Montrofe, 18 th Dec." 1784.

I was favoured with your Excellency's Letter of the 25th October last. I am fincerely forry for the Milcarriage of your generous Defign, & the Divisions that diffract your Country. I had wrote you to the Care of Mep." John & Robert Barclay of London , at their Defire , but , for fear of Milcarriage , I fend this by the Way of Glasgow. If your People were Wilnepes, as I am, of the great Joy which the Accounts of their Divisions excite, among their numerous Enemics in these Kingdoms, I perfuade myself that they would devife forme Means to reconcile their jarring Interests, & unite in promoting the real Interests of their Country. I am deeply sensible of the Honorer which you & the other Gentleman Truflees have done me, notwithstanding your Dilappointment, & the great Obloguy & Per. fecution to which I am exposed, by being known to be a Friend to America. May God bring your People to a better Mind, & enable them to know their tone Friends & Interells better than they feem to have done of late. I am, with great Efficien,

Mour Excellency's much obliged

Sir,

Montrose, 18th Dec.r 1784.

Sir,

I was favoured with your Excellency's Letter of the 25th October last. I am sincerely sorry for the Miscarriage of your generous Design, & the Divisions that distract your Country, I had wrote you to the Care of Mess.rs John & Robert Barclay of London, at their Desire, but, for fear of Miscarriage, I send this by the Way of Glasgow. If your People were Witnesses, as I am, of the great Joy which the Accounts of their Divisions excite, among their numerous Enemies in these Kingdoms, I persuade myself that they would devise some Means to reconcile their jarring Interests, & unite in promoting the real Interests of their Country. I am deeply sensible of the Honour which you & the other Gentlemen Trustees have done me, notwithstanding your Disappointment, & the great Obloquy & Persecution to which I am exposed, by being known to be a Friend to America. May God bring your People to a better Mind, & enable them to know their true Friends & Interests better than they seem to have done of late. I am, with great Esteem,

Sir,

Your Excellency's much obliged humble Servant,

Cha.r Nisbet.
