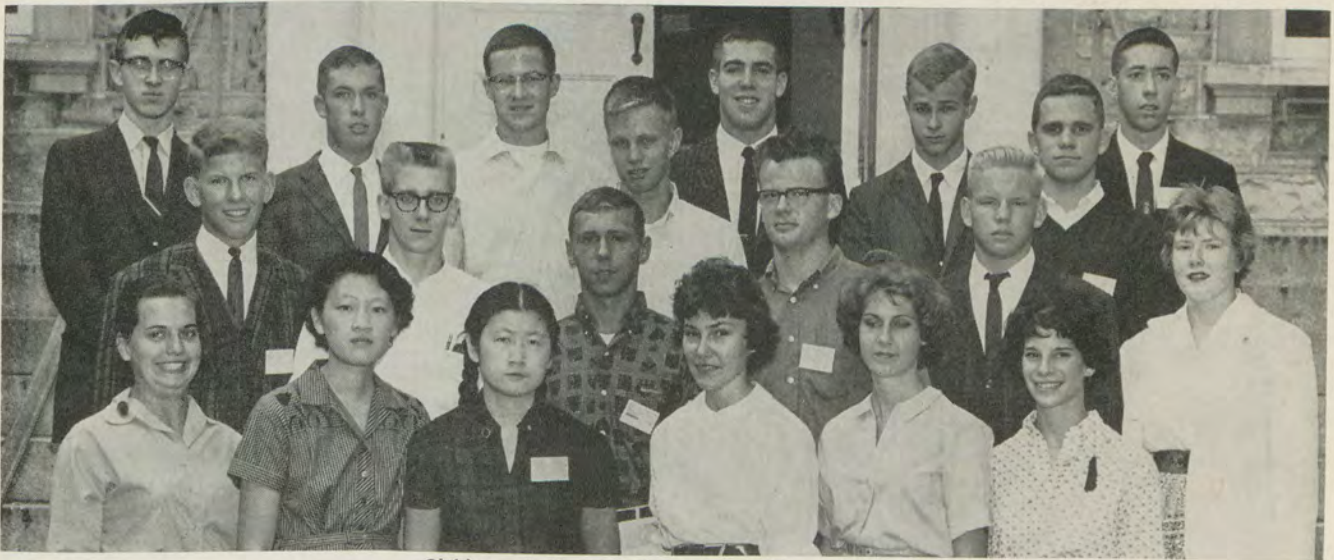

The characteristics by which an applicant will be judged for acceptance are determined by the Committee on Admissions, Scholarships and Student Aid. This committee is informed by the Director of Admissions of the number and quality of the applicants. The committee is then responsible for determining the applicants to be accepted for the College. In this determination they take into account the school record, the recommendation of the secondary school, the College Board results and recommendations from persons interested in Dickinson. In the past year this committee has been expanded to include the determination of scholarship aid. The elected members of this committee are Professors Robert N. H. Andrews, Philip B. Secor and Luther E. Erickson. Other members include Dean of Women Barbara Wishmeyer, Dean of Men Alan Coutts, and Dean of Admissions Benjamin D. James.

"Just how important are the College Boards?" "Where must I rank in my class to be accepted?" "Why do freshman women live way down there?" Applicants, anxious about their qualifications for acceptance, asked these and many other pertinent questions of our admissions personnel over the past 12 months. While questions relating to the performance and ability of prospective students may only be answered generally, it has become increasingly more evident that Dickinson is among the most selective of the small, liberal arts colleges.

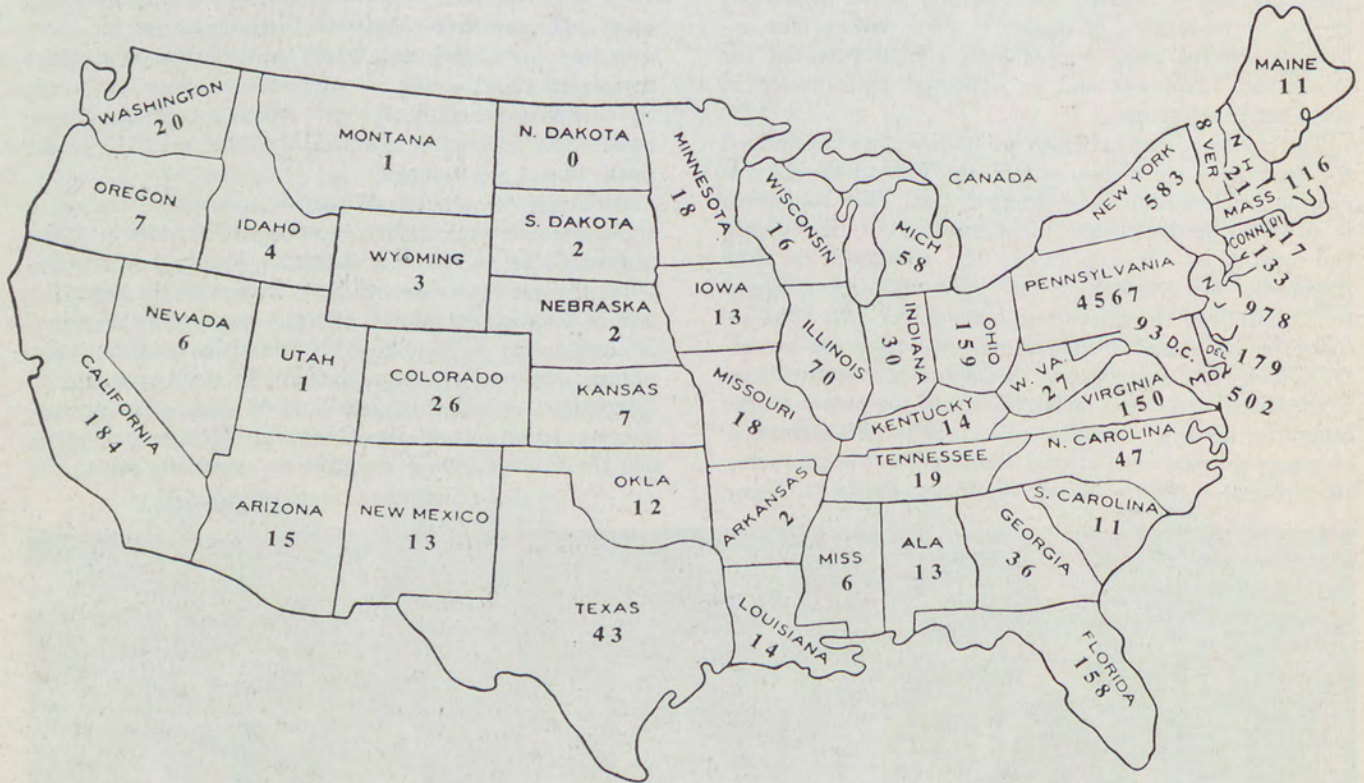

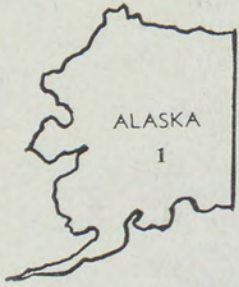

Although we were dealing with a smaller number of applicants this year (1700 as opposed to 2400 in 1960, primarily due to the fact that the closing date for applications was March 1), we were faced with the herculean task of selecting 90 women and 185 men from this group of outstanding applicants, 65 fewer than in 1960 (107 women, 229 men). It was concluded by the Committee on Admissions, Scholarship and Student Aid, after hearing housing reports from the Deans of Men and Women that the College should maintain its essentially residential

1961 ALUMNI CENSUS

A RECENT tally shows that the Alumni Office has current addresses on 8571 alumni of Dickinson College. Our alumni are found in 49 of the 50 states (only North Dakota is not represented), 46 foreign countries and Puerto Rico.

Pennsylvania, as might be expected, boasts over 50% of these former students with a total of 4567. New Jersey, New York and Maryland, in that order, are the next most heavily populated states. Although it is obvious that the Middle Atlantic states would have the majority of our alumni, the statistics show that our alumni have followed the national trend since both California and Florida claim over 150 each of our alumni.

A city and town break-down shows that Carlisle has retained 454 alumni. It is followed closely by its neighbor, Harrisburg, with 423 former students. The city of Philadelphia has 282 alumni, while in New York City's five boroughs 219 Dickinsonians reside. Other cities with over 100 alumni include: Baltimore (153), Pittsburgh (137), York (116) and Wilmington (101).

Germany leads the overseas locations with 14. Also in Europe, France has attracted six and England four of our alumni. Seven former students reside in Costa Rica. Our neighbors, Canada and Mexico, each have five alumni living within their borders. Japan also boasts five Dickinsonians.

We are very pleased to be able to give you these statistics on the 8571 of our alumni whose homes we can locate. We wish very much that we were able to do this with the nearly 1000 alumni who have not kept us informed as to their proper address. We cannot be too emphatic in our plea to keep us posted whenever you move so that we can do our job in keeping you informed about your alma mater.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION AFFAIRS

*Record Alumni Fund of $160,879.69 Enables the 1960-61 Development Program
To Reach All-Time High of $527,999.32*

TWO thousand six hundred and ninety one alumni contributions totalling $160,879.69 is the box score of the 1960-61 Alumni Fund. Both figures represent new record totals for alumni giving.

The $160,879.69 contributed by the alumni of Dickinson was a part of the over-all financial help received by the College during the past year. The 1960-61 Development Program, which included gifts from corporations and foundations, the Methodist Church, non-alumni trustees, parents, faculty, and friends of the College, also realized a new record high of $527,999.32.

Six hundred and seventy-two alumni, led by Annual Giving Chairman Winfield C. Cook, '32, through their hard work and salesmanship made these figures possible. These alumni were given the responsibility of contacting classmates under a new system of personal solicitation. That this new system ultimately would be a more productive one was realized, but that it would be successful immediately was not anticipated because of the problems inherent in undertaking any new system. To the loyalty and perseverance of these alumni pioneers in a new venture, the College owes a debt of gratitude.

The legacy of a record-breaking performance is not an unusual one for Winfield C. Cook, who gives up his post after being the Alumni Chairman of Annual Giving for three years. Throughout his life, Win has been breaking records, mostly sales records, to justly earn the title which has been given to him by many, as the "world's best door-to-door salesman." The leadership which he has given to Annual Giving at Dickinson is certainly indicative of the drive, enthusiasm, and sales ability possessed by Win Cook. During the three years which he has led the program, over $1,250,000.00 has been received by the College in gifts and bequests. Such a legacy is handed over to the recently elected chairman, Samuel J. McCartney, Jr., of the Class of 1941.

Sam is Administrative Manager of Thomas A. Edison Industries, a division of McGraw-Edison Company, in West Orange, New Jersey. A bachelor, he also finds time to be a regional chief for Beta Theta Pi and a Commander and supply officer in the Naval Air Reserve.

McCartney is a native of suburban Philadelphia. After graduating from the College in 1941, he spent one year at the Dickinson School of Law. In 1942 he entered the Navy's Officer's Candidate School. Receiving his commission, he was assigned as a Supply and Disbursing Officer in LST Group #49, in the Atlantic Ocean. He took part in the invasion of Normandy aboard a staff ship in the LST group. Separated from the Navy in 1946, he re-entered the Law School in that year and was graduated in 1948. After passing his bar exams, he served his clerkship with the firm of Ballard, Spahr, Andrews and Ingersoll, with Boyd Lee Spahr, '00, as his preceptor. In 1949 he joined the legal department at the Insurance Company of North America and also joined the Naval Air Reserve as a supply officer. In July, 1951 he was called into active duty with the Navy and sent to the Philadelphia Navy Yard as the Contracting and Purchasing Officer with the Naval Air Material Center. He was released from active duty in November, 1953 and took his present job with Thomas A. Edison Industries in 1955.

(The editors want to take this opportunity to express their sincere appreciation and deep admiration for the job done by the retiring chairman of Annual Giving, Win Cook, and to wish to Sam McCartney the same support the alumni have given Win. May Sam's desire for greater heights in alumni giving be realized under his proven leadership.)

Weston C. Overholt, Jr., '50, General Alumni Association President, congratulates both Winfield C. Cook, '32, retiring Alumni Annual Giving Chairman, shown with the certificate of commendation presented to him by the Alumni Association, and Samuel J. McCartney, Jr., '41, newly elected chairman of Annual Giving.

ALUMNI COUNCIL COMMENCEMENT MEETING LAYS PLANS FOR A MEETING OF THE GENERAL ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

Thirty-nine alumni, including alumni club presidents and class reunion chairmen, as well as alumni trustees and members of the Alumni Council, and many of their spouses, met in Morgan Hall on the evening of June 2 for the semi-annual meeting of the Alumni Council.

Following the dinner, General Alumni Association President, Weston C. Overholt, Jr., '50, introduced Dr. Howard L. Rubendall to the group. The President-elect emphasized that sentiment is one reason for alumni to support their alma mater but that Dickinson must come to grips with problems that will demand more than sentiment as a driving force.

The newly elected members of the Council were then inroduced. They are: Robertson C. Cameron, '28, Harrisburg public relations consultant; Helen Dickey Morris, '32, a Lansdowne, Pa., school teacher; C. Richard Stover, '36, a Carlisle bank officer; Samuel J. McCartney, Jr., '41, a West Orange, N. J., corporation executive; Margaret McMullen Morrison, '51, a Millburn, N. J., housewife; and Robert L. McNutt, the representative of the Class of 1961.

Reports of Council committees included the recommendation from the Alumnus Advisory Committee, chaired by William B. Harlan, '50, that the format of the Alumnus be changed to make it in keeping with the new purpose of the magazine. (Ed. Note: This recommendation has been followed with the publishing of this issue.) Milton Flower, '31, chairman of the Alumni College, reported his committee's recommendation that before an alumni college event could be successful, a general meeting of the alumni body should be held to determine the feelings of the alumni and to give the alumni an opportunity to hear the problems and plans of the administration. After considerable discussion, the Council decided to hold a meeting during Homecoming week-end and determine from that whether there was enough interest among the alumni to warrant the scheduling of future meetings. The report of the Alumni Award Committee to institute a program of making awards to alumni for outstanding contributions was approved by the Council. Chairman and Alumni Trustee J. Milton Davidson, '33 emphasized the concern of the Committee to limit the number honored at any one time to three.

Following the reports of the Alumni Secretary, Thomas Young, '53, the Financial Vice President, George Shuman, Jr., '37; the Annual Giving Chairman, Winfield C. Cook, '32; the Dean of the College, Roger E. Nelson; and the Alumni Trustees, the Council elected the following members as its officers for the next year: President, Weston C. Overholt, Jr., '50; Vice President, Robert G. Crist, '47; Secretary, Robertson C. Cameron, '28; and Treasurer, C. Richard Stover, '36.

The Council's final business was the election of Samuel J. McCartney, Jr. as the new Annual Giving Chairman, replacing Winfield C. Cook.

NEWS FROM THE CLUBS

Connecticut—Club President DeLancy Pelgrift, '10, called a meeting for April 18 to honor retiring President Gilbert Malcolm. Twenty-five alumni and parents were on hand at the Continental Restaurant in Fairfield, to hear Malcolm and Alumni Secretary Thomas Young discuss the news of the campus.

Delaware Valley—A program featuring local high school musical talent highlighted the May 3 meeting of the Delaware Valley group at Landwehr's Restaurant in Trenton, presided over by club president, Bernard L. Green, '32. Gilbert Malcolm, George Shuman and Tom Young were the representatives from Carlisle who addressed 28 alumni and parents, including one member of the Class of 1965 and his father.

Harrisburg—The appearance of President Rubendall will highlight the annual fall meeting of the Alumni Club of Harrisburg. Club President Robertson Cameron, '28, has announced plans for a November 2 dinner at the West Shore Country Club.

Northern New Jersey—Sara Rohrer West, '32, and F. Robert Shoaf, '52, were elected president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, at the May 10 meeting of the Northern New Jersey club at the William Pitt in Chatham. Retiring president Randolph Jacobsen, '32, presided over the meeting attended by 52 alumni, parents and friends, at which President Malcolm, Dean Roger Nelson, George Shuman and Tom Young spoke briefly about the changing life around Dickinson.

Philadelphia—The climax of the alumni club circuit for 1960-61 was reached in Philadelphia on April 24th. A near-record crowd of 185 persons enjoyed the congeniality of their fellow alumni and the news from Dickinson brought to them by President Malcolm, Head of the English Department Joseph Schiffman, Coach Wilbur Gobrecht, '52, and Tom Young. Also present from the campus were Joseph Carver, '59, assistant director of admissions, and George Shuman. Retiring Club president, Winfield C. Cook, '32, turned his gavel over to new president Helen Dickey Morris, '32. Other newly elected officers were: Theodore H. Ely, '50, vice-president, and Henry C. Arndt, '31, secretary-treasurer.

Reading—Twenty-three alumni and spouses attended a meeting of the Reading-Berks Alumni Club at the Mountain Spring Association on May 23. Elected officers were: Alvin A. Woerle, '45, president; Sidney D. Kline, Jr., '54, vice-president; Mary Lou Houck Speidel, '45, secretary; and William H. Feroe, '38, treasurer. On hand to help in reactivating this club were President Malcolm, Dean Roger Nelson and Tom Young.

Washington—Club President William J. Batrus, '38, Falls Church, Va., opened his home to Washington alumni for a reception on May 7 and over 50 people accepted his invitation. Tom Young represented the College at this affair which was designed to reactivate interest in the alumni club. A fall dinner meeting has been called by Batrus. It will be held at the International Town and Country Club in Falls Church, Va., on October 17. At this meeting new officers will be elected.

Wilmington—The Delaware alumni re-elected their present slate of officers at their May 2 meeting at the University and Whist Club in Wilmington. Howell Wilkins, '44, president, expressed his appreciation for the vote of confidence on behalf of himself and vice-president James W. Mackie, Jr., '53; Secretary M. Elinor Betts, '34; and Treasurer George C. Hering, III, '53. Wilkins also announced that the portrait of John Dickinson which was presented to the new John Dickinson High School in Wilmington by the local alumni group would be presented formally at an assembly in the high school on May 8. Dr. Howard Long, of the Physics and Astronomy Department, told the audience about the new look in this department. A fall meeting of this group has been announced for November 9.

Open Letter To Alumni . . .

The active efforts of hundreds of alumni in the work of the College and the General Alumni Association during the past year has been heartening. Far more people have become active in alumni affairs than ever before in the history of the College. A total of 672 alumni responded to the call to work as class agents in the 1960-61 Annual Giving Fund Drive. It is hoped that in the forthcoming year several hundred more interested alumni will be added to this number to make the drive even more meaningful and productive. We are asking our alumni to give their time as well as their money, and they are responding generously.

In other areas of alumni interest, committees have been at work in planning and implementing this new format for the Alumnus; in improving the alumni segments of the commencement and homecoming programs; and in stimulating alumni club activities in several dozen localities. It is our sincere hope that all of these efforts will bring Dickinson closer to its alumni and aid toward making the General Alumni Association truly responsive and responsible to its members.

If Dickinson College is to continue to grow in academic stature and in financial strength, the continued active support of its alumni is essential. Dr. Rubendall takes the reins as President of the College in challenging times. It is time for faculty, students, trustees, and alumni to rally around him and his administration. The function of the General Alumni Association will be to voice the opinions and the criticisms of the alumni and to keep its members intelligently informed on the policies and events which shape the future of the College.

character and, therefore, admit a freshman class that would not exceed the maximum limits for housing all resident students in Metzger and Morgan Halls, Gibbs House and East College.

The Class of 1965 consists of 90 women and 186 men. One of the significant features about the class is that 25 of the new students are children of Dickinsonians.

The impact of keen competition for entrance to colleges in northeastern United States was present at Dickinson. While the majority of students are Pennsylvanians, there was a goodly number of applications from students in New Jersey, New York and the entire New England area. Notable is the fact that guidance counselors from no less than 20 secondary schools in Connecticut and Massachusetts visited our campus. Fifteen states are represented by the freshman class, Hawaii for the first time. Several students come from secondary schools in foreign countries, one boy is German, and one of the transfers is a Korean.

During March, letters were sent notifying the candidates of our decisions. By April 15 we had replies from nearly all those students we had accepted telling us of their college plans. The result: 65% of the freshman class ranked within the top 20% of their respective graduating classes. Significantly, 62 of the 80 girls coming from public high schools ranked in the top tenth of their classes. The median scores on the SAT were 602 verbal, 591 mathematical. These statistics, added to the fact that we were in a position to admit only 255 resident students, indicate the degree of difficulty in gaining admission to the College.

It was my privilege to spend the past year on a refresher leave visiting other colleges in preparation for a study on the masters degree program in the small, liberal arts college. During my absence, Professor Robert N. H. Andrews ably performed the duties of the Acting Dean of Admissions. As chairman of the Committee on Admissions, Scholarship and Student Aid, he and the committee spent long hours formulating the financial award policy and distributing the funds to needy students. Bob was assisted in the office by Joe Carver, '59, Assistant Dean of Admissions and Mrs. Marie Baker, admissions secretary. Our new offices on the first floor of West College proved to be a great asset in interviewing the many prospective students visiting the campus. Over 2500 students, some accompanied by parents or relatives, had interviews with out staff during the year. Dr. Malcolm, whose new office is nearby, has been of great assistance in this activity.

This coming year the important dates for admission will be:

December 15—last day for application for early acceptance

January 1—acceptance of early candidates

March 1—last day for applications for regular acceptance

March 15—students informed of acceptances

May 1—Candidate reply date

The quality of Dickinson College has been and will be a direct product of the interest and action of the alumni, trustees, faculty and students. Your contribution is accepted with appreciation by the Admissions staff.

AROUND THE CAMPUS

THE College opened its doors this fall to 1067 students, including 276 freshmen. While the incoming class is somewhat smaller than last year's, total enrollment is nearly the same and equals the all-time high. Every dormitory facility is filled. The 90 women and 186 men in the freshman class were selected from 1,700 completed applications. They come from 21 states, including Hawaii, and three foreign countries.

NEW members of the Dickinson faculty this term include a visiting professor who is widely known in the field of teacher education, an associate professor formerly on the faculty, four assistant professors and seven instructors.

Dr. C. O. Williams, for 35 years a teacher and administrator at Pennsylvania State University, who retired last July, is Visiting Professor of Education. In the course of his long service to the university he was professor of education, dean of admissions, registrar, director of education placement and, for the past three years, assistant to the president. He has been on important commissions and committees of the National Education Association and is the author of the textbook, Education in a Democracy, now in its fourth edition.

Back at Dickinson as associate professor of psychology is Richard H. Wanner, a member of the faculty from 1946 to 1954, who was with the Carlisle public schools the past seven years as psychologist and supervisor of special services. A graduate of Franklin and Marshall College, where he was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, he has a master's degree in clinical education psychology from Harvard.

C. Flint Kellogg

Milton E. Flower, '31

DR. Milton E. Flower, '31, political science, and Prof. Charles Flint Kellogg, history, have been appointed chairmen of their departments. The departments are among the largest at the college.

Prof. Flower succeeds Dr. William L. Taylor, who resigned in May to accept appointment as professor of international affairs at George Washington University. Prof. Kellogg was acting chairman of the history department last term. He succeeds Dr. Herbert Wing, Jr., who retired in 1960.

Upon coming to the faculty in 1947, Dr. Flower organized the art department and for a number of years taught two art courses in addition to his work in the political science department. Four years ago he became full professor and left the art department. He was on leave in 1951 to serve as visiting professor at American University, Washington, D. C., and again in 1955-56, when he was visiting lecturer at the University of Dijon, in France. A close observer of European affairs, he has spent 10 of the past 12 summers abroad.

A writer on books and monographs dealing with art and local history, he is currently engaged in writing a book on the Confederate invasion in the Cumberland Valley for which he received a research grant from the American Association of State and Local History. He holds his master's and Ph.D. degrees from Columbia University.

Dr. Kellogg came to the faculty in 1946. He serves on the General Advisory Committee to the President of the College and on the Steering Committee for planning the development and growth of the College. He has been a class dean and marshal of the College.

He was on leave in 1956-1957 to complete research for a study of the origin and development of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) on a grant from the Fund for the Republic, Inc. His articles on the NAACP have appeared in The Nation and other magazines. He is writing the official history of the organization, which looks upon Dr. Kellogg as its authority on civil rights as well as on its history.

In 1960 Bard College conferred the honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters upon him for his interest in advancing interracial understanding. He was graduated from Bard with an honors degree in history in 1931 and took his graduate and professional training at Harvard and Johns Hopkins Universities. Prior to coming to Dickinson he was assistant headmaster and head of the department of history at St. Peter's Preparatory School, Peekskill, N. Y.

PROFESSORS Francis W. Warlow, Harold W. Weigel and A. B. Horlacher are abroad this term on Refresher-Year leaves granted in June by the Board of Trustees. Professors Horace E. Rogers, Benjamin D. James and William R. Bowden completed similar leaves in July.

Prof. Warlow, of the English department, will devote the year to lecturing at the Universities of Rennes and Grenoble, in France, on a Fulbright grant. He is at Rennes for the first part of the year, and will be at Grenoble after January. At both universities he will lecture and hold seminars on modern fiction, drama and poetry, which are his special fields. He plans to use vacation periods for travel in Italy, Austria and Germany.

Prof. Weigel, who teaches German at the College, is also in Europe for the year. He is spending the first four months in Vienna, observing the program of the Institute of European Studies and doing some teaching. Dickinson has a Junior Year Abroad program with the Institute. He will attend lectures at the University of Vienna and later at several universities in Germany, where he will spend the second half of his year. This is Prof. Weigel's third year abroad in the past ten. He was a Fulbright exchange teacher in Vienna in 1951-1952 and in Munich in 1958-1959.

Prof. Horlacher left San Francisco in September on a 12-month, round-the-world pilgrimage to places associated with the life and work of the great authors who figure in his courses at Dickinson in world literature and the English novel. Mrs. Horlacher is traveling with him. Stopping points in their travels in the Orient will be Japan, the Philippines, Hong Kong, Bangkok, Singapore, Colombo, Aden and Port Said. They will be in Israel, Greece and the Aegian islands after the first of the year, and spend the spring and summer in Europe and the British Isles.

Since the introduction of the program in 1958, nine members of the faculty have enjoyed Refresher Years. The program is designed to enhance the quality of their teaching by providing members of the faculty who have taught ten or more years at Dickinson with an opportunity for further study, research or travel.

PROF. Warren J. Gates of the history department has been elected secretary of the faculty, succeeding Prof. Francis W. Warlow. Prof. Gates is a graduate of Duke University and holds his Ph.D. from the University of Pennsylvania. A member of Phi Beta Kappa, he joined the faculty in 1951.

DR. Winthrop C. Difford, chairman of the department of geology, who was promoted to the rank of professor, and six other members of the faculty received promotions in June. To assistant professors: David F. Brubaker, English, who directs the productions of the Mermaid Players, Barbara S. Wishmeyer, dean of women; Ronert N. H. Andrews, English; Nancy J. Loughridge, library staff, and Daisy Wilson Strayer and Wilbur J. Gobrecht, physical education.

TENURE was granted to Dr. Howard C. Long, professor of chemistry; Heber R. Harper, assistant professor of political science, and Joseph G. DuCharme, assistant professor of physical education, who is the varsity basketball, cross-country and track coach.

PROF. Charles Coleman Sellers, librarian of the College and an art historian of note, delivered a series of lectures on "Prints in America" at the 14th annual Seminars on American Culture, in Cooperstown, N. Y., in August.

NATIONAL Science Foundation grant enabled Prof. Elmer C. Herber, chairman of the biology department, to spend five weeks in research the past summer at the Lake Itasca Forestry and Biological Station, Minn.

PROF. Luther E. Erickson, chemistry, did nuclear research the past summer at Pennsylvania State University on a grant from the American Chemical Society.

PROF. Caroline H. Kennedy, modern languages, attended the Third Congress of the International Comparative Literature Association, which drew scholars from many countries to Utrecht, Holland, in August.

PROF. Joseph Schiffman, chairman of the English department, is the author of the introduction of a recently published reprint of Brook Farm, Lindsay Swift's account of the famous New England utopian experiment in the mid-19th Century, first published in 1900.

CELLO sonata and two other works by Prof. Lloyd Ultan, chairman of the music department, were performed at the 16th annual Bennington Composers Conference held in Vermont in August. Dr. Ultan attended the conference on a full-tuition scholarship.

FOUR members of the faculty read research papers at meetings of their professional organizations the past summer. Prof. Stephen B. Coslett, clinical psychologist, read one before the American Psychological Association sessions in New York. At the American Institute of Biological Sciences meeting at Purdue University, reports on their separate research projects were given by Profs. Elmer C. Herber, Daniel J. McDonald and Robert E. Ogren, biology department.

RADIATION biology is a new course at the College, which purchased the necessary equipment with a $10,000 grant from the Atomic Energy Commission's Life Sciences Division. A joint offering of their departments, it is taught by Dr. Howard C. Long, physics, and Dr. William B. Jeffries, biology, who took additional training in radiation biology the past summer at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Syracuse University, respectively. The course deals with the properties and techniques of measurement of nuclear radiation and the effects of radiation on plants and animal tissues.

THE Trustees of the College at their meeting in June authorized salary increases for all members of the faculty for the 1961-1962 term and doubled the College's share of the annual premium payments to the T. I. A. A. faculty retirement program. The larger T. I. A. A. contribution is in effect a five per cent increase in salary. In another act that evoked faculty cheers, the Trustees authorized the payment of $600 a year toward the expenses of undergraduate work by children of full-time faculty.

The Dickinson Alumnus

DISTINGUISHED teaching awards of $500 each were presented by the College in June to Professors Ralph Schecter and A. B. Horlacher of the department of English. Prof. Schecter, a Dickinson teacher for 38 years, who retired in June, has always been mentioned as one of the great teachers of the College. Prof. Horlacher came to the faculty in 1947. The awards were made possible by a $2,000 grant from the Christian R. and Mary F. Lindback Foundation. The remainder of the grant was given as scholarships to two deserving students.

Bishop W. Vernon Middleton, '28 Sherwood M. Bonney, '31

TRUSTEES ELECT

DR. GILBERT MALCOLM, '15, and three other alumni were elected Trustees of the College at the Commencement meeting of the Board in June. The others are Bishop W. Vernon Middleton, '28; Rolland L. Adams, '27, and Sherwood M. Bonney, '31.

At the same time, announcement was made of the reelection of Helen Douglass Gallagher, '26, as an Alumni Trustee in the mail ballot conducted by the Alumni Association. First elected in 1957, Mrs. Gallagher holds the distinction of being the first woman graduate of the College ever to serve on the Board. She and her husband, Thomas R. Gallagher, '26, a lawyer, live in Short Hills, N. J.

Dr. Malcolm, 23rd president of the College, became the provost on July 1, an office that does not carry with it membership on the Board. His election was a recognition of his deep devotion to the College and valuable services to the Board throughout the many years he has been a Dickinson official.

Bishop Middleton presides over the Western Pennsylvania Area of the Methodist Church. He was elected bishop in June, 1960, following nine years in the pastoral ministry and 20 in various administrative posts having to do with church extension and national missions. He serves on numerous Methodist bodies, including the General Board of Education, General Board of Lay Activities and the Commission on Family Life.

He was on the campus in June to receive the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws and returned in September to address the student body at the first chapel service of the new term. He and Mrs. Middleton, the former Miriam Horst, '30, live in Pittsburgh.

Mr. Adams is a business executive and newspaper publisher of Bethlehem, Pa., and Atlantic City, N. J. President of the Adams Foundation, he also heads the Bethlehem Globe Publishing Company and the Press-Union Printery of Atlantic City and serves on the directorate of numerous enterprises.

He began his career as a bank teller in Newport, Pa., later became a bank examiner for the state and in the early 1930's entered the publishing field. He was president of the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers Association in 1956, and since 1958 has served on the Governor's Hospital Study Commission. Lehigh University gave him its Alumni Award in 1956. A prominent Methodist layman, he is active in civic affairs in Bethlehem and Atlantic City.

Mr. Bonney is a lawyer and insurance executive in New York City. After leaving Dickinson, he attended the Harvard Law School and practiced law in New York for several years. He became an officer of Johnson and Higgins, which is one of the largest insurance brokerage firms in the country, and is now the vice-president and treasurer. He is a trustee of the American Irving Savings Bank of New York. He is a past national president of Beta Theta Pi, which he has also served as general treasurer. A member of the Presbyterian Church, he resides in Scarsdale, N. Y.

DEVELOPMENT REPORT

UNDER the terms of her will, Mary Minick Goodyear, '18, who died on July 16, 1960, gave the College $2,000 "in memory of my husband, M. Brandt Goodyear, Class of 1919." Colonel Goodyear died on February 7, 1959.

The trustees accepted the bequest at their June meeting and directed that the money be placed in the permanent endowment fund and be known as the M. Brandt Goodyear Fund.

THE Jackson property, 42 North College Street, one of the finest homes in Carlisle, has been purchased by the College from the Harriet Jackson estate for $37,500 under an arrangement that spreads the cost over seven years. The ten-room brick house faces the campus. With its purchase, all properties in the block but one are now owned by the College or a fraternity—a protection against the day when Dickinson will need more building space. A proposal that it be used for the present for a faculty and guest house is under consideration. Mrs. Jackson was the widow of W. L. Jackson, Carlisle industrialist and friend of many Dickinsonians and the father of Margaret Jackson Pendleton, '36.

THE Filler Language Center, a fine new facility at the College this term, is named for Mervin Grant Filler, '83, a teacher of Latin and a former dean and president of the College, who died in 1931. Featuring a 30-booth electronic language laboratory and complete with offices and conference, seminar and class rooms, it is housed in the former Masland residence in North College Street, facing the campus. The College used a $50,000 gift from Irene duPont, Wilmington, Del., industrialist and descendant of an early Dickinson student, to buy the house, make the necessary alterations and acquire the laboratory.

PARENTS ASSOCIATION

AT THE spring meeting of the Parents Advisory Council held during Parents Spring Week-end, the following were elected as the officers for the 1961-62 school year: Edward M. Blanchard, chairman; Griffith Garwood, vice-president; Mrs. George G. Rudolph, treasurer; and Mrs. Lemuel A. Geyer, secretary.

IN A LETTER dated August 30, Edward M. Blanchard, chairman of the Parents Advisory Council, requested all parents of Dickinson students to advise him as to what they would like the Parents Advisory Council to do for the students in the current college year. He is gratified at the response, having received numerous suggestions. These were reviewed at a meeting of the Planning Committee of the Parents Advisory Council and the recommendations of that Committee will be presented to the full Parents Parents Council Officers: Edward M. Blanchard, chairman; Mrs. Lemuel A. Geyer (Elizabeth W. Bassett '33), secretary; Mrs. George G. Rudolph, treasurer; and Griffith Garwood, vice president.

Advisory Council on October 15 during Parents Week-end.

At the request of the Parents Advisory Council, the College has provided a new accident insurance coverage for the students. The new plan provides coverage for the full 12 months instead of the former nine months' coverage.

In a later issue of the ALUMNUS the plans of the Parents Advisory Council for the current college year will be reported.

FOOTBALL PREVIEW

A GOOD first team with little depth is the analysis of the 1961 Dickinson football team upon the conclusion of the most successful pre-school football camp in recent years. Coach Donald R. Siebert, beginning his fifth season as head coach, greeted seven of last year's starters and 15 lettermen among the 44-man squad which began drills on September 4. Particularly lean through graduation and scholastic deficiencies are the end, tackle and fullback positions.

Led by co-captains Maurice Field and Durbin Wagner, the team's morale is very high, according to Siebert. Field is a center, while Wagner has been switched from guard to end to make up for the loss in that position. The starters and lettermen who will be called upon to do yeomen service in light of the lack of substitute strength are senior ends Joseph Lipinski and Wagner. David Morrissey, a senior, and Alan Creps, a junior, at tackles. Junior guards Millard Schoaf and Thomas Jacks and sophomore guards Bill Smith and Reeve Williams are all lettermen and make this position the strongest. Center is capably handled by Field and John Mazza, a junior. Quarterbacks Reno DiOrio and Walter Buckley, experienced juniors, will share the quarterback chores. Seniors Robert Harlowe and Jack Thomas and sophomores Daniel Shaver and Robert Warden appear to have the halfback spot well covered. At fullback, the coaches have placed Louis Verdelli, who was a halfback last year.

Suffering under the handicap which has seen Siebert lose 29 underclass lettermen and promising future lettermen for academic and physical reasons in the last three years, the Dickinson squad will lack the substitute strength it will need in the event of injury to any of the starters.

Barring injury to any of his key men, Coach Siebert and his two assistants, Wilbur J. Gobrecht, '52, in his second year at his alma mater, and Thomas Demarino, '59, a third year student at the law school, feel that the Red Devils will make a good showing in each of their games. Swarthmore provided the opposition for the opener on September 30 in Swarthmore. The Quakers replaced Washington and Lee in the schedule and are considered to be contenders for the Southern Division title of the Middle Atlantic Conference. This game could make or break the season. In the only other schedule change, Drexel replaces Susquehanna in the final game of the season. The Homecoming opponent, Johns Hopkins, was given the pre-season nod as the favorite for conference honors.

Co-captains Durbin Wagner and Maurice (Barney) Field

ATTENTION D-CLUB ALUMNI

On Friday, November 10, at 7:00 p.m. in the Alumni Gymnasium, a testimonial dinner will be held to honor Richard H. McAndrews on the completion of 50 years of service to Dickinson College. If you have not been contacted, further details are available through the Alumni Office at the College.

UNDER THE MERMAID'S TAIL

A round-up of items designed to keep the alumni informed of unusual or outstanding accomplishments, problems or needs of the College, with editorial comments from time to time.

At their Commencement meeting, the Board of Trustees authorized a study of the College by Howell, Lewis and Shay Associates. The purpose of this thorough study of the physical facilities and the administrative organization of the College is to give the new administration an understanding of the needs of the College in terms of its aims and purpose.

Shay Associates is an architectural and engineering firm with headquarters in Philadelphia. Recently the company has added to its services that of campus programming and has performed this service at Pennsylvania State University, the University of Delaware, Albright College, and has been called in as consultants at Rutgers University and the University of Michigan.

When completed the survey will result in recommendations to the College on making the most efficient use of the buildings which Shay Associates determines to be serviceable for 40 years in their present condition, which buildings must be altered to meet the State Department of Labor and Industry regulations, and which buildings are presently in such a state as to make their demolition and reconstruction the most practical answer. In addition, the company will make a survey of land utilization. It will determine the most efficient use of the land presently owned, which land would be best suited for acquisition, and the use of this newly acquired land.

Before starting this survey, Shay Associates consulted the College in order to understand its purpose and its plans for the future. Such things as the present enrollment, plans for increasing the number of students, and the emphasis which the College will place on both the sciences and the humanities were considered in order to have some basis for their study and their ultimate recommendations.

These findings will be contained in a series of alternate plans which will be presented to the administration along with the estimated costs for the implementation of each. The firm will take into consideration the ability of the College to raise funds to carry out each of the plans. The administration will then decide on the most practical recommendation and will present this plan to the Board of Trustees for its approval. When adopted, the College will have a realistic goal for a development program, founded on its needs. The work of the consultants will insure the wise establishment of priorities in the implementation of this program.

The Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools (MSA) is one of five organizations which has granted accreditation to the College. Periodically the Commission on Institutions of Higher Education of the MSA appoints an evaluation committee composed of educational officers from other institutions in the association. This committee is charged with visiting a college for the purpose of re-evaluating the institution. The most recent evaluation of Dickinson was made in February, 1960.

The report of this committee contained certain recommendations of areas in which it felt improvements could be made. The Commission reviewed the report of the committee and determined that they would defer action on the reaccreditation of the College. The Commission requested that the president report the progress of the College toward implementing the major recommendations of the visitation committee in February of 1961 and 1962.

The major area which the committee felt needed improvement was a better internal relationship among faculty, administration and trustees. President Malcolm, as one of his first acts after reviewing the report and with the approval of the Board, appointed a steering committee consisting of three members from each of these three groups. The steering committee has functioned efficiently and cooperatively toward the goal of a better Dickinson. Many of its recommendations have been accepted by both the faculty and the Board. These include redefinition of the purpose of the College, a new set-up of faculty committees, a well-defined departmental structure, and a thorough study of the housing situation.

A report was submitted by President Malcolm in February, 1961. The reply from the Middle States Association accepted the report with "approval and commendation." It mentioned that Dickinson was making "marked advances" and that the report suggested "the beginning of cooperative internal relationships." Although final decision on the reaccreditation will not be made until the second report is reviewed, all indications are that the College will be accorded the high recognition it has maintained over the years.

To serve as an additional guide to the new president, the College has requested that the University Senate of the Board of Education of the Methodist Church visit the campus to conduct a survey similar to that made by the Middle States Association. This survey will be conducted later in the fall.

In addition to helping President Rubendall better understand the academic and administrative problems of the College, this survey will also serve as a check on the progress we are making toward satisfying the recommendations of the committee representing the Middle States Association.

In preparing for this survey the University Senate has requested that the College supply it with the names of 30 graduates from each of the last ten years, picked at random.

The Dickinson Alumnus

These 300 alumni will receive questionnaires asking their opinions on various phases of life at Dickinson. The views of our alumni are very important to such a survey and will be rigorously scrutinized. This questionnaire is one more way in which our alumni can help to build a better Dickinson.

In another action of the Board of Trustees at their June meeting, a statement of policy on academic freedom and tenure at Dickinson was adopted. This resolution followed essentially the statement of academic freedom which was approved by the American Association of University Professors in 1940 and which was accepted by the Association of American College, of which Dickinson is a member. The Board's statement contained two clauses in addition to those contained in the 1940 AAUP resolution. These stated that the College will not knowingly employ or retain on its faculty a member of the Communist Party and that Dickinson expects each member of its faculty to respect the values inherent in the Christian tradition. In the same resolution the Board laid down the steps which will be followed in faculty dismissal proceedings. The faculty member to be dismissed will be investigated by a Faculty Committee. The findings of this committee will be transmitted to the Board of Trustees which will make the final determination.

The teaching profession, represented by the American Association of University Professors, had stated their dissatisfaction with previous statements of the Board stating that they felt that these statements lacked clarity and did not establish academic freedom. This dissatisfaction was a cause which contributed to the censure of Dickinson College by the AAUP.

Such censure by this organization had a damaging effect on the morale of the faculty and had some effect (how much can never be determined) on the hiring of new faculty members.

The statement adopted by the Board in June was jointly prepared by the faculty, administration and the trustees to the satisfaction of all three groups. It is believed to be an acceptable statement of academic freedom and tenure.

The statement has been presented to the American Association of University Professors. A conference between President Rubendall and a representative of the national officer of the AAUP will take place sometime this fall.

With this and other action, the college is moving rapidly toward the removal of the censure.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

"Speech is civilization itself. The word, even the most contradictory word, preserves contact . . ." THOMAS MANN.

Academic Freedom

To the Editor:

At our fraternity banquet last June there was voiced a proposition that a federal grant be obtained to provide new housing for fraternities.

I invite your attention to the Congressional Record 87th Congress 1st Session Vol. 107 No. 125 dated Wednesday, July 26, 1961. In this issue the Senate is much concerned with Communism as a threat to our Democratic way of life. In this I have no quarrel. However, on page seven of this record, Senator Miller of Iowa states "I believe these programs should be promulgated throughout the country; that they should be extended into our universities and even, in fact, into our high schools." In his next statement he carries this idea into "every curriculum in every school in the country."

However worthy may be the subject, however necessary it may be that the nation be propagandized to a realization of the evils of a communist dictator state, we must resist with all our energies any attempt to allow any group, temporarily in control of our government, to dictate what shall and what shall not be taught in our free universities. History is full of the attempts of a few to suppress learning by directing what may or will be learned. These comments by the worthy Senator, made in honest belief of the necessity of the proposed action, are indicative of a growing tendency to control anything that is controllable. The great danger comes not from self-serving, dishonest persons but the truly sincere who do not realize the web they spin will be the trap used by a new tenant.

What's Our Status?

To the Editor:

Inasmuch as the fourth paragraph of your letter to the alumni solicits questions I do have several.

I am interested to know:

1. Is it true that the Middle States Association threatened to refuse accreditation to the College if immediate steps were not taken to correct the academic standards of the College, i.e. courses, etc.?
2. Is it true that this report was made several years ago and that the College has still not received a clean bill of health?
3. Is it true that the American Association of University Professors has refused to sanction the employment of its members by the College?
4. Is it true that a substantial number of the College's better teachers have resigned or been forced out by the administrative practices of the past president, William Edel?
5. Does the Board of Trustees consider the necessity for coercion on the part of an accreditation group, let alone that there should be any questions about the high academic standards of the College, a disgrace?
6. What is the present status of this appalling situation?

HOMECOMING ON NOVEMBER 11

One of the features of this year's Homecoming will be a meeting of all alumni in Memorial Hall on Saturday at 10:15 a.m. This will be an opportunity for our alumni to hear from those in the administration about their plans for Dickinson College. You will be given a report on the activities of your Alumni Council. Most importantly, you will have the opportunity to ask questions, to get out in the open and hear answers to items about Dickinson which have concerned you. Plan to get back to Carlisle on November 11. In addition to the alumni meeting, there will be an alumni luncheon in the gymnasium, a football game with Johns Hopkins, a jazz concert on Saturday evening, and the usual fraternity lawn displays and Homecoming antics by the undergraduates. (What will be presented to President Rubendall at half-time of the football game this year?)

SPECIAL MENTION

Bishop Fred P. Corson, '17

The climax—but far from the end—of a brilliant career came to Fred Pierce Corson '17 in Oslo, Norway on August 25. During the meeting of the World Methodist Council from August 18 to 25, the former president of Dickinson College was installed as president of the Council, thus becoming titular head of 50 million Methodists throughout the world for the next five years. Bishop Corson will continue as resident bishop of the Philadelphia Area of the Methodist Church, which post he has held since he left the presidency of Dickinson in 1944. He will administer the affairs of the World Council as well as those of the four conferences comprising the Philadelphia area from his 1701 Arch Street office in Philadelphia.

Two problems concern the new president in the world Methodist community. He hopes to improve the coordination of missionary efforts where now exists much overlapping of Methodist mission fields. He is also concerned with the need for better youth programs for showing the young people around the world the opportunity for service which Christianity offers.

In his installation address he declared that while protestantism is increasing in favor by attracting people through "studied amiability," it is diminishing in influence because of rival forces who have aggressively entered the field and "have made notable successes in securing adherents" and "in making it difficult for Christianity to do its work." He also stated that while biblical scholarship intensifies its world, bible sales soar, provisions for religious education increase, religious ignorance spreads, until it has become "a popular source of humor." "People who appear hostile or indifferent to the Christian appeal for the most part react as they do because they simply do not know what they're talking about."

Each issue in this space we will give "special mention" to the deeds of an alumnus or alumna which have brought exceptional honor to Dickinson College.

OBITUARY

1891—Edward Lee Langley of Millville, N. J., died on July 12, 1955 at the age of 86.

1899—Walter B. Carver of Ithica, New York, died at his home on July 4, 1961. He was presiding elder at the Central Presbyterian Church in Chambersburg. He was a member of the F and AM Lodge 143, past president of the Chambersburg Lions Club, and a past commander of the American Legion Post 146. He was also a member of the Franklin County branch of the Education Association and the National Education Association. He is survived by his wife, Josephine Stine Smith and a daughter, Mrs. Paul Dittman of Chambersburg, two brothers, and two sisters, and two grandchildren.

1925—Mary Pass Bay, of Camp Hill, Pennsylvania, died at her home on March 9, 1960. A native of Harrisburg, Pa., she attended Harrisburg High School before entering Dickinson, where she was a member of Zeta Tau Alpha. She taught school for many years, being last employed as an English teacher at William Penn High School in Harrisburg. She is survived by her husband, David A. Bay.

1932—Judge Benjamin J. Dzick died in Mercy Douglas Hospital in Philadelphia following a heart attack on June 18, 1961. A native of Camden, N. J., he was graduated from Camden High School in 1928, attended Dickinson and was graduated from Rutgers Law School, South Jersey Division. He began practice in 1933. In 1942 he was appointed Camden city prosecutor and in 1950, municipal judge. In 1956 he was appointed for a five year term as Camden county judge. He recently received a re-appointment for another five-year term. He was in charge of juvenile court and was the recipient of many citations for his contributions to the welfare of Camden County. He was a Mason and a member of the Camden County, the New Jersey State and the American Bar Associations as well as the Congregation Beth-El. He is survived by his wife, Minnette Newton Dzick and his daughter, Merle, 19.

1952—Robert N. Broderick of Johnstown, Pa., died on August 8, 1961, at the Oakland Veterans Administration Hospital in Pittsburgh. He was a science instructor at Johnstown College of the University of Pittsburgh. A native of Mount Holly Springs and a veteran of World War II, he received a bachelor of science degree from Dickinson and a master's degree from Syracuse University. He was working on a doctorate at the University of Pittsburgh at the time of his death. He was a noted artist and had formerly taught art in Somerset, Pa. Formerly he had been employed as a bacteriologist for the Pa. Department of Health. He was a past president of the Kiwanis Club of Johnstown, Pa., and a member of the Pennsylvania Academy of Science, the Allied Artists of Johnstown, and the Art League of Ligonier Valley. He is survived by his wife, Patricia Mulgrew Broderick, his mother, a sister and two brothers.

1952—Knox K. Phillips of Harrisburg, died unexpectedly on May 12th at his home. Graduated from the Mechanicsburg High School in 1948, he entered Dickinson and also attended Pennsylvania State University. He was a cartographic draftsman for the State Department of Highways at the time of his death. A member of the Olivet Presbyterian Church, he is survived by his wife, Phyllis A., three children, James, Dianne, and Donald, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald K., and a sister, Suzanne, all of Camp Hill.

NECROLOGY

Mrs. Frank F. Willoughby, of Pitman, N. J., mother of two Dickinsonians, died on March 24th at the age of 85 after a long illness. She was the mother of the late Dr. Edwin E. Willoughby '22, the noted Shakespearian scholar who died in 1959, and Dr. Frances L. Willoughby '27, a captain in the Naval Medical Corps, stationed at the U. S. Naval Hospital, Philadelphia, Pa. She was a charter member of the Mary Dickinson Club and of the Women's Society for Christian Service of the Pitman Methodist Church. She was a resident of Pitman for over fifty years. In addition to her daughter, she is also survived by a son, Charles W. Willoughby of Pitman.

G. Reed Gracey of New Cumberland, Pa., the husband and father of Dickinsonians, died on May 16th. His wife was the former Roberta Reiff '15 and his son, George Gracey, Jr. '47. For the past ten years, he had been associated with his son in the California Test Bureau, with offices in New Cumberland, Pa. A veteran of Military Police duty in World War I, he was a past commander of American Legion Post 413. He was a former member of board of trustees of Baughman Memorial Methodist Church and a Mason.

Edith Martin Shenton, wife of the late Clarence G. Shenton, '10, mother of Elizabeth Shenton Benson '40, of Northridge, California, and sister-in-law of Jane D. Shenton '11, died on July 8, 1961, after suffering a paralytic stroke on April 5. A former resident of Carlisle, she was secretary to Dr. Hutchinson, headmaster of the Conway Hall Preparatory School.

Mary Watson Pedlow, widow of George W. Pedlow '01, and mother of three Dickinsonians, died on June 1 in Jefferson Hospital in Philadelphia at the age of 88 years. She had been living in Lima, Pa. She was the first woman secretary to the president of the Bell Telephone Company and was a former librarian at the Chester High School. She was also a former member of the board of the YWCA in Chester, and a room is named in her honor. She started painting at the age of 65 and became well-known throughout Delaware County for her landscapes, still lifes and seascapes.

Her husband, former principal of Chester High School, died in 1947. Surviving her are two sons, J. Watson Pedlow '29 a trustee of the College; J. Wesley, Jr. '34; and a daughter, Elizabeth Maginniss '29.

Helen Hall Bucher died in Carlisle Hospital on September 2 at the age of 98 years. The mother-in-law of Gilbert Malcolm '17, she was the former "first lady" of the President's Home. In addition to her son-in-law, she is also survived by three Dickinsonian grandsons. She had been a patient at the hospital since June 21, and had been bedfast for nearly two years as a result of a broken hip suffered in a fall.

She was a gifted poet and musician. A book entitled "Mountain Echoes," which contained a collection of her poems and a number of her songs, was published in 1958. In addition to her many songs, she also composed two cantatas. Among her compositions was the song, "Pennsylvania," which was under consideration as the State Anthem. She was the organist at the St. John's Lutheran Church in Boiling Springs for fifty years.

She was one of the founders of the Cumberland County Tuberculosis and Health Association, a member of the Carlisle Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Civic Club and the Fortnightly Club. The honorary president of the Mary Dickinson Club for the past two years, she was also a member of the St. John's Lutheran Church and a life member of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Lutheran Church of America.

She was married to Jared C. Bucher, the last of the iron masters in this area, who died in 1937. She is survived by a son, William M., three grandsons, Thomas M. '36, Paul G. '49, and Jared B. '50, all of Boiling Springs, nine great grandchildren and two great-great grandchildren.
