The extent to which it is offered will vary with departments and, within any one department, with the ability of the interested student and the supervising instructor(s) to agree as to course content, etc. Interested students are advised to see the Chairman of the Department concerned.

501, (502) COURSE RELATED INDEPENDENT STUDY. (Open only to Freshman and Sophomores who on the basis of Advanced Placement have qualified for credit in an introductory course but who desire to work more extensively at the survey or principles level of a discipline. Prerequisite: Agreement by supervising instructor and permission by the Chairman of the Department.) 2 to 3 semester hours per semester. A tutorial directed course or half-course in Independent Study within the same body of knowledge as that for which advanced placement with credit given. The option does not apply to Eng. 1-2, or 2a, Mathematics 5,6, or to Foreign Languages below 20.

511, (512) INDEPENDENT STUDY A. (Open only to Juniors. Prerequisite: Agreement by supervising instructor and permission of the Chairman of the Department.) 2 to 4 semester hours credit per semester.

By arrangement between the student and the department. The work may consist of research, special problems, and/or independent study in any approved field.

513, (514) INDEPENDENT STUDY B.
Similar to Independent Study A.

521, (522) INDEPENDENT STUDY C.
Similar to Independent Study A except open only to Seniors.

523, (524) INDEPENDENT STUDY D.
Similar to Independent Study C.

531-(532) INDEPENDENT RESEARCH.
(Open only to Seniors. Prerequisite: Same as present 101-102 course.) 8 semester hours credit.
This course is the old 101-102 Independent Studies and H_onors Course.

563-(564) SENIOR INTEGRATED INDEPENDENT STUDY PROGRAM. (prerequisite: Permission of Chairman of Department. In addition, if the student is a candidate for honors, the present requirements for 101-102 must be met.) 32 semester hours credit per year.
By arrangement between the student and his major department and supporting departments, any combination of independent studies, student research, and/or course participation may be planned to cover the entire two semesters of the senior year. The program as developed by the student in consultation with the department or departments concerned shall be presented for comment and review to the Committee on Academic Policy, Program, and Practice.

561-(562) JUNIOR INTEGRATED INDEPENDENT STUDY PROGRAM. (Prerequisite: Same as for 563-564.) 32 semester hours credit per year.
This program is similar to 563-564, the only difference being that the student must register for 563-564 at the same time that he registers for 561-562, and that his planned program must be designed to cover his work for both his junior and senior years.

NOTES: (1) Students interested in working for Departmental Honors must take either 563-564 or 531-532.

(2) A student may not take more than one half of his program in any combination of Independent Study and Independent Research.

(3) In addition to the above course the faculty has authorize that independent work of high quality done in conjunction with a regular course may be recognized by a letter of evaluation prepared by the instructor at the close of the semester. Appropriate notation will appear on transcripts.

(4) Also the faculty has established a procedure whereby students who independently pursue a program of study designed to achieve a competence comparable to that acquired by an average student may, with the approval of the Academic Standards Committee, receive an opportunity to qualify for course credit through passing a specially prepared and administered examination. Special fees, yet to be established, will be charged for this examination and for the recording of any credits so earned.

FROM STUDENT SENATE TO ALL STUDENTS

The new Senate Constitution, already ratified by the Student Senate, is presented to you for approval today. The Student Senate believes this constitution to be a good one. It provides fair representation for all students, both individuals and groups; it makes possible student responsibility for many areas of college activity; and most important, it assures the students of this college a true voice in decisions concerning their manner of living while at Dickinson. The Student Senate feels that this constitution is the necessary framework for strong, responsible student government. To defeat it is to put all hope for an active student role in the affairs of this college in high jeopardy. Voting will be held from 9 AM until 5 PM in South College. Each student's vote is important, and Senate urges you to support their own ratification of this constitution.

IFC WEEKEND

EDITORIAL

A strong responsible Student Senate can only be achieved by electing strong leaders. A complete change in a Constitution is not necessary. The few reforms in the Student Senate which are needed can be achieved through amending the present Constitution. To defeat it is to put an end to meaningless change in everything which is enveloping us.

TO THE STUDENT BODY

The Student Senate proposed constitution was defeated because it fell 23 votes short of a two-thirds majority. While it did not meet the necessary requirement for ratification, it shows that a large majority of students supported the proposed changes. If those who were vocal in their opposition to the proposed constitution are sincere in their beliefs, it is our desire that they attend the Senate meeting next Monday and offer their alternative suggestions. We are well aware that Senate must have the support of more than a segment of the student body, and in fact must have its overwhelming support if it is to speak effectively for the students. Therefore, we are still going to work for a constitution which will be acceptable to the student body and meet the needs of the campus.

Paul Burtner,
President of Student Senate.
