Monday Morning,

June 25, 1848.

63 Rue de Lille

Rev. of 1848

My dear Sir,

The siege of Paris still continuing, and obstructions to intercourse, I am forced to forego the pleasure of receiving my friends at dinner tomorrow, hoping for an occasion of doing so under better auspices.

I return Hughes letter with many thanks. What he

Mr Cobin.

writes ^{repeatedly} always reading, and I hope sincerely his health may improve.
I sent him a few lines lately in consequence of his letter to you, containing the message of friendly reproaches to me, with its variety of amusing matters in addition.

I remain ever
my dear friend
very faithfully
yours
Richard Rush,
