If you're independent, and who's going to admit that they are dull, maybe you'd like to study all during January, and pay money to do it. The following are the Academic Program Committee's conditions and procedures pertaining to the exploratory use of independent studies for this January only.

1. final registration date- December 22, at 4:30.
2. Method- secure a special registration form from the Registrar's Office.

4. recommended faculty limit- two
5. faculty participation- undertaken on a voluntary basis
6. grade submission date- January 25, at 9:00.

So, if you're not doing anything else over exam week, why not drop by and talk to some professors that will recommend forty mandatory resources on any topic you choose, and set up an independent study course.

The Belles Lettres Society announces the deadline date for all material to be considered for publication in this year's Belles Lettres Revue as February 15, 1971 (the day after Valentine's Day).
