Richard Sharp Esq^r London.

Washington 20. October 1817.

Dear Sir.

The kindness and friendship, which during my residence in England, I experienced invariably from you, have emboldened me to hope that you will readily extend them to my particular friend Mr^r Rush, the bearer of this Letter, who is to take my place as the Representative of the United States at your Court. Persuaded that one of the best Offices that I can render to you both, is to make you acquainted with each other, I am happy to have this opportunity for it, and at the same time of assuring you of the high respect, and invariable regard with which I am, Dear Sir, your very humble and obed^t Serv^t

Richard Sharp, Esq. London.

Washington. 20 October 1817

Dear Sir.

The kindness and friendship, which during my residence in England, I experienced invariably from you, have emboldened me to hope that you will readily extend them to my particular friend Mr. Rush the bearer of this letter, who is to take my place as the Representative of the United States at your Court. Persuaded that one of the best offices that I can render to you both, is to make you acquainted with each other, I am happy to have this opportunity for it, and at the same time of assuring you of the high respect, and invariable regard with which I am, dear Sir your very humble and obed. servt.

John Quincy Adams.
