

Dickinson College Archives & Special Collections

<http://archives.dickinson.edu/>

Documents Online

Title: Biographical Manuscript of Thomas Cooper

Date: September 21, 1811

Location: I-McKnightM-1959-1

Contact:

Archives & Special Collections
Waidner-Spahr Library
Dickinson College
P.O. Box 1773
Carlisle, PA 17013

717-245-1399

archives@dickinson.edu

Dickinson College.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in Carlisle.

21
Judge Cooper, Lecturer in Dickinson College, continues to excite admiration and applause. He is unquestionably a great acquisition. The ignorant and superstitious, however, have been alarmed on account of his suspected creed, or rather unbelief, and fear the influence he may have upon the principles and morals of our young men. Their fears, a certain description of orthodox adversaries have endeavoured to excite abroad, and mean to muster all their force against him. Their fears I know to be groundless. He is a friend to christianity and the holy scriptures. His sphere of duty is prescribed to him, by the appointment and contracting power; it has no connection with theology, and if he travel out of his professorship, he will incur censure, and finally dismissal. But there is no danger. The splendour of his talents will soon cast his opponents into the shade. In the words of my old friend Terence "Nisi in fulgore suo;" yet he is modest and unassuming, as he is rational and studious.

Baltimore Federal Gazette 21st Sept. 1811

Dickinson College

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in Carlisle.

“Judge Cooper, lecturer in Dickinson College, continues to excite admiration and applause. It is unquestionably a great acquisition. The ignorant and superstitious, however alarmed on account his suspected creed, or rather unbelief, and fear the influence he may have upon the principles and morals of our young men. These fears, a certain description of orthodox adversaries have endeavored to excite abroad, and to muster all their focus against him. Their fears I know to be groundless. He is a friend to Christianity and the Holy Scriptures. His sphere of duty is prescribed to him, by the appointing and contracting power; it has no connection with theology and if he travel out of his professorship, he will incur censure and finally dismissal. But there is no danger. The splendor of his talents will soon cast his opponents into the shade. In the words of my old friend Horace “it in fulgore suo.” Yet he is modest and unreserved, as he is retired and studious.

Baltimore Federal Gazette 21th Sept. 1811