BIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

Sam Edmiston was born on July 17, 1945 in Middleburg, PA to Samuel Richard and Stella Mae Thomas Edmiston. His family later moved to Beaver Springs, PA where Edmiston finished growing up and graduated from West Snyder High School. In the April of 1963, Edmiston enrolled in the US Navy, and three weeks after his graduation, went to the Keel United States Naval Training Center in Great Lakes, Illinois for recruitment training. While in the US Navy, Edmiston was a dispersing clerk until he was dishonorably discharged for being gay in 1966. Edmiston fought to change the discharge, and his papers were later changed to a “general discharge under general conditions.”

After coming home from the US Navy, Edmiston moved in with his parents and started a job at a local shoe factory where he worked in the production line and later became a commissary clerk. He then worked at the Laurelton State Center, a residential facility for the mentally and physically challenged. Then he went to college at Bloomsburg State College (now Bloomsburg University) in 1973, where he graduated with a degree in Sociology focused in social welfare. He worked various jobs until he retired from working for seven years for personal health reasons. After the seven years, Edmiston found a job with the Social Security Administration through Administrative Careers of America. He went on to work for the Social Security Administration for the next 10 years until he finally retired permanently. Edmiston currently resides in Central PA.

Throughout and after college Edmiston was active in the pursuit of gay rights. He started the Susquehanna Valley Gays United in 1976 with friend Sam Deetz, was the secretary for the PA Rural Gay Caucus, contributed to the Lancaster Gay Era Newspaper, and was part of Dignity/Central PA.
