London 27 July 1854

My dear Sir / I have this moment finished the perusal of your excellent Speech on Naval Prizes, & it has afforded me so much satisfaction that I cannot refrain from thanking you for it. Whilst the argument is unanswerable, you have presented more historical information on the subject, in a clear & distinct manner, than I have ever seen embraced within the same compass.

Yours very respectfully

My dear

Sir, I have this moment finished the perusal of your excellent speech on Naval Prizes, and it has afforded me so much satisfaction that I cannot refrain from thanking you for it. Whilst the agreement is unanswerable, you have presented more historical information on the subject, in a clear and distinct manner, than I have ever seen embraced within the same compass.

Yours very respectfully,

James Buchanan
